Steps to Faith

Lesson for March 6, 1964

Background Scriptures: John 9:1-41, 10:1-18

NOBODY KNOWS how many miracles Jesus performed during the few years between His baptism and His crucifixion. The writer of the Fourth Gospel says that the world could not contain the books that would have to be written if anyone tried to write up all that Jesus did. John himself makes no effort to tell the whole story. The first three Gospels tell of many miracles; but the Fourth Gospel tells of eight. John's way of telling the story is different. The first three Gospels just tell what happened and let the reader make his own comments. John makes every miracle a kind of text for a sermon or meditation on the meaning of Jesus, or the meaning of life.

A Man named Jesus
So, we are not going off on the wrong foot, but following the evangelist's example, if we take one of the simplest of these stories and see in it a picture of the way faith grows. In fact, the story is indeed simple. The man whom Jesus cured must have been a well-known beggar, for the disciples knew he had been blind. Jesus made "clay" out of spit and dust, put it on the man's eyes, told him to go to a certain pool and wash. The man washed and he saw. "Just like that." The story of the miracle is told. But now begins the part (one of many aspects of this story) that brings us meanings, not simple facts. The particular meaning here now for us is the way this man advanced in faith. What did he think of Jesus? In the question, "The ex-beggar's first thought about Jesus was just this: 'The man called Jesus.' Just a man with a name. But the point was the man called Jesus had cured his blindness. That much the man knew. You may not think this was a very lofty faith, indeed you might argue that it was not faith at all. But it was. He knew Jesus had cured him.

A prophet
A little later, the ex-beggar told the Pharisees (he really was none of their business, they only wanted to "test" Jesus somehow) that in his opinion Jesus was a prophet. This did not mean a soothsayer, a fortune-teller; it meant one who speaks God's truth, a Revealer. A prophet was like a window into the mind of God. Prophets were not supermen, they were quite ordinary men in fact. But they were self-emptying men, they let the Spirit of God have his way with them, they were sensitized to the will of God. Many have come only this far on the way to a full faith. But who shall call them unbelievers? Jesus did not denounce this man for coming short of the best which the disciples of Jesus had towards him. He did not condemn him at all. So we should be slow about denying the name "Christian" or "believer" to men and women of our own time who think of Jesus simply as a teacher, first among teachers or even as one of many teachers. The Lord took this man where he was and helped him to a still higher faith.

The son of God
Jesus asked the man, finally, if he believed in the "Son of Man." You and I might not understand that question, but this man did. "Son of Man" was one of the common expressions meaning "Messiah" or "Christ," both of which words were never in the ritual. There was to be only one Son of Man, in a class alone by himself. This was more than Prophet, for prophets were many. At its height, faith looks at Jesus not as a mere man, not even as one among other revealers of God, not even as the First Saint; but as God's "only begotten Son." God focused in a single man, the meeting point of the human and the divine. So the man who had been blind, in more ways than one, has his eyes opened at last to what Jesus said he himself was: the Light of the World. And so he did what no man has a right to do to another man: he worshipped Jesus. His heart had opened in honor at last, in God.

Flames Race Thru Bethesda Church, Standing Since '93

Bethesda Methodist Church was totally destroyed by fire at 10:45 a. m. Sunday.

Located three miles west of Halls, the church was originally built in 1893 and remodeled in 1924.

Preaching services had just ended when the fire was discovered. No one was injured, and some of the furnishings were saved.

Magazine Article Features Sweats, Master Farmers

Ashport Family Presenting Ripley Rotary's Program Week Following Next

By F. H. Paschal
Under the heading "Big Equipment and Chemicals Reduce Risk" Clifford Sweat is featured in this month's "Progressive Farmer" magazine by Pete Head, editor.

Clifford and his wife and family were titled "Master Farm Family" by the staff of this magazine last year, the only family in West Tennessee so honored.

Mrs. Sweat and Linda and Judy are also featured in an article by Betty Bowers, titled "They Work and Play Together."

The Sweat family will provide the Rotary program in Ripley Mar. 17th.

Cattle Feeders To Tour
Lauderdale County Livestock Assn. is sponsoring a tour to see feeding operations of beef and dairy cattle between here and Louisville, Ky., Mar. 12th and 13th.

Only transportation will be provided, with each producer paying for his own meals and hotel for the one night away from home.

