Farmers Swing Back To Cotton

By Charles T. Peal

Estel Hudson, Extension agricultural economist analyzed fixed and variable costs of cotton production for producers here Thursday last week and concluded that at present prices, cotton is the best alternative crop to soy beans.

In comparison to all other crops that can be grown in this county, he thinks cotton is still the leading cash crop.

County producers indicate planting intentions will increase upwards of 18% to 20%. Some farmers are going considerably higher.

If current cotton prices hold and general economic trends remain favorable, more cotton definitely will be planted.

The last two or three weeks, many producers have been booking their cotton for 55¢ a pound, based on acres.

This method is much more practical for the farmer, inasmuch as he does not obligate himself to a specified number of bales, in which case he would have to deliver the cotton if it were not produced.

Then, too, assurance of a stable price can allow him to plant more in order to lower his over-all cost of production.

Costs in most cases are more favorable for the farmer in 1976 than in 1975.

The cost of fertilizer is down considerably. Ammonium nitrate is now selling for around $140 a ton, as compared to $188 last year. Chemicals used in weed control, though not down too much, are really in a buyer's market.

Many new companies have jumped on the band wagon to take advantage of this market. They are advertising vigorously to entice producers into buying their product.

Questions being asked show that producers are not necessarily trying to cut costs in every case but to work out the best system to help them make a high yield of cotton on their farms.

Insect control will be one of the keys to reasonable yields. Eugene Pugh, of Halls, reports about 1 1/4 bales per acre where he sprayed on schedule and planted early. He sprayed eleven times, as did Carey Gaines at Henning with about the same yield results.

Cultural practices, such as early planting with proper fungicide application to allow the young seedlings a fast start, are of real importance. One of the problems has been getting a bottom crop of bolls. Many think that early insect control may be necessary, even though some research has not proven it.

Soil capability is a primary consideration. In the hill land, most cotton is produced on hillsides with Memphis and Grenada type soil, usually with no bedding preparation. In river bottoms, beds prepared in the fall allow earlier planting because the height absorbs the warmth, causing the seed to germinate quickly.

Curing Country Hams
Jack Rochelle, of Ripley, and many others in this area like the taste of well-cured country hams.

He is purchasing some green hams from the packing house and plans to cure them by the sugar cure method used in this area for many years.

The curing mix consists of eight pounds of meat salt, two pounds of sugar, white or brown, and two ounces of saltpetre for each 100 pounds of hams or shoulders or 180 to 200 pounds of white meat.

Grind the saltpetre very fine, mix with sugar, then add sugar to salt in small quantities, mixing well by cutting and folding.

A wooden box of some type will be all that is necessary for curing.

Bulletins on preserving pork at home can be obtained free at the County Extension Office.

