Ripuan's Son, 24, Dies; Navy Pilot

Lt. Ricky L. Wilson, 24, whose mother is the former Pansy Hutcherson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hutcherson, of Central Road near Ripley, died Thursday of last week in Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital, after brain surgery.

A graduate of the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., he was a Navy pilot stationed in the Philippines.

His parents and a sister, Kathy, Memphians, flew to the Philippines Aug. 3rd.

He also leaves his wife, Mrs. Catherine Loree Wilson.

A memorial service was held at 3 p.m. Saturday in Leewood Baptist Church in Memphis.

Attending from Ripley were the O. D. McBrooms, the Bernard Bells, the W. F. Suttons, Pam Sutton, the Ed Hutchersons, the Alfred Campbells, Ron and Don Campbell, Mrs. Harold Dunavant, Mrs. Lucy Bickers, Mrs. Frances Shields, and Miss Mildred Campbell, with Royce Campbell, of Dyersburg.

The family suggests memorials be sent to a favorite charity or to the building fund of Leewood Baptist Church.

School Lunches Reflect Change

Like most everything else, school lunches have changed drastically in the last half-century.

Mrs. Effie Garrett, who retired from the Arp School cafeteria in 1974, was a cafeteria manager 37 years.

She began her career as a teacher and cook in a 2-room school, when parents and children brought vegetables to school and soup was made each day.

Children brought plates, bowls, and flatware from home to eat with.

When Mrs. Garrett retired, she was in a modern cafeteria with six cooks feeding 460 children.

Next week's school lunch menus are:

- Monday
Labor Day Holiday
- Tuesday
Pizza
- Combination Salad
Peach Half
Roll
Cookie
- Wednesday
Fried Chicken
Whipped Potatoes
Baby Lima Beans
Rolls
Apple
- Thursday
Barbecue
Baked Beans
Slaw
Hamburger Buns
Strawberry Cake
- Friday
Hamburger
French Fries
Fruit Cup

Warner Bros. Eyes Henning

FILMING IN HENNING last weekend was James Herbert, location director for the Warner Bros. motion picture studios in Hollywood, Calif., which are now shooting a sequel to the television dramatization of Alex Haley's novel, 'Roots.' While most scenes will be shot in California, Herbert says some may yet be made in Henning, to provide the authentic local flavor. Aside from the Haley industry, Henning is humming these days.

THEY'VE GOT SPIRIT—'Go, Tigers' is the message even on the trash cans at Ripley High School these days. The cans were painted by the members of Sigma Phi Omega, a high school fraternity.

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

7th DISTRICT OF TENNESSEE

In recent weeks, President Carter submitted to the Congress his comprehensive plan to reform the nation's welfare system. It is readily apparent that the various welfare programs of the federal government have needed this type of reform for some time. It is encouraging to note that President Carter and his cabinet have made an attempt to bring about the type of reform most Americans have felt was needed for some time.

One of the strongest points in the reform proposal is the importance President Carter and HEW Secretary Joseph Califano have placed on work. Under their proposal, the relationships between wages and welfare payments will ensure that families in which someone works will always be better off financially than families in which no one works. In addition, the proposal will encourage work in the private sector while providing approximately 1.4 million public service jobs and job training slots.

Private sector jobs will be more attractive simply because the public service jobs will pay less than regular employment. This will hopefully alleviate one of the biggest complaints I hear all the time about the welfare system; that being, that it is better to be on welfare than work because the family receives more money by being on

MR. AND MRS. PHILLIP WALTERS LACY were married in a double ring ceremony at 2:30 p.m. Aug. 14th at Calvary Baptist Church at Jackson with the Rev. Paul Clark, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Artie Bivens, pastor of Hays Avenue Methodist Church at Jackson and uncle of the bride, officiating.

The bride, Ellen Nell, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neill Bivens, of Jackson, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Robert Baker and the late Mr. Baker, of Halls, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Dudley T. Bivens, of Bruceville. Mr. Lacy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Lacy, Jr., and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Lacy, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Walters, all of Jackson.

For the wedding the altar of the church was centered with an arch entwined with greenery. On either side were branched candelabra and baskets of yellow gladioli, Shasta daisies, spider 'mums, and greenery.

Nuptial music was presented by Miss Bonnie Bivens, soloist, of Sausalito, Calif., sister of the bride, accompanied Mrs. Charles Haley, of Memphis, also sister of the bride, and Mrs. Don Martin. Miss Bivens sang "The Wedding Song" as the couple knelt at the altar before lighting the unity candle. Mrs. Paul Clark played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride's wedding gown was of white dotted Swiss, fashioned with an Empire waistline and gathered skirt, with rows of lace to the hemline. The dress featured a stand-up collar and long sleeves gathered to buttoned cuffs edged in lace. The chapel train fell in folds from the waist, and a satin ribbon sash formed a bow at the back. Her cathedral length veil of illusion was edged with lace and scattered with pearls and pearl rosettes. She wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a Colonial bouquet of yellow roses, white daisies, and baby's breath.

Mrs. Charles Haley was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Bonnie Bivens and Mary Don Martin, of Paul's Valley, Okla. They each wore full length dresses of yellow seersucker, with square yoke necklines and gathered skirts. They carried a single long stemmed yellow rose, and wore silk flowers in their hair.

Ted Lacy, of Virginia Beach, Va., was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Mark Anderson, of Jackson, and Randy Walters, of Madisonville, Ky. Charles Haley, of Memphis, was usher.

For the reception in the church fellowship hall, the bride's table was covered with a daisy printed cloth over yellow, and centered with candelabra and an arrangement of daisies, 'mums, and baby's breath. Assisting with the serving were Debby Baker, of Jonesboro, Ark., Ramona Walters, of Madisonville, Ky., Geneva Anderson, Marcia Lacy, Cindy Walters, Darlene Webb, and Teresa Stockton, all of Jackson. Pam Raines, of Cornelia, Ga., presided at the guest register.

After a wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains, Mr. and Mrs. Lacy are living in Jackson. Following the rehearsal on the eve of the wedding, the bridegroom's parents were hosts for a rehearsal dinner at Georgia's Restaurant at Jackson.

BIBLE SPEAKS

SOUND DOCTRINE

Lesson for September 4, 1977

Background Scripture: Colossians 3:15-17 Devotional Reading: Ephesians 6:10-20

Most people don't even know that there is a book called Titus in the New Testament, let alone have any idea what it's about. Its contents are not likely to be found on anyone's list of favorite Bible quotations.

That's unfortunate, for the Book of Titus, despite its brevity—its three brief chapters require a page and a half in my Bible—deserves its place in our New Testament. It has something quite important to say to us, although its content can be found in either similar or different language in other books of the New Testament, it is clearly and significantly stated in Titus.

Teach what befits

A hasty examination of Titus has often led people to assume that this epistle is mostly about doctrine. In the first chapter the writer alludes to the correction of those who hold incorrect beliefs, "that they may be sound in faith, instead of giving heed to Jewish myths or to commands of men who reject the truth" (1:13b,14). He also begins chapter two, saying, "But as for you, teach what befits sound doctrine" (2:1). Later he says, "Declare with all authority" (2:15).

Actually, however, this brief epistle is concerned, not with religious ideas as such, but with religious behavior. From beginning to end of Titus, the writer is concerned about actions, not words or ideas. For although the writer speaks of choosing leaders who "give instruction in sound doctrine" and "confute those who contradict it" (1:9), he is concerned not with what people believe about God, but how what they believe motivates them to live in his presence. The writer's concern is not for ideas, but action that "befits sound doctrine" (2:1).

The writer has checklists of certain kinds of behavior that he believes are essential for certain groups of people. There is one list for elders (local pastors), one for "older men," another for "older women," as well as "younger women" and "younger men." His highest expectations are for the older men and women. All of these expectations he sums up in this one statement: "Show yourself in all respects a model of good deeds" (2:7). If they are to be zealous about anything, let it be, not religious ideas, but "for good deeds" (2:14).

Many Christians seem to believe that the essence of Christianity lies in disputing and defending the right doctrines and dogmas. But the essence of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, as Titus makes clear, is a sound doctrine that issues in loving deeds and fruitful lives.

COOKING CORNER Put lid on surplus summer produce

By MARJORIE RICE Copley News Service

It's time to haul out the canning kettle, count up the jars and go shopping for lids. Summer's here and the gardens and fruit trees are in full gear.

Succulent plants are producing enough squash to feed you and your neighbors, and you can't give it away because your neighbors and friends all have the same abundant problem.

Fresh peaches, nectarines and plums are appearing on market shelves again, for us to enjoy their too-brief succulent seasons.

Adds from the pleasures of enjoying home-canned summer fruit in December, there's something satisfying about putting up your own food.

Recipes for some preserved foods, follow.

ZUCCHINI MEK 1 quart chopped tomatoes (can be unpeeled) 1 quart chopped zucchini (can substitute eggplant) 1 cup chopped onion 1 clove crushed garlic 2 tsp. salt 1/4 cup vinegar (or lemon juice)

Combine all ingredients. Cook at a simmer until zucchini is tender (about 15 minutes). Using a slotted spoon, transfer mixture to jars.

Add liquid from cooking to the jars, leaving 1/4-inch headspace. Wipe jar rims, seal and process in simmering water for 25 minutes.

PEACH CONSERVE 5 cups peeled, diced peaches (about 4 lbs.) 1 cup light corn syrup 1/4 cup coarsely chopped pitted prunes 1/4 cup seedless raisins 1/4 cup sugar 1 medium ground, seeded and ground or finely chopped 1/4 cup coarsely chopped pecans

In large saucepot mix together all ingredients except pecans.

Stirring constantly, bring to hard boil over high heat. Reduce heat; continue boiling 30 minutes, stirring occasionally until mixture thickens. Stir in nuts.

Remove from heat; ladle into hot 1/2-pint jars, leaving 1/4-inch headspace. Wipe rims of jars; seal; process 20 minutes in boiling water. Makes four 1/2-pint jars.

LEMON HONEY PEACHES 1/2 cup honey 1 cup water 1/4 cup lemon juice 1 tsp. grated lemon rind 6 to 8 lbs. fresh cling peaches

Combine honey, water, juice and rind in heavy kettle.

Bring to boil and keep hot. Wash, peel and cut fruit from pit. Combine fruit with hot syrup. Cook until fruit is tender. Ladle into hot jars, leaving 1/4-inch headspace. Wipe rims, seal and process in boiling water bath for 20 minutes. Makes six pints.

SAIARA 1 lb. onions 5 lbs. tomatoes 2 lbs. hot chilis 3 tsp. salt 1/4 tsp. pepper One-third cup lemon juice or vinegar Chop onions and chilis. Peel and chop tomatoes. Add all ingredients to tomatoes; heat to simmer; simmer 10 minutes. Pack into hot pint jars and process in boiling water for 15 minutes. To increase or decrease hotness, raise or lower the amount of chilis in the recipe. Fresh chilis give better, hotter flavor, but pickled, canned or glass-packed chilis can be used. Makes six pints.

ZUCCHINI RELISH 4 cups ground zucchini 3 cups ground carrots 1/4 cup ground green pepper 1/4 cup salt 2 1/2 cups vinegar 1/4 cup dry mustard Combine all ingredients and cook 20 minutes, until vegetables are tender crisp. Pack into hot pint jars, leaving 1/4-inch headspace. Wipe rims of jars; seal; process 20 minutes in boiling water. Makes four or five pints.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY Don't wait to 62 to file for disability

Copley News Service

Q. I left my job in January, 1975, as a result of injuries in 1961 and again in 1974. I am still physically unable to work but I did not retire on a disability pension. I receive $325 through a union pension fund.

I have two questions: 1. Can I apply for Social Security Disability Benefits? 2. Would it be to my advantage (if eligible) to apply now at 54 or more to my advantage to wait until 62 - J.O.

A. Apply now for disability benefits. A formal ruling to determine your eligibility will be made and if you qualify you may receive up to 12 months retroactive benefits. There's no advantage in waiting until you reach 62 to file for disability benefits. If, however, your claim for disability benefits is denied you will have to wait until 62 to file for reduced retirement benefits.

Q. After my retirement my employer paid me for 82 days of vacation which was earned and accumulated in the two years prior to the year of retirement. The vacation payment amounted to $4,900.00 and was extended over a four-month period. Would this payment affect my Social Security benefits which begin the month after I retire? - E.E.H.

Probably not. Since the vacation pay was apparently received after your official termination date it may be allocated to your last month of employment or to some prior period. Your local Social Security office may have had previous experience with your employer's vacation payment plan. Call them for a more complete explanation.

Questions on Social Security may be sent to Copley News Service in care of this newspaper. This column is based on information provided by the Social Security Office in San Diego, Calif.

Better Bridge

By ROBERT D. ROSENBLUM Copley News Service

Match points freeze a bridge purist's marrow. Does it make sense to play a space slam on a 4-3 layout when the partnership owns 10 top diamonds? Should the major suit bonus thus twist reason?

Six diamonds is unbeatle here. Seven makes it East opens a spade or declarer locates the queen.

Six spades is not nearly as sound a contract. There is the threat of a diamond ruff for one thing. Declarer does have reasonable chances, however, without a diamond lead. In fact he can handle any combination where diamonds are 2-1 and trumps no worse than 4-2.

One South who declared six spades at the Canberra, Australia, pairs game in which the deal appeared a few years ago, even managed to take as a 5-1 spade division. As well as he played he had to admit his success was due to a thoughtless defense.

He won the club opening and passed the ten of spades, not caring whether it won or lost. His plan was to draw a heart in dummy, ruff trumps and claim.

When the ten did hold, the trick declarer cashed the king of spades, noting West's failure to follow, then finessed the nine. Now he played the ace, leaving East with the outstanding trump.

Then he ran diamonds. West discarded to show heart strength so East ruffed the third diamond and led a heart. Declarer rose with the ace and ran two more diamonds:

North South East West S - S - H K 108 H K 1054 D - D - D 8 H 64 C Q 9 C J

Dealer - North, North-South vulnerable.

West North East South S 2 H 543 H K J 9862 H 10543 D 8 H 64 C Q 10942 C J 5

On the last diamond, West penetrating sealer that is often used on hardwood floors.

In the future, clean the walls with a good cleaner and wood paneling, which leaves a soft wax finish.

Q. One of my canvas awnings developed several leaks. Can I make it leakproof? - George H.K.

A. Dissolve a gallon of shaved paraffin in a gallon of benzine. Spread the awning as flat and taut as possible and cover it with the solution. But applying the solution is a possible fire hazard so take full precautions.

DECOR SCORE Floral pattern adds pizzazz to bedroom

By BARBARA HARTUNG Copley News Service

Q. I have a master bedroom that is a very plain, large room with a sliding glass door opening out onto a small patio. The room has no architectural detailing whatsoever.

I would like to create a beautiful and romantic looking bedroom and have thought of wallpaper. If I do wallpaper the four walls, I suppose I should have a plain bedspread.

Please may I have some ideas? - O.L.

A. You might take a very beautiful fabric and wallpaper pattern that is coordinated and use it throughout to provide plenty of drama. For example, Van Lutt's lush floral design, Meadow Grange, inspired by the sylvan English countryside, is used as a fabric and wall-covering in a warm peach. The sweeping pattern is everywhere.

The chintz fabric has been shirred on rods and attached to the ceiling.

The fabric also has been used on the wing chair and for the bedspread. A coordinated sheer drape in a tracery pattern glorifies the window yet lets the sun stream in.

The contemporary Lucite bed and accessories act as a dramatic foil and help create a look that's up to the minute.

