Sunday School Lesson

By Walter C. Davis, D. D., Tennessee School of Religion, Nashville, Tennessee

Lesson for Sunday, July 9 John 1:35-42; Matthew 4:1; John 6:5-9

"Andrew: Bringing Others to Jesus"

Most of us lead a simple and quiet life. Even the man in public life comes to know the daily grind. We have our sorrows and our cares which outsiders do not know and we keep our joys and hopes and dreams pretty much to ourselves.

Andrew, one of the Twelve, was just such a humble Christian. He was always playing second fiddle, and was described in the gospels as the brother of Simon Peter. But Andrew had fine qualities and genuine worth in his own right. It is John's gospel that gives him a personality. These two were together when they found Jesus and that may be why John never forgot.

of any other service he would serve our gratitude for bringing the redoubtable Peter to Christ. On the Day of Pentecost, following Peter's great sermon, Andrew could have said, "I couldn't do that, but I brought him to Jesus." Suppose, just suppose that Andrew had not brought Simon to Christ. It could be that later on when Jesus saw them with their nets and said "Follow me," Simon would have declined and stayed with his nets. How much poorer the New Testament would be. And how much the church would have lost! Have you ever thought about how much the church has lost in unclaimed human talent? If redeemed, these unclaimed people could change the whole face of human society.

Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven? That is a hard question. The quiet people of prayer, who have little to say, may have more real influence than those who are always busy and self-assertive. If all church members were "leaders," the church could not survive. If we live well, are loyal and true, Christ can use us just as well as Andrew.

to the highest bidder. The highest bidder for a given territory had to pay the state and make the traffic will be controlled by a ground tax, among other things, one-fifth of oil, wine and fruit income tax, one percent on gross income. Poll tax, which was a tax for the privilege of existing. Sales tax, a tax for crossing a bridge, for traveling a road. A tax officer could stop a man anywhere, make him open his luggage to take off his clothes and then impose any tax he wished.

In modesty, Matthew gives his call very briefly. The principal thing in the story is the feast for three reasons: 1. It was to commemorate his call and new life. 2. It was a farewell meeting with the old publican, Herod. 3. It was an evangelistic effort, with the hope that some of his friends might come to know and love his new Master.

These Apostles, like us, had their passions, their weaknesses, their tangled lives. Jesus loved them despite that. Sitting at the receipt of custom, Matthew was just a publican, a synonym of sinners. He was the same man when he followed Jesus, yet he was entirely different. Certain natural traits remained: his mathematical mind, his love of commerce.

Sunday School Lesson

By Walter C. Davis, D. D., Tennessee School of Religion, University of Tennessee

Lesson for Sunday, July 16

Matthew 9:10-13

"Matthew: Salvation for the Outcast"

This lesson would have us study Matthew; but Matthew would have us study Jesus. We will know Jesus better by looking at what he did for this man. Matthew had a lucrative business as tax collector; but he would never have heard of him if it had not been for Jesus, the carpenter.

One thing impresses us as we read Matthew: he worshipped Christ. He put Christ in the pedestal of God's own making. For him, Christ was the fulfillment of all the prophecies of the Old Testament. "That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Lord through the mouth of his prophets" runs through his work like a refrain.

The lesson calls Matthew an "outcast." In one sense he was. As a tax collector, he was hated and shunned. To the Jews, he was a deserter; he had forsaken his own people and aligned himself with the hated Roman authorities. He was a man who would have been despised by his own people. He was a man who would have been despised by his own people. He was a man who would have been despised by his own people.

Industrial Bonds

Mayor Jerry Jordan this week informed the Halls Graphic that plans are being made for an Industrial Bond referendum to be held in Halls some time within the very near future. Mayor Jordan said that City Attorney Ross W. Dyer is already preparing the resolution. Object of the Industrial Bonds is so that the city may be prepared to negotiate with any industry which might propose to locate in Halls. The bonds will be revenue bonds and will not be repaid through taxation on property. Although a maximum amount will be named in the referendum, the bonds will be issued — if approved by the people — only in the amount required for bringing an industry here. Full information on the referendum will be published in the Halls Graphic as quickly as Mr. Dyer completes the resolution and it is approved by the city board.

