

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

THE UNKNOWN

Lesson for September 5, 1971

Background Scriptures: Psalms 42, 53, 139, Acts 14:15-17, 17:22-31, Devotional Readings: Psalms 111, 112

What is God really like? When the Apostle Paul went to Athens, he went to a city where men did a great deal of speculating on this question. The Areopagus, which in English we call Mar's Hill, was a place where a group of philosophers met for discussion and debate. Paul went to that hill so he might speak to the men gathered there. "Men of Athens, I perceive that in every way you are very religious" (Acts 17:22).

The meaning of "religious" What did Paul mean by this? Did he mean that he had witnessed their religious rituals and rites? Did he mean that he had observed very pious living in Athens? No, he meant neither of these. What he meant was that he had observed that they were very much preoccupied with the question, "What is God like?" The Greeks in general and the Athenians in particular were known for their great curiosity about the meaning of life.

Sometimes this word "religious" gives us a great deal of difficulty. The reason is that people often mistakenly believe that a man's religion is identifiable with a particular religious group or organization. Using this reasoning, we would say that a man who belongs to a church or synagogue is "religious," and the man who does not is not "religious." But the truth of the matter is that most men (if not all) have a religion of some kind. That is, they have some definite beliefs about the meaning of life and reality. John Bright, the Biblical scholar, has defined religion in this way: "For that to which a man looks for his ultimate well-being, his salvation no less, and from which he derives his standards of conduct—that is his God."

What you worship as unknown Thus, the question is not whether a man has a religion, but rather what kind of religion he has. Throughout the city of Athens were monuments to many of the gods in which the Athenians believed. At one spot he found even a monument "to an unknown god."

At this point, Paul makes a very surprising statement: "What therefore you worship as unknown, this I proclaim to you" (17:23). By this he means that the source of life and reality does not have to be unknown. God CAN be known. No one needs to remain in the dark as to what God is really like, for the message of the "good news" can make him known to us.

That is still Christianity's message to the wondering world. Even though God is always so much more than all we can say about him, still through the person of Jesus Christ it is his will to make known the unknown and reveal himself to us.

Parents, Take Heed!

National Safety Council figures released this week revealed some appalling facts in connection with young drivers of automobiles. The figures reveal that drivers in the 15-24 age range have a crash and death rate nearly double that of older drivers, despite the fact that they make up only 21% of the driving public. Young drivers under 24 have crashes at an annual rate of 1 per 100 drivers, while drivers aged 40-65 have 18 collisions per 100 drivers. Many suggestions have been made to slow this trend, some of them rather ridiculous, but others would seem to have merit; but it seems to us that parents would do well to think of the risk that is being run when they turn their young sons and daughters loose with high-powered automobiles and little training and supervision.

Don't Wait So Long

Recently, we have had some rather unhappy patrons, because they have waited too long to turn in their news items, and we were forced to omit or greatly shorten them. Please turn in all items as quickly as possible, and especially engagement and wedding announcements and other society items.

Weevils Worst Since '22 Crop

By F. H. Paschal

Boll weevils—the worst infestation since 1922—and boll worms are forcing farmers to spend many dollars to protect a good cotton crop and bring it to harvest time with highest yields possible.

The cotton harvested can be sold for good prices this fall, and it will count in determining the rate of government payments to farmers in 1972 and 1973.

Fred Gause found a heavy infestation of boll worms in his cotton this week. He applied by airplane a spray of one pound per acre of methyl Parathion to try to kill some of the larger worms. He plans to apply three sprays at 5-day intervals of Toxaphene, DDT, methyl Parathion mixture at the rate of one-half gallon per acre.

Sam Williams, Pat Parker, Jr., and several other early starters in applying sprays have only made four applications and are continuing spraying at 5-day intervals to protect young bolls and give them a chance to grow to the size of guinea eggs and become speckled and safe from boll-worms or weevils.

The infestation of cotton insects seems to be general all over the county, although it varies in intensity.

Earliest planted cotton, with the least infestation of insects, can make good yields without applying any sprays, but the vast majority of cotton will make higher yields if sprays are applied over the next ten days.

