A NEW MAN

Lesson for May 3, 1970

Background Scripture: Acts 9:1-31; 11:19-30; Colossians 1:11-17.

Devotional Reading: Philippians 3:4-11.

In his letters, the Apostle Paul told the people in his churches that Christ had the power to make a person a "new man." If anyone should have known that Paul was the man. When Paul was converted to Christ and he came to preach and teach of his experience, the word spread quickly among the churches and there was much fear and trembling for Paul (as Saul) had been a persecutor of the church. Was it possible that he was really changed? Was he really a new man?

One difference

In one way he was still the same man. He was still a intense person who never did anything half-heartedly. He was still extremely intelligent and a well-educated man. He still retained his proud Jewish background, his knowledge of the Hebrew tongue (something most Jews could not claim), his Greek culture, his Roman citizenship, and his cosmopolitan ways.

Only one thing had really changed, but it was the most important thing of all. Though he was still a deeply religious man who had a deep desire to please God, the focus of this religion had changed completely. No longer was his loyalty to the law, but to Jesus Christ.

This one important exception made all the difference in his life. His intensity was now directed into a constructive channel. His whole-hearted dedication had found a worthy cause. His education, his background of diverse cultures, and his knowledge were now to be put to use for the church. In a sense he was the same person with the same high qualifications.

Yet, in another sense, he was a new man. His whole life before had been based upon the law, his desire to win God's approval by his own merit and accomplishment. Now, however, where the law had stood, there was love. He had experienced the love of Christ and knew now that one can never earn the love of God; it is freely given as a gift.

So the church had peace

Was he the same man? Perhaps we can put it most simply by saying that the "equipment" was the same, but the energizing force that powered that equipment was completely new. It is the force that empowers us that determines whether we are "new persons" or not. "If anyone is in Christ he is a new being" (2 Corinthians 5:17).

Consider what God had accomplished in the conversion of this man Saul. He raised up someone to take the place of Stephen—he gained an apostle. He enlisted Saul's talents for the kingdom instead of against it—he lost an enemy. He ended persecution against the church—he protected his church. In short, we might say that God brought to nought the evil intentions of men and accomplished his will. It is important to note that it was God's will to end the persecution of his people. Even though he had used it to accomplish his will, to begin the mission of the church, it was not his desire to see the disciples suffer needlessly.

Three who helped

It must not be overlooked that God had helped with Saul. There was first of all Stephen whose courageous and gracious witness must have made a deep impression upon Saul (even if it did not have an immediate positive effect).

There was also Ananias, the fearful but obedient man of Damascus, whose faithful witness to Saul signalled the beginning of a new life for the man of Tarsus.

Finally, there was Barnabas who believed that men could change and become new persons and was willing to risk his own safety to claim a new recruit for the ranks of the Kingdom.

Perhaps you can assist in God making someone a new man!

Cruel, Dangerous Practice

Your editor, along with many other residents of Halls, is becoming greatly concerned with the continued poisoning of dogs on Circle Drive, and we now are learning that dogs are poisoned in other sections of Halls.

We wonder if the poisoner realizes the potential danger to small children, with the poison apparently just scattered out over a city block or two. A child could be made deathly ill or even die from merely handling a poison container and then placing his hands in his mouth.

Few things are more cruel than a dog dying from strychnine poisoning, so just imagine a child with the same symptoms.

Another unfortunate result of the poisoning of the dogs in Circle Drive is that suspicion of neighbors and charges without basis are beginning to be heard.

Circle Drive is a fine neighborhood, but it will be ruined for several families, unless the poisoner is stopped immediately.

Troubles Growing

Trouble throughout the antiquated water system in Halls is giving headaches to all city officials as the increased water pressure continues to rupture lines that have been in use for 40 to 50 years.

It is likely to be a long, hot summer for city officials and employees before all the trouble is corrected. Incidentally, to top it off, a leak has developed in the new system at the plant.

Roy Howard Dies In Gravel Cave-In

Roy Howard, an employee of the Lauderdale County Highway Department for many years, was killed at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday when a cave-in buried him at Criffield's gravel pit between Edith and Central.

His body was recovered about 4 p.m.