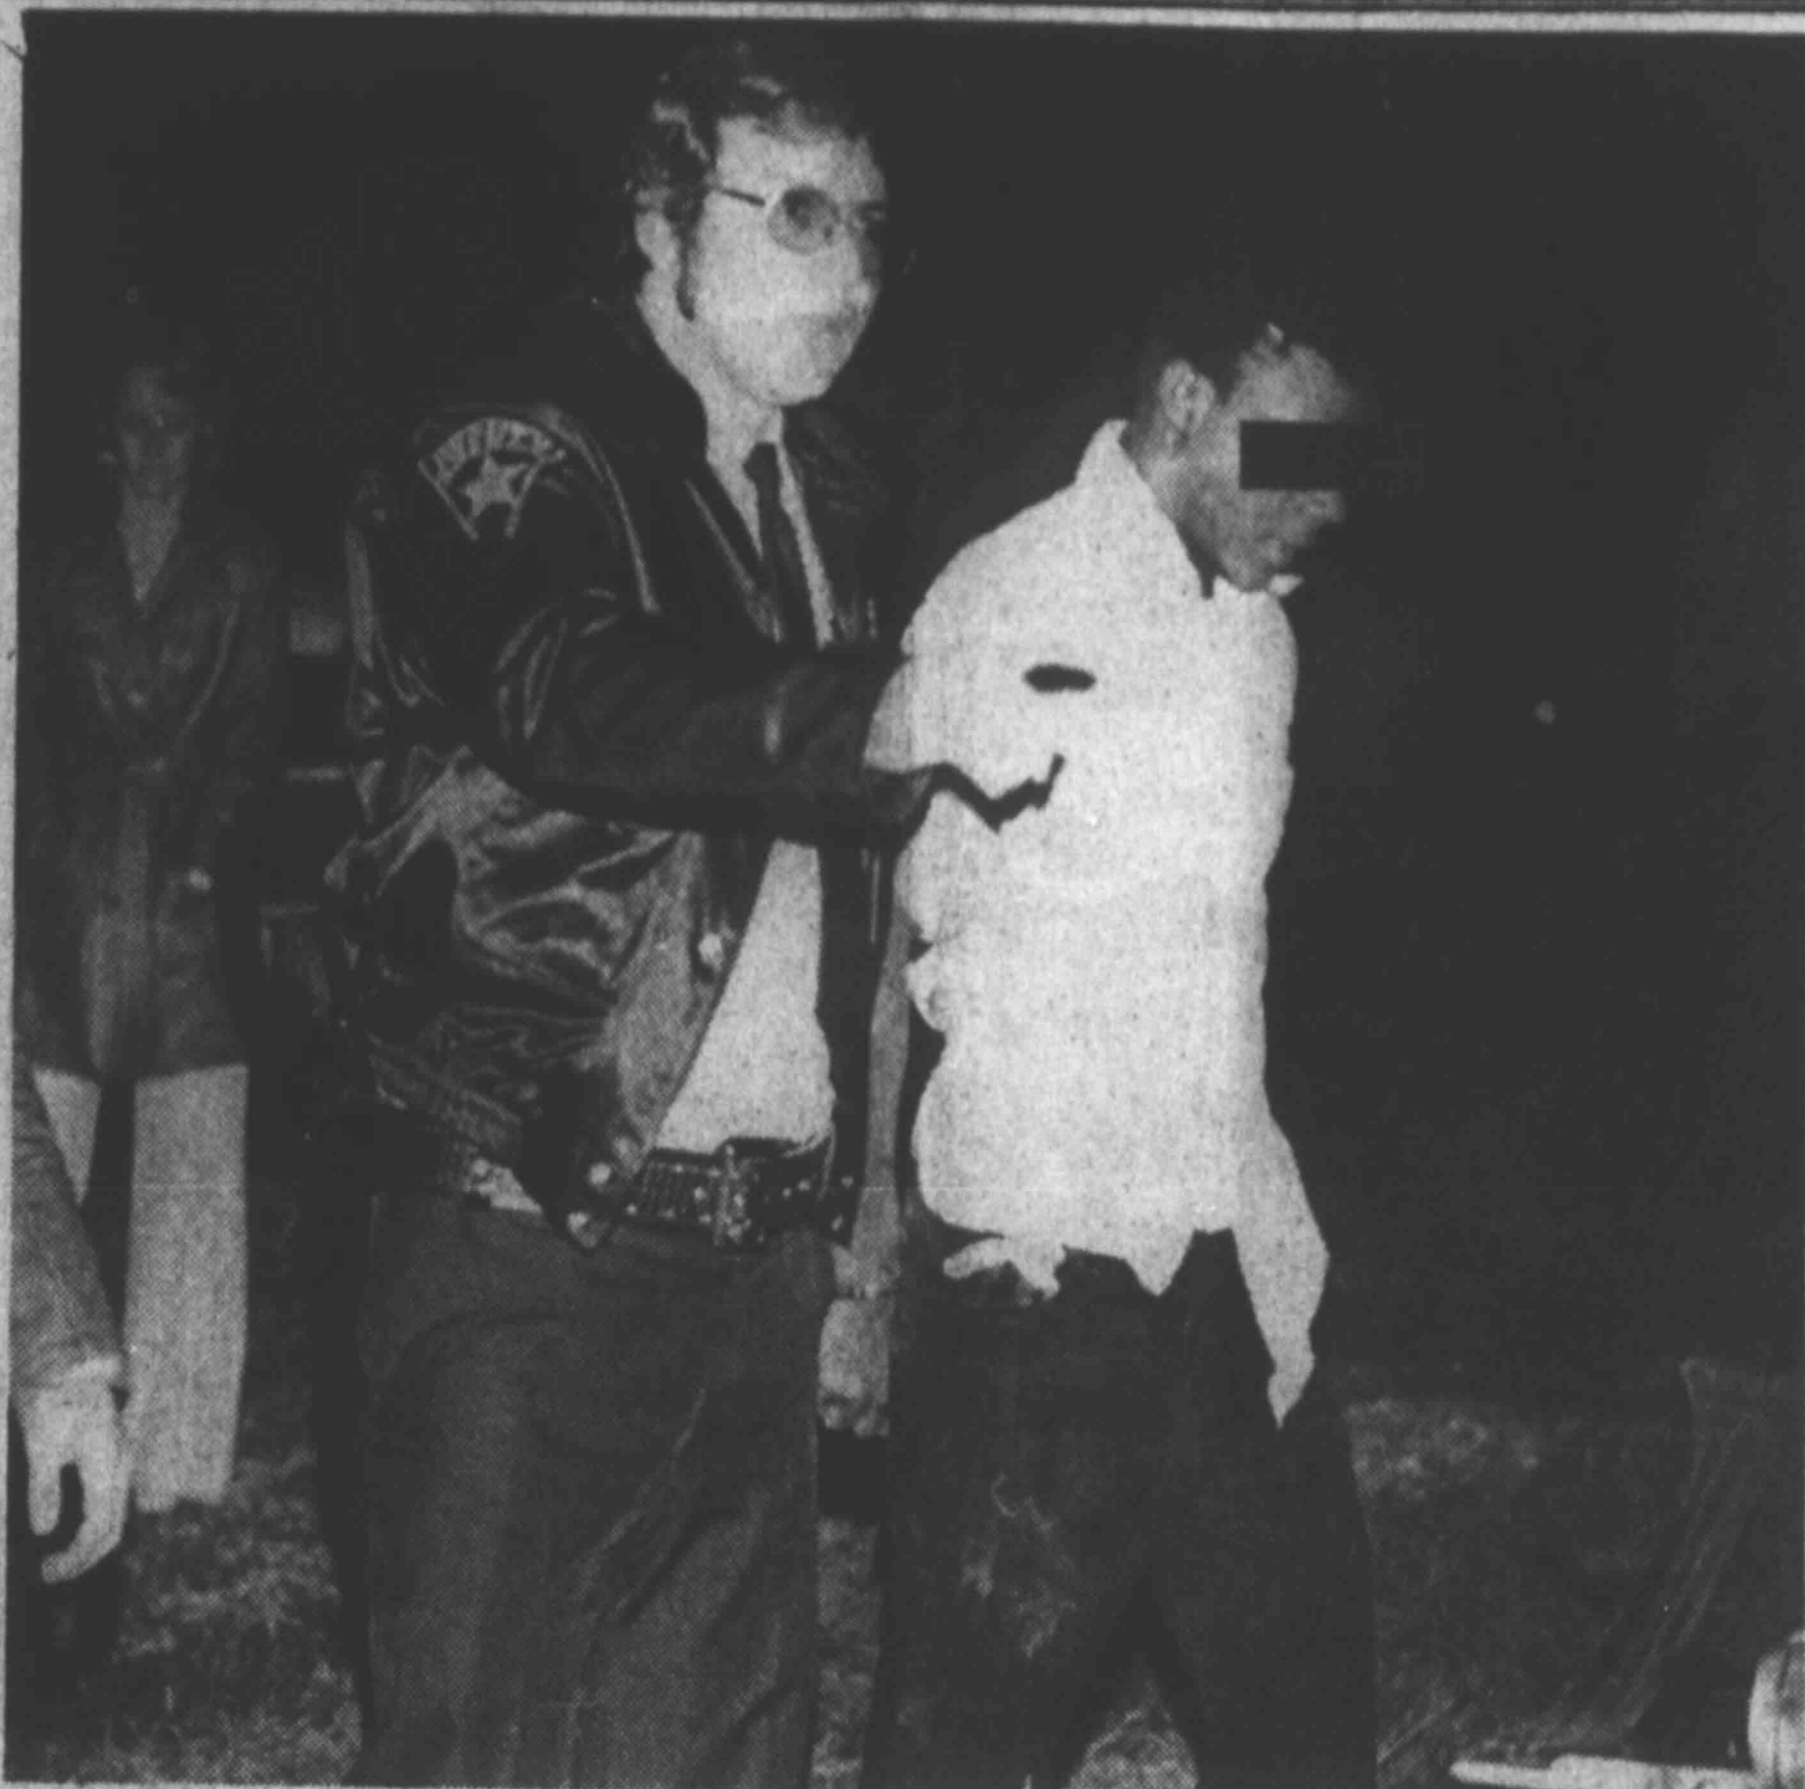

Shrinking Agriculture?
Although widely publicized reports show that farm numbers are declining, they miss the true picture, over-all.

Agriculture is still the nation's largest employer, with some 14 to 17 million people involved in some phase of the food production and delivery system. Farming itself engages some 4.4 million.

On the consumption side, agriculture is a huge consumer, with $8.8 billion spent for farm tractors and other motor vehicles, machinery, and equipment.

Farmers spend $10.1 billion for fuel, lubricants, and maintenance, and use more petroleum products than any other industry.

They use 360 million pounds of rubber, enough to equip 7 million autos, and 33 billion KWH of electricity—more than the combined total of New England states, plus Kentucky, Maryland and Washington, D. C.; 6.5 million tons of steel for machinery, trucks, cars, fencing and building materials (farm uses of steel account for 40,000 jobs in the steel industry); and more than $17 billion for seed, feed, fertilizer and lime.

SEIZED IN CHASE after armed robbery of Suburban Gulf Station near Ripley, 17-year-old suspect is led away in hand-cuffs by Deputy Sheriff Junior Walker.

Nobody Stood By At THIS Robbery

A lot of public participation brought about an arrest soon after two young black men took about $133 in an armed robbery of Suburban Gulf Service Station on new Highway 51 north of Ripley about 7:30 p.m. Thursday last week.

The robbers forced the station attendant, Bobby Mooney, into a rest room and locked the door. They overlooked the fact that the rest room had another door to the outside of the building, which was unlocked.

Mooney ran to the Pack and Sack grocery next door, where two Ripley High School students, Mark Lucas and Kenny Smith, heard him say he'd been robbed. They jumped into a car and sped off after a truck which had headed south at a high rate of speed.

As word of the robbery reached Town Creek Restaurant nearby, a diner leaped up from his meal, rushed outside, and fired a shot.

Sheriff Louis Craig was unable to identify the man or to say what, if anything, he hit. One report was that he fired into the air.

While the students pursued the speeding truck, which turned south onto Central-Edith Road and then east on Webb St., at Carlton Chevrolet, they made contact via citizen's band radio with Marie Newman, driving near the downtown square, who halted her car and flagged police.

The youths followed the truck north on old Highway 51 to Cagle's Body Shop, just north of Cane Creek bridge, and hounds were brought from Fort Pillow State Prison Farm to start searching in the muddy fields behind the building.

Taken into custody was a 17-year-old Henning youth, who had $83.80 on his person. His name is withheld under state laws protecting juvenile defendants.

Indicted by the grand jury Monday and being sought as the other robber is Charlie Conley, of 8535 Wisconsin, Detroit, Mich., who is 23.

Presbyterians Selling Manse

First Presbyterian Church in Ripley has voted to sell the manse adjoining the church site at Jefferson and Church.

Deacons C. R. Hargett, Robert L. Glenn, and Joe Kimmons were empowered to dispose of the property.

