Community Center Plans Shown Board

Ripley's City Board meeting Monday, saw plans for the federally funded multi-purpose community center to be located on the site of the old Grammer School on College Street.

J. P. Moore, community development director, said the center, which will be open to both city and county residents, will be under construction this summer.

A committee is studying use of the building and will submit recommendations on the drawings.

"Bud" Meadows, of Western Auto, was granted an additional parking space in the lot adjoining its building on Jackson St. so that the store may do more auto servicing.

The Board awarded contracts to East Shelby Construction Co., of Collierville, and Claunch Construction Co., of Dyersburg, as recommended by Whitsitt, Gavin, and Holcomb, Inc., engineers for the Marvin Windows Plant.

Mayor Rozelle Criner appointed Leon Hargett, Jerry Pilcher, and Bobby Walker to investigate the possibility of granting land use in the North Industrial Park to the Lauderdale County Vegetable Growers, whose association plans to seek a grant from the federal government to construct a building in which to pack and sell produce.

Eleven members of the Business and Professional Women's Club attended the meeting to learn more about city government.

Aldermen expressed their appreciation to the women for their interest.

Crain Trial Spelling Bee Is Dropped Set Tuesday

After months of head-lines, federal attorneys Monday dismissed a perjury charge they placed against Mrs. Bernice Crain, of Ripley, after she appeared for her father, C. N. Armour, of Halls, before a grand jury investigating rigging of state bids for highway construction.

Mrs. Crain was allowed to plead guilty to a single count of "mail fraud" in rigging one 1976 bid which allowed the Union City Paving Co. to obtain a $203,000 contract.

Scores of other state highway builders have been convicted of bid rigging—a way of life for them for decades, until the current wave of prosecutions.

Maximum sentence for the mail fraud charge is five years in prison and $1,000 fine.

Sentencing will await a Probation Office report.

one time," he said.

J. H. Brown, of Edwards Gin Co. at Halls, said it was running all its equipment to capacity but could not meet peak demand.

"Farmers are applying 60 to 80 pounds of nitrogen."

Though wheat fertilization could possibly have waited another week or so, the fact that producers could cross fields without leaving ruts helped them decide to go ahead.

Root systems are now sufficient to take nitrogen.

On soil with medium fertility, 60 pounds of actual nitrogen will be sufficient to make a good yield. On thin upland soil, this rate could be increased slightly.

Higher rates will cause plants to grow taller and lodge, making them difficult to combine.

Farmers are being advised not to spray 2,4-D now. Plants have not reached the proper stage. Spraying at this stage will damage plants somewhat. To permit well tillered conditions, about the four-inch stage until the boot stage is best.