Tested Boar Sale

A total of 22 performance tested boars from the University of Tennessee Swine Testing Station will be held at the West Tenn. Experiment Station on Sept. 8 at 7 p.m.

There will be 15 Duroc boars, 2 Poland Chins, 3 Chester White, one Hampshire, and one Yorkshire.

Breeders from this county should use this opportunity to buy some really high quality breeding stock to improve their meat-type hogs.

These boars came off test at 250 pounds weight. They have gained at least 1.75 pounds per day and have made this gain on less than three pounds of feed per pound of gain. They are the type of boars to produce the kind of meat that consumers want to buy in grocery stores.

Forsythe Aboard Maker Of History

Airman Apprentice Woodrow J. Forsythe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Forsythe, of Route 3, Halls, participated in the first night operation which simultaneously employed dual methods to refuel and resupply an underway aircraft carrier.

With the hazards of two ships steaming together at close refueling quarters intensified by South China Sea darkness, Forsythe's ship, the nuclear powered attack aircraft carrier Enterprise, took fuel from the combat stores ship Sacramento by the familiar "highline" method.

At the same time, in another critical operation, the "Big E" was receiving vital supplies by helicopter transfer from the multi-mission Sacramento.

Dan Seratt

Dan Seratt, 75, of Dyersburg, father of Clyde Seratt, of Halls, died of a stroke at 2:30 a.m. last Friday in Parkview Hospital in Dyersburg, which he had entered Aug. 13th, after long illness.

Services were at 2 p.m. Sunday in Halls' First Baptist Church. Burial was in Green Hill Memorial Gardens, Halls Funeral Home in charge.

Born in Haywood County, he resided in Dyer County most of his life. He was a member of Hawthorne Baptist Church in Dyersburg.

He also leaves his wife, Mrs. Georgia Collins Seratt; two other sons, J. D. Seratt, of Dyersburg, and Raymond Seratt, of Chicago, Ill.; four daughters, Mrs. Damon Reed, Mrs. Mary Sue Brown, and Mrs. Faye Pruitt, all of Dyersburg, and Mrs. Hazel Berg of Muskegon, Mich.; his step-mother, Mrs. Sally Seratt, of Dyersburg; three brothers, Richard Seratt and Robert Seratt, both of Dyersburg, and Charles Seratt, of Chicago; and six sisters, Mrs. Eddie Walton and Mrs. Gladys Agne, both of Dyersburg, Mrs. Sally Ray and Mrs. Melissa Bradford, both of Memphis, and Mrs. Doris Stewart and Mrs. Birdie Bowers, both of Detroit, Mich.

VOLESWAGEN, owned by Bill Chism, of Ripley, was crushed early Saturday morning when a D9 caterpillar backed over the unoccupied vehicle, while it was parked on new Highway 51, under construction west of Ripley.

When you finish loading the automatic dishwasher, you've finished the dishes.

With the electric dishwasher, dishwashing is a very short story. Just stack in the rack, and that's that.

You don't even have to rinse or scrape what goes into the dishwasher. Just remove bones and other hard scraps, then place the dishes directly in the dishwasher. Your dishes will come out sparkling clean every time.

Do yourself (and your dishes) a favor by getting an electric dishwasher. See your dealer today!

It would seem a frog to jump, but that's how the state of Rick Walton and his wife, Mrs. Mary Ann Walton, of Madison, Tenn., were not the first to do it. They were the first to do it in the annual frog-jumping contest, and won because they had given him a message the night before.

Nate Johns of Sharon, Mass., a gardening buff, says that certain varieties between certain vegetables will repel harmful insects. He also claims to grow bumper cucumbers.

Dick Namer of East Boston and Arnie Cox of Revere were working feverishly on a sketch they were doing for a new play, but after a frustrating half hour, Dick exclaimed: "It's a great organization man - if I could only get organized!"

Fred Rogers, whose daily Channel 2 program "Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood" is a top favorite of the kiddies, was asked by restaurateur John Pokari how he'd describe old age. "That's the time in life," said Fred, "when you have something to look backward to."