Services were at 10 a.m. Thursday in Grace Baptist Church, of which he was a member. The Rev. J. A. Cooper and The Rev. William E. Boyer officiated. Burial was in Grace Cemetery, with Ripley Funeral Home in charge.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Annie Chipman Howard; a son, Lynn Howard, of Ripley; a daughter, Mrs. Dimple Coker, and two brothers, D. L. Howard and Herbert Howard, all of Memphis; two sisters, Mrs. Thelma Hartman and Miss Christine Howard, both of Ripley; and six grandchildren.

Ernest M. White

Ernest M. White, 74, retired carpenter, of Route 3, Halls, died last Friday in Jackson-Madison County Hospital after long illness.

Services were at 3 p.m. Sunday at Lebanon Methodist Church with burial in the church cemetery, Halls Funeral Home in charge.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Hilda Harber White; a daughter, Mrs. Reba Sue Bushart; and three brothers, Claude White, Ralph White, and Guy White, all of Halls.

ANNOUNCES

DON CONNELL, incumbent Circuit Court Clerk, this week announced his candidacy for reelection in the general election Aug. 6th.

Federal Suit Filed By Butler Seeking Faster Court Shift

Asking August Remap Vote; Timing Only, Not Scheme Adopted, Topic Of Suit

Dr. Arden J. Butler, Jr., of Ripley, filed suit Tuesday afternoon in federal court in Memphis against "Anthony Fisher et al," magistrates comprising Lauderdale County Quarterly Court, for declaratory judgment that the court's present apportionment violates the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and for an order to elect new magistrates on Aug. 6, 1970, instead of in 1972 as the court has agreed.

If the court action comes too late to permit the elections in August, the suit asks for "a special election to be held immediately for the election of justices under the proposed new plan or in the alternative allow the complainant relief by directing that the Quarterly County Court of Lauderdale County, Tennessee, be restrained from conducting any and all business until the foregoing is accomplished."

The bill also asks "that the court allow the complainant costs of this cause."

The suit charges that "apportionment ranges from a low of one justice for 136 population in the Ninth District to a high of one justice for 1,875 population in the Second District.

"This means that a citizen or voter from the Ninth Civil District has a vote that is rated over 55 times as a vote cast by a voter in the Second Civil District.

"This complainant states that he will agree to the new re-apportionment plan as voted upon by the Quarterly Court but that such re-apportionment plan should go into effect immediately, as it is over two years until the date set for a new election for the plan to go into effect, and said court was asked to have said plan to go into effect immediately at the August, 1970, election, but they refused to do so."

Sportsmen Suing To Halt Fkd. Deer Drainage Project

Nashvillians Say Engineers Violate Curbs And Erase Great Wildlife Habitat

Four Nashville sportsmen have filed suit against the U.S. Corps of Engineers to block further work on a flood control and drainage project on the Obion and Forked Deer Rivers which the suit says violates the federal Environmental Policy Act passed Jan. 1st.

At stake are "220,000 acres of the finest wildlife habitat in America," the suit alleges.

The suit is the first to be filed in the Middle Tennessee U.S. District Court, based on the new law, and may be the first in the nation. It asks for a declaratory judgment.

The suit says the last legislature failed to appropriate funds for the maintenance of the Corps project, and charges the plaintiffs will suffer irreparable harm if the 58 miles of drainage ditches already dug are not maintained by the state and additional damages if the rest of the proposed total of 110 are begun July 1st as scheduled.

The suit was filed by attorney Charles H. Warfield for J. Clark Akers III, William W. Dillon III, Dr. John Tudor, and Dr. Sam Harwell.

Akers, owner of a road construction firm, and Dillon, partner in an advertising agency, are members of the Middle Fork Hunt Club, which owns 500 acres in Obion County.

Tudor, a urologist, and Harwell, a veterinarian, belong to the Davy Crockett Hunting Club, which owns 850 acres of land in the county.

Named defendants are the U. S. Army, through the Corps of Engineers; the U.S. Department of the Interior; Gov. Buford Ellington; Charles Speight, commissioner of the Tennessee Highway Department; and Greer Ricketson, chairman of the Tennessee Game and Fish Commission.

The highway department is charged by state law with the maintenance of projects after the Corps of Engineers builds them.

Dillon said the four businessmen are not opposing flood control projects, but are concerned about losing an irreplaceable "sportsmen's paradise" of hunting and fishing.