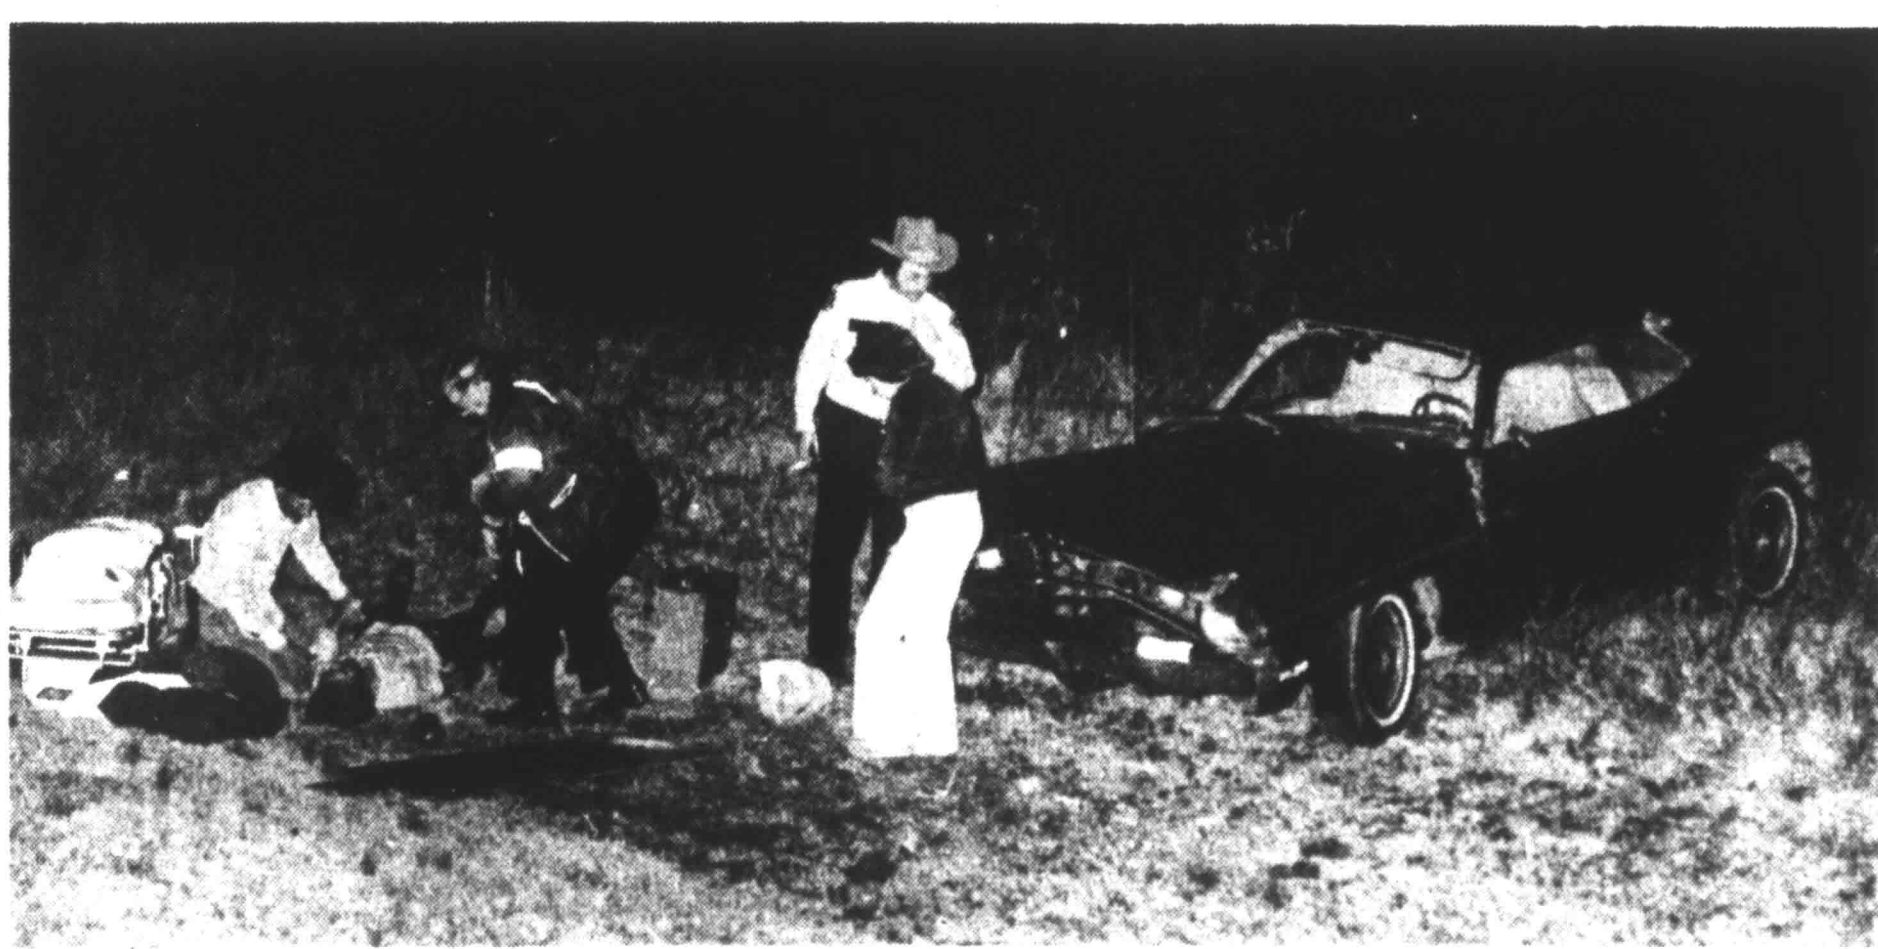

Producers should consult the diagram sent in circular letters to determine the extra stage for 2,4-D application on wild onions.

BAND SEEKS FUNDS

Halls High School's Band is sponsoring a fund raising drive to expand the size of the band room and add practice rooms and carpet the area. The goal is $2,000. GROW EARLIER VEGETABLES FOR GREATER PROFITS

Growers of fresh market vegetables know that early vegetables often bring considerably higher prices than vegetables produced only a week or two later. Consider the following factors when growing early vegetables, advises David W. Sams, University of Tennessee Extension gardening specialist.

*Soil selection — Light sandy soils dry out and warm up earlier than do heavier, poorly drained soils.

*Slope — Land sloping toward the south warms up and may be planted earlier than flat land or land sloping in other directions.

*Variety — Vegetable varieties differ considerably in the number of days required from planting to maturity.

Varieties also differ in ability to germinate at low soil temperatures.

*Plant protection — Paper or plastic hotcaps, plastic row tunnels, and windbreaks have all been successfully utilized to promote early maturity.

*Frost protection — Sloping land and overhead irrigation will both provide a measure of frost protection and permit earlier plantings.

*Plastic mulch — Black plastic mulch promotes early growth and increases yields of warm season vegetables.

*Transplants versus direct seeding — Transplants are produced in a controlled environment and may be grown earlier than direct seeded vegetables.

*Care — Use of starter solutions, proper fertilization and liming of soils, and control of insects, diseases and weeds will increase yield and early growth.

PLANTING VEGETABLES IS AN ART

Before you begin to plant a garden, plan carefully which vegetables to grow, the quantity of each, when to plant them in the garden area, says Richard J. Winston, Tennessee State University Extension gardening specialist.

Choose crops your family likes, those that can be expected to do well in your area, and those for which you have adequate space. Make a sketch on paper showing the location, the amount (row length), and time to plant each crop. Group the crops according to time of planting, growth habits, and time of maturity.

Here are some points to consider in planning the garden: *Plant perennial crops (those which live for many years) along one side of the garden where they will interfere least with preparing the rest of the garden.

*Group early, quick-maturing crops together, and plant tall-growing ones to one side where they will not shade shorter crops.

*Allow adequate space between rows for the type of cultivation you will use. Rows can be closer together for hand cultivation than for use of small tractors.

*Make repeated or successive plantings of crops like snap

Beans and sweet corn to provide a supply over a large part of the season.

*Keep the garden producing for the whole growing season. Follow early, short season crops with others planted for midseason or fall use.

*If adequate space is available, make special plantings of selected crops for canning, freezing or other storage.

*Good soil preparation is essential for gardening success. Preparation may include adding organic matter, liming to correct soil acidity, fertilization, plowing or spading, and

Recommend 1981 Cotton Varieties

Cotton varieties recommended for 1981 planting are: Coker 304, Coker 310, Deltapine 55, Deltapine 61, Hancock, McNair 220, Stoneville 213, Stoneville 256, and Stoneville 603. McNair 235, DES 56, and Stoneville 825 are recommended for the first time this year. These varieties have all performed satisfactorily in Tennessee variety tests for the past three years, reports Paulus P. Shelby, University of Tennessee Extension cotton specialist.

McNair 235 is an early dwarf cotton variety. It is more prolific than McNair 220, but plant size and structure of the two varieties are similar. It has medium size pointed bolls, and rather small seed. Seedlings are not as vigorous as those of some varieties. McNair 235 seems to perform better on upland soils than on bottom soils. It is susceptible to Verticillium wilt and should not be grown where wilt is known to occur.

DES 56 is an early variety for Tennessee, which appears to be better adapted to bottom soils than to upland soils. It has lots of small bolls. Disease resistance appears to be similar to Stoneville 213. This variety has excellent fiber qualities and the lint cleans up nicely at the gin.

Stoneville 825 is an early Stoneville 213 with the nectarine removed. This variety has done well at all locations, so is probably widely adapted. Disease resistance should be about the same as that of Stoneville 213. Grades are equal to those obtained from Stoneville 213, and the staple length is somewhat longer.

A good supply of high quality seed of most of the recommended varieties will be available. The supply and quality of some varieties will be limited. Select the varieties you intend to plant and make sure you have quality seed at planting time.

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

Since President Reagan addressed the Joint Session of Congress two weeks ago, committee action on his economic program has begun.

The House and Senate Budget Committees are already reviewing the budget for fiscal year 1982 even though the administration will not present its formal budget proposal until March 10th. Simultaneously, the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee have begun examining the President's tax proposals.

At this point, which is relatively early in the legislative process, it appears that there is more controversy over the tax cuts than over the spending cuts. Essentially, the President is asking for a simple tax cut bill that will (1) reduce marginal tax rates for individual taxpayers by 10% per year for the next three years, and (2) accelerate the depreciation allowances for business that will allow them to write off property in ten years, machinery in five years, automobiles and trucks in three years.

Primarily, the individual tax cuts are designed to reduce the tax burdens on the individual taxpayer in hopes that those tax savings may be saved or invested. The business tax cuts are designed primarily to help business and industry modernize their organizations to be more productive. In addition to his proposal for this "simple" tax cut bill, the President and his advisers have asked for a second bill to be acted upon after the initial tax cut is adopted. That bill would be the vehicle used to eliminate certain inequities in tax law such as the so-called marriage tax penalty, and others.

Members of both tax writing committees have expressed reservations about acting on a three-year package and there is some discussion of working in a one year bill at this point. That type of bill would be followed at the appropriate time with additional tax cuts as warranted by future economic developments. Additionally there is concern over whether or not the enactment of tax cuts would re-ignite inflation and send it spiraling again.