Interested cattle producers are invited to notify Russell Evans or the county agents' office.

Strawberries Being Set
After a recent meeting of strawberry producers, interest in putting out new fields has increased. Producers have ordered plants for more than 50 acres of Dixieland and Tennessee Beauty varieties.

Lawson Elder, W. B. Hendren, and several other experienced growers are planning to apply ten pounds of 20% Aldrin granules per acre, broadcast, and disk this in the soil to kill rootworms, other soil insects, and ants that might otherwise injure young plants.

They are also putting under the rows 100 to 150 pounds of actual phosphate, with 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate, to provide an abundance of fertilizer for several months to come.

It is particularly important to get plenty of phosphate under the plants, because this material does not go down through the soil readily.

More High Cotton Yields
Aulsie Brackin, of Durhamville, made eleven bales of cotton last year from a four-acre plot on which he took a soil test and fertilized according to the recommen-

Power Rate Cut Of $39,900 Yr.

Ripley Power & Light Co. will cut electricity rates an average of 10.6 per cent, beginning with the meter readings made during this month.

The Power Board, of which John A. Holmes is chairman, secured permission for reductions from Tennessee Valley Authority after the Authority reviewed RPL finances. The Board approved the reductions Monday and Charles Fisher, alderman member, presented them to the city board Tuesday.

The new rate schedule will be next to the lowest TVA permits. Under the new rates, RPL customers will save $39,900 per year.

Home rates decline 12.2 per cent. Savings for business users will range from 10.7 to 7.8 per cent. Street light rates, which were reduced recently, decline another 5 per cent.

The power board, of which William A. Greenlee is the third member, considered lower rates two years ago, but a TVA rate analysis made at that time did not justify any reduction, the board was told.

"Since that time," Robert T. Hosmon, of Jackson, TVA district manager, writes, "the financial position of your system has improved so that the lower rates may be placed into effect."

datons of the laboratory, then applied diuron as a pre-emergence weed chemical.

He planted Empire cotton, did a little hoeing in spots, cultivated the cotton three times shallow, and picked it all with a cotton picker. He said this was the least expensive and most satisfactory plot of cotton he had ever grown.

Many Lauderdale farmers are working toward full use of these same methods in producing more profitable cotton crops this year.

Joe Clay Davis, of Eylau Farm, T. E. Hutcherson, G. W. Leggett, T. C. Meeks, Pat Parker, Jr., W. D. Reeves, W. R. Sanders, Mrs. Martha Sneed, Raymond Weaver, and others have sent soil samples from more than 50 fields recently to be tested by the Extension laboratory to determine the amount of lime, phosphate, and potash needed for highest yields at the lowest cost for fertilizer.

Sprayer Agitation Needed
Every recommended pre-emergence chemical for weed control requires vigorous and constant agitation of the solution in the spray tank in order that the solution applied to the soil shall be uniform in concentration. This uniformity is necessary in order that the weeds shall be controlled but that the crop shall not be injured.

Engineers advise the use of eight roller pumps or other types with large capacity so that plenty of agitation will be available in addition to the pressure required to apply the chemical in a uniform pattern to the soil. None of these weed control chemicals used for pre-emergence applications are soluble in water. They consist of heavy particles suspended in other liquids which will settle out and cause trouble unless under constant agitation.

Lawson is survived by his wife, Mrs. Aline Olds Tillman; two sons, Lowell Edmund Tillman and Harold Lawson Tillman, Jr.; one daughter, Mrs. Janice Kay Nolen; three grandchildren, Sheryl Ann and Lowell Tillman, Jr., and Brian Scott Nolen; his father, Oley Tillman, all of Nankipoo community; and two brothers, Talbert Tillman and Derrick Tillman, both of Memphis.

He will always be remembered as one of the most useful men of his community and his passing leaves his family and many beloved friends with grieving hearts.

Memphis Production Credit Association adopted a new corporate identification emblem Mar. 1st, according to W. C. Viss, Ripley manager.

The brilliant red oval is one of three banking groups, the red signifies the uniting service objective, and the solid foundation symbolizes the strong financial base of the system. The oval is enclosed by the words, "Farm Credit Service."

"Up to the present," said Mr. Viss, "all banks and associations of the System have used a variety of emblems. As a result, there was little indication that our institutions are related and have closely correlated purposes, objectives, and goals. Actually, this close relationship is the source of much of our strength."

DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Newspaper ads. Magazine ads. Catalogs and brochures. This is where people get started. This is where people turn to ferret out the facts which allow an intelligent buying decision.

People can linger with a printed page: two minutes, five minutes, ten. They can come back to it again and again. They can compare one product with another. They can study styles, features, sizes, prices at their own pace. They can rip out a printed ad, save it, show it to friends, make notes on it, clip coupons. They can and they do. Don't you? If you've something to sell, it will pay to promote it in print—where people on the brink of buying can get their hands on it. Print makes sense because print makes sales.

Pilate Judged
Lesson for March 15, 1964

Background Scriptures: Matthew 27:11-26; John 18:28 through 19:22; 18:11-17, 28-35; Devotional Readings: John 18:23-27.

THIS WAS ONE of the momentous meetings in history. As so often is true, what you could have seen with the naked eye or with a camera, was not what you could have seen with the eyes of the spirit. To the outward eye, everything was rigged in favor of Pilate. He had the authority; Jesus had never been so much as a village head-man, while Pilate was the colonial governor representing the Roman Empire.

Dr. Foreman Pilate had large numbers of soldiers to carry out his will, Jesus not so much as a single servant-boy. Pilate was officially the judge, and Jesus the prisoner; but now we know (would we have guessed it then?) that Pilate was being judged, not Jesus. Jesus walked out from that hall of "justice" a condemned man; but the verdict of the ages is that it was Pilate who was the guilty one.

What Pilate thought
It is not mere guessing to suggest what Pilate was thinking, in that early morning court room scene. We know what he said, how he acted, and so we can venture to say what he was thinking.

"I have the power here," he must have thought. Of course. Did not Rome always have the power? What can a young and friendless barbarian (for so Pilate must have regarded his strange prisoner) do against my orders? The Governor could not know that this very prisoner would exert a power through the next twenty centuries far greater than any government has ever been able to impose. There now are societies that honor Jesus all over the globe; but where are the Pilate-societies? With Pilate's death his power came to an end.

"With Jesus' death, His power would begin anew."
"This man has done no wrong, but . . ." Pilate acted unjustly and the knew it. One trouble with that man was that he really cared for something else more than justice. "I have my own career to think of," he thought.

What Jesus thought
The prisoner looked on the judge with something between pity and contempt. He knew that Pilate knew nothing whatever about the case. He knew that Pilate, like some modern envoys, did not probably bother to learn the language of the people to whom he was assigned as governor—and that he had to depend on the chief priests and other religious leaders of Judea to guide him in his decisions. Pilate listened for the voice of power; and those who made the power-structure in that country all said Guilty: Crucify this man. Pilate like all men in authority had to keep his ear to the ground, he had to know what people were saying. There was no difficulty in hearing them. The streets were full of screams. Luke says sadly that "their voices prevailed."

Two kingdoms
Yet if Jesus ever had contempt for any man—and he did—he must have felt contempt for Pilate. The governor had one idea of what the real world is; the prisoner had quite another. Pilate believed in what he could see and handle and manage. Jesus believed in a Kingdom of Truth. He was not carried away by the word "King." When Pilate asked him, "You are a king, then?" Jesus said in effect, "King is your word. I was born to bear witness to Truth." The Pilate could not understand at all. A kingdom of armies, fortresses, wealth, yes; but a kingdom of truth—what is truth? Jesus had not groveled before Pilate, nor asked him a single favor. But he had offered him his one chance, his last one. If Pilate had shown the least heart-interest in Truth, Jesus would have talked with him. He had talked with rich and poor, great and small before; he would have not refused to speak to the heart of the judge. But it was now too late. The judge had been judged. Is it not so always, when a man faces Jesus, and must choose?

Electric Rates Cut

Customers To Save $39,900 Per Year New Rate Initiated On March 10th Our Power and Light Company has adopted TVA's next-to-lowest retail rate schedule, effective on March 10. All bills mailed after March 26 will reflect the new, lower rates for all consumers: Homes, stores, schools, factories, churches; everyone will save. Just how much you as an individual will save will depend, of course, on how much electricity you use each month. Here is an estimate of the amount and percentage of savings by classes of customers: Residential $21,300 12.2% Small Lighting & Power $13,100 10.7% Large Lighting & Power $4,500 7.5% Street Lighting 1,000 6.0% Total $39,900 10.6% Certainly, we are pleased to announce an electric rate cut at this time when the general cost of living is so high. Electricity is a tool which can be used to help us build an even stronger community. And keeping the cost low is one of our responsibilities to you, the customer and owners. After meeting our regular operating obligations and paying our fair share of taxes, any money left over is used to expand and improve the system, to provide better service, and to reduce your costs for power. We hope that you will take full advantage of lower electric rates in Ripley—in your home, your business, your plant, wherever electricity can serve and save!