"The two ought to be able to work together," he said. "We think they should sit down with the fish and game people and the Department of Interior and review their programs in the light of 1970 values."

"This was initiated by the Corps in 1948 and the philosophy has changed since that time. They're just not making that stuff anymore."

Col. Charles T. Williams, district engineer for the Memphis division of the Corps which is in charge of the project, said the construction was reviewed in 1965, "and the review did not lead the Congress to change the authorization."

He said the Corps had "for more than 100 years, been of far more benefit to the country, and its wildlife, than it has generated problems."

The lawsuit alleges that the work already done has destroyed much of the wildlife habitat in the river basins, which form "an integral and essential part of the Mississippi waterfowl flyway complex."

"The U.S. Corps of Engineers themselves estimate a loss in annual recreation in the hundreds of thousands of dollars," the suit continues.

The plaintiffs want an interpretation of federal laws including the 1968 Fish and Wildlife Co-ordination Program Act.

They say the act "recognized the equality of preservation of wildlife with the preservation of water resources," and provided that the Corps consult with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife services of the Department of the Interior and with the equivalent state agency before diverting or deepening waterways.

"It will be shown that if this act has any validity, the Corps of Engineers in proceeding with this project under the present circumstances is violating same," the suit says.

It said the Interior Department and the Tennessee Game and Fish Commission studied the project in 1969 and recommended modification of the work that would allow the Corps to "achieve its desired purpose of flood control and drainage and at the same time would have permitted the lands in question to be preserved for the use of plain-and future generations of Tennesseans."

It said the Corps, "in complete disregard of this recommendation," proceeded with its original plans causing damage "immensely greater than that foreseen by the Department of the Interior."

"The Corps . . . is further violating the provisions of the Fish and Wildlife Co-ordination Program Act of 1968 in that it is planning to proceed in complete disregard of the wishes of the state agency concerned with the administration of wildlife resources," the suit says.

The Tennessee Game and Fish Commission met in Memphis Feb. 17, 1970, and urged curtailment of the project until it could be reviewed in the light of current data, the suit asserts.

It also says the Corps will be in violation of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1970 if it does not use a systematic, interdisciplinary approach to preserve resources.

"The Corps . . . cannot proceed with the project as planned unless the . . . act is to be totally ignored. The effect of this law should be declared before the Corps . . . continues with its proposed future work."

The plaintiffs allege that Tennessee must spend $2 million per year to maintain the drainage ditches and to operate the Gooch Wildlife Management Area, a nearby 6,000 acre preserve while losing revenue from recreation if the project continues.

"As a result of the work of the Corps . . . the state must rehabilitate 6,000 acres of waterfowl habitat and the cost, after purchasing the land, for additional work, such as control structures, is some $770,000," the suit says.

The plaintiffs added as an exhibit to their lawsuit a letter from William L. Barry, administrative aide to Gov. Ellington, to Col. Williams, stating that the 86th General Assembly had failed to appropriate funds for the highway department to continue operating the project.

"Plaintiffs are further advised that the attorney general's office of the state of Tennessee has ruled that the state does not consider itself contractually bound to maintain any of the ditches dug by the Corps of Engineers.

This ruling, of course, would defeat many of the aims of the project as envisioned by the Corps and would damage the land area, the wildlife habitat, and your plaintiffs," the suit contends.

It says all of the money spent on maintenance so far would be wasted, and the Corps, if it proceeds with the work, "will be in violation of the law that provides that no moneys of the U.S. can be used in such projects unless the responsible local agency (the highway department) maintains and operates all the works after completion of the project."

County Committee Formed To Assist County's Growth

Paschal Heads New Group To Hold Meeting Friday; Suggestions Are Sought

By F. H. Paschal

A county committee has been organized to encourage community organization and development and to co-ordinate county-wide projects.

F. H. Paschal, County Agent, is chairman; Earl West, of the Soil Conservation Service, vice-chairman; and Joe Moss, Farmers Home Administration, supervisor, secretary.

The committee also includes William Hall, County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service director; Mrs. Juanita Webb, welfare department director; Parnell Roark, county sanitarian; Judge Paul E. Dew, county judge; J. G. Cook, of the Department of Employment Security; Al E. Jones, Director of the Lauderdale-Crockett Economic Opportunity Corp.; Anthony Fisher, County Planning Commissioner; and Steven M. Huskey, of the state Division of Forestry.