Q. Our kitchen and family room are combined and we want to panel one wall in the family room. However, our cabinets are out of knotty pine, which I don't care to afford to change.

Could we select a paneling to match the dark knots in the cabinets or stick to a light paneling? - G.S.

A. Usually knotty pine cabinets create an informal kind of look and I think you might be happiest with another informal kind of wood such as pecky cypress in a light tone or a light fruitwood rather than a dark formal kind of walnut. Also it is usually desirable to keep the kitchen and family room as light as possible because it makes the rooms more cheery. However, don't despair over knotty pine cabinets. Turned orange which had been a most unpleasant orange - with age and I decided to remove the finish. It was a long, horrendous job but after all, the old finish was removed, I wiped on a color sealer, I used a whitish coat which gave the cabinets a white-washed effect which I thought was smashing. So if you could round up some good patient help for a couple of weekends you might finish the cabinets at a very little cost - just elbow grease.

Q. I am most taken by the teal blue which was used so extensively in early American homes in the East.

I am planning to repaint our living room and I am seriously considering doing the walls and the wood paneling in the deep blue. The only thing that is stopping me is that the living room is so dark and has little natural light except from two small windows.

I am wondering if I use gaily printed fabrics on the furniture, can I compensate for the darkness of the room in the blue? - L.L.

A. Yes, I would think you could compensate some. However, you might consider just painting the woodwork and perhaps any wood trim you might have in the room in the deep blue and use off-white for the rest of the walls. This would give you a considerable amount of blue if you did your doors, a fireplace or mantle if you have one, window frames and even a chair rail or beams added across the ceiling.

Early American designers apparently didn't worry as much as we do about light rooms. Most that I have seen were warm and inviting despite the fact that they did not have a lot of natural light.

Your strategy is a baseline rally is to keep the ball deep enough so the opponent cannot approach the net; your tactic is to send the ball high over the net.

AIM SIX FEET.

A DAY'S DRIVE TO WALKING HORSE COUNTRY IN MIDDLE TENNESSEE

How about an auto excursion through one of the finest areas in the country for breeding, training, selling and exhibiting Walking Horses? Middle Tennessee is unquestionably Tennessee Walking Horse country. This winter was not aware of the popularity of the state of the walking horse business until a recent all-day trip to several farms in the area. My guide was Kathy Ham, a member of the Tennessee Walking Horse Breeders and Exhibitors Association. I would definitely recommend this tour for anyone who enjoys scenic country drives, interesting people and beautiful horses. Leaving Interstate 24 between Nashville and Chattanooga, at the Warburg, Bellfast, Shelbyville exit, we followed signs toward Bell Buckle along Highway 82, crisscrossed by rolling hills and grassy pastures where horses graze through the long summer days. First we stopped at the farm owned by Betty Sain, the first woman to ride a "Walker" to a World Championship and win. She did it ten years ago with the black beauty, "Shaker's Shicker," who now stands stud on the farm. Betty welcomed us by giving us a tour of her farm. She had lived in near-by Bell Buckle, but decided to move to the farm where she could be closer to her animals. She has forty walking horses, 140 goats, three Texas Longhorns and two buffalo. It was an unusual trip to the stables where most of the animals gather. The goat, Selma, tagged along beside us looking for attention, while baby chickens, ducks, turkeys, tame geese and a peacock scattered from the barn entrance. Inside a baby colt, son of the World Champion, Shaker's Shicker, was trying his new long, graceful legs that seemed a bit wobbly at first. As the son of a world champion, he will grow up with something extra. His unique breeding will set him apart from all other walkers. He will inherit the qualities that are distinctive to the Tennessee Walking Horse. "There are over 400 mares here to be bred to the champion. They come from all over the United States," he explained, as we walked with every nod of the horse's head and the strength of the warning Trojan. Our auto tour took us to Bell Buckle, where Webb School, a college preparatory boarding school was founded for boys in 1870. The Webb School is the oldest of three Webb Schools in the United States. A recent renovation project restored the Junior Room originally constructed in 1886 and now open for tourists. I was excited when Kathy told me that quilt making and needlepoint shops could be found on main street in Bell Buckle. Women gather weekly at the "Quilts" for an afternoon of stitching up pieces of material that will become beautiful quilts to be sold at the shop. Following signs to Watrace, another quaint Tennessee town, we stopped for lunch at the 74-year-old "Walking Horse Hotel." The three-story hotel remains the same as it was many years ago. It was a treat to be served a refreshing Southern meal in a room so typical of the Southern Gentry. The atmosphere inspired me with thoughts of the Grand Walking Horses I would be seeing later on, as my excursion continued. After lunch, we asked for directions to the S-J Beech and Son farm in Belfast. Mr. Beech has a large 400 acre farm, with four world champions grazing in his pastures. "There are over 400 mares here to be bred to the champions. They come from all over the United States," he explained, as we walked with every nod of the horse's head and the strength of the warning Trojan. Next we drove on to Shelbyville, the home of the Annual National Walking Horse Celebration, scheduled this year for August 25th through September 3. For 355 days a year, the town is like other towns. But for 10 days every summer a transformation takes place. The town hums as buses and cars line the streets when horses and riders from all over the country come to Shelbyville for the Tennessee Walking Horse National Celebration. This is the world's greatest walking horse show and annually attracts more than 1,800 entries in more than 60 classes. Some 150,000 avid walking horse fans from all over the world attend the celebration. There are more than 40 large Walking Horse Farms to visit in Middle Tennessee that are open to visitors. While in the area, I suggest you stop for one of the weekly summer horse shows.

Cattle Feed Pinch Here

By Charles T. Peal
Beef farmers, hard hit by dry weather, are scrambling to find feedstuffs for their cattle. They are getting plenty of good advice and are being urged to make "best buys." Some farmers will rely on purchased feeds this winter, but some report prices of $60 a ton or more for Missouri alfalfa. Grain is a better buy now than most forages, in view of the protein and energy they contain. Talmage Critfield, Jr., plans to utilize grains this winter, supplemented by some alfalfa hay, to grow his replacement heifers. This is an excellent management practice since replacement heifers should weigh 600 to 700 pounds at the beginning of the breeding season. In most cases, this requires a growth rate of 1-1½ pounds per day for fall weaned heifers. Suitable rations can be developed to give this gain or even slightly more. Jimmy and Steve Fullen regularly send in forage samples to the University of Tennessee Testing Lab for recommendations on rations for different classes of their best animals. They know exactly the protein levels of the forage and how it needs to be supplemented. This is important because the minimum fiber requirements can be easily met with forage, and remaining protein and energy requirements can be provided at a lower cost, using grains. Corn at harvest is a relatively good feed buy. Corn grain feed provides protein and energy at a lower cost than alfalfa. It contains 8% fiber, four times the fiber of corn, and reduces the fiber needed from forages. Many feed mills have corn gluten feed. Although beef cattle prices have not been too attractive in the last two or three years, many producers are striving to hang on, hoping for better times ahead. Good management goes a long way to cut costs and help meet depressed prices. The cow-calf producer who markets his feeder calves through the feeder sales associations stands to gain by not having to keep the weaned calf over the winter. Many producers in this county are set up on a recommended breeding and calving program, so that they can regularly market in the Brownsville feeder sales and obtain better prices. Brownsville sales are set for Oct. 10th for Herefords and crosses, both heifers and steers and Oct. 13th for Angus and crosses, both heifers and steers. Producers interested in marketing through this sale may obtain more information by calling the County Extension Office.

Gas Island Leveled At Ripley Station

ESTIMATED $3,200 DAMAGE was done to McCallister's Service Station on old Highway 51 north in Ripley at 11:28 p.m. last Friday when a 1966 Chevrolet, southbound, cleaned the island of gas pumps and lighting. David Shoemaker, 27, of 123 Northcrest, employed by Carlton Chevrolet in Ripley, was charged with speeding, failure to maintain control, and striking a fixed object. He was not injured. Police estimated the damage to his vehicle at $500.

Squires Consider Re-Map Monday

A new reapportionment of County Court—the second in its 140-year history—is on the agenda for discussion when the Court meets Monday. Until 1970, each civil district elected two magistrates, each incorporated city one, and the county seat one additional, for a total of 39. Faced with federal requirements to equalize, as far as practical, the "one man, one vote" principle, the court voted in 1970 to revise the set-up so that civil districts with fewer people would be grouped to elect one magistrate and larger districts would elect more than two. After a Second District magistrate, Dr. Arden J. Butler, Jr., brought suit in federal court in Memphis, the suit set up to take effect in 1972, when magistrates' terms expired, was put into effect in 1970, reducing the court's membership to 28. Monday's court is slated to discuss whether to shake up the fruit basket again before magistrates seek re-election in August, 1978, balloting. Also on the Court agenda Monday is a request by the county health unit to expand its building near Lauderdale County Hospital. The building was occupied in 1966 when the unit had two nurses, two clerks, and one environmental sanitarian. It now has 18 people working in the same space and has even run out of places to hang up coats, a spokesman says. Other items on the court agenda include budget adjustments, school and hospital construction projects, and the county water system's needs. Gaines. "It is a natural link between production and marketing. I believe one of the biggest advantages is in convenience. It means that the grower can dispose of his crop whenever he wishes, and how do you put a dollar and cents figure on that?" Bob Revere and his son, Rob, have constructed grain bins with an auger pit. Harry Wright, Jr., and others have built metal buildings with grain pits. These producers can get their crop out without having to wait in line with a truck and, event, stop the combine. Prices for soy beans spurted dramatically in April, breaking the $10 bushel level in Chicago in mid-April. They edged down in late April and by June 22nd were in the $8.50-plus range. The price strength reflected dwindling stocks and continuing strong domestic and export demand. Since this time, prices have been sensitive to any news regarding demand and development in the 1977 crop. Soy beans are now in the $5.00 range not a very encouraging picture for farmers who early take the long gamble toward success in producing and marketing beans. Whatever situation develops

Bear Season Here (The Wooly Kind)

Powers Smith, Henning insurance man, says its time to check your wooly bears. These worms are now seen crossing highways in the county. Smith says if the dark portion of the worm is on the front end, there will be an early fall. And the darker this area is, as compared to the rest of the wooly bear, the harder the winter ahead is going to be. If the dark areas are unusually dark, the wooly bear's telling you to get out your long woollies.

Mrs. Day Claims Master's Degree

Mrs. Marjorie Rose Day, of Jackson, daughter of the Olin Clarks, of Ripley, has received a master of education degree from Memphis State University. Mrs. Day and her husband, Ralph Day, are employed in Jackson schools. The Clarks spent Monday with the Days. This fall, most marketing specialists still believe that the farmer with the appropriate operation and a substantial crop volume can be dollars ahead, most years, with his own storage and drying facilities, which they call one of the most valuable marketing tools in the farmers' inventory of equipment.

HOME-COMING SET

Henning's First Assembly of God Church will observe home-coming Sunday, with luncheon at the church and singing beginning at 1:30 p.m. The Rev. Carlton Rose will lead revival services beginning Monday at 7:30 nightly. Spray removable doors, behind false partitions, etc. Use 2½% premium grade Malathion, made by mixing ½ pint 57% material per gallon of water. A compressed-air garden sprayer will do the job quite well. Spray the surfaces to the point of run-off. One gallon of spray will cover 750 to 1,000 square feet. Dry insect-free small grain or shelled corn can be protected from most insect damage by using Malathion as a grain protectant. The insecticide is applied to the grain before or as it goes into the bin. Mix one pint 57% premium grade Malathion with 2½ gallons of water and apply this mixture to each 1,000 bushels of grain. Malathion is approved for corn and other small grains, to be stored, but not soy beans.

Store Grain Cleanly

Good housekeeping is of real importance before adding grain to storage bins. Now is the time to use brooms, hoes, and shovels to clean out all the old grain. Clean up well, and plug all holes, so that rodents and birds cannot get in. Make sure the roof is in good repair. If your spring and summer garden did not produce well, you now have a second chance on some vegetables. A fall garden can be an im-

O'Steen Asks Second Term

Sheriff Joe B. O'Steen said Thursday that he will seek re-election to a second 2-year term in the general election in August, 1978. "While I have many times seriously considered resigning," the sheriff said, "definite progress has been made in law enforcement, in the control of drugs and alcohol, and in the decrease of out-of-town and out-of-state hoodlums using our county as headquarters. "This has given me a firm resolve to stay until the job is completed. "Parents of teen-agers, whose children are preyed upon by dope pushers, bootleggers, etc., now breathe easier. "Their prayers and their encouragement make me determined to stay on. "Crime elements intend to get me out of office. Lawsuits have been filed against me for so-called harassment of criminals. Three of the people bringing these suits have been tried and convicted. "Against these things, I must remain faithful to the good people who elected me. "God willing, I expect to continue until we can be free of the influence and control of crime in our beloved Lauderdale County."

Library Adding Pattern Swaps

At the suggestion of Mrs. Jim Whitaker, whose husband is general manager of Tennessee Electric Corp. in Ripley, Sugar Hill, Lauderdale County Library, now offers a pattern swapping service for those who sew. "Leave a pattern and select one," Mrs. Jennie Forsberg, librarian, explains. "This gives us a constantly changing stock of patterns available at no charge to their users." The library has also added McNaughton's book series of 100 titles, with ten new ones brought into the stock each month. Mrs. Forsberg reports the genealogy department growing rapidly, with about 40 reels of microfilm being added to the current 50.

$150,000 Will Re-Work Jail

Lauderdale County is being granted $150,000 in federal funds to bring the county jail up to safety standards. The funding will come from the recent Congressional appropriations for public works to stimulate employment. No expansion of the jail nor of its numbers of cells is included in the renovation project. The renovation project, and even if you have a limited space you can get maximum production from a small area. Before planting, remove all previous crop residue and any weed growth. Prepare the soil by rotary tilling or spading 8 to 10 inches deep. Add one to two pounds of a general analysis fertilizer (6-12 or 15-15-15) per 100 square feet. Mix the fertilizer and soil thoroughly. Broccoli, cabbage, Chinese cabbage, and bush snap beans should be planted now. Mustard, turnip greens, spinach, and onions may be planted from late August to September. Be sure to control weeds, insects, and diseases to produce high quality vegetables.

Some Cotton Still Picked By Hand

Despite the widespread use of the mechanical cotton picker, hand picked cotton hasn't entirely disappeared. J. M. Morris & Sons Gin at Arp has ginned 530-pound and 580-pound bales which B. B. Anderson, of Highway 19 west of Ripley, picked entirely by hand. The same gin handled some cotton for Harry Lee Barham, of Henning, partially picked by hand. Odean Jones, of Luckett, had the first bale through the Morris gin this season, a 603-pounder on Aug. 30th. The first sample cleared in Memphis from Lauderdale County this year was from a bale ginned by Edwards Gin Co. for Earnest and Billy Binkley.

First Promotion Awarded Hayes

Tony A. Hayes, son of Mrs. Perlina Hayes, of 151 Osborn Ave., Ripley, has received his first promotion, to airman, at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii, where he is a freight traffic specialist. A 197 graduate of Ripley High School, he recently completed technical training at Sheppard Air Force Base, Tex.

Mrs. Warren Nunn, president of the organization, said prizes will be awarded the classrooms with the highest adult attendance, plans for projects for the forthcoming year will be discussed, and new teachers will be introduced.

Boyd's Daughter Receives Degree

Mrs. Mary Halliburton, the daughter of the James A. Boyd, of Henning, took a master's degree in library science from North Texas State University Aug. 13th, with a 4.0 average. She resides in Garland, Tex., with her husband, Pat Halliburton, and their son, Kevin.