The church purchased a new manse on Lackey Lane in 1973. Hargett said deacons had explored a number of uses for the old residence but had concluded that renting it for educational use was not feasible.

Six Indictments Name Lawson, Jailed Again

The county grand jury Monday returned six indictments against Ernest Ray Lawson, 18, who bolted from the county jail Jan. 14th, but was recaptured the next day in Clarendon, Ark.

Lawson was indicted for escape and for an attempt to injure property by the use of a fire bomb. He was arrested Jan. 13th as the person allegedly responsible for throwing two quart bottles—one filled with gasoline and another partly filled with gasoline, with a burned out wick—through a plate glass window of the House of Music on the west side of the Ripley square, of which he had been a customer. No blaze was started in the store.

Lawson, of 1518 Peppercorn, Memphis, former Riparian, was also indicted Monday for third degree burglary, carrying weapons, and two counts of larceny.

Twelve other indictments were handed down: George Smith and James Wiggins—possessing marihuana with intent to sell.

Solon Little—possessing controlled substances with intent to sell.

Charlie Conley—larceny, armed robbery.

Henry Day—safe cracking.

Nathan Solis—armed robbery.

Mary S. Reynolds—opening coin operated machine with intent to commit larceny.

Dennis Davis—burglary of a truck.

Adrian F. Vowell—receiving and concealing stolen property.

Ralph Adkins—forgery and passing forged paper.

Edward L. Vivian and Pamela Vivian—child abuse.

Students Helping Heart Campaign
A Womanless Beauty Revue of 40 Ripley High School students raised more than $110 Tuesday, the first day of a 3-day contest, toward the county's $15,000 Heart Fund goal.

Alpha Delta Kappa sorority will sponsor gospel singing at RHS at 8 p.m. Friday to benefit the campaign.

A Valentine sale and free blood pressure checks will take place in all five county banks from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday.

Pat Buchignani, Maremont plant nurse, is co-ordinating the pressure checking program, for which nurses in the county have volunteered their time.

Rick Gilliland, county chairman, reports that Lauderdale County Hospital will receive a training program for nurses in heart patient care, paid for by the West Tennessee Heart Association, Feb. 13th.

Hail Retiring Health Nurse

Half a hundred friends from across the state, made in a 31-year career in public health work, honored Mrs. J. L. Morris, of Ripley, Monday of last week in a surprise "retirement party" in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scates in Henning.

Music was provided by Miss Caroline Hanson as the guests enjoyed party foods and champagne punch served buffet.

Mrs. Morris was presented a miniature greenhouse filled with currency to be applied to one of her retirement projects, construction of a greenhouse.

Conley Takes Poster Prize

Donell Conley, of Ripley High School, placed first in a poster contest sponsored by Fort Prudhomme Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution in celebration of the Bicentennial.

Diane Crowder was runner-up in the judging of posters submitted on the theme, "Making Local History Live."

Conley's poster, "Devil Forest," depicted scenes from the Fort Pillow combat.

Miss Crowder's poster concerned the Great River Road.

During February, all posters entered in the contest will be on display for one week each in Farmers Union Bank, Bank of Ripley, the court house, and Ripley High School, in that order.

Viar Races Five At Oaklawn Pk.

Charles O. Viar, of Halls, will have a string of five horses trained by Bob Holthus and ridden by Larry Snyder at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, Ark., during this year's racing season. First races are set for this Friday.

Topping the string will be 4-year-old Dixmart, who went to the post 28 times in 1975 and had six wins, ten second place finishes, and five third place finishes for a total of 21 times in the money.

Other horses are 3-year-olds—Amazing Road, Queen Boy, and Leynilla—and the 4-year-old Woo And Spurn.

Mr. and Mrs. Viar left for Hot Springs Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Harrell Austin will join them later in the week.

Library Grant Before Court

County Court will be asked Monday to accept a $4,500 grant from the state Bicentennial committee for restoration of the ante-bellum frame building in Ripley housing the county's Sugar Hill Library.

Work is not planned until other funds are found to add a modern wing to the building, after which the original structure will be used for museum purposes and to house a children's room.

Other items on the court agenda are election of Board of Health members; election of a finance committee member; election of Extension committee members; election of two county industrial Board members; election of magistrates to attend the legislature in Nashville; and appointment of a Bicentennial committee.

Griffith Joins Halls Faculty

Ray Griffith, of Palmersville, has joined the faculty of Halls High School, replacing Paul Palmer, who resigned to accept a teaching position in Florida. Griffith will teach vocational agriculture.

He is a 1975 graduate of The University of Tennessee at Martin with a bachelor of science degree in vocational agriculture. He is married and lives in Halls.

GAME RE-SCHEDULED

Ripley High School's basketball game with Dyersburg High School, set this Thursday, was re-scheduled for this Friday, in the RHS gym.

Lee Forsberg, county Bicentennial chairman, and County Judge Jerry Corlew as it was parked in downtown Ripley for exhibition Saturday. The truck, owned by C-Line, Inc., and believed the only truck in regular freight service especially decorated for the Bicentennial year, was greeted in Nashville Monday by Gov. Ray Blanton.

Hits Your Pocketbook

The Congress last week okayed and President Gerald Ford has agreed to sign a bill that will hit the pocketbook of Tennesseans.

The Congress passed and sent to the White House a compromise $6.4 billion national railroad aid bill that contains a provision which would give railroads a net other interstate carriers a $15 to $30 million cut in property tax in Tennessee.

The bill contains a provision that would nullify a tax assessment rate that placed a 55% of value assessment on public utilities while other commercial and industrial property is taxed at 40%.

The bill, if signed by Mr. Ford which seems likely, will reduce tax revenues of Lauderdale County with citizens of incorporated towns hit a double lick since both the county and the cities will lose tax revenue. In addition the taxpayers of the nation will be expected to pick up the tab for the ailing railroads.

Davis Questionnaire

If you didn't take time to read the results of the recent questionnaire sent out by State Senator Bill Jim Davis then you should go back and read it.

Results of the questionnaire were published in last week's issue of The Halls Graphic and The Lauderdale County Enterprise.

Sen. Davis says that more than 90% of the persons answering the questionnaire were opposed to a state income tax with a more than two to one feeling that tax increases of any kind are not needed.

It seems to us that the citizens of Tennessee have about reached the point where they are going to expect more for their money if they are to approve any tax increases.

Governor Ray Blanton and the state legislature had better look long and hard at possible cuts in expenditures before going to the people for a tax increase whether it be for teachers and state employe pay increase, more school buildings, prison reform, or what have you.

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

During the past two weeks, the energies of Congress have once again turned toward a close examination of President Ford's budget proposal. This year's budget, as in past years, was presented to both chambers of the Congress in the form of three very large volumes, each of which serves a separate purpose.

As many of you may already know, Mr. Ford's budget calls for total federal expenditures during fiscal year 1977 of $394.2 billion with a deficit of $43 billion. This proposal shows an increase of federal expenditures of 5.5 percent over the budget of fiscal year 1976. That is about one half the growth that has been experienced annually for the past ten years.

The philosophy behind Mr. Ford's proposal is a simple one; that is, to try to achieve a balance between all the things that this nation would like to do and those things that the nation can realistically afford to do.

In presenting his budget for the 12 months beginning Oct. 1, 1976, and ending September 30, 1977, Mr. Ford has suggested the replacement of 59 federal grant programs with broad block grant programs in the areas of health, education, child nutrition, and community social services for the needy.

This is a marked change in policy from past years.

The objective of this proposed change is two fold. First, it should save tax dollars among the states; and secondly, it should allow states and local governments more flexibility in establishing their own priorities and in determining how federal money is spent.

Additionally, under this proposal, the requirement that states match federal grant funds with local tax dollars is removed.

The goals that the President has laid before the Congress are most challenging ones. However, his methods of achieving these goals must be given a great deal of study and consideration. For example, his budget will completely eliminate several programs that were enacted to provide specific assistance for rural areas such as our own Seventh District program.