This committee is holding its first meeting Friday afternoon to begin thinking and working together on projects that can be of help to all the people of Lauderdale County.

Citizens are urged to make suggestions to any member of this committee at any time on matters of common interest.

One Club Very Active

Billy Thomas, new president of Durhamville-Oryssa Community Improvement Club, has appointed Anthony Fisher as chairman of the farm committee for the coming year; Mr. and Mrs. Pat Parker as garden co-chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Williams as co-chairmen of ways and means; Byron Escue, Jr., as safety chairman; and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leggett as co-chairmen of home beautification.

Mrs. J. Z. Littlejohn is chairman of the 4-H Club committee and Mrs. F. L. Thompson is actively taking responsibility for keeping Riceland Park in good condition.

Mrs. Sam Williams is vice-president of the club, Mrs. Robert Mathias secretary, Mrs. Byron Escue, Jr., treasurer, and Mrs. F. L. Thompson song leader. Devotionals are under the direction of the Rev. Jimmy Clay and The Rev. Robert Cole.

Nineteen members of this organization worked a whole day at Riceland Park last week, getting it ready for use for the summer. They mowed the lawn, raked off leaves and sweetgum balls, painted all the tables, built a new "4-square" ball court and painted it, put up a new tennis net for the concrete tennis court, and made plans to install new lights for the whole park area.

The first meeting at this recreation park will begin at 6 p.m. this Friday, when the Methodist Youth Fellowship will sell hamburgers and pie to make money to buy new song books for their church.

The club sponsored the Tiny Tot Revue in Ripley to make money for some of its projects and constantly demonstrates the value of teamwork.

Readers Speak

Editor: April 2nd was the first annual "Earth Day" sponsored by colleges, high schools, and professional ecologists to make people aware of the deterioration of our environment.

Lauderdale County is fortunate not to have the high degree of pollution that many other areas have. However, we are affected by their pollution, since the air revolves around the earth forty times a year.

Our country does have pollution problems. The major part of our problem is that portion of pollution that destroys our scenic beauty—litter.

The earth does not litter itself. We do. Although many campaigns against litter have been conducted in the past, the Landscapers still throw trash on our landscape. We think this habit can be stopped.

Trash in this country, as well as everywhere else, is the result of individual neglect. The attitude that "my small amount of litter will not harm" is very misleading. Although your small quantity of litter may not seem significant, when it is compounded with the trash that too many other individuals carelessly throw on our landscape, it scars the beauty of our country.

Our efforts Wednesday were an example of individual concern. If all individuals become concerned, the problem can be solved.

Editor: I would like to ask Mr. Hunt who usually says dose to young people and who usually brings it legal dose into this country? Adults, that's who! Who is usually behind the riots? Adults! Don't get me wrong, I am not saying that all adults sell dope or form riots. This would be like saying all youths take dope or kick.

Neither am I condoning riots or the use of drugs. I don't see why anyone would want to take drugs when they know that they can damage you for life, or worse, take your life from you. What I am saying is that there are more responsible adults and young people than there are irresponsible ones.

Isn't a person who drinks just as irresponsible for his actions as a person who takes dope? A person who is drunk when he votes is just as unqualified to make a responsible vote as a person who is high on LSD. There are adults who drink just as there are young people who take dope.

Mr. Hunt stated that one opinion of our generation on what a few people do. So I don't see stopping the responsible majority of 18-year-olds from voting because of what the irresponsible minority does. This responsible majority would have the right to vote.

Mr. Hunt stated that one opinion in favor of 18-year-olds voting is that they have to go to war and that this should be applied to oppose the issue. He went on to say that the reason these young boys are being used is because they are at that thrill-seeking age, and they do not know the cost. This is the most idiotic statement I have ever heard!

Thrill-seeking! Is it such a thrill to go to Viet Nam and die? I do not think so. I think that they and everyone who has lost a husband, brother, son, or father know the cost. The cost so far has been 40,000 lives of young men. 40,000!

The men that have already died haven't died in vain; by their deaths, they have awakened the American people to the fact that this and other wars like it can destroy America, both physically and mentally.