Tells of Trip To Ireland

Several of our friends have requested us to write something about our recent trip. If Henry will allow us a little space in the Graphic, we took passage on a new Astra-Jet American Airways plane for New York on June 12th after passing for some pictures. Our party consisted of David Hurt, Jr., Jimmie Wallace, Jimmy Hanford and myself. We made the flight in less than three hours flying time — about 1300 miles.

We boarded the ship, the S. S. America, on June 13th at New York harbor, time about 6 p. m. Six days of wonderful food, service and time for fun and relaxation. This voyage covered 2912 miles. There were about 1000 passengers aboard. Those on board proved good neighbors and easy to get acquainted. The weather good, slight to moderate seas all the way.

Our ship was one of the first port of call, Cobh, Ireland, when David had his accident. It was the advice of the ship's surgeon that we disembark at Cobh and enter David in Bon Secours Hospital at Cork, under medical care of Dr. J. G. Barrett, who was recommended to us as a very able and well known doctor for injuries such as David had sustained. The success of this recovery he made.

About Ireland

We made use of our opportunity to see as much of Ireland as could be in the three weeks we spent there. Ireland, called the "Emerald Isle" because of its perennial verdure, lies in the Atlantic Ocean immediately westward of the large island of Great Britain, and is separated from same by a wide and deep strait, varying in width from 165 to 125 miles, known as the Irish Sea. The climate is equable, but in general damp when compared with that of America. Neither summer heat nor winter cold produces discomfort. Storms are infrequent. It is said that snakes or frogs have never been found on the island. Romantic tradition attributes Saint Patrick the miracle of driving all venomous reptiles from the island, both also are found in the neighboring island of Great Britain. The climate is too cool for cotton, peaches, grapes or tomatoes.

The Catholic Sister who is the matron or superintendent of the hospital asked me how I was impressed with Ireland. I told her I was greatly impressed. She then asked me what I liked about it. I told her I loved the green hills and mountains and rivers going down to the sea on every side, the beautiful flowers and most of all the gracious, neighborly people. She smiled most appreciatively at me for the answer.

The cliffs on the Connaught, Ulster and Munster coasts are tall and beautiful; those of Moher in Clare and those that flank the Giant's Causeway, a remarkable basaltic formation in Antrim, being the most notable. All the elevations that rise above a thousand feet are clothed with the heather, which is said to be also peculiar to Scotland, and this plant changes its hue with every season so that there is a constant shifting of color, which adds much to the charm of the landscape. The Irish sky too is changeful so much that an Irish poet, in paying tribute to the beauty of his wife wrote:

"Ever like the sky of dear Mrs. O'Connell, Where shadow and sunshine are chasing each other."

Information provided by farmers with soil samples serves as the basis for recommendations for nitrogen applications also. Discovery of this chemical method of testing soils quickly and at low cost has really changed crop production practices in this area. We quit growing wheat for years because our yields were so very low each year that the crop was not profitable. We now know how to fertilize the crop and get high yields. The weather is pleasant, the soil dries quickly, and we actually have time in which to work at this job well ahead of fall needed crops and crops to be planted next spring. Handy sample boxes are provided free by the Extension Service and several fertilizer companies. "Don't guess — soil testing is a timely admonition."

At a recent horticultural field day held at West Tennessee Extension Station, conducted by the Dr. J. O. Barfield and Mr. Cress of the Horticulture Department, Knoxville, predicted good prices and strong demand for fruit and vegetable crops in the years ahead.

Dr. Pickett said that West Tennessee farmers are not producing nearly as much peaches and apples nor sweetpotatoes, tomatoes, watermelons, beans and other truck crops as they could all at profitable prices. He recommended expansion of acreage as satisfactory market outlooks became available.

In Lauderdale County, producers need to work together on a definite basis to sell graded produce on the basis of quality. Producers should not compete with each other for lower prices but should work together to establish higher prices and uniform quality.

Fort Pillow Field Day

Livestock producers are urged to attend the field day at Fort Pillow next Thursday, July 27, which will begin with a tour over the farm from the main building at 8:30 a. m. The tour will end with a delightful dinner at noon.