Included in those programs are water and waste water disposal grants, rural development grants, rural community fire protection grants, rural waste planning grants, various rural housing grants, and several others. These grant programs have all been administered under the Department of Agriculture, but let me emphasize that they should not be taken to mean farm programs. Each of them was approved by Congress for the expressed purpose of helping rural cities, such as those dominant in West Tennessee, achieve standards of living comparable to those enjoyed by our urban cousins.

STUDENTS OF THE WEEK of the Distributive Education Class of Halls High School are Bonnie Hammock, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Hammock, and Reid Hilliard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Hilliard. Miss Hammock is majoring in marketing and mathematics and is employed by Riley Refrigeration Service. Reid is majoring in marketing and agriculture and is employed by Bill Hughes.

In the past, limited funds have been available to help rural cities in the construction of waste water treatment plants in order to comply with Environmental Protection Agency standards for sewer systems.

Under this budget, those funds will not be available. The same is true for rural housing assistance and assistance designed to help stimulate development of private business in rural areas.

These are the types of programs that can be of greater benefit to cities and towns of the Seventh District and other districts like it across the country.

As much as the President has tried to present a realistic budget, the needs of our smaller cities and towns cannot be overlooked.

*Anybody who thinks there's no such thing as a good loser, there is a better way, Brook stated.

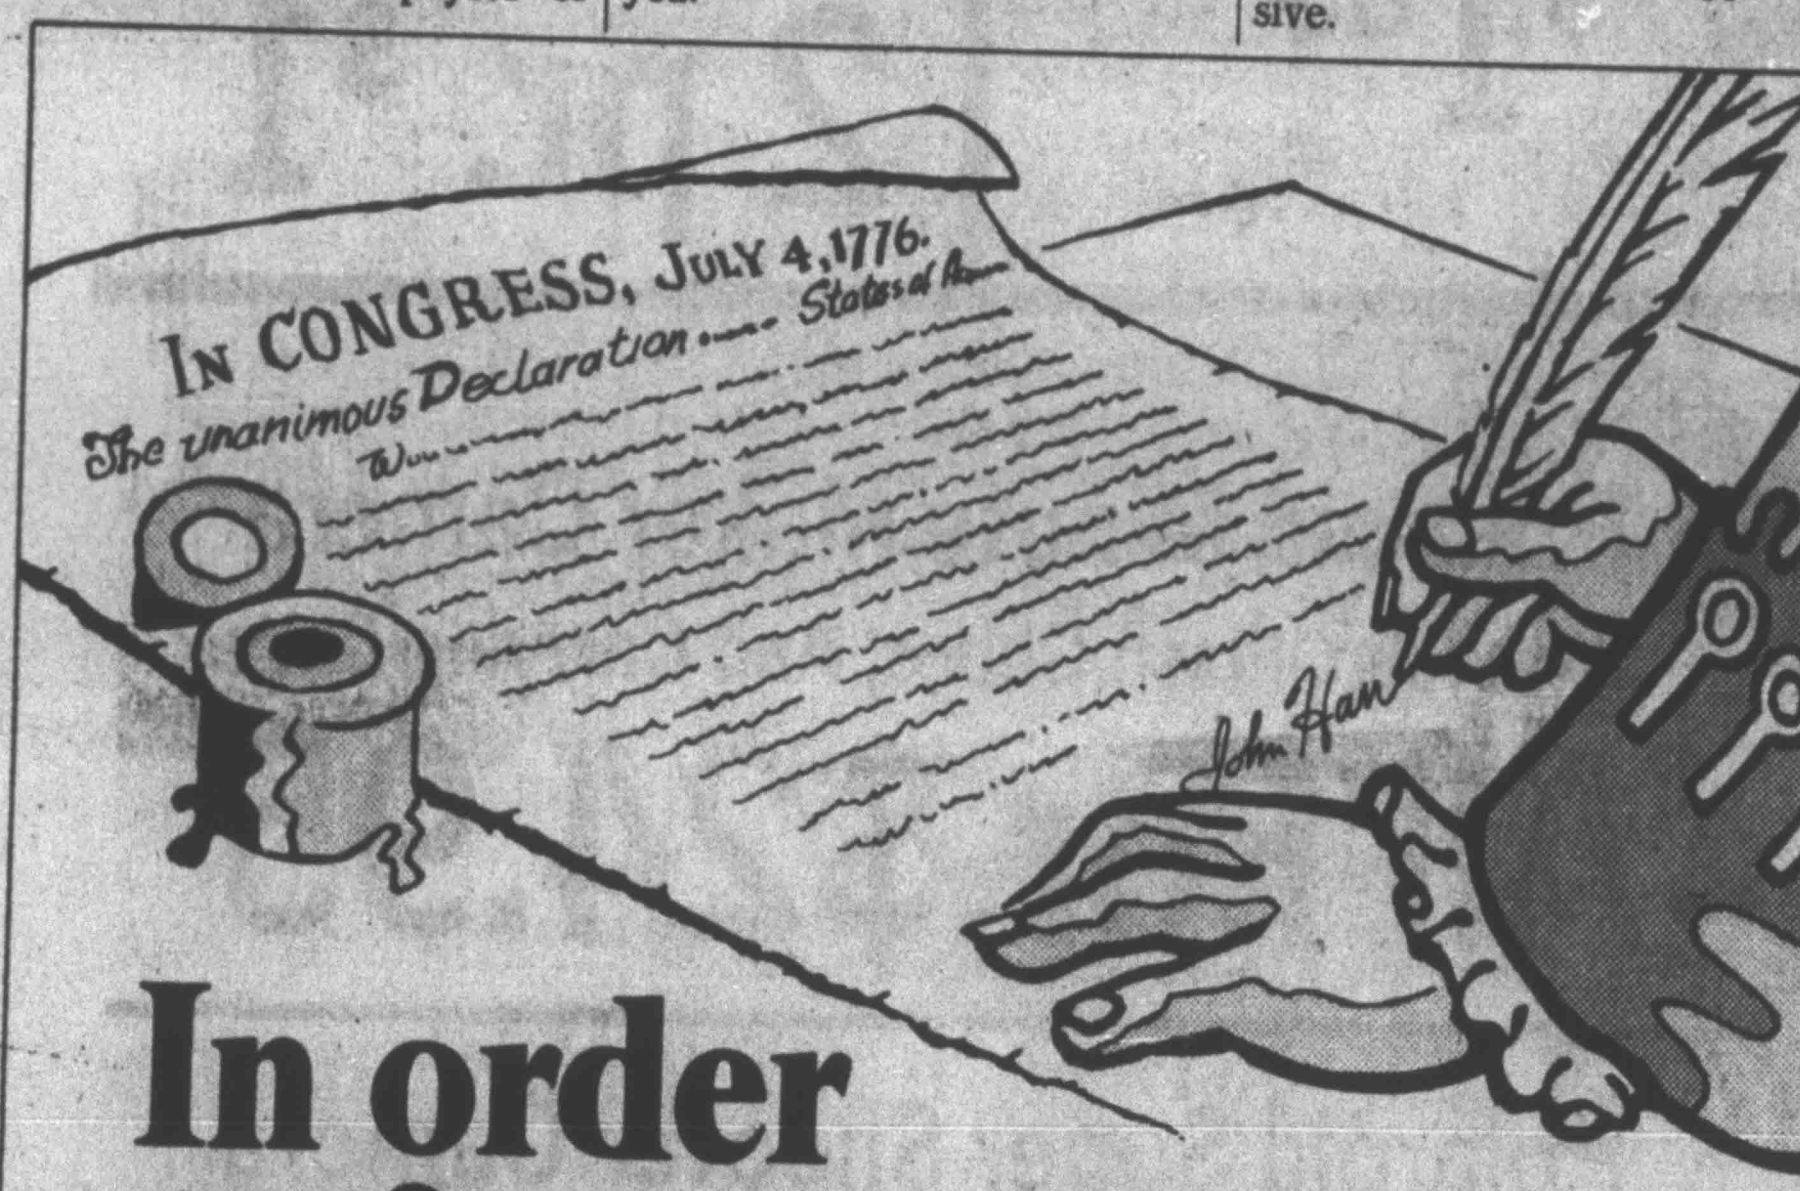

TVA Rate Study Urged By Brock

"Inflation, fuel shortages and general economic conditions have continued to place a growing burden on the user of Tennessee Valley Authority power through increasing rates. With this in mind, I have today introduced legislation to set up a pilot project rate program for the TVA to attempt to determine if the agency's rate structures can be changed to help the average Tennessean," Tennessee Senator Bill Brock stated.

