

Crossing Gates Installed

CROSSING GATES began operating Friday at the Tigrett Street crossing of the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad in Halls. City officials had been seeking gates at the crossing for more than 10 years.

Halls Citizens Mark Ballots

Halls voting this Thursday elects a mayor and six aldermen to serve for the next two years.

A new mayor and at least three new aldermen will be selected, since Mayor James H. Cheshier did not seek re-election, and three of the six incumbent aldermen—Steven Levy, Noel Sherrod, and Judson Vaden—are seeking the mayor's position.

Other mayoral candidates are James Franklin (Mickey) Cherry, Lyle (Gillie) Gillenwater, and Joe Jacobs.

Cherry is a farmer. Gillenwater operates a local restaurant and is a house painter. Jacobs is retired from the Tennessee Highway Patrol.

Three incumbent aldermen—Morris McCorkle, Eugene Pugh, and Marcus Spiller—are seeking re-election. All have served several terms on the board.

Others in the aldermen's race are Harry Adcock, Wayne Alley, Tommy Hansbrough, James L. Jones, Lester Kilzer, Lotise Shepard, (the only female candidate), Dr. Bob Stolarick, and Stan Young.

Jones has previously served on the Board of Aldermen and is a County Commissioner.

Mrs. Shepard and Dr. Stolarick were candidates in the 1981 election.

The polls, at the Halls Community Center, will open at 9 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

State Coach Clinic Stars Halls High's Andy Pugh

Andy Pugh, of Halls High School, is one of six outstanding high school football coaches to be featured in the Coaches' School to be held by the Tennessee Secondary School Athletic Association at Middle Tennessee State University in Murfreesboro, July 20th-23rd.

Others are Gene Andrews, of Franklin Road Academy, Nashville; Paul Cox, of Collierville High; John Meadows, of Lincoln County High School, Fayetteville; Benny Monroe, of Cleveland High School; and Dave Rider, of Elizabethton High School. Coaches from across the state attend.

State Orders Busses Kept

The state Public Service Commission Thursday of last week denied a petition by Greyhound Bus Company to discontinue passenger and package service to Halls, Gates, Newbern and Trimble.

PSC Chairman Keith Bissell said the ruling can be appealed to the Federal Interstate Commerce Commission but that the PSC will defend its ruling before the ICC.

Retired Federal Employees Saluted For New Members

President Raybon Chambers, of Halls, accepted for the Three Rivers Chapter of Retired Federal Employees a plaque awarded at the state convention in Knoxville last week for the chapter with the largest percentage of increase in new memberships.

Among 197 delegates and guests attending from 34 of 40 chapters, which have 4,230 members, were Mr. and Mrs. Chambers and Margaret M. Hargett, of Ripley, the chapter's secretary-treasurer.

A memorial service for 110 members deceased during the past year included among those remembered Sarah (Mrs. Monroe) Belton, of Ripley.

Countians Field Math, Lag In Language Arts

Reporting that more than 95% of the state's high school seniors passed the proficiency test required for graduation, the state Department of Education said that of 329 Lauderdale County students tested, 90% passed the mathematics part of the test, compared to 87% state-wide, but only 72% passed the language arts part of the test, compared to 77% state-wide.

Readers Speak

Editor: On behalf of the several runners from Lauderdale County who participated Saturday in the Memphis in May River Races, I would like to say thanks to the members of the Ripley unit of the National Guard for their fine job of directing traffic. Standing in the drizzling rain for hours, they were responsible for the safety of some 2,800 runners who competed in the 10 kilometer, two mile, and corporate relay races. There were absolutely no accidents. Thanks again. Austin Winn, Jr.

STUDENT TEACHING

Michael Kimmons, Ripley senior at the University of Tennessee at Martin, is student teaching at Halls High School in Halls during the 1983 spring quarter.

A 1977 graduate of Ripley High School in Ripley, and the son of Dr. and Mrs. Joe Kimmons, Kimmons is working with Cliff Davis' Economics, American Government and American History classes.