When Frank Frater of Cincinnati arrived home and found his tape recorder and radio missing, he was greeted with a written sermonee from the numerous burglars and the punch-line: "Frank, don't you ever stay at home?"

Policeman John Chard spotted a truck-trailer weaving on U.S. 97 in Madras, Oregon and signaled it to pull over. Driver John Flores, 31, of Los Angeles stopped and got out. Seconds later, the truck exploded... escaping gas flames had made Flora drowsy and caused the blow-up.

A 15-foot shark attacked 16-year old Barry Watkins as he was surfing in New Zealand, but the boy managed to paddle to safety after the shark had bitten his leg and chewed his surfboard in half.

Two Philadelphia thieves attempted to steal a foreign car from a used car lot, but it failed to start. Undaunted, they pushed it down a hill to get the engine going but it hit some parked auto and the thieves fled. Police arrived and found the car had no engine.

Students in a graphical analysis and design class at Worcester Polytechnic Institute had a delicate assignment. They had to design a break-proof package and test it by putting a fresh egg inside and dropping it onto the pavement from a 4th floor window. Losers had 10 minutes to clean up the mess.

Liverpool thieves stole two of the town's full size bowling greens by stripping them of their immaculate turf.

A would-be car thief in Gastonia, N.C. was apprehended when a nimble-footed baller mistress pursued him down blocks while yelling for police. Sandra Williams' glissades and pas de deux were too much for the wheel-minded Brady Johnson Keziah Jr.

It couldn't happen, but it did! Six thousand gallons of whiskey - 189-proof bourbon - spilled when a tank truck overturned in Fort Branch, Indiana. But most of it never hit the ground. About 50 passersby grabbed anything available and collected it in books, hats, wastebaskets and vacuum jugs. One fireman filled his helmet!

Namescalling, upon being challenged for speeding, was 19-year old Robert L. Vitek Jr. a three-hour sentence in a pigpen. Judge Manuel M. Rucker of Chester Heights, Ohio, imposed the penalty to help him "distinguish, with no doubt, the difference between a pig and a police officer."

MISS MARY EMILY MOORE, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Olyn Fred Moore, Jr., of Dyersburg, formerly of Ripley, was married to Bryant Fleming Williams, Jr., whose parents live in Ozark, Ala., at 2 p.m. Sept. 4th in the home of the bride's parents in the presence of their immediate families. The Rev. Robert Bryant, pastor of First United Methodist Church in Dyersburg, performed the ceremony.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. William Curtis Reed, of Dyersburg, formerly of Ripley.

A 1967 graduate of Dyersburg High School, the new bride attended Gulf Park College in Gulfport, Miss., and graduated this spring from the University of Alabama in University, Ala. As DHS, she was a member of the court of "Miss DHS", secretary of her junior class, named "Best Dressed" in the senior superlatives, was literary editor of the annual, basketball manager, and was an officer in several clubs and organizations. She was a member of Alpha Delta Kappa, which she served as class representative and corresponding secretary.

At Gulf Park, she was secretary of her freshman class and was a finalist in Glamour magazine's "Best Dressed College Girl" contest. At Alabama, she was a member of Chi Omega sorority, which she served as vice-president of her pledge class. She was chosen as a fraternity little sister and was a member of "Spirit" and the Student National Education Association.

She represented Dyersburg as "Lady of the Realm" during the 1970 Memphis Cotton Carnival. She has traveled extensively in the United States, Canada, the Caribbean, and spent last summer touring England and Europe.

Mr. Williams is a 1963 graduate of Carroll High School in Ozark, Ala., where he was valedictorian of his class, vice-president of the student government, president of the national honor society and on the basketball team.

He attended Georgia Tech in Atlanta, and graduated from the University of Alabama last spring. He was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

He served two years with the Army in Frankfurt, Germany, and is enrolled at Cumberland Law School of Samford University in Birmingham, Ala.