Finally, the big question brewing between the tax committees and the Administration is the timing of enacting tax legislation. The Administration wants to see the tax legislation move through Congress at the same time as the spending cuts. However, there is con-

Important Notice To Dog Owners

All dog owners are hereby notified that the "Tennessee Anti-Rabies Law, as passed by the 1957 legislature and approved by the Lauderdale County Court, will be enforced throughout the county.

All dogs three months of age must be vaccinated by a veterinarian. All cats six months of age must be vaccinated by a veterinarian.

This law requires that all dogs in the county be vaccinated by a licensed veterinarian and licensed at the County Trustee's Office on or before the first day of May, each year, paying a county license fee of one dollar ($1.00) for each dog owned, kept, or harbored.

This law also requires that a certificate of rabies vaccination in date must be presented at the time of getting license and that no license certificate shall be issued unless a certificate of rabies vaccination is produced for each dog to be licensed.

In order to help dog owners get their dogs vaccinated, the following vaccination clinics have been set up throughout the county, and a charge of $3.00 for each dog vaccinated will be made by the veterinarian at these clinics. A rabies control officer will accompany the veterinarian to these clinics, and all dogs can be licensed at these clinics. ## Kone Korner Is Razed

RAZING OF THE BUILDING recently purchased by the Town of Halls just north of the water treatment plant was nearing completion this week. Most recently occupied by Kone Korner, the building was the mecca of high school students in the 1940s and 1950s as the home of Tiger Grill. It has also housed grocery store and other businesses. The city will use the property for expansion of the water treatment plant.

Boy Hero of the Confederacy

"If I had a thousand lives to live I would give them all gladly rather than to betray a friend or my country." With those gallant words, 21 year old Sam Davis marched to the gallows in Pulaski, Tennessee on November 27, 1863 to be hanged as a spy by the Union Army. His decision to face the hangman rather than reveal the source of the important and accurate information on Federal troop movements discovered under his saddle and in his boots, also led Sam Davis into immortality as "the boy hero of the Confederacy."

Sam Davis was the son of a prosperous Smyrna, Tennessee family. With his education at Nashville's Military Institute, he eagerly enlisted in the Confederate Army in April of 1861. He fought with General Robert E. Lee and was wounded during the battle of Shiloh. In 1863 he was assigned to the crack Coleman Scouts of Cheatham's Division. It was on a scouting mission behind the enemy lines that young Sam Davis was caught with the incriminating evidence in his possession. Offered a pardon if he would reveal the source of the information, Davis replied, "Officer, I am doing my duty as a soldier. You do yours."

Today shrines and statues, including one on the lawn of the Tennessee State Capitol, commemorate the gallant young southerner who so willingly gave his life for his country.

In 1927, the State of Tennessee acquired the Sam Davis home at Smyrna to be maintained and administered as a memorial. The two-story, eight room home commands a sweeping view of the 168 acre plantation on Stewarts Creek some 20 miles southeast of Nashville and provides a fascinating glimpse of the middle class lifestyle during the Civil War period.

Massive boxwoods line the path to the neat two-story frame house. Huge trees tower above it providing cool shade on even the warmest days of summer. An L-shaped porch connects the two wings of the home.

Inside, the home is furnished with items from the Civil War period, many of them original possessions of the Davis family. As with most homes of the period, the kitchen and smokehouse are separated from the main house. The slave quarters and overseer's cabin have been rebuilt, along with stables and other outbuildings common to plantations of the era.

Behind the main house a quiet garden path leads to the Davis family graveyard where the boy hero of the Confederacy found his final resting place.

A museum adjacent to the house contains a wide variety of artifacts from the war years, including many of the possessions of the young Sam Davis. Among them is an emotional letter to his family written on the eve of his execution in Pulaski.

The Sam Davis home is located off Interstate 24 two miles from Smyrna. The home, operated by the Sam Davis Memorial Association, is open to the public throughout the year from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. March to October, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. November to February. It is open on Sundays at 1 p.m. throughout the year.

For more information on the Sam Davis home and other attractions in middle Tennessee contact the Tennessee Department of Tourist Development, Box T, 505 Fesslers Lane, Nashville, Tennessee 37210.

VOLUME 85—NUMBER 11

New Arrival Proclaimed

ANNOUNCING THE BIRTH OF A SON was this sign friends placed on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Pugh on Sumrow Street in Halls during the weekend. Farnsworth Eugene Pugh III was born March 5th at Parkview Hospital in Dyersburg. Grandparents are Mrs. F. E. Pugh, of Halls, and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hammond, of Winona, Miss. The Pughs have two daughters, Leigh 13, and Elizabeth 8.

Merchants Will Promote Halls

At its meeting Thursday of last week the newly formed Halls Merchants' Association approved plans for a series of promotions in Halls, using the theme—Shop Halls! Details of the promotion are not yet complete. In other business the group:

Voted to request employers and employees of uptown businesses not to use primary parking areas in order to allow more parking space for customers. Set dues at $10 per month retroactive to Jan. 1st. Each member is expected to pay $30 in dues at present, payments to be made to Jerry Criffield, treasurer.

Voted to place trash barrels at convenient places in uptown Halls. Next meeting is at 5:30 p.m. March 19th.

Starnes Trial Slated May 6

Circuit Court has scheduled trial of Floyd D. "Sonny" Starnes, county Chancery Court clerk and master, on embezzlement charges, May 6th.

State auditors reported shortages in his office last August—cash collections, chiefly for delinquent taxes, which never reached the bank. The grand jury Feb. 2nd indicted Starnes for embezzlement of $20,956 and his assistant, Annie Ruth (Mrs. Jackie) Webb, for converting to her own use $4,500.

Both paid the shortages into the office. Starnes requested an early trial, but Judge Herman L. Reviere declined to hear the case, "because of personal relationships. Mrs. Starnes is a court reporter.

Judge Phil Harris, of Greenfield, was appointed to preside in Starnes' trial Feb. 23rd, but Starnes then requested a delay to allow his attorney, Terry Abernathy, of Selmer, succeeding Jody Walker, of Ripley, more time to prepare his case.

That fields be relatively free of wheat. The Milan Station is working with a pre-emergence herbicide which shows promise, applied after the wheat is fully tilled, for grass control. At this time, no pre-emergence material is available, which means dependence on post-emergence herbicides.

White-Wash Endures Remember the days when people use to white-wash tree trunks, clothes line posts, fences and other objects around their farmstead to improve the appearance? We have had several inquiries recently on how to make white-wash.

Since we cannot now buy unsifted lime, it is necessary to first make a mixture of eight gallons of lime paste made by soaking 50 pounds of hydrated lime in six gallons of water. Dissolve 12 pounds of salt and six ounces of powdered alum in four gallons of hot water, and add one quart of molasses. Add this solution to the lime paste, stirring vigorously, and then thin with water to the desired consistency.

Surfaces to be white-washed should first be cleaned and then wet thoroughly before the white-wash is applied. This causes the white-wash to dry gradually, so that it does not flake off.