Student teachers from UT Martin are assigned to elementary, junior high and high schools throughout West Tennessee to obtain practical teaching experiences prior to graduation from the university. Each student teacher completes the majority of his or her course work and takes special method courses at UTM prior to the student teaching experience.

Kimmons resides with his parents at 226 Lackey Lane, Ripley.

SCHOOL WIND-UP

Phillip Jackson, county school superintendent, says the last day of classes will be May 26th.

Teachers will return May 27th for in-service training.

Baseball Season Into Full Swing

Dixie Youth League baseball games which were rained out Saturday will be played later this week.

All teams will be at Crichfield Park Saturday for pictures and opening day ceremonies.

Babe Ruth League and T-Ball plays begins at noon this Saturday.

NEW HALLS POLICE CAR exhibited by Chief Buddy Moore, left, and Roger Charest, manager of the city's Tupperware plant, cost $9,000 of $25,000 donated to the city by Tupperware. The new car replaces one which will be cannibalized to repair a later model.

Gates Student Successful For Tennessee Honors Program

Venita Voss, of Route 1 Gates, a senior in Halls High School, is one of 211 outstanding high school seniors chosen by the Department of Education for recognition in the Tennessee Honors Program.

Selected from over 600 applicants, she was chosen by two committees judging grade point average, class rank, performance on standardized tests, participation in school activities, course load, difficulty of courses, and contributions to schools and communities.

This is the second year the honors program has been conducted by the State Department of Education.

The students selected have been invited with their parents to a special awards luncheon June 20th in the Marriott Hotel in Nashville.

Honor students will receive a certificate of merit from Gov. Lamar Alexander.

Mrs. Gardner Due Master's

Kathy Daws Gardner, of Memphis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winston Daws, of Halls, will receive a master of arts degree, with a concentration in theatre, Saturday from Memphis State University.

She and her husband, Dr. Harvey Gardner, reside at 560 South Belvedere in Memphis.

SQUAD SEEKS AID

Lauderdale County Rescue Squad will begin a week's door-to-door campaign Saturday as its annual fund drive. $4,500 was raised last year.

JUMPING ROPE for the Heart Fund Saturday were these Halls Elementary School students, in the school gymnasium. Mrs. Wymond Stallings, Jr. directed the fund-raising effort.

CPR Course Given

GLENDIA DOTY, at top, of Baptist Hospital Lauderdale, taught CPR (central pulmonary resuscitation) techniques Saturday morning to adults in Halls Elementary School. Other instructors were Ronnie Moore, Glen Faught, and Jo Ann (Mrs. Robert) Stolarick. Other classes will be held from 8 a. m. to noon Saturday and from 7 to 10 p. m. Monday and Tuesday at the school. Classes, open to the public, are sponsored by the hospital and the Halls Parent-Teacher Organization.

Pond Managers Supply Oxygen

By Charles T. Peal

Since fish are dependent on an adequate supply of dissolved oxygen (DO) in their water environment, pond owners need to do everything possible to insure that a high level is maintained. There are several activities that can help with this very important part of pond management.

Pond waters get oxygen from surface contact with the atmosphere and from plants in the water through photosynthesis. When ponds are fertilized, more microscopic algae (phytoplankton) are produced. As long as the phytoplankton does not become excessive, it helps keep the DO level high. That is the reason behind the visibility figure of 16 to 18 inches in Extension literature as ideal to determine when fertilizer is needed. However, dense phytoplankton blooms from too much fertilizer can prevent light penetration, cause massive plankton dieoff by shading and then result in DO depletion. It is important to regularly check the visibility of pond waters and not add fertilizer when the water becomes extremely green with phytoplankton.