Attending the wedding were Ray Williams, brother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Walker Dixon and children, of Halls, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Parker and daughter, Gay, of Wilson, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Thomson of Enterprise, Ala.; Mrs. Fred Moore, Sr., grandfather of the bride; Fred Moore, III, brother of the bride; and the parents of the couple.

Looking Around

Thieves with an eye for fashion in Nottingham, England stole more than 100 pairs of handbags from a boutique on Bentlock Road, with complete disregard for the sale display of mild and mild clothes.

Christine Taylor, 18, was the youngest girl in England when fiance Michael Walker, 25, bought an armored car to drive her through heavy traffic in complete protection. But police kept stopping the 4 1/2 ton car to see official papers and made them later for official papers and dancing.

The couple then decided to "travel lighter".

An automobile "driven" by a large dog crashed into a house in Marlboro, Mass. when the owner, Charles Maher, left the car running in the street with the dog inside. The canine culprit had hit the gear stick, sending the car into the house.

A Dallas Security guard got his danger signals mixed... Martin Siefert called police to report a burglary in a clothing store. When police arrived, he thought they were burglars returning to the scene of the crime. He aimed a pistol—the police thought he was the thief, fired and shot him.

Someone forgot to tell the mayor of Springfield, Mass. about the national rail strike. A delegation of 40 officials walked and waited at Union Station to present a gold key to Mayor Joseph Timiney of Worcester who was to be the first passenger on the new Amtrak line. Word finally arrived, and so did the train—three days later.

"Rolls Royce, anyone?" ran the intriguing ad in a Bourne-mouth, England newspaper. Harry Bryan-Brown, 73, offered to loan his Rolls free as a bridal car to anyone who would invite him to the wedding... Just so some of the happiness of the wedding would rub off on him.

A Los Angeles police helicopter landed at the city's airport to refuel and almost didn't get airborne again when the pilot found his credit card had expired. The Police Department verified the city would pay the bill, and Clifford Wong, a little red-faced, was able to resume patrol.

When Larry R. Doblinsky of Swampscott, Mass. was charged with speeding, he told Judge M. Edward Vioh he was so preoccupied with his lack of a job he must have leaned on the gas pedal to hard. The Judge asked the fine for the unemployed teacher because of his economic condition and reduced it from $55 to $10.

Mini-pigs have been developed by a Japanese livestock researcher who created the world's smallest breed in medical experiments. Each weighs about 77 pounds.

PEOPLE PROTECTORS

Did you ever think of ads as guardians of your individuality? They are, you know.

In a time when the edges are being eaten off our personalities and we're all being reduced to card-index numbers, we need to hang on to some things.

Like our freedom of choice. And that choice is yours only as long as competition and free enterprise and advertising are working for you. Guard them. For they stand between you and a dull and standardized life.

For some time we have wondered if a community fund drive might not be an excellent idea in Halls.
At the present time there are drives for the Heart Fund, the Cancer Fund, muscular dystrophy, Christmas baskets, Boy Scouts, etc. with local citizens expected to contribute to each of these drives.
We have no quarrel with the goals of any of these drives but simply wonder if they should not be combined into one well-planned fund drive which would raise the money for the causes.
In all probability, the results, at first, would be completely unsatisfactory with the money raised far below present needs, but a well-directed community-wide drive with realistic rather than idealistic goals would likely raise the sums needed.
We do not suggest that some one grab this idea and take off in all directions but that a specified group be named to study the matter. The long run the people would like it!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE
WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?
Lesson for September 26, 1971
Benedictine Brothers, 7377
Downside Road, Washington, D.C. 20004
As soon as an infant born into this world becomes part of an upward-bound soul, he begins to grow and mature and begins to take some responsibility for himself. He does most of what he does without reasoning why. We settle down into patterns of daily to spend, habitual practices and become too busy to spend much time in questioning what or why.
There are, however, a few things that do occur to us to step back, look at the lives we lead, and ask: "What's it all about?" Suddenly the things we have done all our lives seem incomprehensible. It is as if we have been sleep-walking and suddenly have been awakened. The world, once so familiar, no longer seems strange and incomprehensible. Where are we, we wonder? Where have we been and where are we going?
The meaning of life
Life and existence have always puzzled men. Does it really have a purpose? Does it make some kind of sense? Is this or is it life just a cruel illusion? What are we doing here and what are we expected to accomplish? Can we really get anywhere with all this struggle or is it futile at all?
Aren't those questions that all of us ask at some time? They are as old as man himself. Just as man has been eternally seeking to discover all he can about life and its purpose, so man has been eternally seeking to discover all he can about life and its purpose. So man has been paired and given up the struggle to live a meaningful life. Others have concluded that man should, as long as they can.
Then I perceived... have found their answers as they were turned to God. The Psalmist confessed: "But when I thought how to understand this, it seemed to me a mystery that until I went into the sanctuary of God; then I perceived their end" (Psalm 72:17). Like others, he was despaired of finding any meaning in life until he turned to God and at last received from him the answer he sought.
Apart from God we cannot find either meaning or purpose for life. If there is no God, then life is futile and without any meaning. Because we believe that we know what it's all about, we can face life with confident faith.