Try Deer Repellent James Byford, Extension wildlife specialist, says farmers interested in cooperating in a demonstration to control deer around soy bean fields can receive a repellent, called Hinder. This product does not harm deer and can be applied easily with conventional spray equipment. Farmers who have two or more fields in close proximity to each other, surrounded by similar habitat, of similar size, and with a history of deer damage on soy beans, should contact the County Extension Office if they are interested in a program of this type. Dry material for the demonstration would be free.

Young Speakers Hailed

Alley, Kissell In Vacancies

County Commissioners Monday unanimously elected Franklin Alley to succeed Lucius Forsythe, who has moved from his district, the north Second Civil District, on the commission. Alley ran unsuccessfully against Forsythe for the post in 1978.

Myron Kissell was elected to succeed B. V. Hutcherson, Jr., resigning as Sixth District Constable. Lawson Elder cast the only dissenting vote, after nominating Jamie McMahan.

It discussed limiting Ambulance Authority and services to emergency calls, eliminating diagnostic trips from hospitals outside the county.

The commission approved $4,400 in repairs on the bulldozer at the county land-fill. Notaries public elected were William F. Walker, Dale S. Leggett, Susan Land, Mandy Proctor, Thomas G. Queen, William D. Reeves, Elise P. Jennings, Cheryl P. Chism, and Robert C. Sullivan.

CONFIDENTIAL CORNER

By Henry Murchison

Here And There

Perhaps some of you noticed last week that we didn't write this column. For one of the very few times that we can remember in almost forty years we were ill and unable to help get The Graphic ready for press.

Late Monday afternoon we became suddenly ill and continued ill through most of last week. We are better now but still not up to par. Not writing The Corner started us thinking about how difficult it some times is to find something to write about.

We find ourselves getting in a rut and writing about our national woes or some similar item so that we sound like the voice of doom. Anyhow, despite all of our troubles, the nation's woes, etc., we don't want to seem overly pessimistic or disheartened. We firmly believe that our nation will continue to exist and prosper.

President Regan Tuesday delivered his budget proposal to the Congress containing all of the cuts he will seek.

It has been interesting but not all surprising to read and hear the predictions that are being made that his cuts will abuse the poor, benefit only the rich by one group while another group maintains that the budget cuts are the panacea for all of our ills.

Without a great deal of opportunity to study the proposed budget cuts we are in no position to make a firm decision on what we think but it seems to us that the cuts are fairly evenhanded.

Farmers are going to lose and it seems to us some of the programs need cutting; social security recipients are likely to find that their increases are going to be smaller; and so it goes all across the board.

The need for a slowdown in government spending is self evident. Let's give the budget cuts a chance and see how they work out. However, to do this we must accept our cuts along with those affecting a different group.

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

This week, hearings are beginning in the House Committee on Agriculture with regard to re-authorizing federal agricultural programs which are due to expire this year.

These programs cover a wide array of farm and rural oriented policies which were last extended in 1977. They cover farm loans, support prices for most American farm commodities, and the Food Stamp Program which is administered by the Department of Agriculture.

This process of extending farm programs is not new. It occurs about every three or four years. This year is a great deal like 1977. A new Congress has been seated and a new Administration has been sworn in and both are under considerable time pressures imposed by the Congressional Budget process, to define their objectives and present their proposals for what kind of farm policy the government is going to have during the next three years.

As the hearings get underway before the full Agriculture Committee and its Sub-Committees, it appears that the administration is expecting a bumper crop this year and high farm income, and it is signaling that it wants low spending levels for farm programs. In light of that, it appears that both Chairman of the House and Senate Agriculture Committees and the new Secretary of Agriculture are going to advocate a fine tuning of farm programs rather than big changes.

While that may sound like a simple task, there are issues cropping up now that indicate a difficult road ahead. For example, the dairy price support has already become the focus of intense discussion and debate. Similarly, it appears that the food stamp program is going to receive enough tinkering with to attain the $1.8 billion in savings proposed by President Reagan.

In addition, there are signs that farm lending programs administered by the Farmers Home Administration are being looked at for budget cuts. Finally, depending on what course the Committees and the Administration take, there is the possibility that other issues such as a sugar program, and the huge loss of prime agricultural land to non-farm uses may evolve as important features.

At this stage in the development of the farm bill, there is a lot of discussion going on and lot of trial balloons being raised to see what the reaction of the agricultural community will be. Sec. John Block, for example, has been talking about dropping target prices altogether which would, in effect, eliminate deficiency payments. In their place, he suggests that a higher loan rate on crops would be more beneficial to the farmer. Let me emphasize that this is only a possible suggestion, not a formal proposal.

Actually, not much substantive action is going to take place until two things occur. First, the President is going to have let Congress know what can be spent on farm programs. That will be taken care of March 10th when he submits his formal budget to Congress. Secondly, and this will occur before the hearings are completed, Sec. Block will have to make his proposals known to the two Committees so that an assessment of the Administration's agricultural policy can be made in conjunction with the drafting of the farm bill.

Important Notice To Dog Owners

All dog owners are hereby notified that the "Tennessee Anti-Rabies Law, as passed by the 1957 legislature and approved by the Lauderdale County Court, will be enforced throughout the county.

All dogs three months of age must be vaccinated by a veterinarian.

All cats six months of age must be vaccinated by a veterinarian.

This law requires that all dogs in the county be vaccinated by a licensed veterinarian and licensed at the County Trustee's Office on or before the first day of May, each year, paying a county license fee of one dollar ($1.00) for each dog owned, kept, or harbored.

This law also requires that a certificate of rabies vaccination in date must be presented at the time of getting license and that no license certificate shall be issued unless a certificate of rabies vaccination is produced for each dog to be licensed.

In order to help dog owners get their dogs vaccinated, the following vaccination clinics have been set up throughout the county, and a charge of $3.00 for each dog vaccinated will be made by the veterinarian at these clinics. A rabies control officer will accompany the veterinarian to these clinics, and all dogs can be licensed at these clinics. The rabies control officer will be on duty full-time thereafter, picking up dogs without tags.

By Mrs. H. G. McCorkle
First meeting of the season for Halls Garden Club was held last Thursday afternoon at Halls Community Center. Hostesses were Mrs. Hal Pennington, Mrs. Bob Poindexter, Mrs. Jackie Walker and Mrs. Billy Brewer.

In the absence of the president and vice-president Mrs. Hal Pennington presided and welcomed those attending.

Mrs. Guy Lucas presented the meditation reading several poems relating to spring including "Joys of Spring" and "After the Winter Gloom Sent Spring" by Helen Steiner Rice, and two poems by P. S. Freeman, "March" and "What Thou Hast Given Beauty." Each of these poems were very appropriate and beautifully expressed the season of the year.

Mrs. W. A. Smith read the minutes of the December meeting and called the roll. During the business session Mrs. Gerald Chery was elected president to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Eugene Pugh who resigned at the December meeting. Mrs. Billy Brewer was elected vice-president. Mrs. David Nunn presented the treasurer's report.