County Seeks Home Agent

The County Court's Extension committee is seeking a new assistant Extension agent to succeed Mrs. Debbie Stephens, of Ripley, who is resigning. Meeting last Friday to consider two applications, the committee, headed by John Peyton, selected Miss Penne Ann Zacharak, of Humboldt, but she declined, having accepted another position. The committee must now offer the position again through Extension publications and take new applications. Two local women had inquired about the post but are not eligible under Extension rules prohibiting assignment of Extension workers to the county in which they were reared. The post is one which works primarily with nine Home Demonstration Clubs in the county. Their officers for the year ahead are: Asbury—Mrs. Luther McBride, president; Mrs. Wilbur Luton, vice-president; Mrs. Will Burns, secretary. Besar—Mrs. W. L. Stanley, president; Mrs. Don Ray, vice-president; Mrs. Sam Forsythe, secretary. Gates—Mrs. Frewl Buffalo, president; Mrs. W. L. Lawrence, vice-president; Mrs. Debra Williams, secretary. Key Corner—Mrs. Rhea Swins, president; Mrs. Theon Burrough, vice-president; Mrs. Wendell Perry, secretary. Make & Mend—Mrs. John Boals, president; Mrs. Jamie McMan, vice-president; Mrs. Fred Faulk, secretary. Progressive Homemakers—Mrs. Don Laughlin, president; Mrs. Brandy Harris, vice-president; Mrs. Tommy Watkins, secretary. Ripley Homemakers—Mrs. M. E. McConnell, president; Mrs. Talmage Critfield, vice-president; Mrs. John Pappas, secretary. Town & Country—Mrs. Ben Emerson, president; Mrs. Jimmy Jarrett, vice-president; Mrs. Jerry Burke, secretary. Durhamville-Orysa Variety Club—Mrs. W. H. Jordan, president; Mrs. Sam Williams, vice-president; Mrs. Roy Thompson, secretary. In addition to Mr. Peyton, Extension committee members—elected by the Court—are Mrs. Richard Lazrus, Mrs. Clifford Sweet, Hal Pennington, and Johnny Robera. The committee has agreed with a state suggestion that an additional assistant Extension agent be added here to work with large-scale row-crop producers, but plans for this will have to be placed before the County Court, probably in its October session.

As We See It
During the past few days, it has occurred to your editor that the Tennessee Secondary School Athletic Association may have rendered high school football a disservice with the recently established stipend.

While there is considerable justification in grouping schools for football according to student enrollment, there has also been the result that the schedules of schools have been disrupted, natural rivalries have been discontinued, and traveling much longer distances is sometimes required.

With the changes we're afraid that gate receipts—necessary for the operation of high school football just as in any other sport—will drop off and interest decrease because of the disruption of natural rivalries, and costs will mount. Whether good or bad, long established bowl games are being destroyed unless they can become a part of the playoff system.

We will watch with interest to determine if the changes are good or bad.

Reminiscing

As most of you know, we go back a long time with Halls High football and have seen virtually all of the teams since 1923 play at least one or two games, so our thoughts about football have brought some memories.

Perhaps some of them are slightly out of kilter, but they are basically correct.

For instance, we remember Trenton coming to Halls undefeated and untied and slated to be West Tennessee champions, only to go home sadder and wiser, smarting from a 20-0 licking; then 7 or 8 years later, the Tigers had the same aspirations, and Trenton ended their hopes with a 6-0 licking in a snowstorm.

One game we vividly remember was when Whitehaven came to Halls in about 1929 and built up 19 first downs and no points, while the Tigers had 19 points and four first downs. That was the time that the late Hemphill Hanna on the first play from scrimmage broke 60 yards downfield, only to have his feet fly from under him in a wet spot.

On the next play, Mordie Butler, now living in Arizona, went the remaining 20 yards for a Tiger touchdown. Halls scored twice more on a runback of an intercepted pass by James Pickard and on a freak play when a young end, Harold Howell, starting his first game, backed up some 30 yards to take a punt and return it 45 yards for a touchdown. Whitehaven marched up and down the field all afternoon but couldn't penetrate the Tiger goal line.

In a game at Ripley in the late 1940s, Wymond Stallings and we believe, Peter Jones for Ripley put on one of the greatest running exhibitions that we have ever seen. Ripley won the game, but no one was certain until the final whistle.

We could go on and on, but this sounds like an old timer's rambling, which, of course, it is. Anyhow, we hope that the old time rivalries can be maintained where the student body size is anywhere near comparable.

Mrs. Wiley Perry Is Honored By Garden Club

By Mrs. Red Williams

Mrs. Wiley Perry, of Dyersburg, was welcomed as a visitor and recognized as founder of the club in 1963 and its first president at the Halls Garden Club meeting last Thursday at First Baptist Church for its first meeting of the new year. Mrs. Sidney Gooch presided.

Mrs. E. C. Thurmond presented the meditation using as her theme, "Nature."

Members brought flowers and containers to use in a workshop on arrangements with Mrs. Perry supervising. Upon completion, the arrangements were displayed and the outstanding ones selected.

Mrs. Ross Dyer and Mrs. Bob Poindexter made a mass arrangement of lavender and foxglove in a gold bowl; Mrs. W. G. Neely and Mrs. Frank Moore arranged a crescent of pink roses and Mrs. E. C. Thurmond presented a symmetrical triangle of red princess feather and miniature zinnias.

The hostesses, Mrs. Leonard Andrews, Mrs. A. A. Ball, Mrs. Will Spence, and Mrs. Frank Moore, served Cokes and assorted cookies.

HOW CAN YOU TELL?

Lessons for September 11, 1977

Background Scripture: 1 Thes 3:1-12, 2 Cor 13:1-12, 2 Cor 13:1-12

A little boy was listening intently while the guest preacher was describing what he considered to be "true Christian disciples." As the preacher went on, the boy's face lit up with the qualities of love, understanding, kindness, and sacrificial service.

The little boy turned to his mother and asked, "Mom, do I know any of those people?"

Apparently the Christians were describing didn't sound at all like the ones the little boy knew! We can appreciate the little boy's confusion, for we would have to admit that often it is rather difficult to tell the Christian from the non-Christian on the basis of what we can observe. To be sure, some people wear ornate crosses round their necks or in their lapels, some sport religious bumper stickers or badges, but for the most part it is often difficult to tell one from the other.

Stupid controversies

Actually, the Epistle to Titus gives us both a positive and negative model. It is ironic that many who consider themselves as "model Christians" Titus indicates as the wrong model. For example, as his negative model, he cites the following:

But avoid stupid controversies, genealogies, dissensions, and quarrels over the law, for they are unprofitable and futile. As for a man who is factious, after admonishing him once or twice, have nothing more to do with him, knowing that such a person is perverted and sinful. (2:10-11)

The "wrong model" is the self-righteous person who apparently thinks that the essence of Christian discipleship is argumentation, who is constantly rushing to God's defense whenever the Almighty seems challenged or threatened by beliefs which God's defender deems "incorrect" or even "dangerous."

Recently I watched a television "talk show" in which the guest was a well-known self-proclaimed atheist. Although I found myself disagreeing with much that he said, I was appalled at the hateful way in which many of the studio audience Christians responded to her. The vehemence with which they attacked her was a denial of the Lord of Love they professed to believe in and serve. The greatest heresy was not the atheist's arguments, but the Christians' behavior!

The evidence of good deeds

What a contrast with the positive model Titus presents for us: "...to speak evil of no one, to avoid quarreling, to be gentle, and to show perfect courtesy toward all men like Christ. Those who truly believe in God, Titus, shall 'apply themselves to good deeds,' not bitter arguments, 'making an evil and hating one another' (3:8, 3:11). It was true then and it is still true now: that the only way to tell the true follower of Christ.

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

In recent years, millions of citizens of foreign countries have immigrated to the United States legally, displaying the ban by hiring illegal aliens.

In addition, there would be increased enforcement of existing laws which make it easier to hire illegal aliens. Two of these are the Fair Labor Standards Act, which requires the payment of a minimum wage, and the Federal Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act which prohibits the recruiting and hiring of illegal aliens for farm work.

The enforcement of these two statutes would be intensified. To complement the employment prohibition, President Carter plans to increase the number of officers in the Border Patrol, especially along the Mexican border. He also plans to reorganize the enforcement resources for greater effectiveness but anticipates that this increase in the Border Patrol will number about 2,000 additional patrolmen. It will also include new methods aimed at breaking up the organized rings that smuggle aliens into the country.

Probably the most controversial aspect of the President's plan is his proposal to grant amnesty to those illegal aliens who have been in this country continuously since Jan. 1st, 1970. These aliens would have to apply for this status and would have to document proof of their continuous residency. If that proof is made, they will be eligible for citizenship.

The President's proposal has been sent to the Congress and I am hopeful that it will be acted on expeditiously.

MODERN DRUGS

Contemporary Use Illegal Abuse By Sammie Arnold, Reg. Pharmacist

A study by the Windsor Poison Control Center indicates that there will be an accidental poisoning every 20 minutes this year, and approximately one out of every four such mishaps will be caused by prescription drugs.

Here are a few "Don'ts" to follow that may help one of your family from becoming a statistic. DON'T take medicine which has been prescribed for someone else.

DON'T refer to medicine as candy to children. DON'T place poisonous liquids in soda bottles. DON'T take medicine in the dark when you might be drowsy.

Again, these are just a few suggestions; why not let us hear about the ones you have thought of?

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY
You get no refund on your SS taxes

Copley News Service
Q. I had earnings of $6,304.30 for Social Security from 1961 through 1969. I am told I don't have enough quarters to obtain Social Security benefits. What happens to the money I paid in, if I'm not eligible for Social Security? I reached age 62 in August of 1974. — Mrs. V.H. A. The law does not provide for a refund of taxes correctly paid by the worker or self-employed person on earnings covered under Social Security even when benefits are not payable. These taxes remain a part of the trust funds from which benefits are paid. In most cases the worker would have received, during his working life, protection for his (her) dependents of a value greater than the taxes paid. This protection would consist of disability benefits for the wage-earner and family if he (she) became unable to work because of a disability and survivor benefits in the event of the wage-earner's death.

Q. My husband just received his first Social Security check on disability and I receive a check each month (age 65 years). He also gets a pension from the place of business where he worked. Do we have to pay income tax on these? — Mrs. J.S. A. Social Security benefits are not taxable. Your husband's pension from his place of business probably is taxable. Check with your local state and IRS office for a proper answer.

Q. When I filed for Social Security I brought a delayed birth certificate for proof of my age. They asked me if I had any other proof. I've never had this trouble before and I am wondering why Social Security won't accept my delayed birth certificate. — H.R.P. A. Often a person obtains a delayed birth certificate to prove where he was born, not when. Therefore, some delayed birth certificates may not be acceptable for age.

Q. I noted in your column that a person born in 1920 needs 21 quarters of coverage for retirement benefits. I always thought you needed 40 quarters. I was born in 1924. I worked 3 1/2 years in the early 1940s. I will have worked another 34 months if our county goes through with its plan to pull out of Social Security by March, 1978. Will that be enough quarters of coverage? — I.P.H. A. No. A person born in 1924 needs 25 quarters of coverage for retirement benefits. You will have about 25 quarters by March, 1978.

Questions on Social Security may be sent to Copley News Service in care of this newspaper. This column is based on information provided by the Social Security Office in San Diego, Calif.

Halls Rests After Win In Last 38 Seconds

ON HIS WAY is Dwayne McKinney (40) as center Jimmy Meeks (55) blocks and fullback Willie Robinson (44) watches for other threats. McKinney, state scoring leader last season, averaged 6.2 yards on 28 carries, including 44-yard and 2-yard touchdowns in the first two quarters and the tie-breaking tally with 38 seconds left in the contest.

WHERE IS HE?—McKenzie quarterback Tommy Surber (11) has plenty of protection for the moment—he needs a receiver, and he looks—the wrong way. Halls sacked him four times to offset about half of the 55 yards he gained on five completions in ten attempts—and intercepted once—in the Tiger win on the McKenzie field last week.

McKinney's 30th Point Unknotts McKenzie Tilt

The Halls Tigers, who upped their record to 2-0 in the last minute of last week's game with McKenzie, welcome an open date this weekend before they journey to Newbern next Friday evening to face the strong Dyer County Choctaws.

The Choctaws lost their debut Aug. 26th to Martin West Side in overtime. They did not play last week. Dwayne McKinney scored three times for Halls last Friday evening as his Tigers outlasted the McKenzie Rebels, 18-12, in McKenzie.

McKinney went 44 yards for a first period tally and two to put the Tigers ahead 12-0 at the half. McKenzie scored in the third quarter on a 2-yard plunge by Tracy Jackson. Jackson went in from the ten to tie the count, with five minutes left in the game.

The Tigers wrapped it up on McKinney's 16-yard dash after they had moved the ball from their 33.

McKinney, defending his 1976 state scoring title, now has 30 points this season.

The Tigers had 11 first downs and 241 yards against McKenzie, which had seven first downs and 172 yards.

McKinney got 174 yards in 28 carries. Willie Robinson added 58 on five carries. Joseph Jones produced 211 yards in four attempts. Halls passed twice, com-

Arrests Fuel Dove Bait Jitters

The opening of dove season each year usually is accompanied by a certain amount of "ruffled feathers." I'm not talking about those of the doves, but those of hunters caught shooting over baited fields who wind up facing a judge and a stiff fine. I have pointed out previously that in most of these situations, hunters are usually aware that a field is baited before they hunt it. In such cases, an arrest is well in order. Shooting baited doves is a violation of the law—and whether we agree with the law or not—if we knowingly abuse that regulation, we should expect to be arrested.

I emphasize the word "knowingly." Here's where the controversy comes in, and rightly so, because it leads to a flagrant flaw in the law that needs to be corrected.

On opening day this year, state and federal wildlife officers converged on two dove fields near Rowville and declared them to be illegally baited. The names of approximately 200 hunters who had each paid a $5 fee to hunt were taken and referred to U. S. Attorney Mike Cody in Memphis for disposition. (Since doves are migratory, they are protected by federal regulations.)

It's a safe assumption that few, if any, of these sportsmen had any idea that the fields were illegal. They responded to a published advertisement announcing the hunt and paid a fee to participate. Under similar circumstances, any hunter would be confident that the field was okay.

Should these hunters be fined? Or, if it is shown that the field was actually intentionally baited, should the person responsible for the baiting be cited into court?

The law, as written, prohibits the taking of migratory birds over illegally baited areas but has no provisions whatsoever for holding a person or landowner who is guilty of baiting responsible for his actions. Unless he is personally caught hunting such a field, he goes scot-free.

If it were possible for a hunter to inspect any dove field he is about to hunt and immediately determine whether or not the field is baited, there could be little question about his guilt, if he is caught shooting over a baited field. Unfortunately, a hunter cannot do so in many instances. Consider the following situation, for example:

State wildlife officers spotted piles of grain on a field in Dyer County from an airplane Aug. 25th, one week before the season opened this year. Inspection of the field that night revealed that the piles contained grain mixtures—wheat, sunflower seeds, corn, etc.—obviously not spilled during normal agricultural procedures. Samples and photographs were taken.

The following Tuesday night, two days before the season opened, officers re-checked the field and found it had been disked. They later determined that this had been done the previous Saturday, five days before the season opening.