Tipton County Livestock Association is working together with Lauderdale in sponsoring this event.

On the tour Alex Chambers and Harmon Jones will give grading demonstrations on beef cattle and hogs. Just before lunch, Harmon Jones, Director of State Inspection Farms, will explain the livestock production program being carried out at state institutions.

Livestock Tour Attracts

James Pritchard, cashier of the Bank of Ripley, Dewey Orfield, director of Farmers Union Bank, T. L. Critfield, James Criner, Galton Smith, Susan B. Evans, F. Hunt Morris, Taylor Bice and F. H. Paschal studied the beef cattle feeding operations of Bill Tanner and his father and hog production system on Reelfoot Farm at Union City last week.

Mr. Tanner explained that he fed a ration ofilage, grain and protein supplement to 125 head of feeder cattle for six months to come out with a net profit of more than $12.00 per head on the steers and hogs on the farm. He showed and explained all the equipment with which one man

YOU MUST SEE A HAZARD TO AVOID IT

The National Safety Council says: Be sure your windshield wiper blades and arms are in perfect condition. You need one ounce of air pressure for each inch of rubber blade length to sweep off rain or road spray, instead of sliding over it and causing poor visibility.

Industrial Bonds

Mayor Jerry Jordan this week informed the Halls Graphic that plans are being made for an Industrial Bond referendum to be held in Halls some time within the very near future. Mayor Jordan said that City Attorney Ross W. Dyer is already preparing the resolution. Object of the Industrial Bonds is so that the city may be prepared to negotiate with any industry which might propose to locate in Halls. The bonds will be revenue bonds and will not be repaid through taxation on property. Although a maximum amount will be named in the referendum, the bonds will be issued — if approved by the people — only in the amount required for bringing an industry here. Full information on the referendum will be published in the Halls Graphic as quickly as Mr. Dyer completes the resolution and it is approved by the city board.

Tells of Trip To Ireland

Several of our friends have requested us to write something about our recent trip. If Henry will allow us a little space in the Graphic, we took passage on a new Astra-Jet American Airways plane for New York on June 12th after passing for some pictures. Our party consisted of David Hurt, Jr., Jimmie Wallace, Jimmy Hanford and myself. We made the flight in less than three hours flying time — about 1300 miles.

We boarded the ship, the S. S. America, on June 13th at New York harbor, time about 6 p. m. Six days of wonderful food, service and time for fun and relaxation. This voyage covered 2912 miles. There were about 1000 passengers aboard. Those on board proved good neighbors and easy to get acquainted. The weather good, slight to moderate seas all the way.

Our ship was one of the first port of call, Cobh, Ireland, when David had his accident. It was the advice of the ship's surgeon that we disembark at Cobh and enter David in Bon Secours Hospital at Cork, under medical care of Dr. J. G. Barrett, who was recommended to us as a very able and well known doctor for injuries such as David had sustained. The success of this recovery he made.

About Ireland

We made use of our opportunity to see as much of Ireland as could be in the three weeks we spent there. Ireland, called the "Emerald Isle" because of its perennial verdure, lies in the Atlantic Ocean immediately westward of the large island of Great Britain, and is separated from same by a wide and deep strait, varying in width from 165 to 125 miles, known as the Irish Sea. The climate is equable, but in general damp when compared with that of America. Neither summer heat nor winter cold produces discomfort. Storms are infrequent. It is said that snakes or frogs have never been found on the island. Romantic tradition attributes Saint Patrick the miracle of driving all venomous reptiles from the island, both also are found in the neighboring island of Great Britain. The climate is too cool for cotton, peaches, grapes or tomatoes.

The Catholic Sister who is the matron or superintendent of the hospital asked me how I was impressed with Ireland. I told her I was greatly impressed. She then asked me what I liked about it. I told her I loved the green hills and mountains and rivers going down to the sea on every side, the beautiful flowers and most of all the gracious, neighborly people. She smiled most appreciatively at me for the answer.