These thoughts that I have stated are not mine alone. The majority of youth, as well as adults, believe the way I do. All I can say to Mr. Hunt and people ple like him is; open your eyes and see, open your ears and hear. Don't judge all of today's youth on the minority of irresponsible youth, because we, the majority of youth, will do everything in our power to make this a world of peace, understanding, and love.

Readers Speak

Let's tell it like it is! In regard to my article some weeks ago concerning the feasibility of allowing 18-year-olds to vote...

My article did NOT say that ALL the young people were rioting and carrying one; again I refer you to the paragraph that plainly says I don't think by any means that all our young people are this way...

You don't think there is a difference in the responsibility, you just try to buy some auto-mobility insurance on 18-year-olds and the insurance company doesn't guess at this—they have the statistics to back them up.

If we are going to get this issue on a personal basis, I would appreciate it if the parties doing so would state the facts, as I presented them.

You'll be proud to have Bob Taylor as Governor of Tennessee He's determined to win. He's determined to win for the good of the people of Tennessee. He's a man who knows what hard work is. He was raised on a farm and following high school began work as a machinist for $8 a week. It stands to reason that a man who has come up the hard way understands your problems and will do something about them. Bob Taylor is a self-taught man who became a practicing attorney by reading law. He worked hard in this profession and became a Chancellor of Chancery Court. Later he was appointed a Judge of the State Court of Appeals. The day after Pearl Harbor he volunteered as a private, served his country well, and was discharged at the end of World War II as a captain. Bob Taylor has been a special state counsel under three Governors. He has been Tennessee Commissioner of Insurance and Banking. And he has also been a labor arbitrator. Bob Taylor's business experience is proven. He formed a financial institution which is one of the largest of its type in Tennessee today. This is the kind of experience needed to run our State Government, Tennessee's largest business operation. He has held high offices and served without pay in many charitable and worthwhile organizations. His civic endeavors are numerous. Bob Taylor's roots are deep in all parts of Tennessee. His grandfather, Bob, and great uncle Alf — both named Taylor — were Governors of Tennessee. They made national history during their campaigning which was called the "War of Roses". He learned law enforcement from his father, an Attorney General. In each task to which he has applied himself, Bob Taylor has had a strong determination for success. This determination goes with him in his candidacy for Governor. Bob Taylor is determined that our State will be one of the leaders in the nation. Bob Taylor is not a rich man. He wants and needs your help. Let's see that he be elected Governor of Tennessee so he can do the job. Join the determined majority by mailing the coupon below. Yes, I'm determined that Bob Taylor should be our Governor. Enclosed is my check (made payable to Bob Taylor for Governor) for $2.00. My telephone number is [blank]. Delta Queen, Last

Sea Rives Doom 44-Yr.-Old
Laws Vessel Unleas Plea
To Congress Is Heeded

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 7.—The stars were as bright as lanterns, but there was no moon. Howard Tate read the faint ripples of the Mississippi River with practiced concentration.

When he consented to speak, his voice came out in a rusty growl and poked around the darkness of the pilot house.

People were paying $30 to $70 a day for the privilege of doing almost nothing on this boat for 10 days.

There is no gambling. The liveliest music comes from the calliope when the boat is approaching a town, or sometimes from an organ in the dining room late at night, if the organist is feeling bold.

The cabins are small but comfortable. The food is good. The passengers entertain themselves with books, fortune telling, bingo, or lying in the sun.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Giles, steamboat buffs from Olympia, Wash., spent one hour after 4:30 the other day studying the engine room, watching the steam driven pistons pushing their arms out the back of the boat to pedal the paddlewheel like a bicycle.

The wheel produces a hypnotic vibration. The passengers and crew are rocked to sleep each night—and not infrequently in the daytime—by the rhythmic and tumble of the turning wheel.

In a world where meals and the playing of the calliope are rather keenly anticipated events, it is easy to imagine the impact of a change in scenery or weather. The passengers who make friends with the crew soon learn how important these changes are to river folk.

Captain Hawley (almost all the officers are addressed as captain) was talking one late afternoon of Mark Twain's regret at as British Columbia—thought it was ridiculous and a little shameful that the Queen was being put out of business.

"We've never more than four minutes from shore anywhere on the river. If something should happen, all we would have to do is hit the radiator and run her aground."