Similar situations can develop in watershed ponds where fish are being fed. In addition to dense plankton blooms, wastes from the feed bottom accumulate on the pond and put added oxygen demand on the DO in the water. Research has shown that a pond with about 2,000 channel catfish can normally assimilate the wastes when no more than 40 pounds of food per acre per day are fed. When dense plankton blooms are observed, reduce or stop feeding for a few days—this should help. Some fish culturists find that feeding only six days per week helps them avoid water quality problems. During the summer months, pond water becomes stratified. This means that no regular mixing takes place, and warmer oxygenated water in the upper levels and cooler deoxygenated water is near the bottom. Situations like this can be dangerous to fish in ponds, especially when plankton blooms are dense and fish are consuming large amounts of food. The problem with low DO may become especially acute at night or after several cloudy days in succession. Not feeding for a few days, artificial aeration, adding fresh water, and harvesting part of the fish are options to consider when such problems occur.

Ponds equipped with a trickle tube and a sleeve that will allow stagnant bottom water to exit whenever excess water is available are much less likely to have low oxygen problems. The sleeve extends above the trickle tube and can also prevent the loss of fertilizer by retaining the upper water. Any management practice that helps keep the oxygen level up in ponds will benefit the fish—and result in more production and enjoyment for the pond owner.

Ornamentals Need Ashes
Many Tennessee homeowners enjoy burning wood in their fireplaces during the winter months. It is possible to use the resulting ashes to supplement the fertilization of plants in the home grounds. Wood ashes, however, do not replace the need for conventional fertilizers due to their very low nitrogen content. Wood ashes have a range between one and two percent in phosphate (P2O5) and potassium (K2O) content. Ashes are high in calcium, which is an important secondary element. They also contain many of the necessary trace elements such as iron and zinc. Wood ashes should never be dumped in a pile around existing shrubs or heavily applied in areas of the yard where plants are to be grown. Two to three pounds of wood ashes per 100 square feet of shrub or garden area should not be an excessive application rate. It is suggested not to use wood ashes around azaleas, camelias, blueberries and other acid-loving plants since wood ashes are quite basic in reaction.

Honeybee Swarming Time
Honeybees generally begin swarming in late April and early May. Weather this year has delayed this. Swarming is the mechanics whereby colonies divide to form new ones. We have some beekeepers in our area interested in forming new colonies. Bob Stewart who can be reached at the local Tenn. Dept. of Employment Security Office has informed us that he is interested in increasing his apiary.

When dealing with a swarm of bees, it is best to keep people away from it and do not spray it with a pesticide. Spraying can disrupt the swarm and cause some people to get stung. If a beekeeper cannot be found to collect the hive, it will usually leave in a day or so on its own. Beekeepers who already have bees, need to have them registered with the Tenn. Dept. of Agriculture. Cards are available for this purpose at the County Extension Office.

Control Pond Scum
If the whole pond is to be treated, 3 pounds of Bluestone (copper sulphate) is required for each acre of water for each foot in depth of water. This would need to be applied in such a way that there will not be too much concentration in any one place.

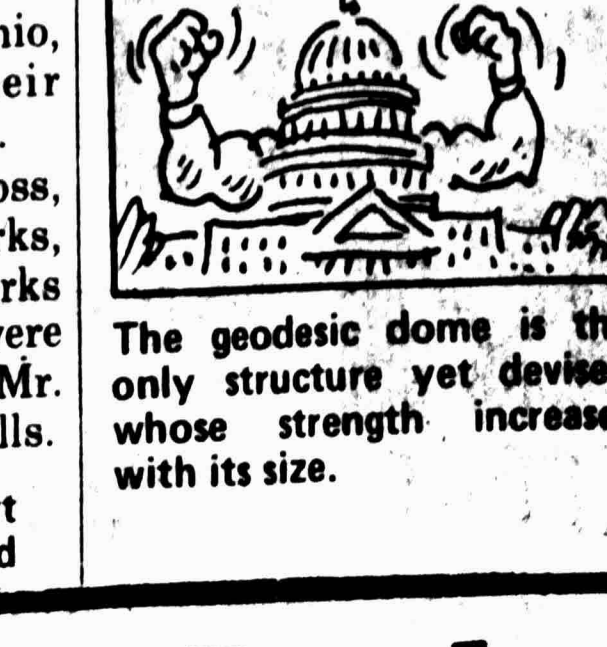

Where the scum is matted in certain areas, this can be controlled by sprinkling pulverized Bluestone over these at the rate of 3 pounds for each 1,000 square feet of scum.

