Is Increase Needed?

Automobile liability insurance companies and underwriters of homeowner insurance have requested rate increases in Tennessee during the past few weeks and it seems likely that the increases will be approved.

We, of course, have no way of knowing whether or not the rate increase is justified but we do know that Tennessee motorists to some extent have brought the increase upon themselves with the continually mounting death and accident toll in the state. A decreased accident rate within the state probably would give State Insurance Commissioner Albert Williams plenty of reason to refuse the request.

In the case of the homeowners' insurance it seems to us that the insurance companies are seeking to reduce protection more than they are actually seeking rate increases. The companies have sought a $50 deductible clause on lightning, storm damage, etc. But it seems to us that Commissioner Williams should deny this request without a great deal more information.

Most of us buy insurance for protection against loss and we expect to be paid for any losses which occur.

Too Effective

It seems to us that we may have a dissatisfied customer who has no grounds for his dissatisfaction.

Recently we ran a little item about some terrier pups which Robert Stallings wished to give away and Robert turned up with more requests for pups than he had pups.

Incidentally, Robert says that if you weren't successful in getting a puppy, he has plenty of kittens. Just ask for them.

A Commendable Move

The Halls High Beta Club, editors of the School Scoop published in The Halls Graphic each week, have inaugurated a move to honor the top ten students in the upper six grades of Halls schools by publishing their names at the end of each six weeks period.

This is not the usual honor roll since more or less students from each grade may make the required grades for the honor roll but is an effort to encourage scholarship by honoring those students whose work is outstanding.

We believe students will be encouraged to better work just as athletes are encouraged to play better when they are cheered on.

First Food Stamps Issued Countians

Federal food stamps have been issued to 214 households in the county this week, involving 1,129 people.

Recipients paid $5,290 for the stamps, and will receive $13,824 worth of food in return.

The Lauderdale County welfare office reports that 643 families with 3,077 persons have applied for the stamps.

Workers from the office will be in Halls the first and fourth Fridays of each month to explain and sign up eligible persons for the program.

The workers will be in the health office from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. on South Front, next to City Hall.

Persons living in the north end of Lauderdale County are requested to come to Halls rather than Ripley.

Crop Judge Team From County Sets Record For State

David Barnes Paces 4-Hers To 66-Point Victory Over Crockett In UT Contest

Lauderdale County's 4-H Crop Judging Team became state champions at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville Oct. 23rd as it scored 2,792 points of a possible 3,000—the highest score ever made in the state contest.

For its outstanding performance the team received a plaque and ribbons.

David Barnes was the highest scorer in the state, with 946 points of a possible 1,000. A trophy was presented to him in recognition of this record.

Bill Sweet placed third in the state, with 926 points, Forrest Shoaf fifth in the state, with 920 points, and Johnny Brasfield tenth, with 900 points.

The winning of this state honor was the result of much work on the part of these boys. They identified 42 kinds of crop and weed seeds common to this area, graded four samples each of wheat, soy beans, oats, and small legume for purity and soundness, and identified samples of grain as to market quality.

Lauderdale County bested seven other teams from over the state for this recognition. Its nearest competitor, Crockett, was topped by 66 points.

Dur'mville-Orysa Work Judged For Progress Contest

Community Club Continuing To Blend Old Traditions With Modern Techniques

By F. H. Paschal

Durhamville-Orysa Community Improvement Club, under the leadership of Anthony Fisher, president, has been judged in competition for several hundred dollars in prizes offered in the West Tennessee Community Improvement Contest sponsored by business people of Jackson.

Mr. Fisher was assisted in presenting a report on what had been done in the community by F. M. Parker, chairman of the farm committee; Mrs. J. Z. Littlejohn, chairman of the garden committee; Mrs. Byron Escue, Jr., chairman of the ways and means committee; Roy Thompson, chairman of the community activities committee; Mrs. Milton Garrett, chairman of the home beautification committee; Mrs. A. M. Estes, chairman of the youth leaders committee; and Mrs. T. W. Fisher, scrapbook chairman.

These seven regular committees, which do the work of this community improvement club, include about 39 interested people in their membership.

The list of activities began with the winning of second place for the Durhamville-Orysa float in the Ripley Christmas parade last November, continued through a Christmas lighting contest in the community, included the work of maintaining the community park and center and the cemetery in the community, and ended with a report of the recreational activities participated in by young and old in the community.

Individual reports filed by families in the community show that 20 soil tests were made, 713 tons of lime used, and 665 tons of fertilizer applied. A total of $78,000 was spent for new farm equipment, $7,900 for home remodeling, and $17,000 for home redecoration.