Floral arrangements for the meeting were silk flowers. The judging committee chose the lovely and colorful arrangement by Mrs. W. A. Smith as winner of the blue ribbon. The attractive peach and blue combination made by Mrs. Ross Dyer caught the eyes of the judges for the red ribbon and the multi-colored arrangement by Mrs. H. G. McCorkle drew the white ribbon.

Mrs. Robert Holtsford, who was unable to attend, had prepared an interesting and helpful program on "Bulbs" which Ross Dyer presented for Mrs. Holtsford.

We learned that bulbs are easy to grow, especially the first year. However, they demand some "know how" to be able to bring them back year after year. It is good to know that there are certain bulbs for each season of the year—some which can be forced to bloom indoors even during the storms of January. There are also bulbs for many different places, in wet or dry, shady or sunny, wooded or open.

Plants called bulbs are actually divided into five categories: (1) Tulips and daffodils are examples of true bulbs; (2) Crocus and gladiolus bulbs are examples of corms; (3) Calladium and begonia bulbs are tubers; (4) All bulbs grow underground, but the tuberous root is the only one that is a real root

CARD OF THANKS
I would like to take this opportunity to express my deep appreciation for all the acts of kindness shown me while recuperating in Methodist Hospital from back surgery. I appreciated the many prayers, cards, phone calls, flowers and visits and I want to say a special thanks to Bethesda Methodist Church for their nice gift and all they have done for me. It is wonderful to have such good Christian friends and neighbors to be so concerned. May God bless each and everyone.

By Donna Baker
CHAIN LETTERS

There are a lot of things that annoy people. Everyone has "pet peeves" and I am no exception, I have several. David has quite a few and even Julie has some. She hates to suck an empty bottle and putting a pacifier in her mouth insults her.

There is a dead dog on the side of old Hwy. 51, north of Halls, that has laid there for two months. It gets on David's nerves everytime we pass it.

I guess I have the most pet peeves of all of us. I hate to spend too much at the grocery store. I despise bugs, and I hate to find wadded facial tissues lying around, and dirty ash trays put me in a foul mood. I used to have trouble deciding what irritated me the most. Until today! Today I found out what aggravates me the worst.

I got a letter in the mail today, postmarked from Halls, no return address. I opened it and saw it was a chain letter. It wasn't signed and I have no idea who the culprit is who sent it to me.

I am not superstitious. I laughed at it at first but then became annoyed. The letter threatened tragedy within 4 days if I didn't copy the 2-page letter twenty times and spend $3.00 on stamps to send to copied to twenty unsuspecting friends. The letter spoke of losing my job and being a pauper, of accidents and near misses of death.

But if I should send the twenty copies, I would receive a surprise in the mail within four days. It told of people receiving astronomically high sums of money after mailing the letters.

The letter said the chain had been around the world seven times. I didn't realize there were so many gullible people in the world. Do you actually believe just because you fail to write a few threatening letters that misfortune will rule you until your dying day? I don't! I don't see what sending a chain letter has to do with acquiring money either. This letter didn't ask me to send a dollar to the name at the top of the list and mark it off and add mine to the bottom and wait five years and receive one million dollar bills. It just offered luck. Forget it! I'd rather look for 4-leaf clovers. I am going to observe everything very carefully for the next four days for my destined tragedy. I'll be sure and report on it next week. I would offer to wait a couple of weeks and send the chain

Spring Gardens Need Planning

By Charles T. Peal

Gardeners who plant in adjoining rows vegetables end having production about the same time can prepare the area at one time for later varieties.

Group lettuce, mustard, onions for use green, early English peas or Irish potatoes, radishes, hardy spinach, or spring turnips for greens. After June 1st, follow with late tomatoes for canning (raise plants by sowing seed May 1st). Or early potatoes may be left in the ground and corn or garden soy beans planted between potato rows.

Group earliest cabbage or sweet corn, first bunch beans, onions for dry use, later English peas, early Irish potatoes, and spring turnips for roots. After July 1st, follow cabbage, peas, or potatoes with second crop potatoes. Plant field peas in all vacant spaces. Early field peas may be followed by turnips in August or September.

Give later bunch beans, bunch butter beans, early cabbage, carrots, first cucumbers, earliest peas, summer squash, and early tomatoes until Aug. 1st.

By Charles T. Peal

Choose late crops which all mature before winter or can be left through winter. A row of kale or collards planted in June or July with beans or field peas leaves one row to be sowed over winter, making fall turning of the garden very inconvenient.

Turnips or mustard through the winter can be turned under in May for crops planted after July 1st.

Don't grow more than you can use or can. One long row might be enough lettuce and radishes; you might make several plantings. You may like turnip or mustard greens for a long time in spring, but these plants go to seed quickly in warm weather.

Cabbage, carrots, onions, and radishes can be grown in the same rows with strawberry plants newly set three feet apart.

• TRANS-PLANTING results in less wilt if done in late afternoon or on cloudy days. Removing one or two lower leaves from broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, egg plant, pepper, and tomato plants also reduces wilt.

Water plants grown in containers, hot-beds, or cold frames an hour or more before transplanting; they need not be watered after setting. Leaving a block of moist soil around roots protects them for fast growth.

When setting plants with bare roots, fill the hole with water, put the plant in place, allow the water to soak into the soil, and firm moist soil about the wet roots.

A walrus can easily sink a small boat with his tusks.

All dogs three months of age must be vaccinated by a veterinarian.

All cats six months of age must be vaccinated by a veterinarian.

This law requires that all dogs in the county be vaccinated by a licensed veterinarian and licensed at the County Trustee's Office on or before the first day of May, each year, paying a county license fee of one dollar ($1.00) for each dog owned, kept, or harbored.

This law also requires that a certificate of rabies vaccination in date must be presented at the time of getting license and that no license certificate shall be issued unless a certificate of rabies vaccination is produced for each dog to be licensed.

In order to help dog owners get their dogs vaccinated, the following vaccination clinics have been set up throughout the county, and a charge of $3.00 for each dog vaccinated will be made by the veterinarian at these clinics. A rabies control officer will accompany the veterinarian to these clinics, and all dogs can be licensed at these clinics. The rabies control officer will be on duty full-time thereafter, picking up dogs without tags.

Drug Bait Cost Sheriff $7,000

Sheriff Joe O'Steen, who says he contributed $2,500 of his own funds to his first "drug operation" and lost $7,000 of his own money—$5,000 borrowed from Farmers Union Bank—in the latest to come to light, said this week that "if we just had access to one attorney in this county who really believed in law enforcement to do our prosecuting and assist in preparation of cases, we could get the job done."

"Why do newspaper people constantly harp on the people's right to know and then repeatedly print a half-truth?" O'Steen asks in a letter to the editor delivered Tuesday. "Could it be that you are biased? Much has been said about the controversial Miss Dianne Best."

[We plead not guilty. We have not "repeatedly" printed anything about Miss Best, nor feel much interest in doing so. She has been noticed in our pages chiefly by Sheriff O'Steen—see 21 column inches Sept. 11, 1980—Editor.]

"I hired Miss Best," Sheriff O'Steen continues.

"She came to me highly recommended by another law department, as a person qualified to do the job we needed done here in Lauderdale County."