Might Move Here
For some time we have wondered if a community fund drive might not be an excellent idea in Halls.
At the present time there are drives for the Heart Fund, the Cancer Fund, muscular dystrophy, Christmas baskets, Boy Scouts, etc. with local citizens expected to contribute to each of these drives.
We have no quarrel with the goals of any of these drives but simply wonder if they should not be combined into one well-planned fund drive which would raise the money for the causes.
In all probability, the results, at first, would be completely unsatisfactory with the money raised far below present needs, but a well-directed community-wide drive with realistic rather than idealistic goals would likely raise the sums needed.
We do not suggest that some one grab this idea and take off in all directions but that a specified group be named to study the matter. The long run the people would like it!

WARSAW, Poland, has just bought a new bear. The city government explained that it is a custom, practice to send its municipal bears all over Europe to pick up bodies of people who "want to be buried in Poland" and the city complies with their last wish.

Prisoners at the state penitentiary in Nashville, Tenn., worked for several days on a balloon with which some of them apparently hoped to fly out of the prison. Suddenly they gave up the whole thing as impractical and left the yard for authorities to find and ponder over.

Some of the people on Jersey Island in the English Channel say that Jersey actually owns the British Isles because William the Conqueror came from Normandy in 1066 and Jersey was a part of Normandy. But they have decided not to press the issue, and are now satisfied with their claim to fame as the home of the Jersey cow.

In Vietnam natives refused to move for the U.S. Quartermaster's Corps, a U.S. Corporal put the blame on so hard that his false teeth popped out. The startled natives went instantly to work and have since never returned an order from the man who can show his teeth in such terrifying fashion.

A recent poll of 167 young readers by a New York Bureau of Advertising showed that 73% of Americans, aged 14 to 25, read at least one newspaper a day, and 65% read it in entirety, spending an average 36 minutes daily. One out of five youths when reading a newspaper when seven years old or less.

The "Diaper Corps" at Union College, Schenectady, N.Y. is actually a four-man admissions staff, so-called because it's so young. Director Jay Shupe is 24 and his assistants are 25, 22 and 21, for a cumulative total of 92. Shupe says it helps to be young in screening potential applicants.

Bill Wade Speaker For Ripley Rotary
Athletics and life were compared Tuesday for Ripley Rotarians by Bill Wade, quarterback of the champion 1963 Chicago Bears. Wade, now associated with the Third National Bank in Nashville, said the competitive spirit essential to success in any game is also essential to success in life—the willingness to do the extra preparation to earn success. Teamwork, too, in which every man is important, is necessary in life as in football, he said.

CARD OF THANKS
 I can't find words to express the feelings that I have for the wonderful way that the churches and friends of this town and community have treated me while in the hospital and since I have been home with their prayers, cards, letters, visits and the love offering of money, which has been such a help to me. May God shower his blessings on each and everyone of you, and I wish I could thank each of you personally.
 With all my love and respect.
 Adv. John D. Scott