"Innovative rate structures offer the potential for encouraging conservation, increasing the economic efficiency of utilities and even providing relief to low income individuals," Brock stressed. "The TVA and TVA consumers have suffered the consequences of fuel shortages and increasing rates. There is no more logical agency to attempt this pilot program than the TVA. The power agency can easily serve as a model and yardstick for other power companies and utilities."

Brock's measure would allow for a three year test period to determine 1) the efficiency and energy conservation resulting from peak load pricing; 2) the efficiency and practicability of a lifeline rate as a means of providing a low cost block of power to low income families; and 3) the benefits in terms of lower rates or conservation from other types of rates that TVA might wish to test out.

"Rate increases are a continuing problem. I was deeply disturbed last year when residents of the Valley needed a call for conservation of energy, and after they did, TVA's revenues went down, so the agency had to raise their rates. Surely there is a better way, Brock stated.

In order to form a more perfect union...

100 YEARS OLD—Mrs. Ella Pawley, mother of Morris H. Clement, of Ripley, celebrated her 100th birthday Tuesday in Lauderdale County Nursing Home with a red-white-and-blue cake, flowers, and a birthday card from President Gerald Ford. The daughter of Lewis and Jane Smith, she was born in Leighton, Ala., Feb. 9, 1876, and resided in Sheffield, Ala., most of her married life. She made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Clement from 1946 until she entered the nursing home in February, 1973. She attributes her long life to the fact that she "never ate too much."

Raise Rural Water Rates To Expand?

County Court will consider in March a proposal for a $475,000 addition to the $1,800,000 county rural water system which would serve 200 to 245 new customers in fringe areas—but probably raise rates for customers in more populous areas already served.

Mel Tidwell, engineer, told Monday's court session the expansion would require at least an additional elevated storage capacity of 100,000 gallons, which would cost about $86,000, and about 65 miles of pipe.

Tidwell said the present system is meeting expenses, serving 1,584 customers, but would probably need more revenues to carry an expansion.

Monday's court approved the construction of four bridges, plus another whose cost would be shared by Dyer County, on the Twin Rivers Road near Halls, at an estimated cost of $125,000, provided revenue sharing funds are available.

Magistrates Talmage Cribbins, Gus Hargett, Edgar Queen, and Clifford Swartz, with William Tucker IV and Robert Flagg as alternates, were elected to attend legislature sessions in Nashville affecting this county, at county expense.

Dr. Larry Farris and Dr. William H. Tucker were elected to succeed Dr. Landrum S. Tucker and Dr. C. R. Webb on the county Board of Health.

Magistrates Lawson Chipman, P. B. Bridges, Larry Douglas, and Robert Flagg were named as the year's Bicentennial Committee.

The court accepted a $4,500 grant from the state Bicentennial Commission for renovation of Sugar Hill Library.

Anthony Fisher was elected to succeed Roy Carrington, resigned, from the county finance committee.

Jeff Davis's Dodge bid of $4,798.41 for a sheriff's patrol car was approved for purchase from revenue sharing funds.

The court will consider next month a successor for Charles Ennis, resigning from the Board of Education.

Notaries public elected were Mae Kiestler, Gail Shelton, and Gladys E. Thomas.

Hear Halls Native On 'Rural Revolt'

H. L. Mitchell, Halls-born co-founder of the Southern Tenant Farmers Union, will visit the University of Tennessee in Martin Feb. 13th to speak on "The Rural Revolt In The South."

He will lecture at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. in Rooms 206-209 of the University Center.

The visit is being sponsored by the departments of history, political science, and English.

Mitchell and 17 other men founded the first independent organization of share-croppers and tenant farmers in 1934. The Tenant Farmers Union had 31,000 members by 1938.

In the late 1930s and '40s, Mitchell's appearance on the Martin campus supplements a Black History Week series of lectures.

BETH DUNAWAY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dunaway, of Route 2, Halls, has been named Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow in Halls High School. Miss Dunaway will compete for state and national honors later this year in the contest sponsored annually by General Mills. State winner will receive a $1,500 college scholarship and trip to Washington, D. C.

James W. Henson Slain In Virginia

James Wayne Henson, 36, son of Mrs. Dora Henson, of Halls, died last Friday in a shooting incident being investigated by police in Virginia Beach, Va.

His brother, Albert, of Houston, Tex., said the victim a former Memphis, had been working as a carpenter in Virginia Beach for about two years.

He also leaves four sisters, Mrs. Dorothy Baldwin, of Halls, Mrs. Mary Waters, of Virginia Beach, Mrs. Lois Kropka, of Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. Francis Green, of Yuma, Ariz.

Mitchell was consultant to the National Youth Administration, an organizer for the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, and president of the National Farmers Labor Union.

In the 1950s, he held positions on federal advisory groups dealing with farm labor.

In the 1960s, he worked in the South for the National Agricultural Workers Union and organized agricultural workers and fishermen in Louisiana.

Mitchell's appearance on the Martin campus supplements a Black History Week series of lectures.

Still Seeking Ways

It seems that certain state officials and members of the state legislature are determined to find some means of imposing a state income tax on Tennesseans.

In the latest move, Rep. John Bragg, of Murfreesboro, urged that a referendum be held along with the November general elections to determine whether or not Tennessee would have a state income tax.

Wonder if Mr. Bragg, a member of a formerly prominent newspaper family, it not reading his mail or understanding what his constituency is saying.

No where in the state nor in any income group has there been found a majority that favors a state income tax.

Even though low income families are promised that their taxes will be lower with a state income tax they have expressed themselves as opposed to such a tax.

Some effort has been made to enlist support for an income tax by saying that those earning $4,000 or less annually will pay less tax.

Let's look at that a little closer. Under the proposals the state sales tax would be reduced 1/2%, which means that if all of the $4,000 was spent on taxable merchandise, or services the family would save $20 per year.

With no state income tax on their earnings they would save $20 but they would have no assurance of future protection against an income tax or additional sales tax.

Actually, as we have insisted before, Gov. Blanton and other state officials are putting the cart before the horse. They should and must determine just how much spending they can do and then, and only then, most Tennesseans will go along with tax increases.

This week a bill approving right turns on red at traffic lights unless otherwise forbidden was approved and sent to Gov. Blanton who has yet to sign it. Perhaps such a law will save a little time and gas, but we wonder if still-impatient drivers won't cause additional wrecks.

Unexpected Re-Union Mr. and Mrs. Ted Flynn, formerly of Halls and more recently of Castro Valley, Calif., have moved to Baton Rouge, La. where their son, Dr. Thomas Flynn is a neuro-surgeon.

The Flynn's have recently purchased a home and are in the process of painting and renovating the house.

While overseeing work one day Mrs. Flynn (Helen) was in the yard when a pretty white haired lady approached the fence and said she wished to welcome the Flynn's into the neighborhood and introducing herself as Lillie May Tate.

After a few words of conversation Helen suddenly stopped and asked, "Did you once teach fourth grade in Halls, Tennessee?" "Why yes I did," was the answer from the surprised Mrs. Tate.

Even Off Duty, County Agent Deals With Plants

By Mrs. Edric Owen III

What does a professional agriculturist do in his spare time, as a hobby? You're right—he takes up greenhouse gardening.

The County Extension Agent Charles Peal built a 13x16-foot even span greenhouse in his back yard and has spent many happy hours there.