"That's a beautiful sight, but it means that we have a 50 per cent chance of fog. And if we get in a fog, we have to tie up and wait until it passes."

At 5:45 o'clock the next morning, Capt. Ernest Wagner, the master of the boat, sat in the pilot house watching the sun come up. It was beautiful, all the morning, sailor takes warning; red at night, sailor's delight."

They used to say that the Mississippi Delta began in the lobby of the Peabody Hotel in Memphis and ended in Catfish Row in Vicksburg. Catfish Row is a Negro shantytown. Urban Renewal is getting ready to renew it.

Dozens of chemical plants, oil refineries now year up behind the levees between Baton Rouge and New Orleans. They provide jobs for the people and pollution for the river.

The water of this stretch is now so poisonous that not even Howard Tate will drink it, as strong a believer as he is in the purity of Mississippi River water.

"Look at all these kids along Catfish Row," he said one day up around Greenville. "They drink that water all the time and they're just as healthy as they can be."

What Black Thought
He drank it himself when he was a boy, just as Mark Twain's people did up at Memphis, Mo. There is a discussion in "Blackberry Finn" about how much more nutritious the muddy Mississippi water is than that of the clear Ohio. The Child of Callimachus says:

"You look at the graveyards that tell the tale. Three work grow worth shades in a Chinatown graveyard, but in a Saint Louis graveyard they grow up wards of eight hundred feet high. It's all on account of the water, the people drunk before they laid up. A Cincinnati corpse doesn't rot a solid year."

For all the changes, the river that still runs a man of the sense of Howard Tate.

graduations of people like Howard Tate.

Racial integration, for example, has come to the Delta Queen. He voted before from a grown in flower boxes that catch the spray from the paddlewheel) are now drunk by occasional black passengers. Two Negro women were among the passengers who stopped recently for a tour of the antebellum homes at Natchez.

The crew was integrated two years ago when Franklin Myers was made chief steward and became the first black officer on the boat.

Other changes have come to the river. Urban Renewal is working over Beale Street in Memphis from Sunday through Wednesday. They attended the Tennessee Bankers' Convention.

Mr. and Mrs. David Nunn and Mrs. and Mrs. Oliver Nunn were in Memphis from Sunday through Wednesday. They attended the Tennessee Bankers' Convention.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Voss' Sunday dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Aldo Robison, of Memphis, Mrs. Ben Adcock, of Van Nuys, Calif., and Mrs. Annie Robertson, of Halls.

Miss Ruth MacIn, of Hardin College in Searcy, Ark., spent several days last week with her mother, Mr. and Mrs. Annie MacIn will leave with some of her classmates June 5th for two months' stay in Germany where they will be studying.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Adcock, of Van Nuys, Calif., have been guests of Mrs. Annie F. Robertson last week. Mr. and Mrs. Adcock met her at Memphis International Airport Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Adcock, of Van Nuys, Calif., have been guests of Mrs. Annie F. Robertson last week. Mr. and Mrs. Adcock met her at Memphis International Airport Sunday evening.

Chief Justice and Mrs. Rose W. Dyer attended the annual meeting of the Memphis International Airport Sunday evening.

Elizabeth Giandoni, of Memphis, spent last week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Younger.

Mrs. W. B. Baker, of Houston, Tex., arrived Friday for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Belah Marchionni. Henry Marchionni met his sister at Memphis International Airport.

Mrs. Stuart Criffield, of Memphis, and Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Olds returned home Sunday after having spent several days with their sister and daughter, Mrs. Frank Johnson, and family in Longview, Tex. While there, they attended graduation exercises of Stephen F. Austin State University, at Nacogdoches, Tex., where Mrs. Johnson received her bachelor of arts degree in Spanish and history. She will teach in Longview in the coming school year.

A Dishwasher sets you free!
fresh clean ELECTRICITY DOES IT BEST!
Stop putting your hands in hot, soapy dish water! Quit spending an average of 600 hours a year washing some 45,000 dishes! An automatic dishwasher will set you free!
New dishwashers, using hotter water and special detergents, do a better job on china, glasses — even pots and pans — than anyone could do by hand. (And think of the job it'll do for your hands.) You don't even have to scrape or pre-rinse.
Throw in that dish towel and head for your favorite dealer to choose an automatic dishwasher. You'll never have to wash dishes again!