"She had a witness to every buy she made, except one."

"She was beginning to reach some people we have been after for four years."

"The whistle was blown on her. Her identity was exposed, and we had to terminate her operation."

'Lives Threatened'

"What happened to the witnesses?"

"They were scared to death. Their lives were threatened. The lives of their families were threatened."

"In fact, one witness lost a brother, in a fatal accident."

"On the pre-trial discovery, Miss Best was left in the jury room to face seven attorneys, two from Memphis and five from Lauderdale County."

"They verbally tore her apart, but they did not break her."

"They also talked to the other two witnesses who were with Miss Best when she made the buys. They did not break them, either."

"It was only when the lives of their families were threatened that they pulled up."

"What would you have done?"

'Not The 1st Time'

"This is not the first time this has happened."

"We lost a few cases once before through a local informer."

"His life was threatened by local citizens to the point that he left the country and has not been back."

"Do our courts owe any degree of protection to these important witnesses?"

"We lost two cases because the University of Tennessee laboratory failed to schedule the drugs in question, i.e., tell what they were."

"O'Steen says he called the attention of the attorney general, Mike Whitaker, of Somerville, to this before trial."

"We had ample time to have them scheduled. He informed me it was not necessary, that there was a new change in the law that did not require that."

"I believed him. However, when we went to trial, the defense challenged the scheduling of these drugs under the old codes."

"The General did not have the new codes available, so these cases were thrown out."

"Miss Sharon James, sentenced to jail for passing forged prescriptions, testified as a character witness for her boy friend, John Shands."

"She was convincing, and the jury turned him loose."

"We had just convicted him a week before trial in General Sessions Court but could not use that as evidence."

"Needless to say, Miss James and Mr. Shands got back together."

"Miss James has since been returned to jail for violation of parole."

"At least one attorney agreed to plead his clients guilty for a reasonable fine and suspended sentence. The court turned it down, and a jury turned them loose."

"The case of Ricky Jones was dismissed in Covington."

"I did not know it was scheduled for Covington, or we would have had some witnesses there.

"I was in Covington on other business and just happened to hear his name called."

"However, the case was good enough that a hearing, later, in Memphis, gave us his automobile."

"We will be able to sell the vehicle at a county auction."

"I hear that our attorneys are taught in school that, if you do not have a good case, try the accuser, try the sheriff, try anybody but your client."

"This is exactly what happened in the cases made by Barbara Diane Best."

"Everybody tried Miss Best. They went back to Miss Best's childhood days and came forward."

'Knew Not Lily White'

"I knew she was not lily white when I hired her."

"I also knew that Sunday School teachers, etc., cannot, nor should they be expected to, get down in the gutter and deal with these pushers and users."

"They could not get the job done."