A 3-foot high concrete block foundation was laid by Van Colvin. But the glass walls and ceiling were built almost entirely by Charles, with some advice and assistance from his wife, Martha.

Stepping into the fragrance and sight of this mass of winter bloom is reminiscent of a flower market. Because of the mini-climates which develop, even in this small space, all sorts of plants are thriving, from the best-loved pelergonium to the cooler-requiring schizanthus (butterfly flower, or poor man's orchid).

Shelves along the sides hold pots of begonias, gold and green variegated synonymus, velvet plant, cineraria, ferns, columbine, and snap-dragons. Tulips and Dutch iris are being forced in bloom. Baskets filled with vining plants hang from pipes suspended from the ceiling.

Pots of larger plants, including camellias and bougainvillea, fill the corners.

Charles says such diversity is because most of his plants were either grown from cuttings, donated by his friends, or from seed.

It's hard to believe this greenhouse is only in its second season.

A raised bed in the center and running the length of the greenhouse is filled with Michigan Ohio forcing tomatoes, a variety bred especially for indoors.

Started from seed last fall, they reach half-way to the ceiling now and are loaded with fruit and blossoms.

Since they were planted in rich woods dirt, Charles has not needed to fertilize.

Started from seed last fall, they reach half-way to the ceiling now and are loaded with fruit and blossoms.

Since they were planted in rich woods dirt, Charles has not needed to fertilize.

The only problem has been leaf blight, probably caused by excess humidity.

During recent cloudy days, the tomatoes simply have not needed quite so much water.

The blight has been treated with Manzate, one of the trade names for maneb. On-going control is maintained by withholding water.

There are several methods of artificial pollination for indoor grown tomatoes, but Charles has found the best is to simply jiggle the blossoms.

No matter how many books one has read nor how much study one has done, Charles says, "there is no substitute for experience. I have learned by trying."

By keeping the thermostat set on 55°, he has not found it necessary to use a heating cable installed in his tomato bed.

Ventilation is usually a matter of simply opening the door, but glass ceiling panels can be opened electronically.

Some shade and protection are provided by a fence-row of trees on the west side, but lights are freely available from all other directions.

Pointing soil here is a combination of a commercial mix and woods dirt. Charles feels that the moisture retention ability of woods dirt outweighs the possibility of disease. He does put this dirt through a sieve, to remove all clods and twigs, before using it.

Considering the hours of enjoyment and the flowers and fruit to be shared, what better hobby could a man have?

CHARLES PEAL, Lauderdale County Extension agent, sees lots of growing things in his work—and in his greenhouse.

ED JONES

7th DISTRICT OF TENNESSEE

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

Last week, President Ford signed into law a bill that will have a direct impact on the Seventh Congressional District as well as the remainder of the State of Tennessee and the entire State of Kentucky. That bill, HR 11510, is an emergency measure to provide both Kentucky and Tennessee exemptions under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 so that programs to eradicate hazardous roots of blackbirds may be undertaken immediately. This measure passed two weeks ago by unanimous consent in both Chambers of Congress. It was able to do so only through the full cooperation of both the Tennessee and Kentucky Congressional delegations. President Ford signed it eight days after it passed.

Timing is a critical factor in the implementation of this law for several reasons. First and most importantly, Tergitol is a chemical that can only be effective during the winter months. Secondly, in order for the application of Tergitol to be effective this year, it has got to be done before the bill expires April 15. The blackbird problem has been a constant one ever since my election to Congress in 1969. Only in recent years, however, has it reached such proportions that it has become critical both to the economy of West Tennessee and to the health of the people of West Tennessee. As many of you know, the largest roost of blackbirds in the State is situated at Milan, Tennessee, at the Milan Army Ammunition Plant. The roost there has been estimated to contain about 8.5 million birds. Their feeding on the crops on farms throughout the District and the grain left out for livestock has inflicted untold losses on our farm economy. Tennessee Commissioner of Agriculture Ed Porter estimates those losses to be about $10 per day per farmer. Additionally, and most importantly, they have presented an increasingly hazardous health problem to the area. Doctors throughout West Tennessee have reported cases of histoplasmosis and those involved have been able to attribute those increases to the presence of the birds. In many cases, children have not even been able to play in their own backyards for fear of contracting this debilitating disease. This relief enacted by the Congress is only temporary but it is required now for the continued well being of the people, their health, and their livelihoods.

Our intent in obtaining the President's signature on HR 11510 was simply to meet a critical need that has grown more critical as the years have passed. Its result will allow the spraying of Tergitol on the bird's wings as quickly as the proper state officials can certify to the Secretary of the Interior that an emergency does exist. Buy at home. Print at home. Both pay off in the long run.

U.S. SENATOR BILL BROCK WASHINGTON OUTLOOK

The most pressing difficulty facing most families today is the economy-inflation, unemployment. In his recent State of the Union address to Congress, President Ford addressed both of these problems positively. Rightly, the President said that the free enterprise system, rather than government, can provide more jobs. Last year, I introduced a measure aimed directly at that formula. This legislation could create up to 1,000,000 job opportunities this year, without the massive public make-work projects which cost the taxpayers billions of dollars without solving the long-term problem. Such legislation could also help in solving our inflation problem. Government spending is a prime factor in rising inflation. By putting 1,000,000 back to work, the compensation and welfare rolls will go down. These workers will become again tax paying Americans, working for their families. Production will increase, thus providing competition which could result in lower prices, or at least a slow-down in inflation. The significant factor is that it can be done. We can solve our unemployment and pocketbook difficulties. We retain the tools. We have but to put forth the will to use them rather than depend upon a government which by no means possesses ultimate wisdom. America's strength is her people. Therein lie the solutions.

WHAT'S A GREAT FAITH?

Lesson for February 15, 1976

Background Scriptures: Matthew 14 through 15. Devotional Reading: Hebrews 11:1-6.

"O Woman, great is your faith!" That is what Jesus said to the Canaanite woman. Here, he said, was a "great" faith. What did he mean?

To suffer many things Before we try to answer that question, however, we need to deal with the story itself, for it is a troubling story, one that many Bible readers would prefer to skip over and ignore.

If we read this story carefully, we must choose one of the following alternatives:

(1) That Jesus was actually prejudiced against Canaanites (non-Jews) and the woman had to argue him into helping her.

(2) That the account is not an accurate rendering of what really happened.

(3) That Jesus' remarks reflect, not his own convictions, but the prejudices of others, perhaps his disciples, and he is using them simply to shame them and test the persistence of the woman.

We cannot prove any of these three, but the third interpretation seems to fit so much more closely the picture of Jesus we get elsewhere in the gospels. The words of Jesus in Matthew 15:21-28 seem totally uncharacteristic of Jesus.

Thus, when he initially responds to the woman's request for healing with silence, he seems to be waiting to see what will be the response of his disciples. He does not have to wait long: "Send her away," they cry, "for she is crying after us" (Matthew 15:28).

Crumbs from the table Their motivation is hardly admirable: "Do something for her quickly so that she will stop bothering us!" (How like the dollar bill dropped quickly but reluctantly in a contribution envelope in order to get rid of the door-to-door canvasser!)

Isn't it their own prejudice with which he is shaming them when he says: "I was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel?" And who could believe that Jesus is speaking for himself when he says to her: "It is not fair to take the children's bread and throw it to the dogs?" (Why should we deprive our own families to help some stranger far away?)

Jesus would find that "his people" are still saying audacious things like that today. Can't you just hear him repeating to us our own blasphemous clichés: "Charity begins at home." "God helps those who help themselves."

So what is the "great faith" that Jesus sees in this woman?

It is not the arrogant pride of belonging to the "right" group, or having the "right" beliefs—as the disciples did. It is, however, the humble but persistent trust that God will not fail to help us if we diligently seek him.

1975 Annual Report—

Lauderdale County's Soil Conservation District Has Aided 1,117 County Farms

Since the Lauderdale County Soil Conservation District was organized in 1941, 1,117 land owners or farm operators have signed Co-Operative Agreements with the district, representing 186,935 acres.