The cliffs on the Connaught, Ulster and Munster coasts are tall and beautiful; those of Moher in Clare and those that flank the Giant's Causeway, a remarkable basaltic formation in Antrim, being the most notable. All the elevations that rise above a thousand feet are clothed with the heather, which is said to be also peculiar to Scotland, and this plant changes its hue with every season so that there is a constant shifting of color, which adds much to the charm of the landscape. The Irish sky too is changeful so much that an Irish poet, in paying tribute to the beauty of his wife wrote:

"Ever like the sky of dear Mrs. O'Connell, Where shadow and sunshine are chasing each other."

Mary and Martha: Friends of Jesus

Places take on a meaning because of what happens there. Bethany is mentioned in every Bible reader's heart because here Jesus found rest and hospitality. We love Martha, Mary and Lazarus for what they did for our Lord. This home gave Him rest and love, understanding and friendship.

Some Bible scenes are hard to reconstruct, but the characters and events in this home seem almost modern. It was no doubt a well-to-do home for its time. There were two sisters and a younger brother, with Martha, perhaps a widow, mothering the household. Three pictures of Jesus' lovely people are given. A friendly visit; a time of sorrow; the feast of the banquet.

First, the weary Jesus is entertained in this home on His way to Jerusalem. Martha was hospitable and practical. She knew the value of good food. But she was disappointed with Jesus' reply. She bustled about and grew more and more irritated. She was irate.

Mr. J. M. Rountree, District Director of Internal Revenue Service, Nashville, Tennessee, explains the law on Social Security Tax to a housewife and her maid.

Mr. J. M. Rountree, District Director, Tennessee, explains the law on Social Security Tax to a housewife and her maid.

The Internal Revenue Service has announced that it is now possible for a housewife to pay Social Security tax on her household income. This is a new provision of the Social Security Act which became effective on January 1, 1961. The law allows a housewife to elect to have her household income included in her Social Security tax payments. This means that she can now contribute to her own Social Security benefits, just as a wage earner does. The election is made on a quarterly basis, and the housewife must file a statement with the Internal Revenue Service to make the election. The election is irrevocable for the quarter. The housewife's household income is treated as if it were her own income for Social Security purposes. This means that she can qualify for Social Security benefits based on her household income. The law also allows a housewife to elect to have her household income included in her Social Security tax payments. This means that she can now contribute to her own Social Security benefits, just as a wage earner does. The election is made on a quarterly basis, and the housewife must file a statement with the Internal Revenue Service to make the election. The election is irrevocable for the quarter. The housewife's household income is treated as if it were her own income for Social Security purposes. This means that she can qualify for Social Security benefits based on her household income.

Mr. Rountree emphasized that he is glad to get many household workers to get on Social Security. He said that the law would save time and money for both the employer and the employee. He said that the law would also help to reduce the burden of Social Security taxes on the employer. He said that the law would also help to reduce the burden of Social Security taxes on the employee. He said that the law would also help to reduce the burden of Social Security taxes on the employer. He said that the law would also help to reduce the burden of Social Security taxes on the employee.

Super Supper Sandwiches

Almost two centuries ago John Montagu, the fourth Earl of Sandwich, hit upon the idea of placing meat, cheese or a savory mixture between slices of bread. Since then literally thousands of variations — from the ladylike escarp to the man-size hero — have delighted the palates of all ages.

Pertle imagination is still at work and now the lunch box staple has taken on forms that, while simple to prepare, can grace a stylish buffet table. Here are five brand-new supper sandwich recipes. Whether toasted, broiled, baked or cold; open, closed or triple-decked, sparkling Coca-Cola complements naturally.

One quick trip to the market will provide ingredients for a variety of suppers—TV smashes or festive party spreads. The recipes are easy on the pocketbook and easy on the cook, but a glance will reveal some unique new tricks that will make her culinary reputation soar.

- AFTER-THEATRE SUPPER: Sausage, Mozzarella cheese, English muffin, Tomato sauce, Thyme. Cook a sausage patty about the size of a hamburger. Place it on a toasted English muffin half. Top with a slice of mozzarella cheese and a spoonful of tomato sauce. Sprinkle with thyme and broil till the cheese melts. This can be prepared in advance: simply toast muffin and cook sausage. Put patty on muffin and wrap in foil. Place on cookie sheet and keep in refrigerator. When ready to serve add cheese, tomato sauce and thyme.