Title 50, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 20, Subpart C, "Taking of Migratory Birds," stipulates that "baited areas means any area where shelled, shucked or unshucked corn, wheat or other grain, salt or other feed whatsoever, capable of luring, attracting, or enticing such birds is directly or indirectly placed, exposed, deposited, distributed or scattered, and such areas shall remain a baited area for 10 days following complete removal of all such corn, wheat or other grain, salt or other feed."

On opening day, Sept. 1st, eight hunters were arrested hunting the Dyer County field described above.

Imagine yourself as one of those hunters. Could you have looked at the field and determined if it was baited? If so, how? Has the field been disked two days or 20?

Unless someone advises you—and does so truthfully—you could not possibly know.

We have no way of knowing whether these eight hunters knew the field was illegal. Wildlife officers find themselves in the same boat, yet they must enforce the law. In any case, the hunters were cited to federal court, and if past experience is any indication, they'll pay a stiff fine, to say the least.

And those responsible for the baiting—unless among the hunters cited—is clear.

While it might appear that an easy solution to this dilemma would be to change the law to make the landowner liable for any baiting, it's not quite that simple.

Joe Clay Davis, a Lauderdale County farmer who traditionally provides dove hunting fields free of charge for friends and other area sportsmen, makes an excellent point.

"Several sportsmen have been shooting a field on my place since season opening. I haven't even been over there, simply because I haven't had time."

"Now, just suppose that the regulations were changed to make me, as the landowner, responsible for any baiting."

"And then suppose that some greedy hunter dumped a pile of grain or salt on the field and it was discovered by wildlife officers. Where would that leave me?"

Obviously, if the regulations

There are some other very important points to be considered. For instance, if you are caught hunting doves illegally in one West Tennessee county, the amount of your fine or penalty could be—and very likely will be—much stiffer than if you are caught in another county.

Wildlife officers, in many instances, have found it necessary to exercise an option they have of citing violators of migratory game laws into federal court instead of local general sessions courts. In virtually every such case, the penalty is more severe.

There are no written guidelines for determining this—it's up to the officer. It may be necessary in the eyes of the law, but is it fair? More about this next week.

Tree Cutter Hit Fatally

Doyle Bruce Williams, 26, of Asbury, timber cutter employed by C. H. Walker, was killed Monday when vines in a falling tree pulled another tree-top down.

The accident occurred on the Anderson-Tully State Wildlife Area west of Arp. Mr. Williams had worked for Mr. Walker for about six months.

He had formerly been employed by Gus Hargett & Son, Inc., of Henning.

Services were at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Ripley Funeral Home, with burial in Asbury Cemetery.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Martha Ann Gaines Williams; a son, Ronnie, and a daughter, Tina, at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, of Arp; six brothers, Donald, Jeff, Johnny, and Terry, of Ripley, Thomas, of Halls, and Alvin, of Vermilion, Ohio; and six sisters, Mrs. Linda Buckner and Mrs. Betty Fay Hargett, of Ripley, Mrs. Nancy Lumley and Mrs. Pat Roberson, of Halls, and Mrs. Joan Moody and Mrs. Kay Moody, of Lexington.

Brown Twins 84 On Friday

Clarence and Clyde Brown, twins born at Goldoust in 1893, will celebrate 84th birthdays this Friday.

Both are very active and enjoying life.

Twins are unusual, but these have another distinction—they married sisters (Stones).

Clarence has three children, Clyde seven.

Clarence, who resides on Highland St. in Ripley, attends Hurricane Hill United Methodist Church.

Clyde, who resides on Lake Drive in Ripley, next to Chisholm D-X Service Station, is a member of First Presbyterian Church in Ripley.

Tiny Bowl, Yule Parade Planned

Ripley Jaycees will revive the Tiny Bowl on Kees Field in Ripley Nov. 10th and again sponsor Ripley's annual Christmas parade Nov. 29th.

Bobby Webb has been named parade chairman.

Scott Pipkin is in charge of Tiny Bowl plans.

Jerry Little is chairman of Jaycee-sponsored Little League football.

Mrs. Gladys Crain Joins State Demo Committee

Mrs. Gladys Crain, of Ripley, was elected Saturday to the state Democratic Executive Committee.

Jimmy Peeler, of Covington, nominated her Saturday at a meeting of the committee in Nashville to succeed Mrs. Jule Peel, of Dyersburg, as 27th Senatorial

2-Inch Rain Brings Head-On Crash

Ernie Russell, of St. Louis, Mo., went to Lauderdale County Hospital and Millard Jones, of Ripley, to Baptist Hospital in Memphis after car met head-on in rain on old Hwy. 51, just north of Cane Creek bridge, at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Scenic Rivers Law Invoked

The state highway department's plan to bridge the Hatchie River near the new Fort Pilow State Historical Area is illegal under the state's 1968 Scenic Rivers Act, the state attorney general says in an official opinion requested by B. R. "Buck" Allison, state Commissioner of Conservation.

The span was proposed by the highway department as part of the Great River Road—a national scenic parkway which has been promoted since 1938—to run from the headwaters of the Mississippi River in Minnesota to its Louisiana Delta.

The highway department told Lauderdale and Tipton County judges in February that a road from the park area to Highway 59, near Gilt Edge in Tipton County, would serve 140 vehicles daily—to double by 1996.

Completion of other segments of the Great River Road would boost traffic to 525 vehicles daily now and to 1,500 by 1996, the department estimated.

Mrs. Billy Spiller, of Ripley, is one of five citizens on the state Mississippi River Parkway (or Great River Road) Commission, serving until April, 1980.

The Hatchie, boundary line between Lauderdale and Tipton Counties, is the only major stream in the state still a Class I (restricted) river under the Scenic Rivers Act—classified as a "swamp river."

Many of the state's scenic rivers were amended out of the act, in whole or in part, when it was passed in 1968, and others have been removed since by amendments passed by the state legislature.

Only small portions of the Harpeth and Buffalo in Middle Tennessee remain under the act.

The Hatchie twists from the Mississippi border near Savannah across the lower third of Tennessee, full of mud and snags.

Allison urges caution. Allison says he does not oppose a bridge—simply wants it to damage the river as little as possible, without obstructive concrete pillars or channelization.

"The Hatchie has been a very significant stream in West Tennessee," he notes, "and Tennesseans have had some very destructive habits on the river for the last 150 years."

"In 1820, steamboats ran up the Hatchie from the Mississippi to Bolivar. The city has acquired a new fire truck, which cost $27,000. The old fire truck will remain in service."

U.S. Rep. Ed Jones visited Gates Saturday to congratulate the city on a $350,000 grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to connect it with the Halls sewerage system.

The city has acquired a new fire truck, which cost $27,000. The old fire truck will remain in service.

When it comes to sports equipment, it seems that someone is always trying to build a better mousetrap. A lot of inventions are nothing more than clever gimmicks, while others are of practical value. For example, where would we be without optic yellow tennis balls, aluminum baseball bats, or even artificial turf?

Here are some of the latest innovations to surface on the sports market:

- Plastic golf tees that are slanted so that they offer less resistance as the ball is hit.
- A machine that shoots hockey pucks at goalies standing on a sheet of plastic "ice."

Sports Notebook

- A fleecy tennis ball that flies slowly enough to allow players to learn and improve volleying techniques.
- A cannon-like device that air-blasts fly balls to baseball outfielders.
- A metronomic "slipper" that swimmers can strap to their heads to time their strokes.

Base-stealers challenged

Lou Brock, the best base-stealer in the major leagues, says that 80 or 90 thefts a season are almost out of the question in this age. The St. Louis outfielder stole a record 118 bases in 1974, but believes that pitchers are now preventing such grand larceny with more deception on the mound. By taking their stretch from what Brock calls an unbalanced position, pitchers can better disguise their intentions. "It cuts down your running time," Lou says, "and the caught-stealing average is much higher the last couple of years."

Board Votes To Study Plans For Annexation

Halls Board of Mayor and Aldermen voted Monday evening to study possible annexation of three major areas west and north of Halls.

Included in the proposed annexation are areas along Hwy. 88 west of Halls to the second road leading into the old air base, formerly known as Gate 5, north of Halls extending just west of Forke Deer Electric Cooperative, Inc., and west of Hurt Seed Co. on the air base including "squaring off" the area and connecting to the second road west of the Charles O. Viar property.

Mayor Sammie Arnold said a recent study showed that approximately 100 acres and thirty-three buildings are included in the area. He said that ordinances for the annexation will be set up on each area individually.

The Board also instructed City Attorney Tom Caldwell to draw up and present an ordinance making it a violation to leave or abandon inoperable or "junk" cars on city streets or parking lots.

In other business the Board heard a request by J. T. White, Sr., to purchase about two acres on the old air base for use as a Salvage Car Lot. The Board agreed to set aside two acres to be used in this manner if Mr. White can comply with local and state zoning regulations.

Directed City Superintendent Akin Barnes to paint pedestrian lanes at school crossings on West Tigrett.

Denied a request by Gerald Cherry for permission to establish a 44 foot right of way for a family party Saturday. Other guests at the party included 7th District Rep. Ed Jones, of Washington, D. C., and Don Hill, of Yorkville.

CONFIDENTIAL CORNER

Major Decision

As the Tennessee Constitutional Convention convened again Monday after a ten-day furlough, the body faced some major decisions which are of vital interest to every citizen of Tennessee.

Some of the matters that the Convention must consider include a change in the governor's term of office and the length of term of some county offices, major changes in the tax structure, the possibility of imposing a ceiling on state spending along with a number of other proposed changes in our 100-year-old constitution.

We think one of the major decisions is determining whether or not to remove the constitutionally imposed 10% interest ceiling on loans. The recent ruling by the Tennessee Supreme Court that a regulation passed three years ago by the state legislature allowing interest rates in excess of 10% for certain lending agencies is unconstitutional has created havoc among lending agencies.

We are not yet convinced that some lending agencies are not attempting to create pressure in closing offices and reducing personnel but we can see where they will need some relief if they are to continue to operate.

In all probability the present 10% ceiling should be removed but on the other hand we do not believe that all controls should be removed permitting usury rates such as are being charged in Mississippi and some other nearby states.

As suggested by many perhaps any limit should be removed from the constitution and placed in the hands of the legislature. We are not necessarily advocating this particular solution but we do feel that some changes are indicated unless the flow of money in the state is to be severely curtailed.

More Reminiscing

Writing last week about some of the past football teams reminded us of some of the unusual and funny things that have happened over the years.

Among the more amusing incidents was the time we were officiating a 9th grade football game along with the late Walker Poston, of Dyersburg, when a Dyersburg player attempted to slug a Halls player. Your editor threw a flag for a penalty since no real harm was done but Walker disqualified him while at the same time the youngster was trying to tell us something but we wouldn't listen. The snapper came after the game when the boy came rushing up to us and showed where some one had bitten him on the arm. However, it turned out later that he had blamed the wrong player.

Then there was the time that Jerry Donald Norman ran back two successive Covington punts for touchdowns and the Covington punter began to kick out of bounds. Later the Covington coach said that after the second runback he decided that Jerry was doing it on purpose.

Unusual or funny plays often occur in the Halls-Tiptonville games. For instance, the game when Beatty, of Tiptonville, who later played at Ole Miss and played professional football with the Cleveland Browns, picked up a Tiptonville fumble, hid it on his leg, and walked 25 yards downfield before turning and showing the ball to everyone. Another time it rained so hard before and during a game at Tiptonville that a Halls backfield man claimed that he had set all all-time ground gaining record—counting the yards he slid after being tackled. Then on another rainy night, David Hallman, Halls fullback, made a some sizable gain, dropped the ball, went several yards downfield, turned around and came back, picked up the loose ball, and re-gained much of the previous yardage. David was the only man on the field that knew the ball was loose.

At various times we have been urged to pick an all-time Tiger football team but we will never undertake it. However, maybe some day soon, we will recall more of the unusual plays, outstanding games, and some of the outstanding players.

PTO Meeting Is Well Attended

Mrs. Warren Nunn, president of Halls Parent-Teacher Organization, expressed her appreciation to the large group of parents and others who attended the first PTO meeting of the year Monday evening.

Mrs. Nunn said plans are being completed for the annual Open House at the school during October and other projects are being readied.

Attendance prizes went to the first grade taught by Miss Nancy Ingram and kindergarten class taught by Miss Janice Williams.

Pat Carmack, elementary school principal, introduced faculty members.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to say "Thank You" to my family, friends and neighbors for the concern shown to me after my accident. Also, a special thanks to Lofton Mathis for getting me to the hospital and to Bro. Harold Burroughs and members of Halls Westside Baptist Church for their prayers and visits. We will never forget your kindness to us.

Tips On Taxes

LAWFUL WAYS TO SAVE

An estimated 67.8 million people paid about $39.3 billion more in taxes in 1975.

One way to stay out of such statistics is to be sure you take all the deductions you're entitled to—and can prove.

If you're traveled out of the country on business, for instance, you may be eligible for a deduction.

A good way to help make sure you have all the receipts you need to show your expenses—and to remind you of them—is to get a Master Charge card and save the receipts.

Many taxpayers consider it a good idea to use a bank credit card to pay for car care costs. If you use your car for business, you may pay less for the car's operating expenses individually or

Injunction Blocking Waterway Maintenance Is Removed

J. Richard Swaim, executive director of Obion-Forked Deer Basin Authority, in a statement released Thursday of last week said E. T. Heinen, of the Environmental Protection Agency, has agreed to amendments to EPA orders which have blocked emergency clearing and maintaining of Obion and Forked Deer rivers and their tributaries. However, Paul Traina, of the Atlanta EPA office, must approve the agreement before it can be placed into effect.

Also, Mr. Swaim said, Federal Judge Bailey Brown of Memphis, has issued an order releasing the Corps of Engineers from a restraining injunction.

Controversy has raged for several months over interpretation of government regulations controlling any type of work on the waterways.

Mr. Swaim said representatives of EPA, the Corps of Engineers, Continental Engineering, the State Attorney General, and the Basin Authority visited three of four sites visited Wednesday last week.

Mr. Swaim said Mr. Heinen agreed to the following as outlined by a letter written by Mr. Swaim on Aug. 30th:

Area 1: Several wetland areas have been filled with trees, dirt, and debris. Private loggers had cut trees that fell across the South Fork of the Forked Deer River. It was agreed that trees that had been pushed into the river by Mr. Swaim's contractors could be removed and debris that had been placed on the wetlands along the left (downstream) bank at the request of the Tennessee Wildlife Refuge Agency would be left or removed at the discretion of Mr. Swaim in consideration of his agreement with TWRA. The areas from bridge number 21 extended about 1.5 miles on right bank and 1 mile on left bank (downstream). It was agreed that the wetland areas would be cleared of debris.

Area 2: We agreed that Mr. Swaim could remove the two obstructions now blocking the stream downstream of the bridge at Eaton levee in the Middle Fork of the Forked Deer River above the power line crossing just below the bridge. Mr. Swaim agreed that the trees left standing on the river bank between the bridge and power line could be removed and piled on top of an area along the river but not into any wetland areas. Any burning of debris would have to be in accordance with state regulations. As the equipment is removed, Mr. Swaim would have one low area, that had been filled, opened in order to allow water in and out of the river and the adjacent timbered wetlands along the right bank.

Area 3: Agreed that trees could be removed from both banks of Pond Creek above the first bridge above state hwy. 20 to the point where the second pipeline crosses Pond Creek. No wetlands were observed within the area, where trees are to be piled. Note: Existing contract between Basin Authority and the Administrative Order was considered. No new work areas were authorized. Trees and debris that had been placed on the wetlands along the left (downstream) bank at the request of the Tennessee Wildlife Refuge Agency would be left or removed at the discretion of Mr. Swaim in consideration of his agreement with TWRA. The areas from bridge number 21 extended about 1.5 miles on right bank and 1 mile on left bank (downstream). It was agreed that the wetland areas would be cleared of debris.