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

Just recently, President Reagan addressed an issue on which he had been urged to take action since his first days in office. That issue was the sale of grain to the Soviet Union. The President announced that he was instructing his trade officials to resume negotiations with the Soviet Union that would result in a new long-term grain sales agreement with that country. At present, the grain sales relationship between the United States and Russia hinges on the annual renewal of an agreement which commits the Soviets to the purchase of not less than six million tons of wheat and grain each year from the United States.

A Recipe For Fun

Start with 1,325 pounds of salt and 8,500 pounds of fresh Kentucky Lake catfish. Set up old time black kettle pots over gas burners and heat 240 gallons of vegetable oil. While waiting for the oil to heat to the proper temperature, mix your corn meal and salt together. Roll each piece of catfish in the corn meal-salt mixture and drop into the heated oil until each piece is deep fried to a crispy golden brown.

There are also a number of other events and activities surrounding the Fish Fry including arts and crafts shows, a high school baseball tournament and a junior fishing rodeo. Still, the star of the event is unquestionably that big old, hairy-faced creature called the catfish.

Home Vows Saturday

SANDRA ANNETTE HENSON and Thomas Lynnwood Watson will be married at 8 p. m. May 7th in the home of the groom on Highway 19 East, of Ripley, with Judge Willard Norvell officiating. Friends and family are invited to the vows and the reception in the home.

Sandy is the daughter of Mrs. William Sherrod, of Ripley, and Charles J. Anderson, of Dry Hill. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Sam Harrell, of Dry Hill, and the late Mr. Harrell.

Thomas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Watson, of Ripley, and the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holcomb.

Sick & Ailing

Mrs. Winston Daws was dismissed Thursday of last week from Baptist Hospital in Memphis, after heart-by-pass surgery. Her sister, Mrs. Bob Salmon, of Memphis, returned home with her for a visit with her and Mr. Daws while she is recuperating.

Mrs. Warren Tanner is at home, after two weeks in Methodist Hospital in Memphis.

Judge Ross Dyer suffered a freak accident Tuesday, while washing his car at the car wash. The force of the water caused him to lose control of the hose and the nozzle hit him in the eye, cutting the eyeball. He was able to go to Memphis Friday night to attend the Father-Son banquet at Presbyterian Day School with his grandson, Ross Dyer, of Memphis, as his father, Thomas R. Dyer, was out of town and unable to attend. Mrs. Dyer accompanied Judge Dyer to Memphis and visited her daughter-in-law, Dee Dyer, and Jenny, Judge Dyer's eye is doing well.

Ed Sumrow, Jr., returned home Sunday after several days of back therapy in Parkview Hospital in Dyersburg.

Robert Harris, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Harris, was dismissed Friday from Baptist Hospital in Memphis after surgery Thursday to remove remains of a bullet of unknown origin which passed through his right hand on March 14th.

VOTE FOR

LYLE
GILLENWATER

TO THE CITIZENS OF HALLS

Now that the election is only hours away, I want to thank all the good people of Halls for the nice way in which you have extended a welcome to me as I came to your homes and also for the concern you have displayed as we discussed the wants and needs of our Town.

I realize that with so many candidates calling, it was no doubt quite disturbing, but you were great. I want to say my promises to you are few. You know as I do that without sufficient funds and the majority vote of the aldermen, any promise is null and void whether made by me or by any of my opponents.

I would like to provide, in some way, a decent street sweeping machine for the City of Halls. Clean streets are not only more pleasing to the eye but also prevent vast clogging of drains that are so vitally needed to carry excess water from our streets and our yards and in some cases from under our houses in times of heavy rain.

There are also many more drainage problems where necessary dredging could be of great importance.

I would like to see downtown Halls with a new face lift. Sometimes just a few materials applied properly can do wonders.

If we could only instill this idea in the minds of the building owners and could offer some help from the town itself in the nature of locating paint and materials at a fraction of the cost, whatever the cost, wouldn't it be worth a try? Dirty and broken windows are not too pleasant to look at.