Of these, 764 have a complete Conservation Plan, with each acre planned to prevent excessive erosion, improve the soil, and increase yields.

The district was formed to assist land owners in planning and applying these conservation practices. Since the district had no trained personnel in the field of conservation, a Memorandum of Understanding was signed with the Soil Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which agreed to furnish trained personnel to the district.

Conservation practices applied since 1941 have been—

Conservation Cropping Systems	51,706 acres
Recreational Area Development	995 acres
Contour Farming	29,709 acres

Critical Area Planting (Gully Smoothing)	2,806 acres
Crop Residue Management	101,296 acres
Debris Basins	21
Diversions	198,696 feet
Fish Ponds	1,330
Flood Water Retarding Structures	242
Grade Stabilization Structures	7
Grassed Waterways	342 acres
Land Smoothing	400 acres
Minimum Tillage	1,250 acres
Drainage Mains And Laterals	238,450 feet
Pasture And Hay Land Management	18,334 acres
Pasture And Hay Land Planting	22,009 acres
Open Channel	167,200 feet
Drainage Field Ditches	414,410 feet
Terraces	53,760 feet
Tree Planting	2,498 acres

Wild Life Wetland Management	2,000 acres
Wild Life Upland Management	5,393 acres
Woodland Improved Harvesting	9,667 acres
Woodland Improvement	3,000 acres

The district works with all groups, organizations, and individuals interested in the conservation and proper use of soil, water, woodland, natural recreational sites, and wild life.

The district and its Affiliate Members work with the Lauderdale County school system and furnish conservation materials to the schools. "The Story Of Land, Its Use And Mis-Use Through The Centuries And Today," was distributed to all fifth grade students in 1975. The Better Environment Booklet is published by the Soil Conservation Society of America and paid for by Affiliate Members of the district.

The district board met with the county judge, magistrates, and city officials from Gates, Halls, Henning, and Ripley on Jan. 28th. Mr. Paul Howard, State Conservationist, was guest speaker and spoke on services available to city and county governments through the Soil Conservation District and the Soil Conservation Service. Seventy people attended this meeting.

SCRAPBOOK CONTEST WINNERS from grades five through eight, in 1975 contest sponsored by the District and Affiliate Members, were (from right) Franklin Clark, Tina Marie Pittman, Lisa Spray, and Kenneth Crook, in that order. At rear center is Fredis Jacox, instructor under whose supervision pupils have been in the winning bracket since the contest started six years ago. At right rear is Earl West, District Conservationist.

SOIL JUDGING CONTEST is sponsored annually by District Supervisors and Affiliate Members, who feel that a good knowledge of the soil is a must for successful farming. Teams from Ripley and Halls vocational agriculture classes and from Lauderdale County 4-H Clubs compete with other Tennessee teams in a District Meet. Winners from the districts compete in the State Meet, and winners from the states compete in a National Meet. Vocational agriculture teachers, the County Agent, and SCS personnel work with the teams before the contests.

MEETING WITH ASCS County Development Committee each year, the District Board helps select projects for cost-sharing of 50% to 75%, funded by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Seen from right are Otis Carmichael, district ASCS director; County Agent Charles Peal; Steve Seymour, Game and Fish agent; Jimmy Fullen and G. W. O'Dell, ASCS committeemen; Earl West, District Conservationist; E. M. Steelman, Jr., SCD Supervisor; H. L. Elder, ASCS committeeman; Steve Glenn, Forestry Service; and Larry Hawks, ASCS office manager; not pictured are Paul Webb, ASCS clerk, and Eugene R. Anthony, SCD chairman. Practices chosen for 1975 were: establishing or improving permanent vegetative cover; planting trees; improving a stand of forest trees; water impounding reservoirs; diversions; permanent wild-life habitat; sediment retention erosion or COUNTY EROSION PROBLEMS are apparent to land owners and farm operators. Diversion construction has increased in the last two years, with 50,000 linear feet constructed in 1975. Above, Jim Hickman, former major league baseball player, Ed May, and Hayden Avery inspect a diversion constructed on the W. A. Tate farm near Henning. Before its completion, farm machinery could not cross some of the deep rills and wash-outs. Diversions properly located and constructed can reduce erosion rates up to 50%. Diversions should always be used as contour guide lines. Cultivation across diversions or terraces will cause the structures to break.

DWIGHT WEAVER CHECKS well built and grassed waterway on his farm, on which he has a long-Term Conservation Agreement for every acre, as do Lawton Wadsworth, Leslie Lightfoot, Jimmy and Steve Fullen, and Frank Duval. In 1974, Dwight established two acres of alfalfa in 1975, seeded nine acres of permanent pasture and constructed a grassed waterway. In 1976, plans to construct a diversion and establish four acres of Bermuda. In 1977, will seed ten acres of pasture, and in 1978, will construct a pond. He will receive 50% cost-share from ASCS for applying practices as planned by the Soil Conservation Service.

ARTHUR BENTLEY, Conservation technician, began work with the Soil Conservation Service in 1975 and was assigned to the Lauderdale County Field Office. He has worked with the ASCS office and as part-time employee with the SCS. Arthur is married and has a son and a daughter. He resides on Dry Hill Road.

EDWARD MAY is working with the District under a Memorandum of Agreement with the CETA Program. This program is sponsored by the county government, the Soil Conservation District acts as host.

The Board of Supervisors wants to thank the Soil Conservation Service for assigning Arthur Bentley to the District. We want to thank the County Court for the appropriation to pay for secretarial help and other expenses. We want to thank the ASCS County Committee for approving cost-share money to install conservation practices and the news media—WTRB and The Lauderdale County Enterprise for their help. Call us if you have a question or problem: 635-0851.

Flu Closes County's Schools

One In Six Students Absent Wednesday

With one in every six students in county schools absent Wednesday as flu cases mounted throughout the area, all county schools were ordered closed Thursday and Friday.

Of total school enrollments around 5,500, 850 students were absent Tuesday.

Ripley schools appeared the hardest hit, with 100 of the junior high school's 300 students absent.

One of every ten teachers was stricken—two dozen in the county school system.

Wednesday's figures were even worse—about 900 pupils absent, and 31 teachers, prompting a decision to dismiss classes for the remainder of the week.

Home Upgrade Funds Offered

Home owners in Ripley and Halls can now get federal funds at low cost, depending on their incomes, to make home improvements to meet city housing code standards.

Grants are also available, depending on the applicant's level of poverty.

The Volz Circle and Chickasaw-Lafayette St. areas of Ripley and the east central and north-west sections of Halls have been earmarked as areas of most urgent need.

Housing inspectors and estimators will soon be working in these areas to determine rehabilitation needs.

Information about this program is available from the County Community Development Office in the courthouse in Ripley, phone 635-4201.

Walter Saunders Fatally Stricken

Walter Saunders, 66, popular owner and operator of Leadway No. 11 Grocery on the east side of the Ripley downtown square, collapsed and died almost immediately in the store, apparently of a heart attack, early Saturday afternoon.

Services were at 2 p.m. Monday in Ripley Funeral Home with burial in Memorial Gardens.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Juanita Saunders, two daughters, Mrs. Gene Tuckey of Tecumseh, Mich., and Mrs. Harold Walls, of West Palm Beach, Fla.; a brother, Reeves, of Valley Station, Ky.; and two sisters, Mrs. William Pittman, of Brandon, Fla., and Mrs. Raymond Wheels, of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Among those from out of town attending services were Mr. and Mrs. Tuckey, Mr. and Mrs. Walls and daughter, Susan, Reeves Saunders, and Mr. Pittman; Mrs. Floyd Deal and Mr. and Mrs. Murray Kroeger, all of Memphis; and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dodd, of Paris.

He was carried to Veterans Hospital in Memphis where he was found to have received a broken arm, several broken ribs, a punctured lung, a broken nose, a dislocated shoulder, and numerous other injuries. He remains in the intensive care unit of the hospital.

His son, Larry White, standing a few feet away, was knocked to the ground but was not injured. Mrs. White is in Memphis with her husband.