Area 4: South Fork Obion river. We did not travel to this site as time did not allow. From aerial photographs it was noted that adjacent lands had been cleared and planted. No wetlands involved. It was agreed that trees that had been pushed into the water could be removed and piled on river bank to be burned or buried. Any other debris or floating obstructions would be cleared of debris.

WEDNESDAY REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

As Congress returned from its August recess last week, it appears that the fast pace that characterized its activities since the first of the year will continue. A number of important issues remain to be resolved, and together they will require great attention by the House and Senate for a number of weeks.

Chances are the energy issue will continue to dominate much of the Congressional work sessions. The House has passed the Energy Act before the recess and sent it over to the Senate for action there. That body has broken the logjam in parts that are being considered by the Senate Finance Committee and the Senate Energy Committee.

In addition, other energy related legislation is scheduled for consideration. The Energy Research and Development Administration Authorization bill contains language authorizing energy research including the controversial Clinch River fast breeder reactor at Oak Ridge. Also, a bill establishing new procedures for leasing areas along the outer continental shelf, and one on oil exploration is due for consideration soon.

Just last week, action was taken on an important defense issue. The House and Senate Conference Committee on Defense Department Appropriations has not been able to reach an agreement on what should be done about funding for the B-1 bomber in light of President Carter's recent decision to discontinue production of the advanced airplane. The House-passed version of the bill contained funds for further construction of the B-1 while the Senate went along with the President and deleted that funding. Consequently, when the Conference Report was considered in the House, a separate vote was taken on whether or not to include funds in the bill to build five more B-1s. Unfortunately, the effort to keep the production of the B-1 bomber going failed by a very close vote of 202-192.

Use spin to win

By ED COLLINS
Copley News Service

Nestled deep in a valley in Tennessee stands a crude one-room cabin. Wind gusts curl woodsmoke through falling yellow light as busy hands work and become still. Another day has come to close in the life of one of Tennessee's many craftsmen.

This scene is a reminder of the days when man confronted a new frontier. He found that those furnishings needed in the home must literally be wrought by hand out of the wilderness.

These early settlers, 95 percent self-sufficient and with no access to city markets, made tea from wild herbs, coffee from parched corn and sugar from wild honey. The ability to extract from their surroundings essential elements of life is a small tribute to their strength, ingenuity and endurance. Under circumstances that would have discouraged many, they steadfastly maintained a faith that is one of their outstanding characteristics. Above everything was the opportunity to develop their own potential and carry their own responsibilities.

It depends on the playing situation as to which type of spin is called for.

Most serves are hit with top spin — the high bounce makes it difficult for the receiver to play the ball. When defending against the net rusher, top spin helps keep the ball low, so the volleyer is forced to pop the ball up. Also, in a baseline rally, good top spin forehand can force many weak returns by aiming high and deep to the opponent's backhand.

Underpin is the natural answer to offensive top spin shots — the ball leaves the racket with the same rotation it came with, which makes it hit hard, it's easier to get it back by using underpin.

You can learn how to make the ball produce an effect by first watching a good player. Notice on his top spin forehand how he cradles below the racket, about 12 inches below the approaching ball. Watch how he lifts it, keeping the racket face perpendicular to the ground, finishing the stroke high over his left shoulder.

Now watch the underpin stroke. Study the player as he starts his swing above the ball, with the racket tilted slightly back. Look at the abbreviation of the stroke — not much backswing, not much follow-through.

Keep watching and someday you'll be able to make the ball do tricks for you.

As Congress returned from its August recess last week, it appears that the fast pace that characterized its activities since the first of the year will continue. A number of important issues remain to be resolved, and together they will require great attention by the House and Senate for a number of weeks.

Chances are the energy issue will continue to dominate much of the Congressional work sessions. The House has passed the Energy Act before the recess and sent it over to the Senate for action there. That body has broken the logjam in parts that are being considered by the Senate Finance Committee and the Senate Energy Committee.

In addition, other energy related legislation is scheduled for consideration. The Energy Research and Development Administration Authorization bill contains language authorizing energy research including the controversial Clinch River fast breeder reactor at Oak Ridge. Also, a bill establishing new procedures for leasing areas along the outer continental shelf, and one on oil exploration is due for consideration soon.

Just last week, action was taken on an important defense issue. The House and Senate Conference Committee on Defense Department Appropriations has not been able to reach an agreement on what should be done about funding for the B-1 bomber in light of President Carter's recent decision to discontinue production of the advanced airplane. The House-passed version of the bill contained funds for further construction of the B-1 while the Senate went along with the President and deleted that funding. Consequently, when the Conference Report was considered in the House, a separate vote was taken on whether or not to include funds in the bill to build five more B-1s. Unfortunately, the effort to keep the production of the B-1 bomber going failed by a very close vote of 202-192.

Bevis, Box Say Bean Check-Off Will Work

Two county men who should know agreed this week that half cent a bushel collected by soy bean elevator operators to promote bean markets will get results. "We often hear that half the world's population goes to bed hungry every night," said M. C. Bevis, of Ripley, vice-chairman of the Tennessee Soybean Promotion Board. "What they are hungry for are foods with high levels of protein. Soy beans are the world's best source of protein for human consumption."

Pinned In Truck, Hurt Fatally

1962 FORD TRUCK DRIVEN BY THOMAS YULES HODGE, 62, Central blacksmith and welder, was northbound when it and a Volkswagen driven by Bill Ray Ditto, of 161 Church Street, Ripley, sideswiped in front of Jackie Walker's Service Station near Central Wednesday afternoon of last week, according to state Highway Patrolman Billy Wayne Williams, of Arp. The truck struck a tree, pinning Hodge's left leg; he was dead on arrival at Lauderdale County Hospital. Services were at 2 p.m. Friday in Ripley Funeral Home, with burial in Lightfoot Cemetery. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Vivian Kate Hodge; two sons, George Hodge, of Halls, and Yules Dwayne Hodge, of Memphis; a daughter, Mrs. Martha Prater, of Ripley; five sisters, Mrs. Lucille Harrison, Mrs. Ollie Jones, and Mrs. Sadie Scott, of Ripley, Mrs. Lola Brown, of Bartlett, and Mrs. Dora Colvin, of Chicago, Ill.; and a half-brother, William Hodge, of Elkhart, Ind.

Bishop Battles Hatchie Curbs

State Rep. Jimmy Bishop, of Brownsville, told this newspaper Wednesday that he will introduce legislation in the next General Assembly, convening in January, to free the Hatchie River from U.S. Highway 51 to the Mississippi River from the Scenic Rivers Act. This would clear the way for a bridge on the proposed Great River Road, near the Fort Pillow State Historical Area, which the state attorney general has ruled is prohibited by the Scenic Rivers Act, passed in 1968. Chairman Ralph Lawson, of Dyersburg, of the state's Mississippi River Parkway Commission—Tennessee's agency for the Great River Road—has called members of the commission, including Mrs. Billy Spiller, of Ripley, to meet at the Four Seasons Restaurant in Covington at 6:30 p.m. Monday to discuss the bridge issue. Many of the state's streams have already been taken from under the protection of the Scenic Rivers Act by amendments of the legislature. The Hatchie, boundary line between Lauderdale and Tipton Counties, is the only major stream still a Class I (restricted) river under the act—"swamp river."

Womanless Revue For Handicapped

Honor Retiring District Leader

The Rev. Ed Diggs, retiring from the ministry and as Brownsville Methodist District superintendent Dec. 31st, and Mrs. Diggs will be honored by ministers and laymen of the district with a reception in Ripley Dec. 4th. The event is planned for 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. in the new Activities Building of Ripley's First United Methodist Church.

Pollution Fighters Install Mrs. Owen

Mrs. Edric C. Owen, of Dry Hill, has been elected to a 3-year term on the board of directors of Tennessee Beautification, Inc., a non-profit environmental organization headquartered in Nashville, dedicated to preventing pollution. Mrs. Helen Keith, of Memphis, director of the Shelby County Environmental Improvement Commission, is the organization's new president. Robert Barrett, of Paris, is West Tennessee vice-president this year.

400 Provide $511 For Curve School

Evangelist Gordon Watson, revival leader in Curve Baptist Church, joined the Fort Pillow State Penal Farm band in a gospel song Saturday evening as a spaghetti supper attended by some 400 persons raised $511 for Curve Elementary School. The Rev. Roger Criner, of Memphis, will lead revival services in Olive Branch Baptist Church at Luckett at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 25-29th. There will be special music each evening. The public is invited.

First Non-Fiction—Riplian's Book On Alcatraz Sells Well

Ripley author Clark Howard's eleventh book—his first non-fiction—is getting great reviews; his twelfth is completed and due out next spring; but his thirteenth has had the luck associated with that number, so he lacks about four weeks of finishing it. The bad luck? Well, it seems he was on the set of a movie called "Roar" and was playing with three lion cubs, five months old and weighing 45 pounds each. "Richard and Gloria were a lot of fun," he says, "but Lena clawed my right forearm a little. She didn't mean to, and I couldn't get mad at her, because she's my favorite of the litter. I don't think I'll play with her when she gets much larger, though." Howard takes such things in stride, as he did the floods in Kansas City, Mo., while there last week promoting his eleventh book. His stride is a lengthy one. It has taken him a long way from his birth in Ripley on June 7, 1934, to James Richmond Howard and his wife, Chloe Beatrice Clark, who resided on Chickasaw St. His uncle, retired Air Force major Frank Smith, now resides in Halls. Orphaned early in life, Howard grew up on the west side of Chicago, Ill., but he was graduated from Ripley High School in 1950, after two years during which he worked for Berg & Schafer in Ripley as a distributive education student. He wasn't writing then. He enlisted in the Marine Corps at 18 and was a bazooka gunner in Korea. It was at a rest camp, after 200 consecutive days in action, that he began writing a Western short story, to while away the time—and his career was on its way. Out of the Corps at 20, with five decorations to his credit, he enrolled in the Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. In one class, he was assigned to write a short story. His instructor criticized his effort severely before the class, remarking that such a story would never sell. Howard had already sold it—for $500. He walked out of the class—and out of the university. In the next ten years, he turned out more than 150 Western, war, and mystery yarns, including 20 scripts for the Alfred Hitchcock television program, while working for advertising and public relations agencies in Chicago, Los Angeles, Calif., and Las Vegas, Nev. His novel, "The Killing," published by Dial in 1973, was hailed by The New York Times Book Review as "tops of its kind." Dial published his first non-fiction Sept. 9th—"Six Against The Rock"—the first complete account of the May, 1946 seizure of the federal prison on Alcatraz Island, in San Francisco Bay, by six men serving a total of 283 years plus three life sentences. For 41 desperate hours, while tens of thousands watched from shore, they waged an incredible battle against prison guards, policemen, the Army, Navy, Air Corps, Coast Guard, and two assault companies of battle-hardened U.S. Marines. To write the book, Howard located and befriended a number of former convicts involved and contacted the next of kin of participants and hostages no longer living. In all, he spent 14 months doing research for the book. It has received major attention. During the June convention in San Francisco of the American Booksellers Convention, Howard led a group of those attending on a private tour of Alcatraz, which is now a museum. The tour was filmed by NBC-TV for part of a documentary on special promotions. The "Today" television show Sept. 1st gave Howard 8 1/2 minutes—about twice the time normally given an author—for an interview about the book, with film shot inside Alcatraz. A 2-hour Quinn Martin movie based on "Six Against The Rock" will be aired on CBS Television this fall. Howard and his wife, the former Johnnie Sue Williams, live in Las Vegas. They have sons in the Universities of Nevada and California. Howard enjoys vintage movies and professional boxing, but his hobby, when he isn't writing books, is collecting them—on the old West, World War II, and criminology, in particular. But he keeps that typewriter busy. "Traces of Mercury" appears next spring, four weeks should finish "The Wardens," and...yes, he's already thinking about No. 14.

Thank You

Thank you, Gates, for your generous support of this year's Kiss Your Baby Campaign for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

The campaign raised a total of $175.00 which will support vital research, care, and education programs benefiting the millions of children across the nation who have such lung-damaging diseases as Cystic Fibrosis, asthma, chronic bronchitis, and chronic emphysema, and re-current pneumonia.

The young people who worked so hard in this campaign and the people who gave their dollars should know that they have done something special—they have helped give a better chance in life to children who must struggle to breathe.

We hope that some day we'll conquer children's lung-damaging diseases, which each year kill more children than any other disease except cancer. When that "some day" arrives, our friends in Gates will have helped make it possible.

ORDINANCE

An ordinance prohibiting the parking or leaving of any inoperative or unlicensed motor vehicle on the public ways and property of the town, providing for removal of same for fines for violations of the ordinance.

BE IT ORDAINED AND ENACTED by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the Town of Halls, Lauderdale County, State of Tennessee, as follows:

Section 1. No inoperative or unlicensed motor vehicle shall be parked or left by any person on the public streets, alleys or public parking areas within the corporate limits of the Town of Halls, except as follows:

(a) A vehicle temporarily disabled, which is parked or left for a reasonable time until repairs are made or until transported elsewhere.

(b) Where otherwise authorized by law.

Section 2. Violation of this ordinance shall subject the offender to the following provisions:

(a) Such vehicle shall be held to be illegally on public property, and if remaining illegally on public property for a period of more than forty-eight (48) hours may be disposed of per the provisions of TCA 59-1603 et seq, the "unclaimed or abandoned vehicle law."

(b) Any person violating the ordinance shall pay a fine of not less than $5.00 nor more than $25.00 for each offense.

Section 3. Should any part of this ordinance be held invalid by a Court of competent jurisdiction, the remaining part shall be separate and shall continue to be in full force and effect.

Section 4. All ordinance in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance are hereby repealed insofar as the same may affect this ordinance.

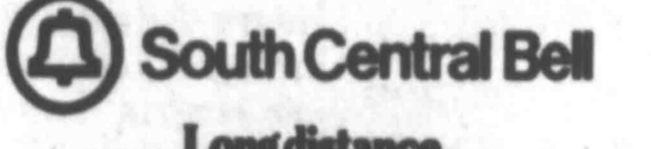

Section 5. This ordinance shall take effect and be in full force at its enactment, the public welfare requiring it.

FOR ABOUT THE COST OF BAKING A CAKE, YOU CAN SHARE A 10 MINUTE SLICE OF LIFE BY LONG DISTANCE.

You can share a lot of sweet memories with someone a thousand miles away. Just dial the 1 way and talk for ten minutes for only $2.44 plus tax. Any evening Sunday through Friday between 5 PM and 11 PM. These evening rates are lower than rates for long distance calls dialed during weekdays.

Long distance. What else is so nice for the price?

Low One-Plus rates do not apply to Zero-Plus dialed long distance calls. Low One-Plus rates do apply to station-to-station calls you dial yourself, talk to anyone who answers and bill to the telephone you are using, and on station-to-station calls placed with an operator where long distance dialing facilities are not available. Low One-Plus rates do not apply to operator-assisted calls such as person-to-person, coin, credit card, collect, and on calls charged to another number, including special billing numbers.

Random Thoughts

It seems to us that Tennessee Gov. Ray Blanton continues to show arrogance and the attitude that since he was elected governor he is free to do as he pleases. The furor over the proposed pardon of a two-time murderer is a case in point. Perhaps a pardon for the man in question can be justified but Blanton's approach is certainly not the way.