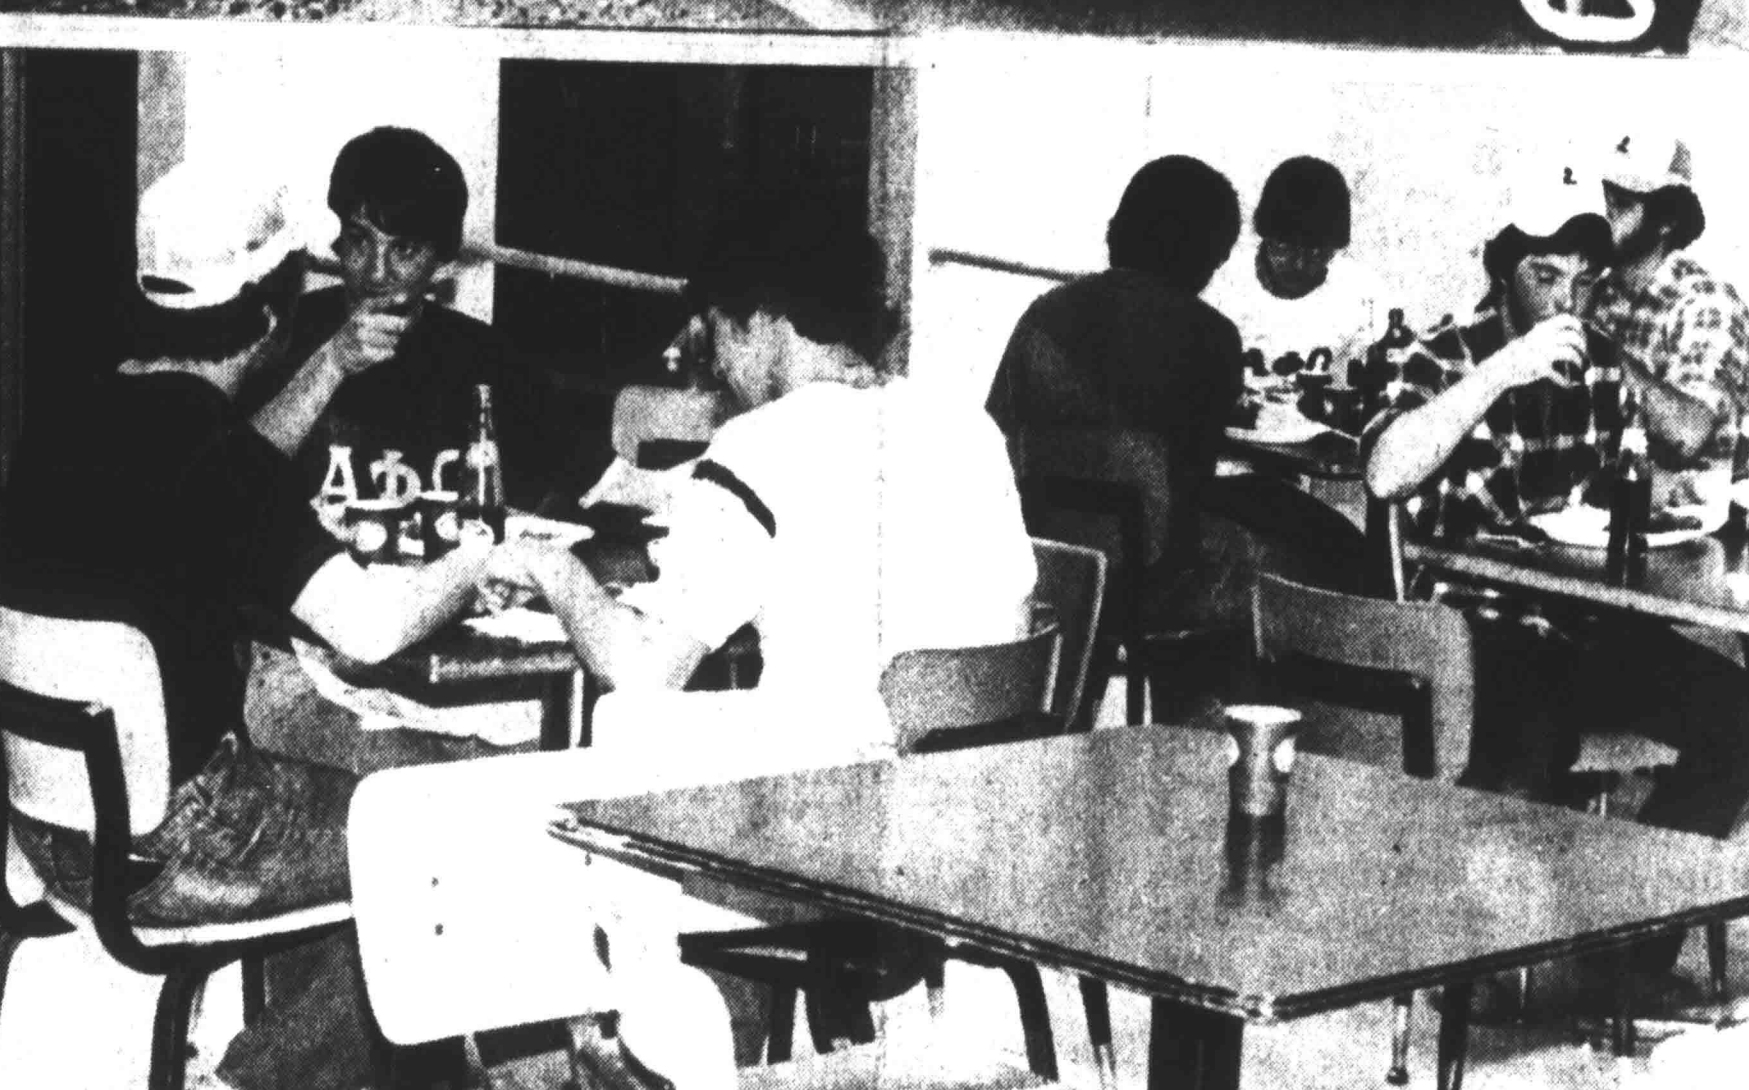

"One charge against Miss Best in another county was nothing more than a front to keep Miss Best from testifying against a prominent citizen of that county on an arson charge."

"It worked. The person was acquitted, and the charges against Miss Best dropped, after she had paid for a $5,000 bond, not returnable."

"What would happen, if we went back to the childhood days of all our citizens and recorded all the unpleasant details, then made it all public?"

Rev. William Garner, pastor of Vanderbilt Ave. Baptist Church, West Memphis, Ark., will be the speaker for a series of revival services, March 29-April 3rd at Halls First Baptist Church. Sunday services will be at 10:50 a.m. and 6 p.m. and weekdays at 7 p.m. Music for the services will be under the direction of Mark Branson, minister of music for the church.

Readers Speak Fund Raiser

Elon Graveyard, near Double Bridges, is one of the oldest landmarks in the north end of Lauderdale County, and most families that have lived anywhere between Dry Hill and Fowlkes anytime between 1850 and 1940 have relatives buried there.

Years ago, survivors of Elon's dead would meet with mule teams, hoes, and axes to clean off the cemetery. But those generations themselves died; and the graveyard, except for one or two plots, was claimed by weeds, honeysuckle, and sassafras.

Many Elon descendants were concerned about the disgraceful condition that had developed, but each felt it was beyond his power to correct.

Last year, however, a small group from Elon Baptist Church in Double Bridges, headed by Mr. Howard Galloway (who, as far as we know, has no relative in Elon Graveyard), started clearing bushes. By fall, Elon was as pretty a spot as it had ever been. Now, however, we cannot expect it to stay cleared. Without a regular program of mowing and tending, the thicket will win again. Happily, Elon's families need not now come with mules and hoes and axes; we can, instead, give to the Elon Cemetery Association, c/o Mr. Howard Galloway, Route 2, Halls, Tenn. 38040, and let them contract for convenient and inexpensive upkeep. To keep it clear is little enough for us to do in memory of our early-settler ancestors and in appreciation for the terrific job done by the group from Elon Church.

More than 150 tombstones representing almost 60 families named including Alsobrook, Bentley, Burks, Carnell, Chambers, Chipman, Conklin, Goepp, Hilliard, Jordan, McDearman, Pugh, Reynolds, Thurmond, Wagster, Young and others still may be found at Elon; they date from 1843 to modern times. The information from the stones has been copied and DAVID R. NUNN, of Halls, is heading a drive in Lauderdale, Fayette, Hardeman, Haywood and Tipton Counties to raise funds for Union University's Expansion program. Nunn, chairman of the board of Bank of Halls, is a Union trustee and recipient of the college's Honorary Alumnus Award.

Narvella Nelson

Miss Narvella Nelson, 81, retired teacher, formerly of Halls, died March 17th at Robert Koch Hospital in Koch, Mo.

Services were at 2 p.m. Sunday at Matthew Zion MB Church, burial in Old Chapel Cemetery, Thomas Funeral Home in charge.

She leaves a nephew, Theroford Douglas, of St. Louis, Mo., with whom she lived.

She may be seen at Halls Public Library, or at Mr. Galloway's home in Double Bridges. A copy is also available on request with each contribution of $10 or more to the Cemetery Fund. The Association is also interested in collecting a list of persons buried there who never had a marker or whose marker is missing, and in writing a short history of Elon and Elon Cemetery families; information on any that your readers know of may be sent to Mr. Galloway (address above) or to me.

Board Avows Schools Kept

The county Board of Education voted 4-1 Monday to retain and improve all present schools in Arp, Ripley, and Henning, for the next seven or eight years.

Parnell Webb, chairman, cast the lone vote against the motion.

State experts suggest another school near Ripley Elementary, within seven or eight years.

The board agreed to release the old Ripley Middle Grade building to the county, immediately.

New Books At Halls Library

Halls Public Library Committee met March 19th with five members present.

The Library has received their new children's books, which were ordered last month, and they will be placed on the shelves in the near future. These books are for pre-schoolers through fourth grade and includes volumes on history, Bible stories, and general subjects for that age group.

The Board voted to pay expenses for Mrs. Virgie Norman, librarian, to attend the State-Wide Librarian Workshop April 24th in Memphis.

Two new books of fiction, currently on the best-seller list, have been received, The Key To Rebecca by Ken Follet and Come Pour The Wine by Cynthia Freeman.

W. H. Woodley returned home last week after several weeks in St. Francis Hospital in Memphis.

Shop Lifting Seminar Set

Halls High DECA chapter will sponsor a Shop Lifting Seminar at 7 p.m. March 31st at the high school.

Topics to be covered include Shop Lifting Prevention and Bad Check Laws. Speakers will be Paul Dew, of the Attorney General's office, Curlew Court Judge Chief Buddy Moore, Ripley Police Chief Bob White, and Jerry Walker, Ripley attorney.

Mrs. Norman would like to recommend several cookbooks from our non-fiction shelves including Cooking For One by Elinor Parker, The Better Homes and Gardens Fondue Cook Book, The Light and Easy Cookbook (low calorie meals) by Barbara Gibbons, The Kids Diet Cookbook by Aileen Paul and Cooking Without A Grain of Salt by Elma W. Bagge.

The library is open from 1 to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays. The phone number is 836-5302.