Jack Robison, missionary to Bolivia, and Mrs. Robison, also bringing greetings to Lauderdale County friends from The Rev. Elton Watlington, missionary to Peru. Mrs. Watlington, and their son, Andy.

Mrs. Wadsworth, who flew to South America Jan. 28, attended General Assembly with her brother and his wife in La Paz, Bolivia's capital, and saw much of the rural area her brother serves.

The Rev. Mr. Watlington, former pastor of Ripley Methodist Circuit, and his family gave Mrs. Wadsworth a tour of Lima, the country's capital, and a trip to Huancayo, the community 150 miles away in which they serve.

BIRTH
 To Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Alby of Halls—a son, Marcus Todd, born Feb. 11th in Parkview Hospital in Dyersburg.

FIRE BELIEVED SET by vandals in rear bedrooms upstairs about 1:45 p.m. Saturday severely damaged the home of the late Broadus Klutts, on Lafayette St. in Ripley, now owned by Mr. Klutts' sister, Mrs. Katie Flam, and her husband, Buel Flam, of Jackson. The unoccupied home was insured, but contents were not. Fireman confined flames to the rear of the home, and the ornate facade suffered only smoke damage. The residence was home before it was acquired by R. C. Klutts, Ripley merchant who was Broadus Klutts' father.

Race 4 Nematodes Sought In Testing

By Charles T. Peal
 Soil from some fields on the farm of Byron Escue, Jr., is being tested by the University of Tennessee for the presence of Race 4 nematodes.

Dr. Melvin Newman, Extension pathologist, runs these tests in the greenhouse at the experiment station in Jackson. A test requires about six weeks. There is still plenty of time for farmers to bring in soil for such tests.

Soil should be obtained along the soy bean row at a depth of two to three inches, from several spots over the field. A mixture of these need be only about a pint of dirt.

The sample should be brought to the County Extension Office. Plastic Garden Methods

Duane Phares, of Ripley, is among those interested in plastic gardening this spring.

A two to six inch thickness of well rotted cotton hulls or decayed sawdust is spread over the surface of the ground the size of a piece of plastic that will be used. Clark Barnett did this last year, and mixed one gallon of 6-12-12 fertilizer in the compost on a 10x50 foot area. He then wetted this down and stretched plastic over it, weighting it well with brick, planks, etc.

When time came to plant, he cut cross slits where he intended to plant the rows and placed the seed in the compost. With the warmth, the seed germinated quickly and usually came up through the slits without trouble.

The cotton or sawdust provides a ready medium for the root system of the plants and, coupled with the fertilizer and moisture, promotes lush plant growth.

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

For several weeks now, I of the one Representative who have been receiving in all my offices a great number of inquiries regarding HR 2966, the Child and Family Services Act. Many of those inquiries express a great deal of alarm at what is contained in that bill. Unfortunately, there has been a great deal of inaccurate information disseminated regarding that bill. Most of the opposition to this piece of legislation has been based upon that incorrect information. Many constituents in the Seventh Congressional District have been led to believe that this bill will give the federal government the authority to arbitrarily remove pre-school children from their homes and take away the parents' legal and moral right to raise their children as they deem necessary.

Having taken a great deal of interest in this bill and having taken the opportunity to research it thoroughly, I have found that it does not include any provisions that would allow, even in the most remote circumstances, such dangerous powers. HR 2966 does provide for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to establish a program that will provide needy families with services that they could not afford on their own. Such services would include, prenatal care, medical treatment for handicapped children, nutrition assistance, and Day Care services. Those programs would be completely voluntary. This legislation does not intend to make such services mandatory nor does it force any family to participate in them.

Circulars that I have seen regarding the contents of this piece of legislation quote from remarks inserted in the Congressional Record over five years ago. Those remarks are not valid today and can only be considered as the opinion action taken on HR 2966, but with the alarm that has resulted from this bill, I plan to continue to follow its progress very closely in order to insure that it does not give such arbitrary powers to government on any level. Based on what is actually in the bill, I also plan to give it much more study to determine just what its impact would be if enacted. Throughout this year and the years ahead, the Congress is going to have to take positive action to curtail the continued unnecessary intervention of government into the day-to-day lives of all Americans. It is with that in mind that I intend to review this bill most carefully should it be reported out of the Committee on Education and Labor and brought to the floor of the House of Representatives for a vote.

The ancient Greeks believed that they would acquire inspiration by sleeping with laurel leaves under their pillows. The article in last week's Corner concerning the resignation of Halls High football coach, Raymond Tate, has stirred some memories and also some slight controversy. It seems that H. G. Conley, retired Halls High agriculture teacher, along with one or two others misinterpreted what he had written in identifying Tate as the first Halls High football coach. This is true but does not mean that he has had football in Halls since a team was organized several years prior to his arrival in 1923, but it had no formal coach, only volunteers. The first football team was organized in Halls High in 1921 by the then principal, Mr. Pearson. A pickup schedule was played in 1921 and 1922 under Mr. Pearson with the field located at the east end of the present Tipton St. The team was continued in 1923 after the arrival of R. L. Conley as principal.

Some of the early players, many of them deceased, were Bob and Hugh Nunn, Sidney Pugh, Raymond and Reginald Scott, J. A. Hart, Wendell Chapman, Al Siegel, and Charles Edward Wilson. In 1924 the high school moved to its new location on West Tipton and development of the present football field was started. At the same time H. G. Conley arrived and he immediately showed an interest in the football team. He organized his agriculture boys to develop the field, solicited funds among business men for equipment, and actively assisted with the coaching. Others who helped with the coaching during the early period included the late Dr. Percy Conyers, Bob Westmoreland, presently of Nashville, and many others. Some members of the 1924 team included Paul and Ellis Jordan, Joe Calhoun, William White, Allen Messersmith, Ohlin Siler, and many others, some of whom remain in the area.

In 1925 came Tate followed by Charis Dadds in 1927 with Halls rated as one of the top teams in West Tennessee, playing such teams as Trenton, Humboldt, Jackson, Covington, Ripley, Brownsville, also Newbern, Tiptonville, Millington, etc. The Tigers were able to build up winning records against most of the teams except Covington who seemed to have the "Indian sign" on Halls and Ripley, who with Coach Tiny Koss arriving on the scene about the same time was always able to come up with something. Dyersburg, for instance, was able to manage only one tie in a seven year span. Trenton was knocked from the West Tennessee championship by a fine Tiger eleven, etc. Since most of this was written from our own memory with the aid of a few others, some of the years involved may be slightly off but basically this is the way it was.

GARDEN CLUB MET Halls Garden Club met Feb. 5th in Halls' First Baptist Church with Mrs. Stuart Crickfield, Mrs. Will Lawrence, and Mrs. George Brown as hostesses. Guests were Mrs. Ronald Armstrong, wife of the new pastor of First Baptist Church, who was welcomed as an honorary member, and Mrs. Charles Alsbrook, a former member. Mrs. E. C. Thurmond directed a devotional based on poems from the book "Rainbows."

Valentine arrangements were joined with Mrs. Hal Pennington, first, Mrs. Coy Lucas, second, and Mrs. Frank Moore, third. Mrs. Kenneth L. Brunson and Mrs. Jim Horner, both of Dyersburg, presented a study program demonstrating the art of making fabric flowers. An 8-foot man applied for a job as a lifeguard. "Can you swim," he was asked. "No," he replied, "but I sure can walk!"

HALLS JUNIOR HIGH NEWS
 The Halls Jr. High Student Council sponsored a drive to collect money for the Heart Fund.
 The Council had a contest to select Valentine Sweethearts from the seventh and eighth grades. Each class selected a couple from their room and the student body voted by paying a penny per vote. The drive brought in $43.95 which was presented to Phillip Jackson, Heart Fund School Chairman for 1976.
 The winners were Sandy Hastings and Jeff Moore, 8th graders. We are proud of our students for their effort and their contribution to a worthwhile charity.