Mr. Fisher, in reporting on the work of the community club, said "We have blended the nobler traditions of yesterday with the modern and efficient techniques of today. We have emerged with a generation of vigorous, energetic, and Christian farm technicians that are second to none."

Disgust Of Student Protest Voiced In Letter By Soldier

Wayne Herron Writes From Viet Nam, Telling Wife In Halls His Concern

Mrs. Brenda Keltner Herron, wife of Specialist-Five Wayne Herron, has recently received a letter from her husband expressing his disgust with some of the student groups which are protesting the United States stand in Viet Nam.

Specialist Herron is with the 937th Engineering Group in Viet Nam, landing there from Fort Campbell, Ky., on Aug. 25th. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Herron, of Ripley, formerly of Route 2, Halls, and graduate of Halls High School.

His comments follow: "I am thoroughly disgusted with a lot of the American people. It is a shame and ridiculous the way the college students are protesting and demonstrating about the situation in Viet Nam. They don't know how lucky they are to be able to live in a free country and doing the things they please. To be able to eat as much food as you want and not just how much you are allowed to have, to have a home that no one can burn down or blow up; to be able to rest in the comfort of peace. There is fear in every hour for these people, they never know what to expect.

"I don't like the idea of being here either, and it was a long time that I didn't know why we were here. But now I know, and I know that it is for a good cause. If we just looked over this, it wouldn't be long until we, the American people, would have nothing to look forward to in life. I like the American way of life and I'm proud to say it is my home. We should all give thanks for the things we now have and live each day as God would have us do.

"If we were in the situation that these poor people are, we would be begging for help, too.

"Instead of the students protesting, they should get behind and help our men already here. We all need things that we can't get over here, such as soap and clothes among other things.

"I miss my home and family more than anything, but I know that if I can help keep my family and others from living under Communism that my stay here will be worth any discomfort."

While in the Central American republic, the youths climbed a live volcano; visited a private beach near San Jose; and visited Tikal, a ceremonial center for the Mayan civilization nearly 2,000 years ago, and Antigua, an old city, now a national shrine, which disallows construction of modernistic buildings unless hidden behind an old-fashioned Spanish facade.

Mr. Fisher, in reporting on the work of the community club, said "We have blended the nobler traditions of yesterday with the modern and efficient techniques of today. We have emerged with a generation of vigorous, energetic, and Christian farm technicians that are second to none."

Major Bank Chief Rinses His Socks Nightly For Thrift

Other Leaders Cut Corners In Inexpensive Ways; Helms Head Reads Ads Closely

When Frank Armour, city president of H. J. Helms Co., comes dragging into his hotel room after a grueling day on the road, he rarely follows the urge to take a hot bath...

Morris Levine, president of a Dallas-based junior department store chain, succumbs to thrift in another way. He makes certain the towels and bedspreads that come out of his house are not of top quality variety...

Measure Armour and Levine are not modern-day Scrooges bent on building up a fortune by squeezing every penny. They are members of a sizable group of affluent Americans who haven't forgotten the value of a dollar despite the trend to high living, heavy spending and ballooning personal debt that exists nationwide...

Easy To Overlook This thrift amidst affluence may have been overlooked by many, and perhaps understandably so. The light of all the attention that has been focused on the determined consumer push to own "nothing but the best"...

W. Northern Eagles, bachelor president of Chicago City Bank & Trust Co., and former deputy administrator of the Small Business Administration, washes his own socks each night. Though he is not one of the "nothing but the best" crowd, he notes that it costs his laundry bill by nearly $700 over a year's time.

Spencer D. Moseley, $120,000-a-year president of General American Transportation Corp., has discovered a path to even greater savings. He takes time every couple of weeks to cut his own hair with an $8 electric hair clipper he bought from Sears, Roebuck & Co. some time 10 years ago.

But even Mr. Moseley has yet to top the barbering effort of a Cleveland banker who in recent months has begun to cut his own hair. "It aggravates him to think that in his hair bracket he must save $10 to pay for a $2.25 haircut," explains a friend.

In many instances, the consumer efforts of thrift are limited to one or two economies. But sometimes thrift is exercised each line of life. This might be the case with Rusty Valdes, whose reputation as a "very practical" man is beginning to rival his fame as a long-time comedian and stage star.

Mr. Valdes studiously saves every scrap of wrapping paper left packages he receives for reuse later, continues to drive a well-worn 1958 Chrysler station wagon, and liberally seeks out low-priced motels during his travels and rarely ventures into expensive restaurants. The one-time crooner still dresses down a big salary these days from the stage. But he "shaves waxes" of any kind, says Thomas Rippey, Mr. Valdes' main Friday.