Wonder if Halls Coach Andy Pugh feels that the goblins are after him? In the last two Tiger games the Tigers had to score in the final minute of play to win at McKenzie and an intercepted pass with less than a minute left saved the Dyer County game. We suspect that he would like to have an easy game or two.

Interesting reading were some statistics in a daily newspaper this week. If the statistics can be believed the contention that the burden of income tax is on the lower income group is completely erroneous. The findings of the Tax Foundation show that nearly half of the income taxes collected are paid by the top 10% of the taxpayers and the bottom 50%, those with incomes of $8,930 or less, pay only 7% of the taxes.

A bill to raise the minimum wage to $2.65 an hour is gradually making its way through Congress and creating controversy as it goes. Many are contending that an increase in the minimum wage will create additional unemployment among unskilled youths and particularly young blacks.

AUSTRALIAN VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Cox, of Melbourne, Australia, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hansford Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansford spent several days last week in St. Louis and attended St. Louis Cardinals baseball games. Friday night at the game they were seated next to Mr. and Mrs. Cox who are on a six weeks tour of the United States. After some conversation the Hansfords invited the Mr. and Mrs. Cox to accompany them to Halls Saturday night and Sunday.

They accepted and were driven to Memphis Sunday where they spent a day before continuing on to Texas and the West Coast.

Services were Tuesday afternoon at Knoxville.

A native of Lauderdale County, he attended Halls High School, and had been an insurance executive at Knoxville for more than 40 years.

He also leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Jennings, of Knoxville, and a sister, Mrs. Gladys Jennings, of Memphis.

Chisholm Lake Drawing Increasing Interest After 80 Years Of Public Use

"There are people in this county who still don't know where Chisholm Lake is," Mrs. Ann Robeson said Saturday—but lots of them found their way there for a squirrel and dumpling feast at noon.

World War II days when the Army leased the area and used it for bombing practice.

And Hartwell Chisholm, who long operated the lake, can point out traces of a tornado which in 1952 leveled all but the cabin Mrs. Robeson and her husband now own.

HARTWELL CHISHOLM

"About 15 families a week visit here," she says. "It's nothing to see 200 pounds of catfish cooked for a birthday, anniversary, or just plain party."

The story goes that the cabin was lifted and replaced on its stilts while a bucket of water on the table remained unspilled.

You hear stories like that at Chisholm Lake when folks gather for good food and fellowship.

Her remarks were interrupted as Bo Warpool's amphibious 6-wheeler, called a Terri Tiger, hit the lake, only for its occupants to discover the plugs were not in place.

The vehicle wouldn't sink, but the water would wet those inside, they discovered.

Fun Began In 1897
The lake was purchased for recreational use in 1897, from lands of Thomas Bursie.

It is owned now by the Lake Chisholm Outing Club, chartered in 1923 with 150 shares.

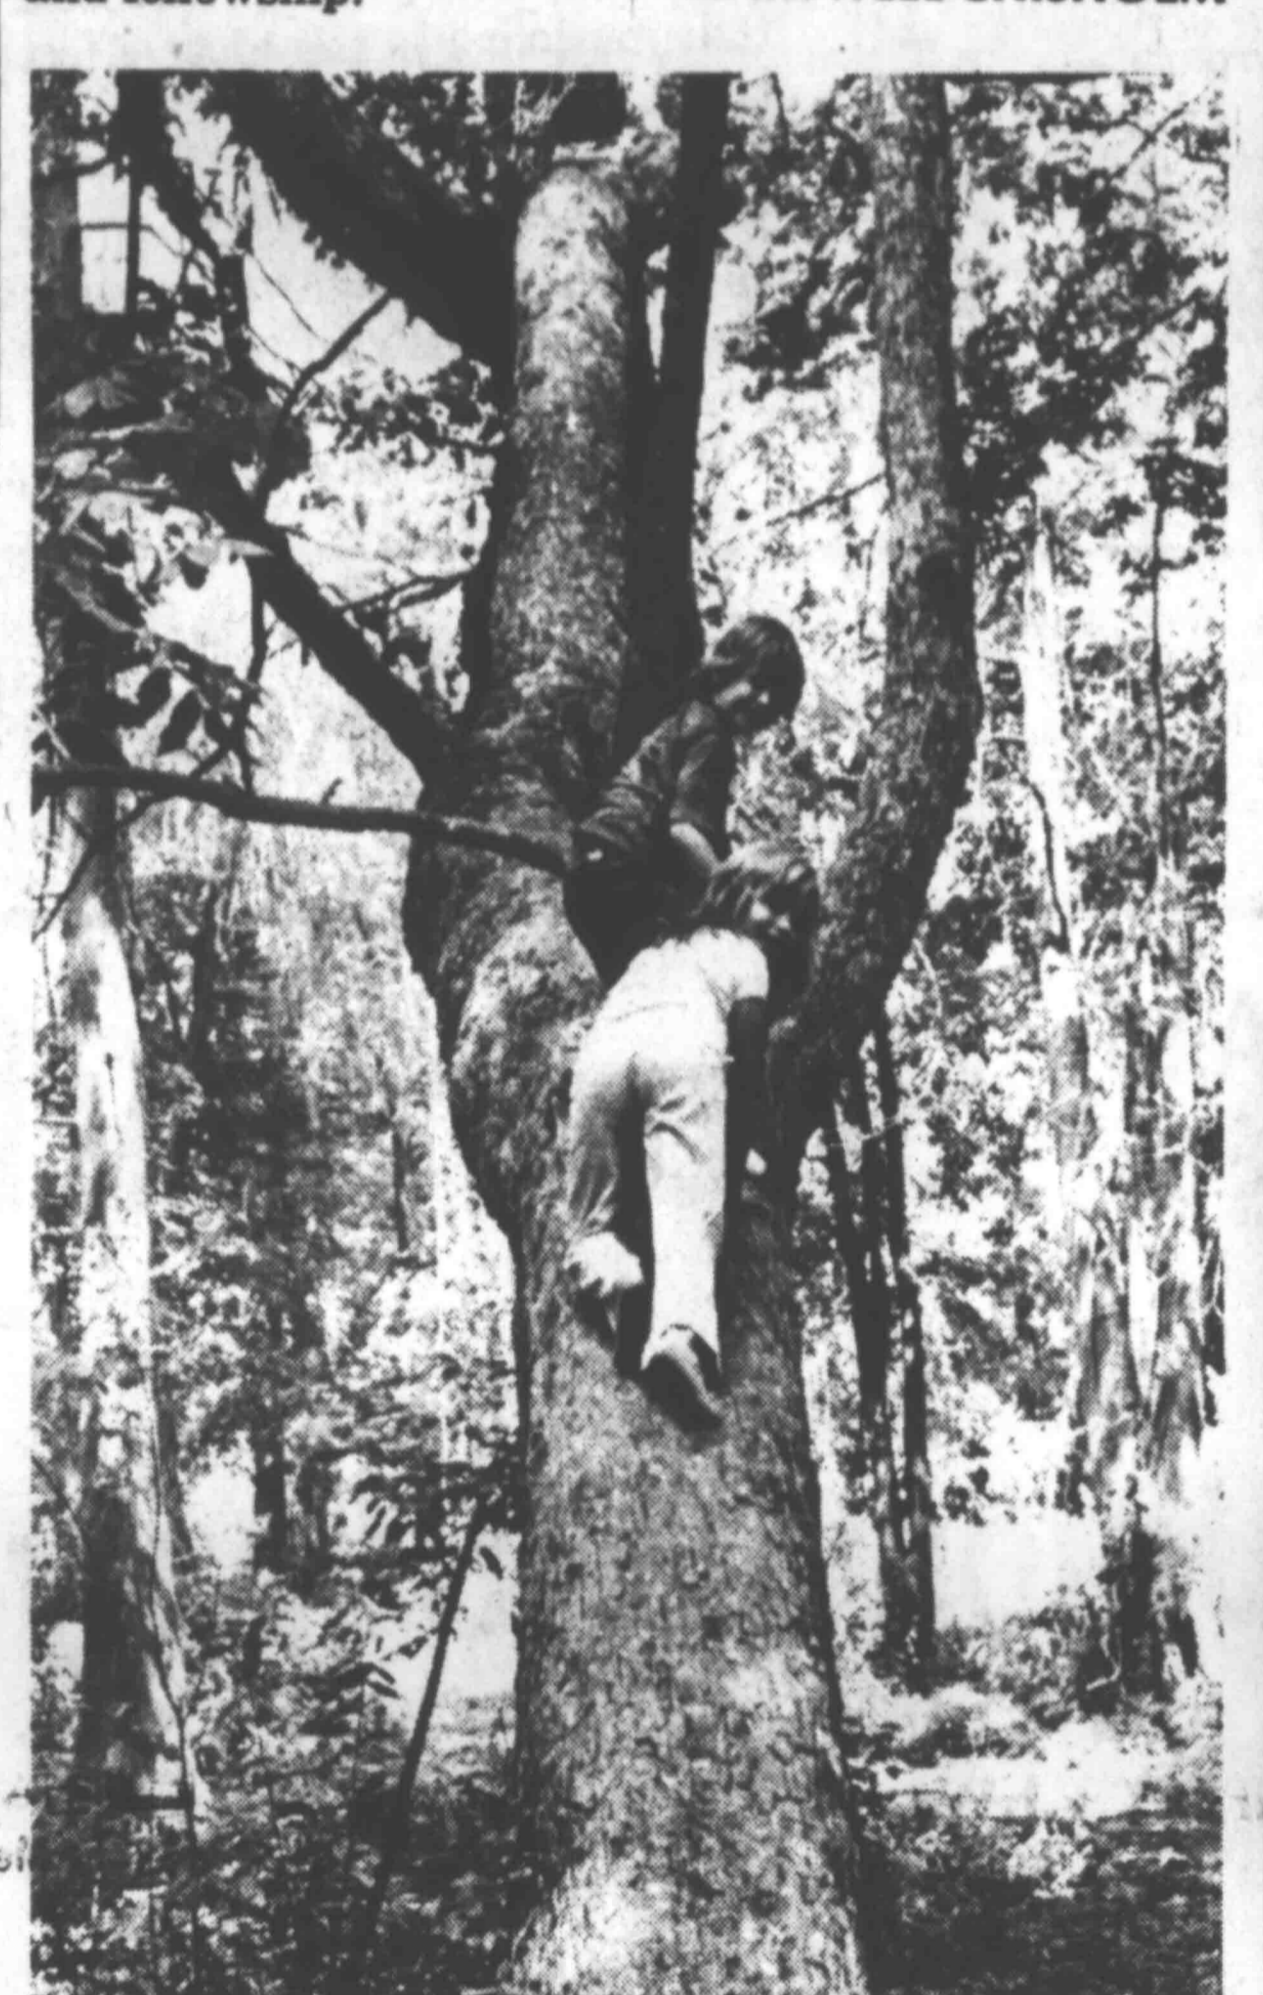

Fewer than 70 shareholders are active now, reports Paul Meadows, county trustee, who has been secretary-treasurer for seven years.

R. T. "Freck" Pollard, Jr., of Ripley, is president, and Harbert Mulherd, of Brownsville, serves as vice-president.

Shares, originally sold for $100, now fetch $600 and up, if you can find one for sale, which is not an easy proposition.

Area Has Some Scars

Lake facilities have improved greatly in the last few years, but the area still has some scars from traumatic events in its past. There are pot-holes from

THERE'S HIGH LIVING AT THE LAKE, as this trailer illustrates. Insurance requirements specify the height required to protect against the danger of flooding.

A GENEROUS SHARE OF 22 SQUIRRELS used for the dinner was consumed by Charles Gilliland, one of 75 persons who enjoyed the annual lake cook-out.

Speaks At Woodville In 50th Year Since Ordination There

WOODVILLE, Sept. 20—The Rev. Avery Willis, who was reared at Woodville, a son of Mrs. John Lancaster, Baptist Church in Woodville, will hold services at 2:30 p.m. this Sunday in Woodville year since his ordination as a minister there.

He is a brother of Mrs. Burnell Conner and Mrs. George Hargett, of Ripley.

He was baptized in the church in August, 1924, and ordained there Sept. 2, 1927.

He has since been pastor of churches in five states—Tennessee, Alabama, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Texas—and for the last 17 years has been a full-time evangelist.

He organized many churches, including Hillcrest in Dyersburg, which formed with five members. He witnessed 555 additions.

He is now director of the Second Baptist Evangelistic Association, based in Tulsa, Okla.

The Rev. Guy Merryman, pastor, invites the public to hear The Rev. Mr. Willis.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Summar and daughter, Angela, of Gary, Ind., spent last week with Mrs. Clyde Summar.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleo McBroom, Miss Mary McBroom, and Mrs. Hattie McBroom were in Memphis Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Billy H. Lankford spent several days last week with her daughter, Miss Sheila Lankford, in Memphis.

Mrs. Jim Hunt went with her sister, Mrs. Zora Butler, of Brownsville, to Jackson Wednesday of last week to see her doctor.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett White returned home Saturday after two weeks with her daughter, Miss

SQUIRMING FOR YARDAGE and a first down for the Tigers was Quarterback Walter Lazure to keep a fourth quarter drive alive in last Friday's game at Newbern. Choctaw tackle Greg Willis, 77, rushes up to help with the stop while Tiger Bill Lynch, 65, helped with the blocking.

Tigers Hold On For Narrow 7-6 Victory

The Halls Tigers, now 3-0 after a narrow 7-6 win over Dyer County at Newbern last Friday evening, will play at Munford this Friday. Munford is 1-2 for the season but is expected to give the Tigers trouble. Dwayne McKinney scored on a 27-yard run in the second quarter at Newbern and Ladd Roberts kicked the extra point for the eventual margin of victory. The Tigers led until the middle of the final quarter when Tiger mistakes including 20 yards in penalties aided the Choctaws to their touchdown. Dyer County Coach Ab Davis elected to try for two on the extra point attempt and failed when Quarterback Mike Gibbons was stopped at the line of scrimmage. Dyer County came right back to the Tiger 13-yard line where McKinney picked off a pass in the end zone with 34 seconds left to maintain the Tiger 1-point margin. The game was marred with mistakes by both teams plus a 20-minute delay in the fourth quarter when the lights went out on the east side of the field. Statistics were nearly even for the two teams with each having 12 first downs. The Tigers gained 200 yards on the ground and Dyer County gained 161 yards on the ground and 41

Drought Hit Farms Hard

With drought damage estimated at $9,780,300, Lauderdale is one of nine counties in the state for which Gov. Ray Blanton is asking federal disaster aid. Blanton has asked President Carter to authorize a feed and grain program to provide low interest loans to those injured by drought conditions. Blanton acted on the recommendation of Larry Hawks, county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service manager, Charles Peal, county Extension agent, Nesby Teamer, of the Farmers Home Administration office in Ripley, and Earl West, Soil Conservation Service district conservationist. They told Blanton that corn, cotton, and soy bean yields are off 25%, truck crops off 40%, and pasture and hay production off 90% because of drought, cutting beef herds 25%. For the year ending Aug. 29th, the county recorded 35.3 inches of rainfall, of a normal 52 to 54 inches. Dry winds and high temperatures added problems. Of the nine counties for which Blanton is asking aid, only Maury and Lincoln have higher damage estimates than Lauderdale. Maury damage is estimated at $12,094,150, and Lincoln's at $10,358,000. Haywood County loss is estimated at $7,229,050. Damage well under four million dollars is estimated in Franklin, Giles, Hamilton, Hardeman, and Moore Counties.