SEE HOW YOU SAVE

The amount of money you save by this electric rate reduction will depend on how many kilowatt-hours of electricity you normally use each month. This chart will give you some idea of your savings:

Table with 4 columns: In Your Home, Monthly Use, Under Old Rates, Under New Rates, Your Monthly Savings. Rows show usage from 250 kwh to 3,000 kwh.

NEW RESIDENTIAL RATE:

First 100 kwh/month at 2.0 cents/kwh Next 250 kwh/month at 1.0 cent/kwh Next 750 kwh/month at 0.4 cent/kwh All over 1,000 kwh/month at 0.7 cent/kwh

In Business and Industry—

Rates have also been cut for Commercial and Industrial consumers. The savings, of course, will depend on the amount of electricity used each month. This reduction can be a major force in the modernization and expansion of businesses and plants.

Soil Districts Go Into 2nd Quarter Century In State

Lauderdale's, Among First, Was Organized In 1941; Its Origins Recounted

By W. C. Vlar
Chairman, Board of Supervisors Lauderdale County Soil Conservation District

Twenty-five years ago last week, Governor Prentice Cooper signed a document which set the stage for preservation and orderly development of Tennessee's natural resources by the most practical means yet tried—locally-led Soil Conservation Districts.

On March 10, 1939, the Tennessee Soil Conservation District Act became law. Although primarily an agricultural bill, its effect has reached beyond newly-forested slopes and contoured fields to the heart of every Tennessee town and city. Almost every citizen enjoys purer water, a higher standard of living, and a safer, more beautiful environment as a result of the SCD Act.

During the thirties, Tennesseans and other Americans were rudely awakened to the fact that unless something was done, the nation's soil—and hopes for the future—would disappear down the drain. The cultivation of continuous corn, cotton and tobacco had left much of our cropland eroded and often slashed by deep gullies.

Erosion damage did not stop with the farmer. Soil lost from his farms choked and ruined beautiful streams. Wildlife habitat was destroyed. Roads and highways were damaged. Muddy water rushing from unprotected fields drove families from their homes. Rural income was at a hopeless low.

The problem was nationwide. In the west, dust storms blackened the skies. Lack of knowledge of how to deal with the soil sent thousands from their homes, to seek a livelihood elsewhere.

President Franklin Roosevelt was greatly concerned. In 1939, he sent to the governors of each state a sample law which would, with local initiative and leadership, make it possible for any farmer to obtain help for conservation work where he needed it—right on his farm.

Under provisions of the law, landowners would organize subdivisions of state government called Soil Conservation Districts. Each district, governed by five locally-appointed and elected supervisors, would arrange for help for farmers of its area from the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and other agencies. Except for a small state-paid per diem allowance for meetings, supervisors are unpaid.

One of the sponsors of the bill was Montgomery County landowner Cuyler Dunbar, who was elected as one of the Montgomery Soil Conservation District Supervisors and is now chairman of the State Soil Conservation Committee.

Landowners of the highland rim portion of Sumner County organized the first Soil Conservation District in Tennessee. James I. Bailey, Supervisor of Educational Services, Tennessee Department of Conservation, was instrumental in organizing the first district.

"There was no serious opposition to the first district," Mr. Bailey

Soil Conservation

Soil Conservation Districts are organized to preserve and improve the soil, prevent land erosion, and conserve water.

The Tennessee Soil Conservation District Act became law in 1939. It provides for the organization of Soil Conservation Districts in every county in the state.

Each district is governed by five locally-elected supervisors. They are responsible for planning and carrying out soil conservation programs in their districts.

Soil conservation programs include terracing, strip cropping, and the use of cover crops. These practices help to prevent soil erosion and improve soil fertility.

Soil conservation is essential for the production of food and fiber. It helps to ensure that our soil remains productive for many years to come.