Mrs. Fred Moore presided in the absence of the regent, Mrs. Neil Dyer, who was ill. Mrs. Thomas Banks read the President General's Message.

Mrs. Richard Loew, National Defense chairman, told the group how much more money Russia is spending on research and development and stated that they do not have the EPA and similar programs that we have in the United States as a detriment to engineering expansion in many fields. ## REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

Recently the Tennessee Valley Authority came under what I think is deserved criticism for providing bonuses to a small number of its top executives. Based on the information I have received, TVA paid out $476,000 in bonuses to 181 top management employees for 1980. This is the second year of the existence of this bonus program with 137 employees receiving about $381,000 last year.

It is understandable that TVA would want to have some kind of incentive program for employees. Many private companies do. The question is: can TVA afford this one? The unique position that TVA occupies must be considered. First, it is essentially a public utility that serves portions of seven states. It operates under a Federal law that places certain requirements on it, the major one being that it must set its rates so that revenues match its power operating expenditures.

First of all, while these bonuses are being awarded, the power consumers in the valley are being asked to absorb tremendously high rate increases—three in twelve months. Those ratepayers are certainly not getting any extra "bonus" income to pay those higher electric bills. Secondly, TVA sets its own rates without having to go to any public body for approval. Finally, all TVA employees should work with one thought in mind, and that is to do all they can from whatever position they occupy in the agency to be as efficient as they can possibly be.

TVA was established as a yardstick by which private utilities can be judged. To say that they must have these bonuses to get executives is to leave the impression that TVA is using a private industry yardstick rather than setting policies to be used by others.

CONFIDENTIAL CORNER

By Henry Murchison

Timely Subject

It is unfortunate that more people, especially parents of junior high age children, did not have the opportunity to hear Dr. Bill Edwards speak at the Halls-Gates Rotary Club meeting Monday.

Dr. Edwards, who is a professor at Dyersburg State Community College and is also associated with the Dyer County Sheriff's Department, spoke on Drugs and Drug Abuse and the hold that it is getting on the younger generation, especially in the schools. It might be well to invite Dr. Edwards to speak at an open meeting some time in the near future.

Bill Woods, vice president of The Lauderdale County Bank, tells us he is heading a drive to secure a piano for the Senior Citizens Center. He says that donations may be made to him at the bank for the purchase of a piano or perhaps someone has a piano they would be willing to give to the center.

Jerry Criffield has asked us to remind the people of this area that donations to aid the Raymond Belton family may be made at the bank. Mr. Belton remains in Methodist Hospital in Memphis and, of course, his hospital bills continue to mount.

We are always impressed by the enthusiasm shown by members of Alpha Phi Omega fraternity in their annual Push for St. Jude. The youngsters show a genuine enthusiasm that creates support for this worthy cause. Our congratulations and best wishes for the continued success of the fund raising effort.

Mrs. Clara Green

Mrs. Clara Imogene Green, 68, wife of G. H. Green, of Alamo, sister of Mrs. H. B. Hill, of Gates, died Saturday at Jackson-Madison County General Hospital.

Services were at 2 p.m. Monday at Alamo First Baptist Church, burial in Alamo Cemetery, Ronk Funeral Home in charge.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to express my deep appreciation for all the thoughtful acts that made my 92nd birthday one to be pleasantly remembered. The cards, gifts, telephone calls, and visits made the day a cheerful one. The congratulatory card from President and Mrs. Reagan was a pleasant surprise. Thanks to my sister, Mary, who served refreshments to those who came with best wishes.

Outdoor Lighting Rate Increase

Due to the increase in Tennessee Valley Authority power rates, together with the ever-increasing costs of materials, we are forced to raise the monthly charge for outdoor lighting.

The present monthly charge will, in most cases, no longer pay for the kilowatts consumed by the fixtures.

This will be the first outdoor lighting rate increase since 1975.

Effective April 2, 1981, the monthly charge for present and future security lighting customers will increase. We are glad we could hold the cost down for this long and regret that the increase is necessary.

The increase will vary, depending on the type of outdoor lighting. For additional information, call our Ripley or Halls offices.

Donna's Diary

By Donna Baker
INFLATION FIGHTER

I guess I should have sent those chain letters after all. Tragedy struck two days after I threw the letter away. Yes, folks, I went to work and broke two fingernails in an hour's time.

I grieved for several minutes. Did any of you expect a real crisis? I didn't. I guess I proved chain letters are a big hoax.

Up until a few months ago, I looked forward to Friday mornings. David and I would get up and shop around, buy groceries, and then stop off somewhere for a bite to eat, come home and relax and then go to work.

I enjoyed grocery shopping. I would slowly browse, thinking of new things to prepare for dinner.

But recently things have changed. It has gotten to where I'd rather take a beating than go to the grocery store. The prices are outrageous. It seems I spend more money and get less. Sometimes I intentionally sleep late on Fridays hoping I won't have time to go to the store. But then I have to go on Saturdays. I went one Saturday and spent twice the normal amount. I was so mad when I got home I almost loaded everything back in the car and took it back. I try to cut corners. I use coupons and leave out junk food. I shop at different stores for bargains. I buy plain label brands, everything I can think of to save a few cents. But it still ruins my day.

Everyone has gotten used to me now though. No one bothers me after I have been to the store. They know I'm liable to get cranky if the wrong word is said. I did find one thing that helped me save a little. I'll pass that tip along. I got a calculator. You may ask how using a calculator at a grocery store helps save money you're going to buy what you need so what's the difference in having a total price before the cashier adds it up?

Simple! If you keep a running total of what you buy, you spend more time playing with the buttons on the calculator and less time looking at the shelves so you buy less. I think this same method would work if you took a book to read while you're shopping. Try it once and see that I am right!

I know that everyone is just as disgusted as I am about inflation, especially at the grocery store. If I get any other bright ideas, I will be sure and pass them along.

Generic drugs are cheaper

Drugs which can be prescribed and filled by their scientific name, available generically, are less expensive than their name brand equivalent.

The Food and Drug Administration says that 3,330 of its 5,000 approved drugs have more than one manufacturer and therefore, are available generically. — CNS

Important Notice To Dog Owners

All dog owners are hereby notified that the "Tennessee Anti-Rabies Law, as passed by the 1957 legislature and approved by the Lauderdale County Court, will be enforced throughout the county.

All dogs three months of age must be vaccinated by a veterinarian.

All cats six months of age must be vaccinated by a veterinarian.

This law requires that all dogs in the county be vaccinated by a licensed veterinarian and licensed at the County Trustee's Office on or before the first day of May, each year, paying a county license fee of one dollar ($1.00) for each dog owned, kept, or harbored.

This law also requires that a certificate of rabies vaccination in date must be presented at the time of getting license and that no license certificate shall be issued unless a certificate of rabies vaccination is produced for each dog to be licensed.

In order to help dog owners get their dogs vaccinated, the following vaccination clinics have been set up throughout the county, and a charge of $3.00 for each dog vaccinated will be made by the veterinarian at these clinics. A rabies control officer will accompany the veterinarian to these clinics, and all dogs can be licensed at these clinics.