Service Praised

Charles Peal, of Ripley, an Extension agent in this county for 26 years, is one of four Tennesseans receiving the Award for Outstanding Service to Agriculture at the National County Agent Association's annual convention in Hartford, Conn., next week. A Dyer Countian who was graduated from high school there, he took a bachelor of science degree from Mississippi State College in 1951 and a master's degree from the University of Tennessee in Knoxville in 1955. He came to Lauderdale County in 1951 as assistant Extension agent under agent F. H. Paschal. After 21 years of work in that position with 4-H Club youths, he succeeded Mr. Paschal as the county's Extension Leader. He has influenced a number of county youths to attend college and further their education. His hobby is growing roses and other flowers at his home, where he has a greenhouse. He also grows asparagus, blueberries, strawberries, and tomatoes in a small garden at his home at 118 Thompson Avenue, Ripley.

Peal Getting 3 Appeal Telephoning Fines, Jail Sentences

By Tony Mack Three Frog Jump men convicted Tuesday of "telephoning" fish will appeal 6-month jail sentences (three months suspended during year's probation) and fines totaling $1,323.50. The fines and sentences imposed by General Sessions Judge Willard Norvell will be appealed to Judge Herman L. Reviere's Circuit Court, Jim Emison, of Alamo, attorney for the trio, said. Norvell's courtroom was packed with sportsmen, commercial fishermen, and other spectators as he convicted the trio: • Alfred Bushart, part-owner of a cotton gin in Gates, fined $50 and $31.75 months suspended during year's probation; • William C. Gilliland, antique dealer, same except the charge of refusing inspection dismissed; • Edwin A. Jones, listing his occupation as unemployed, same except charge of refusing inspection dismissed. Bushart's fines totaled $479 and those of the other two men $422.25 each, including court costs. Pending appeal, the men were released after posting appearance and surety bonds in excess of $3,000 each. Pursuit Described The charges stemmed from an investigation last week by state Wildlife Resources Agency officers Joe Beard and Ken Dykes. Roy Harrison, commercial fisherman, tipped them the trio were using a telephone device to stun catfish near his trochines on the Mississippi River near Hale's Point. Beard testified that when the trio loaded their boat, they refused to stop for inspection, and a high speed chase ensued. Beard said he saw a bur-lap sack hurled from a window of the truck. Beard said later inspection of the boat towed behind the truck revealed about 29 catfish with no hook marks in any mouth. Search of the area where he saw the sack hurled discovered the telephone device, wire, chain, and other apparatus for "telephoning" fish, Beard said. He said the trio's truck and boat held no fishing equipment except two large dip nets. WRA staff attorney Bobby Stratton prosecuted.

Wrecker Theft Suspect Held

A suspect has been taken into custody by sheriff's officers investigating theft Sunday of a wrecker from Busy Beaver Auto Parts, on old Highway 51 south of Ripley. The suspect's name was not released, pending charges. A hit-run driver severely damaged a car parked by James H. Cashion, of Brownsville, Sunday morning in front of his wife's home in Jacobs Sub-Division in Halls. The car was struck by a 1966 to 1970 maroon Chevrolet Impala turning off new Highway 51, sheriff's officers report.

Assistant DA For Child Support, Welfare Fraud

District Attorney General Michael W. Whitaker, of Somerville, has added a third assistant attorney general to his staff to force parents to support offspring and to prosecute welfare fraud. Mrs. Elizabeth T. Rice, of Mason, a graduate of Randolph-Macon Women's College and of the Memphis State University School of Law, has accepted the position, after two years teaching English in high school and seven years in the Department of Human Services in Fayette County. She urges mothers unable to collect child support from natural or legal fathers, or anyone knowing of welfare fraud, to contact their Human Services office or call the district attorney's office, 901-465-8644. Mrs. Rice will be the first woman to serve on the staff of a district attorney for the 16th Judicial District. Other assistant attorneys general are Preston Parks and Jon Kerr Blackwood, both of Somerville.

State Mulling Prison Boost

State Corrections Commissioner C. Murray Henderson says opposition to regional prisons may force the state next year to consider expanding the prison facilities of Fort Pillow State Penitentiary. A regional prison is in operation in Shelby County, and another is under construction in Nashville, but opposition has blocked attempts to build regional prisons at Morris-town, Reagansville, Jackson, and in the Chickasaw State Park, and the prison system is desperately overcrowded. The state planned regional prisons near medical and educational facilities, to cost five to six million dollars each. But local opposition has succeeded in limiting construction to one in Shelby County and one in Nashville, and the state is now looking at its own properties for sites. A prison is planned near the present East Tennessee prison at Brushy Mountain. Fort Pillow would obviously be considered as a West Tennessee possibility, but Henderson said no decision is likely until after the legislative convenes next January.

Coal Lesors Deny Initial Fee Boost

Phillips Coal Co., which is leasing rights to strip-mine coal in this county and in all four adjoining counties, Friday denied The Commercial Appeal's report that it had boosted its initial payment for leases from $25 to $35 per acre. From the start, it paid $25 per acre for 25-year leases and $35 for 25-year leases with 25-year renewal options. Months ago, the firm increased its offer of yearly royalty payments—for 25 years or until mining begins—from $1 to $5 per acre and its offer of $800 per acre for initial surface damage, if mining begins, from $800 to $1,000 per acre. Those who took the lower offer will have their leases amended to give them the same terms offered later. But the initial payment offer has not been raised, company officials insist. In fact, they say they are no longer seeking leases with renewal options. Parlow, Spence Quoted The Commercial Appeal reported that company telephoning ringings were spread across the top of the second section, under the byline of Jan Taylor, of the Memphis daily's Dyersburg office. The article quoted Wayne Parlow, Crockett County trustee, as computing the initial income from 10,000 acres under lease there at $350,000. The only other person quoted on lease terms was William G. Spence, of Halls, "whose 900 acres of prime cotton and soybean land, located between Halls and Maury City in Crockett County, has been in his family more than 100 years," the article said.

Phillips Has Never Mined Any Coal

Phillips Coal Co., which is leasing coal mining rights here, has never mined any coal. It was formed three years ago by Phillips Petroleum when the nation began to run short of energy. Both Phillips and Exxon began looking at West Tennessee, paying land owners $25 for each test drill made. Shortly thereafter, Phillips began signing leases for rights to strip-mine lignite—a brownish-black "young" coal, midway between peat and bituminous coal. Phillips has no other coal operations. Land owners like Sam Johnston, of Henning, fearful of permanent damage to his 466 acres, have been flown to Texas to see how land is restored after strip-mining, but the operations they have seen are not run by Phillips Coal. There are three lignite strip-mining operations now being conducted in Texas by other coal companies. Phillips officials say the major market for lignite is in power generation. They say the Tennessee Valley Authority prefers to provide its own coal but that other electric power companies in the area would be potential customers for lignite. The areas being leased are all near the main line of the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad between Chicago, Ill., and New Orleans, La. Coal is normally shipped by rail.

Band Supper Feasts 2,100

Ripley High School's annual Band Supper Tuesday evening, for which E. W. James & Sons Super Market donated all the food, served 2,100 customers and collected about $3,500. Janice Hines sold most tickets. 116 Louann Webb sold 105, and Cynthia Hoagland 92. Mrs. Gwinn Matthews was general chairman, with Mrs. Joe Turner Eason in charge of serving, Nadine Cannon and Mrs. Charles Peal in charge of ticket sales, and Joann Connel in charge of eggs. The menu included fried chicken or pork barbecue with green beans, slaw, potato salad, deviled eggs, potato chips, bread, cookies, and Coke.

Telephone Equipment Confiscated

TELEPHONE EQUIPMENT CONFISCATED from three Crockett County Wildlife Officers Ken Dykes (left) and Joe Beard. A hand-crank telephone generates about 100 volts of direct current into a chain placed in water, stunning fish and bringing them to the top of the water to be dipped up.

ORDINANCE
An ordinance prohibiting the parking or leaving of any inoperative or unlicensed motor vehicle on the public ways and property of the town, providing for removal of same and for fines for violations of the ordinance.

BE IT ORDAINED AND ENACTED by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the Town of Halls, Lauderdale County, State of Tennessee, as follows:

Section 1. No inoperative or unlicensed motor vehicle shall be parked or left by any person on the public streets, alleys or public parking areas within the corporate limits of the Town of Halls, except as follows:

(a) A vehicle temporarily disabled, which is parked or left for a reasonable time until repairs are made or until transported elsewhere.

(b) Where otherwise authorized by law.

Section 2. Violation of this ordinance shall subject the offender to the following provisions:

(a) Such vehicle shall be held to be illegally on public property, and if remaining illegally on public property for a period of more than forty-eight (48) hours may be disposed of per the provisions of TCA 59-1603 et seq, the "unclaimed or abandoned vehicle law."

(b) Any person violating the ordinance shall pay a fine of not less than $5.00 nor more than $25.00 for each offense.

Section 3. Should any part of this ordinance be held invalid by a Court of competent jurisdiction, the remaining part shall be separate and shall continue to be in full force and effect.

Section 4. All ordinance in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance are hereby repealed insofar as the same may affect this ordinance.

Section 5. This ordinance shall take effect and be in full force at its passage, the public welfare requiring it. 29-1t

State Slates Hay Search
By Charles T. Peal
The state Department of Agriculture is attempting to aid outfarmers faced with deteriorating pastures and desperate hay searches.

A hay referral plan has been set up by Commissioner Edward S. Porter.

To report hay for sale or desire to purchase hay, call toll free 1-800-342-8206, the Commodity Market News number, between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Information needed is your name, address, telephone number, type of hay (grass, alfalfa, lespedeza, etc.), quantity (tons, bales), measure (round or conventional), location of hay (county), and price, if used.

This information will then be consolidated for distribution to all counties in the state.

"We have already received reports that hay is needed by farmers in Alabama, Georgia, and West Virginia, as a result of severe drought conditions on pastures this summer," the commissioner says.

"Should we encounter another severe winter this year, we would like to have a hay directory compiled to aid Tennessee farmers."

October Sales Slated
County cow-calf producers will have two opportunities next month to sell in Brownsville feeder calf sales, which usually produce top dollar.

Herefords and crossbreeds steers and heifers, sell Oct. 10th. Angus and crossbreeds steers and heifers, sell Oct. 13th.

These graded sales will provide uniformity in breed, sex, grade, and weight, which greatly influences prices.

Sale calves must be sired by registered bulls. Dams must be beef-type cows, with no dairy blood.

All calves must be de-horned and healed. Ear tags are required and can be obtained at the county Extension office.

Producers who desire to sell in these sales must be members of the Lauderdale County Livestock Association, whose dues are $10 per year.

Anyone wishing to sell in these sales should call the county Extension office in order to have calves inspected.

Wheat Off, Bread Up
Americans are continuing to pay more and more for bread, despite a 41 1/2% drop in the price of wheat from a year ago.

While biking through some of the many miles of trails, one can almost hear the echoes of such great heroes as Andrew Jackson, Davy Crockett, Daniel Boone and other legendary pioneer figures.

One famous trail within the park leads to what is believed to be the largest Pecan Tree in the world. Its trunk soars 106 feet into the sky, stretches its limbs 136 feet and has a circumference of 18 feet 2 inches.

The "Big Pecan" is located about 4 miles north of Interstate 40 on a paved road which makes a loop from 1-40 past the Tres. Mt. Comfort Church and Cemetery, Maple Creek Lake and back to I-40.

Many miles of roads wind through the park, along clear fall streams. Botanists have remarked that Natchez Trace is an excellent place to spot rarely seen species of plants and butterflies.

With the advent of fall, the park will be settling down for a new season. Fall is probably the most beautiful season in Tennessee; with the woodlands congested with trees, the forest will light-up with gold, bronze, yellow, red and amber, so much so, that the wind will carry storms of delicately falling leaves. This time of year is a meditative time in Tennessee and Natchez Trace is the perfect place to retreat from the city.

Hunters will be glad to know that the park is populated with deer. All applications for big game hunts should be submitted to the Tennessee Wildlife Resource Agency. This writer might add a bit of encouragement for the hunters. On a recent trip to the park, a big buck jumped out of

Sick And Ailing
Tennessee Chief Justice (Retired) Ross W. Dyer, of Halls, is undergoing tests at Baptist Hospital at Memphis for possible open heart surgery.

Jesus' idea of love, so too I would say that we have rarely "bought" his approach to judgement and redemption. "It is one of the last places to which I would want to direct a sinner," he said.

At our own peril we forget that judgement belongs to God alone and the reason is that we are not capable of that judgement. Like the scribes and Pharisees who confronted Jesus, we cannot cast the first stones because we ourselves are not without sin. Our vision of our brother is too much obscured by the "logs" in our own eyes. As guilty judges, it is enough to focus on our own sins.

GUILTY JUDGES
Lessons for October 2, 1977
Background Scripture: Luke 6:37-42; Romans 14. Devotional Reading: Psalm 133.

The scribes and Pharisees weren't fooling anyone, least of all Jesus, when they came to him and said, "Teacher, this woman has been caught in the act of adultery. Now in the law Moses commanded us to stone such a woman. What do you have to say about her?" (John 8:4). No one believed for a moment that they were perplexed by this question. It was an obvious trap, a plan to say something self-incriminating.

They knew Him
Obviously, they wouldn't have even asked him this question if it weren't for the fact that they thought they already knew how he would feel about it. They had heard him often enough to know that, unlike many, he was a man who focused, not upon rules and regulations, but upon forgiveness, redemption, and mercy.

But if they knew him, he knew the woman. Oh, they doesn't mean he necessarily had ever met her or knew anything personal about her, but that he saw her not as an adulteress, but as a child of God. He knew that she was a far better woman than the scribes and Pharisees would admit. He knew that there was something worthwhile in her to redeem.

Even more, Jesus knew them, the scribes and Pharisees. As he saw this woman as better than they saw her, he also saw them as not as righteous as they imagined themselves. None of them were as wonderful in the sight of God as they imagined. He knew that in every heart there lurked some of the same evil that the self-righteous legalists so despised in others. Thus, he knew what he was doing when he said: "Let him who is without sin among you be the first to throw a stone at her" (8:7).

He knew them
The scribes and Pharisees knew that Jesus' attitude toward the sinner was likely to be different than the traditions of their religion. They expected that he would show concern for the sinner, not the law. So, they anticipated a different approach and they got it.

Just as last week I suggested that with all too few exceptions Christians have rarely "bought"

MODERN DRUGS
Contemporary Use
By Illegab Abuse
Sammie Arnold, Reg. Pharmacist

"Hardstuff, M. Whitestuff, and Unkie" are a few slang terms used by addicts when referring to morphine. The name originally comes from "Morphheus", the legendary God of Sleep.

Uncontrolled use of morphine is a hazardous practice, since there are a number of serious side effects the drug produces when not properly supervised medically.

Most notably, morphine in excess decreases respiration and sometimes the addict just stops breathing.

In spite of the dangers though, drugs abusers still use this very addictive drug to obtain the "high" or stimulating effects and the calm dreamless sleep that the drug produces.