Termite Control Painters in soil near the house. The first step toward controlling termites is the removal of all wood material around new houses and sloped so that rain water drains immediately away from foundation walls. If water soaks into the soil near foundation walls, it seems to come up under the house, making conditions favorable for termites. The County Agency's Office provides free bulletins which explain how to treat the average house against termites for a total cost of $10 to $20.

Owners of new homes are likely to find some termites because during construction there is like-ly to be wood material left on the ground under the house or buried termites.

Chicago Skyway — Scenic Spectacular

Rapidly becoming a tourist attraction itself, the 7 1/2 mile Chicago Skyway affords visitors a dramatic view of one of the nation's most progressive industrial developments. The 101 million dollar "high-rise" highway forms a vital connecting link between the Indiana toll road and the heart of Chicago. It has one of the nation's best safety records.

Motorists approaching or leaving Chicago this summer along the east-west toll road system will find to their surprise that the 7 1/2 miles of the Chicago Skyway are among the most dramatic of the entire trip.

Expecting to find only a rural country scene, many will be surprised to find a half-hour drive through a maze of skyscrapers, bridges and viaducts. The toll road is a vital connecting link between the Indiana toll road and Chicago's free expressway system, and a crossroads for the nation's superhighways.

Being more than 13 stories over its surroundings, the skyway affords a unique view of the city's skyline. The toll road is a vital connecting link between the Indiana toll road and Chicago's free expressway system, and a crossroads for the nation's superhighways.

More About Trip To Ireland

Continued from Last Week — Two of Ireland's best known tourist attractions, the lovely lakes of Killarney and world famed Blarney Castle, with its stone of Blarney, are to be found in the Southern counties. Here, too, is Cork, the southern capital and seat for Shannon Church and its melodious bells, and Saint Fin Barr Cathedral erected seven hundred years ago, in honor of the early missionary of the Christian faith in Ireland. We passed this Cathedral every time we went to the hospital to see David, Jr. Cobb. Ireland's transatlantic port, lies in the estuary of the Lee River, which flows thru the center of Cork City.

One unforgettable tour we took was "The Ring of Kerry" tour which includes some of the finest scenery in an area of sub-tropical luxuriance bespeaking the excellence of the climate. Stirling the Western coast are purple mountains, fringing Atlantic seas, is an area of unique scenic grandeur. Here we find Galway, gateway to Connemara, blue and gold wonderful moor and mountain and lakes teeming with trout.

Donegal's mountains dotted with lakes and towering mountains, scenic bays and superb beaches, all ideal for the traveler who loves the beauties of nature "in the raw."

Hotels and guest houses or lodges are easily available and rates are extremely low. We lodged at Arbutus Lodge, on a high bluff, overlooking the Lee River and beyond, the city and in the distance, the green hills and checkerboard farms. Rates are $4.20 per person per day for room and breakfast. Lunch and dinner for 10 shillings ($1.40). A light dinner at the Oyster Bar downtown, with beef or mutton roast, broiled steak, fried chicken, lobster, etc. for 10 shillings or one pound.

Shannon Airport is one of the largest in Western Europe, and "laid the Crossroads of the Airways of the World. The day we left Ireland, Sunday, July 9th, we had breakfast at Arbutus Lodge, left by taxi at 12:15 p. m. Irish time for the 60 miles to Shannon Airport. Arrived there at 2:15, had a good dinner at the Airport at about 3:30. Our plane, a Pan-American Jet Clipper, took off at 3:45, landed at International Airport (Idlewild) in New York at 7:30 p. m. New York Daylight time. This was about 6 hours and 35 minutes flying time. Our last flight, on propeller type plane, left La Guardia Field at 11 p. m. and arrived at Memphis Airport on time at 4 a. m. via Philadelphia, Washington, D. C. and Nashville.