Halls should also provide more supervised places for young people to busy themselves with such things as craft projects and classes. I find that if you keep the minds of young people busy, then they will have far less time to engage in drinking parties, using dope, and becoming involved in acts of vandalism, etc.

I also feel that many volunteers for this project could be found, resulting in very little or no cost to the City.

I can think of many things Halls needs. In conclusion, I want all the fine people I have been unable to visit at home during my campaign to know this was not intentional.

The first few days after qualifying, I was busy painting the many signs you have seen around town, and the rainy weather during the balance of the campaign has made visiting all of you impossible. It is extremely regrettable to me that I did not see all of you.

Asking you and thanking you for your vote May 5th, I remain truly grateful.

Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency News Report

The Tennessee Wildlife Resources Commission meeting at Fairfield Glade on April 22, passed a regulation which gives Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency authority to negotiate with large private landowners in setting up public hunting areas. Such areas could be very beneficial to both the hunter and landowner.

In the western half of the state there are approximately one half million acres that could be made available to hunters. There are several possible advantages to the landowners who enter into such agreements.

The Commission passed an amendment to the migratory bird hunting regulations which requires the removal of decoys each day on Camden Unit II, Big Sandy and Harmons Creek WMA's. Also, a regulation was passed that prohibits the erection of permanent blinds for waterfowl hunting on both units of Anderson Tally.

Five different rules and regulations were passed by the Commission which brings to state in compliance with federal regulations governing boating.

Action taken by the Commission dealing with fishing regulations included placing a minimum size limit for bass on Watauga and Lake Graham. The Lake Graham size limit for bass was set for 14 inches with a creel limit of 5. Lake Graham is a new lake and the Commission chose to be cautious in the early stages of its development. The Commission voted to place a 15-inch minimum size limit for bass on Watauga. The 15-inch restriction will go into effect beginning October 1 and extend through June 30, 1984.

The next meeting scheduled by the Commission is June 3 at Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency headquarters in Nashville. The hunting seasons for the 1983-84 season will be set at that meeting.

Dedicate New Lake

Lake Graham, a new 550-acre TWA family fishing lake located 6 miles northeast of downtown Jackson, will be dedicated and opened to fishing on Wednesday June 1, 1983. The lake will be officially opened to fishing following dedication ceremonies which are tentatively set for midmorning.

Access and launch ramps are located at the main office off Hurts Chapel Road and also at the Cotton Grove Area off Cotton Grove Road. A bank fishing and picnic area is located approximately 1 mile east of the Cotton Grove access area.

A $2.00 daily permit or a $20.00 annual permit, in addition to the regular fishing license, is required to fish Lake Graham. All residents from 16 to 65 years of age, except holders of Sportsman's License, will be required to have a lake permit. Both lake permit types will be available at the lake, but license agents in Madison and some surrounding counties will only handle annual lake permits.

Lake Graham will be open 7 days a week from sunrise to 1 hour after sunset. Night fishing will not be allowed.

Rental boats will be available at the main office. Speed boating, water skiing and Motor sizes will not be restricted, but boat speeds will be limited to 5 miles per hour.

Lake Graham has been stocked with largemouth bass and spotted bass, channel catfish, bluegill, reed-eared sunfish, flathead catfish, rockfish and pickerel. The lake also contains crappie and bullhead catfish.

Creel limits will be the same as statewide except for bass and catfish. All bass must be a minimum of 14 inches in length and the daily limit is 5 bass per person. The limit on channel catfish will also be 5 per day.

For further information call TWA's Jackson Office toll free (W. Tn. only) at 1800372-3923 or at 19014241130.

Helping Fish Spawn
Sometime this month, as a rule, fish like bass and crappie in TVA reservoirs come out of their winter lethargy with a huge appetite for feeding and activity.

Because of these and other factors, spring fishing season is about the liveliest time of year for Tennessee anglers. It's also the time when TVA fisheries biologist and reservoir operations personnel join forces to try to help create better conditions for fish reproduction.