Mr. Rippey emphasizes, however, that the stage star is not a cheap man, but a practical man. He says Mr. Valdes is generous almost to a fault when it comes to "treating" friends to relatives and friends, often spending as much as $400 on postage alone for gifts he mails at Christmas.

Nothing seems too small to both or about to a fairly well-to-do consumer who saves a dollar. For instance, Myles Standish III, a security analyst for Rivin Sales and Trust Co., and direct descendant of the Pilgrim captain, has business with his wife to save an subscription order. "We subscribe to HUNTER and the New Yorker and trade with the single issue who subscribe to the Ladies' Home Journal," says Standish.

Whether days the size of a lot of other items saved, in a small town near Atlanta the wife of a retired physician and her husband are making her own laundry and doing her own housework.

the books over dinner on late at the local Goodwill Industries shop. But she isn't the slightest bit disconcerted by the incongruity. "For a few dollars and a little sewing at home I wind up with an original 640 or 800 dress," she says. Mrs. Joyce Lilly, furniture sales manager for the Goodwill store, says the dentists' wife is by no means an exception. She estimates that more than half the store's patrons come from the middle and upper income categories. A Rule For The Well-to-Do In New Orleans, the search for bargains by well-to-do matrons has become a tradition at the Junior League Thrift shop that the organization has had to pass a rule that donated merchandise must be on the floor for sale at least 48 hours before League members can buy it. The rule was instituted because League members anxious for bargains were grabbing up all the good buys, says a spokesman. Such bargain hunting is hardly confined to the fair sex, either. Mr. Armour is a close follower of newspaper ads, and he says he enjoys nothing more than to drag his wife down to the supermarked on Saturday afternoon to hunt for good buys. "Of course," he adds, "I could buy anything I want, but I still go through the same pangs as when I didn't have any money."

Men in Boy's Clothing The quest for a bargain has led some wealthy, but small-statured, men to forget all about what separates the men from the boys, clothing-wise. Thomas Just, head of the Boys' Wear department at the big May Co. store in Los Angeles, says at least a dozen times a week he's already arrived socially, says Mrs. Tobin. Such bargain hunting is hardly confined to the fair sex, either. Mr. Armour is a close follower of newspaper ads, and he says he enjoys nothing more than to drag his wife down to the supermarked on Saturday afternoon to hunt for good buys. "Of course," he adds, "I could buy anything I want, but I still go through the same pangs as when I didn't have any money."

SCHOOL SCOOPS

From Halls High

By Sara McCarthy, Halls Beta Club
Halls Beta Club held its formal initiation at assembly Wednesday morning in a candle lighting ceremony in the elementary school gym.

The Rev. John Deal gave the invocation. Ronnie Kerby, president, stated the purpose of the meeting, then announced the Beta pledge to the candidates—Phyllis Hartsfield, Judy Hutcherson, Deborah Lantz, Lloyd Olds, and Velma Parish.

New members were presented certificates, membership cards, and other information on the club.

After welcoming the new members and pledging the services of the organization to the school, the president of the club, then representing the inspiration of Beta membership, Kay Robinson, vice-president, lighted a gold taper, representing the inspiration of Beta membership. Kay Robinson, vice-president, lighted a gold candle representing Character; Charlotte Carrel, secretary-treasurer, lighted a gold candle representing Achievement; and Patricia Moska lighted a gold candle representing Leadership. Each member made a brief talk after the lighting of the candles.

The president then lighted a white candle from the master light and passed this inspiration to his fellow officers by lighting the candles. The officers then turned and passed a light to the nearest member, each holding a burning white candle over a gold collar.

Special guests at the assembly were members of the seventh and eighth grades and their teachers. Mrs. W. O. Sugg and Mrs. E. K. Sugg were participating in the Top Ten project being sponsored by the Beta Club this school year.

The distributive education class visited the Halls Flower Shop last Friday. They were entertained and given a tour of the shop. Special emphasis was placed on Christmas designs.

Jean Shepard and Eddie Smith headed the program last Tuesday at the regular meeting of the D. E. Club. They offered Christmas gift suggestions for the entire family.

Ed Black, D. E. supervisor for West Tennessee, visited the Halls club last Wednesday. He invited members on plans for a district meeting in March.

A pep rally was held in the gymnasium Tuesday morning. Students led by cheerleaders enthusiastically cheered the varsity basketball teams.