I enjoyed the air travel, especially the Jet flights and also the boat trip. This was wonderful. The two Jimmys had a good time too, although I think they did get a little bored. David, who had to spend so much time in the hospital, enjoyed both Atlantic crossings, the brief stopover in New York, and met lots of nice people and made quite a few friends, both on the crossings and the nice people including both the patients and the hospital personnel. Oh, yes! We slept most of the time on the New York to Memphis leg of our return flight.

Carl Fry, Tennessee ASC State Committee, announced that final payments to farmers who are taking part in the 1961 Feed Grain Program will be made in September.

Tennessee farmers received more than five million dollars in advance payments at the time of signing up in May of this year. The final payments to most farmers will be about 10 percent more than the advance payments.

The Feed Grain Program is a special agricultural conservation program for 1961 under which conservation payments are made to producers who divert acreage from the production of corn and grain sorghums to approved conservation uses. More than 36,000 Tennessee farmers signed 1961 Feed Grain Program applications with the intention to divert more than 465,000 acres from the production of corn and grain sorghum. This is about 40 percent of the farms in the State which normally grow these crops.

Any farm operator who desires to make a downward adjustment in cases where the acreage designated as diverted acreage is in excess of that required can do so by requesting the adjustment and making a payment to cover the cost of such adjustment, within 15 days from the date of his notice.

"Thomas: Through Doubt to Faith"

An old picture shows the Book of Ages with the face of Christ on the cover. On one side is a man, trying to overturn the mountain of rock with his fulcrum and lever. On the opposite side is an over-anxious preacher with his shoulder set against the stone, pushing with all his might the infidel toggle the right side when our Christ is attached. Our religion, if it is true as we believe it is, can meet every task.

We do Thomas an injustice by calling him "Doubting Thomas." He certainly was no infidel, as determined NOT to believe in God. He could never have said, as Comenius do, that religion "is the opiate of the people." On the contrary Thomas was willing to believe, eager to believe, and being a tremendously earnest man, he wanted to be sure of his ground. His way of earnest searching gives our lesson the title, "Through Doubt to Faith." Most of us are like him — hope and fear, doubt and faith struggling for the mastery in our life.

Let us paraphrase Paul's famous saying (Romans 7:21) — "We find it to be a law that when we want to believe, doubt lies close as hand." For we delight in the faith in God, but we see in our members another law at war with the law of faith and making us captive to the law of doubt.

In Matthew, Mark, Luke and the Acts, all we have is Thomas' name. John's Gospel tells of events which clothe him with personality. The first, John 11:16, closes on the note of loyalty. The second, John 14:31, speaks of his anxiety not to lose the way, and worse still, lose his Lord. The third, John 20:24-29, expresses real doubt, for to Thomas the whole story of the resurrection seemed too good to be true. If you had tried to prove Jesus and the cross a fake, Thomas would have countered with stubborn resistance.

Thomas carried out his demand to examine the wounds of Jesus. The sight of his Lord was enough; and he cried out, "My Lord and my God."

There is such a thing as honest doubt, although it is rare, and God is patient with that. "Come now," He says, "Let us reason together." But there is the unbelief of the "fool" who says in his heart, "there is no God." That unbelief is defiant, rebellious, and "he that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh" (Psalm 2).

Some causes of unbelief can be named: The bitter experience of war with evil and at war with ourselves; when we turn a deaf ear to the voice of conscience pleading for a better life; when we are too self-confident and do not feel the need of God.

Faith is the driving power that enables man to master the forces about him. Man has built pyramids, discovered the lever, the pulley, the wheel, and has harnessed the power of falling water and steam, and uses them for his purposes. God has set faith at the heart of the religious life. If we ever overcome the forces of evil and build an enduring society, it will be through faith, not through doubt. If man is to regain his heritage as a child of God he will do it through faith, not doubt.