Good Grief, It's Cake With Snoopy

SNOOPY CAKE BY MRS. CAROLYN SIMPSON, of Curve (upper right), was served to David Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lawrence, of Gates, by Snoopy himself (upper left) at Halls Kindergarten in the former Gates School building last Friday morning. After Agricola, Inc., manager Mark Holder, of Halls, shed the outfit borrowed from Hart's Bakery (lower right), Mrs. Mary Myrick cut cake (lower left) for Denise Gooch, right, of Route 1, Halls, and Yolanda Norman, of Halls, while Jolie Ferguson, of Route 2, Halls, enjoyed her share. The kindergarten has 86 children enrolled in four classes. Besides Mrs. Myrick, teachers are Mrs. Norma Booker, Miss Janice Williams, and Miss Shirley Williams. Mrs. Flossie Bridges is an aide.

CONFIDENTIAL CORNER

By Henry Murchison

Wandering Around
Well, Bert Lance has finally resigned, and it would seem that was the best decision. However, we can't help wondering just how many of those investigating and accusing Mr. Lance could withstand the same type of investigation.
By the way, it would seem that the water got too hot and Gov. Ray Blanton is backtracking since he has decided that an impartial investigation of the proposed pardon for Roger Humphreys is indicated although Mr. Blanton has already stated that he will pardon him. Wonder if Gov. Blanton plans to follow the findings of the panel if they are contrary to his wishes?
The Constitutional Convention this week passed a proposed amendment to the State Constitution permitting a Tennessee governor to succeed himself for another four year term. Wonder if Gov. Blanton believes such a law will mean anything to him?
Despite continuing efforts to repairs holes on Highway 51 in Lauderdale County the highway department doesn't seem to make much progress and the same thing seems to be true in Halls. There should be some method of making permanent repairs but nothing seems to work so far.

Living Dangerously
Last week we commented that Halls High Football Coach Andy Pugh probably would like to win one game by a comfortable margin and not at the last minute. Well, it didn't happen last Friday evening at Munford as the Tigers had to come from behind in the fourth quarter to chalk up the win.
This was the third successive game that the Tigers have won but not without late game heroics. We hope not but time may run out on them one of these nights.

Still Lonesome
Well, we went to Tuscaloosa, Ala., last week to join Nell at the home of Buddy and his family but we had to come home without her. Don't tell Nell but it certainly is lonesome without her and besides I'm not the best cook in the world, much less good at making beds, etc.
Lynda's mother, Mrs. Grady Tanner, continues critically ill at Savannah and while Nell may come home for a day or two she is likely to be in Tuscaloosa for some time.

CORRECTION
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hildebrand who have recently moved to Halls were listed as residing in an apartment at the home of Mrs. R. L. Siler. This should have been at the Mrs. R. E. Bullock apartment on Shannon Street.
Zanzibar is practically the world's sole producer of cloves.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sumrow, Jr. and children met Mr. and Mrs. Sumrow and children, of Memphis, Sunday and attended the Mid-South Fair.
Mrs. Alvin Hallman returned home last week after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Fred Travis, and family in New York City. En route home she visited her son, Dr. David Hallman, and Mrs. Hallman at Harrisonburg, Va.
Mr. and Mrs. Billy Spence attended the Mid-South Fair at Memphis Saturday.
Mrs. Neil Dyer, state chairman of a Daughters of American Revolution committee, is traveling over the state this week with other state officers. They will be at Pickwick Friday to attend a district meeting. Others from the Key Center chapter who plan to attend the meeting are Mrs. Charles R. # Bruceton Attacks Halls' Unbeaten Status

State Grid Polls Rate Halls Sixth

The Halls Tigers are ranked sixth in the state among Class A football teams in polls released Tuesday.

Do you get billing mad when you miss an easy shot? Of course. Everyone does. But not everyone has a fit after every easy mistake. Many players won't show their emotions until they've missed two in a row; some players keep cool until they've missed three simple shots; still others have to miss four before they start berating themselves.

ing experience. After all, if you're not some kind of superstar, it's normal for you to miss an easy shot now and then.

How fast will it go? Ever been tempted to push a car to 120 m.p.h. because that figure is on the speedometer? The Dept. of Transportation thinks it may happen and may issue a rule making 90 m.p.h. the top figure on all car, truck, bus or motorcycle speedometers, exempting police cars.

Tigers Eked 4th Win From Munford By 3

The Halls Tigers, still unbeaten after four games, will host Bruceton this Friday evening, after three games on the road.

Bruceton has a 1-1 record in District 15-A and a 2-3 record in all games, but it is considered one of the strongest teams the Tigers will face.

The Tigers continued to flirt with disaster last Friday evening as they trailed Munford, 22-13, at halftime, but they scored twice in the last half to come home with a narrow win, 25-22.

Dwayne McKinney, state scoring leader last year, continued to pace the Tigers, getting 24 points to bring his season total to 54.

Halls opened the scoring in the first quarter when McKinney tallied on a 2-yard run and Ladd Roberts kicked the extra point. Munford took the lead, 8-7, when a 77-yard pass-run play was good for a touchdown and Levy Buford scored a 2-point conversion.

Buford pushed the Munford lead to 15-7 in the second quarter with a 2-yard plunge, with Donnie Lewis kicking the extra point.

McKinney brought the Tigers back with a 48-yard scoring run, but the try for two failed.

Munford padded its lead to 22-13 when Stacy Payne scored on a 28-yard run and Lewis again kicked the extra point.

McKinney put the Tigers on the scoreboard again when he took a pass from Walter Lazure on the dead run and went 65 yards for the score. Again the try for two failed, and the Tigers trailed 22-19.

McKinney brought the Tigers back with a fine 32-yard run to make the final score 25-22, when Roberts' kick failed.

Munford achieved 15 first downs and 280 yards, the Tigers 13 first downs and 314 yards.

The Tigers tried five passes, completed two for 86 yards, and had none intercepted. Munford completed five of eight passes for 117 yards. Halls picked off one.

Fumbles continued to harr the Tigers as they dropped four and lost three of them. Munford fumbled twice and lost one.

McKinney had 168 yards in 17 carries. Marvin Brown had 40 yards in nine carries.

Jimmy Meeks had 17 tackles, Max Arnold 14, and Willie Robinson 10.

After Volleyball Flop—Softball?

Seeking to expand its sports menu, the Tennessee Secondary Schools Athletic Association is looking at girls' softball—and, past that, at swimming, gymnastics, and soccer.

Its last introduction as a sanctioned sport was girls' volleyball—greeted with yawns in West Tennessee.

Old Hickory Academy in Jackson hosted a round-robin tournament last week, but only two other teams showed up.

Fayette-Ware, of Somerville, won the meet, with Camden third.

OHA's Jodie Parrish, district volleyball chairman, says Bolivar, Humboldt, and Chester County may eventually bring squads.

She believes volleyball helps her basketball players "stay in shape and improve their jumping and timing."

With the district tournament Oct. 12-13th and the state meet Oct. 22nd, volleyball conflicts little with basketball practice beginning Oct. 10th.

The TSSAA has tried to make it easy for schools to get into volleyball and to keep the sport inexpensive.

Regulation nets and uniforms aren't required.

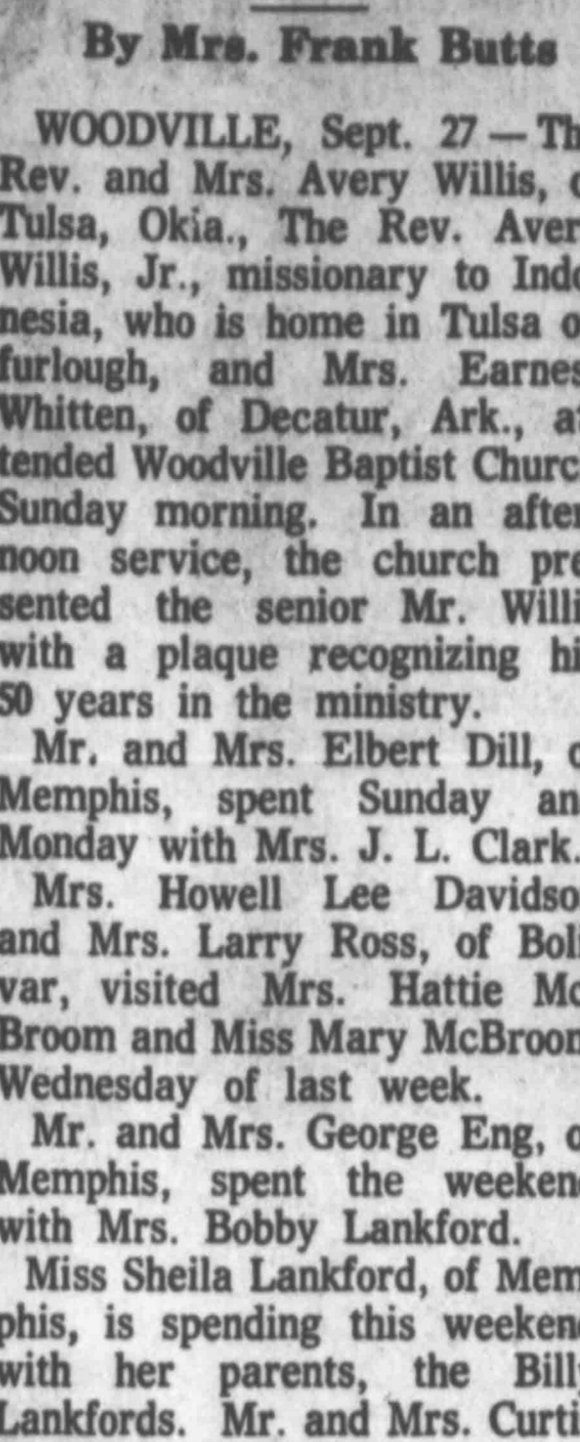

The TSSAA says schools have "jumped on" the sport in most areas of the state but that response in West Tennessee has been "disappointing."

Cotton Yields Surprise

STEVE AND EUGENE PUGH'S COTTON PICKER disgorges a load from a field of Hancock which is averaging a bale an acre. Yields all over the county are above expectations, with Mississippi River bottom lands producing up to 1½ bales an acre and the hill area up to 1¼ bales—a welcome development, in addition to the early harvest, because the expenses of the crop this year were the highest on record.

Woodville Church Presents Plaque

WOODVILLE, Sept. 27—The Rev. and Mrs. Avery Willis, of Tulsa, Okla., The Rev. Avery Willis, Jr., missionary to Indonesia, who is home in Tulsa on furlough, and Mrs. Earnest Whitton, of Decatur, Ark., attended Woodville Baptist Church Sunday morning. In an afternoon service, the church presented the senior Mr. Willis with a plaque recognizing his 30 years in the ministry.

Halls Banquet Hails Payrolls

POSTERS PUTTING SPOTLIGHT on the economic importance of both industry and agriculture were displayed Thursday last week as Halls observed Industry Recognition Week with a banquet in the Halls High School cafeteria. Poster contest winners were Norman Leggett, Farrell Wilson, and Bubba Olds, in grades 3-4, Allen Williams, Lori Carter, and John Kerby, in grades 5-6 and Betsy Hoff, Michelle Cook, and Paul Throgmorton, in grades 7-8. Bruce Tims' depiction of City Hall and Lynne McDearman's poster of her father's place of business, McDearman Motors, were so good that the judges awarded them honorable mentions, which had not been planned.

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

During his campaign of last year, President Carter often advocated a complete revision of the nation's tax codes. Since he has been in office he has indicated that he plans to submit to the Congress a comprehensive piece of legislation designed to do just that. Originally, it was anticipated that this legislation would be submitted to Congress in late August, but now the schedule has been moved back. It is now expected that this major tax reform package will be sent to Capitol Hill in early October.

While the President and his Tax Reform Study Group have kept most of their proposals secret until they can complete work on all of them, there have been some indications as to what will be contained in the final proposal. It appears that Mr. Carter is considering a number of tax measures aimed at stimulating business investment. This effort results from what many economic experts have described as a decline in the amount of money that is available for plant and equipment investment by companies and corporations.

For example, a Congressional Budget Office study last year indicated that business investment is not keeping pace with the growing labor force. This type of trend has been confirmed by other studies and could eventually lead to a situation where there are not enough jobs to go around for those in the work force. In conjunction with that, many experts have concluded that private industry is going to have to be counted upon to expand our economy and provide those jobs. Administration officials have also conceded that the President's goal of a balanced budget by 1981 depends, in large part, on a sustained high level of private investment during the next few years.

According to a recent report by Congressional Quarterly, there are several areas of tax changes that could produce business investment stimulation. First, there is the investment tax credit which allows businesses to subtract 10% of certain equipment costs from the taxes it owes. The credit can also be used against the first $25,000 in taxes and against 50% of the tax liability above $25,000.

Another area is depreciation deductions taken by companies on buildings and equipment it uses. These deductions are taken over a period of time during which the business may eventually write off the cost of an asset. Some businessmen feel that this period of time should be shortened so that capital costs can be recovered more quickly.

Of course, the area that may affect business investment most directly is in corporate and individual tax rates. A decrease in corporate tax rates would allow them to pay higher dividends which might promote more investment by individuals. A reduction in the individual tax rate would hopefully increase the spending power of individuals allowing them to make more purchases and more investments for those inclined to do so.

Lastly, there is the double taxation of corporate dividends. These dividends are taxed as corporate income before they are disbursed and then again as individual income when they are received by stockholders. It is expected that there will be some easing of this kind of taxation. These are, of course, just a few of the areas likely to be addressed in the President's package. I will try to discuss others in the weeks ahead in order to give some idea of what may or may not be considered in the final tax reform proposal sent to the Congress.

In my last report, I described some of the types of changes that may be forthcoming in President Carter's tax reform proposal. I discussed five categories where changes may be made: the investment tax credit, depreciation deductions, corporate and individual tax rates, and the taxation of dividends. Essentially, it has been speculated that any changes in these areas of the tax code will be made to provide more incentive for additional business investments.

It is my understanding that changes in these categories are being discussed in terms of what kind of reductions will result in federal tax revenue. Therefore, they are called "revenue losers." This is because it is felt to accomplish the objective of providing the incentive for business investment, tax obligations will have to be reduced for businesses and individuals in these areas. This week, I want to use this space to describe several other areas where changes may occur that will increase federal tax revenues without damaging the effort to encourage business investments.

Generally, it is anticipated that gains in revenue can be achieved by eliminating some old tax breaks rather than imposing new taxes. In other words, many exceptions to the tax code such as preferential tax credits, tax rates, and tax referrals could be eliminated.

One tax break that Administration tax experts feel should be ended is in the area of capital gains. Under current law, if an individual sells stock or other assets held for at least nine months, he or she does not have to pay taxes on half of the profits realized. If a business sells qualified assets, the same capital gain is taxed at 30%, rather than the general 48%.

Another area of possible change that might result in added federal revenue is the repeal of tax preferences for Domestic International Sales Corporations, known as DISCS. These corporations are essentially exporting firms which qualify for tax deferrals. These exporters estimate that they generate an additional $7.9 billion in exports and about $5 billion in taxes. The Secretary of the Treasury has disputed these figures and says that the Treasury loses more than a billion in revenue each year from the export deferrals.

Again, it is important to emphasize that one of the objectives in the Administration's tax reform proposal is going to be the encouragement of business investment. The ultimate objective of this effort is to expand business and the economy. More and more, we are hearing of a shortage in the availability of investment capital. To rectify the problems of our economy and reach the objective of a balanced budget, we are going to have to depend on that expansion of our economy by private business.

These aspects of our nation's tax codes which I have discussed are just some of the ways that changes may be proposed in our tax system by President Carter. Of course, any such proposals must be acted upon by the Ways and Means Committee in the House and the Senate Finance Committee. At this point, there is no way to determine how these various categories will be changed if at all. I think it is important to have some understanding of how various proposals may affect our tax system.