The school band, under the direction of Allen Hightower, has been working on Christmas music. It will begin the study of concert music next Monday.

The regular monthly meeting of the Halls Future Homemakers of America was held Wednesday of last week. The girls discussed sales ideas about Stanley Proctor, which they are selling.

The third-period class, with Dorothy Garrett as chairman, is now in the final for sales.

Visitors in the high school this week were Cecil James, of Harcourt, Breese, and World; and Rich and E. Flowers, of Flowers Studio in Dyersburg.

Mr. James is father of one of the teachers, Larry James.

Dale Overton, principal, was a guest at Ripley Rotary Club's luncheon meeting at noon Tuesday for which Rep. Robert A. Everett was the speaker.

Lauderdale County schools are closed Thursday and Friday of this week in observance of Thanksgiving.

Menus for the school cafeteria for the week of Nov. 22th-Dec. 3rd are: Monday: Ketchup and winners, creamed potatoes, fried peas, corn and peach, bread, milk.

THANKSGIVING DAY IN AMERICA dates from a festival held by the people of the Plymouth Colony in December 1621. Have you ever thought about what they were thankful for. They were thankful for surviving a hard winter. For a good crop of corn. For shelter that shut out the rain. For the chance to make a living and build homes. They had no "extras." Just basic, bare necessities... but they still remembered gratitude. So often we take shelter, survival, and jobs for granted. This Thanksgiving, let's remember to be grateful for the things we consider "Ordinary" as well as for the extraordinary benefits we enjoy as inheritors of the traditions begun by those early settlers.

God and Justice
Lesson for November 28, 1965

Background Scripture Amos 1 through 8. Devotional Reading: Isaiah 42:1-7.

IT TAKES all kinds of Christians to make a church. It takes all kinds of servants to carry out the work of God. The four greatest prophets of the 8th century before Christ were very different men. One of them, Isaiah, by name, was an aristocrat, friend of royalty, a man of wealth and high education. Another, Hosea, was a man with terrible trouble in his own home, a man

Dr. Foreman never far away from a heartache. A third, Micah, was a small-town humorist and punster. The fourth, named Amos, was right from the bottom of the pile, a very poor man, a migrant farm-hand, a share-cropper we might call him. This Amos was not a professional prophet. As far as we know, he did not join any prophetic association; he had no friends among other prophets. He was a "loner," with only God for an intimate friend.

God's plain man
Amos could well be called God's plain man. He had no advantages of what we call "background." His college was the "university of hard knocks." Such a man often knows more about what's really going on in the world than those who live more sheltered lives. If you had gone to Samaria — Israel's capital city, where Amos delivered his fiery messages — and asked almost anybody what conditions were like in Israel, you would have got a glowing report. The country was at the peak of prosperity, all was at peace, everybody was making good money, people in plenty could afford two houses, one for winter and one for summer, imported silks crated with ivory, everything were common, homes were de-plored to continued prosperity for a long time to come. Into this complacent optimism Amos threw his bombshell. As he saw it — or as God had shown him through his personal experience — things were not well with the country. The fact was, the citizens of the country had made comfort and money and luxury into gods. Amos (coming as he did from the submerged classes) knew what it was to be poor, underpaid, ignored, robbed by the wealthy land-owners. The prosperity of the country had been gained at the expense of underpaying the workers.

Justice is people
Justice does not go around by itself, fighting with injustice also going around by itself. Justice and injustice are in the hearts and lives of men. We often speak of unjust conditions and unjust laws, but back of every law and condition, good or bad, are the people who make it so. Justice means more than anything else equality — not equality of ability and character, for hardly any two persons are equal in this way. But justice means equality of opportunity. It means (as far as it is within power) that no human being shall find the road to his highest achievement artificially blocked off by conditions which can be changed.

Justice is religious
Is America a country where justice reigns? Yes and no. Everybody (especially politicians) is in favor of justice; but history shows that there have been whole classes of persons who have not had a square deal. Amos would be on their side. Indians first, then Negroes, Orientals, immigrants, children, the mentally ill, sharecroppers, people who cannot find jobs — these have always found the underside of life in America rough indeed. Lately the church has begun to sit up and take notice. So long as religion has to do with the way we deal with our fellow-men, all problems of man are the Christian's problems. Religion is many things, but not least of them is justice.

Yet some folks persist in using cheaper quality ribbons which date from the pre-nylon era—and actually pay more for them than our $1.25 price for nylon. By handling one grade in volume, we're holding the price line on the best ribbon you can buy. At that price, you can't afford any other ribbon for your machine.