TEA HONORS MRS. JAMES HOFFUIS
A lovely courtesy was extended Mrs. James Hoffuis of Norfolk Virginia upon her first visit to Halls when she was complimented at a tea Thursday afternoon the twentieth of July. Mrs. Hoffuis is the Brazilian wife of Lt. James Hoffuis who is a former resident of Halls.
The tea was given at the beautiful home of Mrs. Wiley Perry with Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Charles Albrook, Mrs. W. L. Andrews, Mrs. Paul Griffin, Mrs. William Sugg and Mrs. S. F. Young serving as hostesses.
Varied arrangements of flowers decorated the hallway, living room and dining room where the guests were received and entertained during the hours of three until five.
A chain of pretty day lilacs edged the mantel in the living room with a split arrangement of roses and daisies gracing the coffee table. Gladitiel were used in the hallway and dining room.
The hostesses took turns welcoming the guests at the door and inviting them into the living room where Mrs. Perry, the hostess and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Elmer Hoffuis, of Aberdeen, Miss. Perry wore a dress of lace and linen in neutral tones. The hostess had chosen a white gilet frock fashioned with partial over-skirt while Mrs. Elmer Hoffuis wore pink linen sheath. The two Mrs. Hoffiuses wore corsages of hemerocallis lilies.
A handsome cutwork cloth covered the dining table which was centered with an arrangement of gladioli in a low crystal container. Punch, minta, nuts and assorted cookies were served by Mrs. Thomas Crenshaw of Memphis and Mrs. Mac Fritchett of Memphis, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Ann Albrook.
During the afternoon music at the organ was rendered by Mrs. James Voss, Mrs. Marvin Hanzford, Mrs. Wymond Hurt and Mrs. Charles Moore.
The hostesses presented Mrs. Hoffuis a covered vegetable dish in silver.

Shell experts test for knock by accelerating up steep grade. In another test, that "fifth wheel" in the back is lowered onto the road to measure mileage precisely.

Test #2. Smooth running
Pay close attention to your car's clutch. Does it vibrate roughly when you step for a traffic light? Does it seem to "surge" as you pull away, then falter and idle?
The problem may be the wrong blend of gasoline.
In summer, for example, excessive heat can make winter grade gasoline bubble in the fuel line. Bubbles cut interference with the flow, causing rough running.
Shell scientist don't let that happen with Super Shell. When hot weather threatens, they adjust Super Shell's 9-ingredient formula to give it the correct volatility for smooth summer driving.
Test #3. Reserve power
On a turnpike, in light traffic, accelerate suddenly from about thirty miles an hour to the legal limit. Now ask yourself:
1. Did your car accelerate smoothly—with no faltering, no bogging down?
2. Do you have plenty of power to spare?
If you feel you've "run out of engine," it's time to do something about it.
Super Shell may be your answer. It contains TCP, to help restore power lost to combustion chamber deposits.
And another Super Shell ingredient, called Platformate, contains components that release 11 per cent more energy than even the finest of 100-octane aviation gasolines.
Test #4. Knock
Accelerate up a long, steep hill and listen carefully. If you hear a sound like marbles falling into an empty of drum, you've got knock. It could cause engine trouble.
Take no chances. Switch to Super Shell. Its formula includes no less than three ingredients to fight the various causes of knock.
Test #5. Miles per gallon
Don't trust your fuel gauge when you measure miles per gallon. Take these three simple steps and be sure:
1. Start your test by filling your tank. Make sure the gauge comes up at the top. Write down your mileage reading.
2. Drive in your normal manner for at least three tankfuls.

Cocklebur in Soybeans

James Criner last year sprayed cocklebur in soybeans with a weak solution of 2,4-D to kill the cocklebur without hoeing.

He used 1 tablespoon of 2,4-D in 2½ gallons of water and was careful not to spray the tops of the soybeans. The beans looked sick for two days and then recovered, but the cocklebur died. The Experiment Stations in Illinois and other states have said that as much as four ounces of 2,4-D per acre can be applied to soybeans without cutting yields, provided the spray is applied so that it does not get in the top of the soybeans. James Koonce, P. Johnson, Elvis Cannon and several other farmers are this year applying 2,4-D to small acreages of soybeans to see how effective it is and whether it seems to cut yields. Recent rumors that farmers in Missouri were using 2,4-D on beans with success has caused more producers to try this economical practice.

Cocklebur really cut yields of soybeans unless they are chopped out or killed. We need to try the methods that will cut cost.