"We don't understand all that's involved," said Ben, assistant chief of the TVA Fisheries and Aquatic Ecology Branch. "Water temperature and the length of the day seem to be the most important factors in spawning. But there are other factors that probably enter into the cycle, like the clarity of the water and light penetration, suitability of places to spawn, waterflow rates, and the condition of the fish."

Whatever is involved, water temperature in tributary reservoirs is the indicator TVA biologists watch most. When the water in seven index reservoirs—Little Bear Creek, Tims Ford, Cherokee, Chatugee, South Holston, Norris, and Watauga—reaches 65 degrees Fahrenheit at a 5 foot depth, an attempt is made to stabilize the water level in those and other reservoirs for the next two weeks to benefit spawning.

Not all tributary reservoirs reach the 65-degree level at the same time. The stabilization period will vary among the lakes, ranging from the middle of April until early May.

"We have made a study of the reservoirs through the years and found that they can be grouped pretty well. That way we don't have to take temperature readings on each individual reservoir to decide when water levels should be stabilized," Brown said.

"For instance, the four Bear Creek projects in north Alabama are grouped and stabilized at the same time. Similarly, Chatugee sets the pattern for reservoirs in north Georgia and parts of western North Carolina. Douglas and Cherokee are paired. Others are grouped in various ways with the index reservoirs."

Jaco said that other factors biologists hope for during the spawning season include high enough water levels so that the water floods some shoreline vegetation. This cover helps the newly hatched fish survive in two ways. It provides places where they can hide from predator fish that are always on the lookout for a good meal. And it increases the food supply for the tiny fish which feeds on small organisms in the water during their early weeks of life.

"A slow rise is not nearly as bad for spawning as a severe drop," Shelton said. But any severe rise or fall can disrupt the spawning process. In any case, it will be "steady as she goes" for TVA tributary reservoirs if the weather cooperates. A huge storm system or unusual water temperatures could throw the whole thing off. But chances are good that TVA will be able to give the fish a helping hand this year as it has, now, for a number of seasons at spawning time.

Howard Baker Talks to Tennesseans

How befitting that Tennessee should serve as the bartering site for the world's melting pot of technological recipes in 1982. For the dawn of high technology has tapped the resources of experience and knowledge in Tennessee, especially in the Oak Ridge and Knoxville area. As a result, we are securing the placement of new high-technology industry in our state, initiating tributaries of long-term, economic growth, creating new jobs, opportunities for skilled training and best of all, as I see it, the opportunity to improve the general welfare of all citizens in Tennessee.

On November 9, 1981.

Governor Alexander laid the cornerstone to the idea of the "Technology Corridor," an area designed specifically to recruit new, high-tech industry along the Pellissippi Parkway between Oak Ridge and the Knoxville airport.

Through the efforts of Governor Alexander's task force and additional support of public agencies and private interests, Tennessee is successfully cultivating an exciting notion, which will allow our state to realize its full potential as a marketable asset in high-technology industry sites in national and economic circles throughout the world.

The University of Tennessee

Tech, Memphis State University, and Vanderbilt, all substantially versed in technology education, will help recruit those new high-technology businesses that are searching for local technical training for employees as well as reputable, sound educational investments for the family members of employees.

In addition to highly supportive educational facilities, the Oak Ridge National Laboratory and other internationally known federal facilities, Tennessee boasts the fact that Oak Ridge has the largest concentration of Ph.D. biologists in the world. Biotechnology, rooted firmly in the field of biology, is rapidly emerging as a top new industry. I see this foundation of "know-how" today in Tennessee, combined with the relatively low cost of living and diverse cultural, recreational and environmental opportunities as creating new opportunities for Tennessee in the market of high technology in the next two decades.

Already, $400,000 has been allocated for a new campus for the State Technological Institute of Knoxville to be combined with the Roane State Community College Oak Ridge Campus. This new training institute, amplified by its visible relocation on the Pellissippi Parkway, will hopefully capture the attention of those high-tech firms moving or expanding to new locations.

Competition for these firms is stiff, but I believe Tennessee can be a front-runner in this fierce bidding.

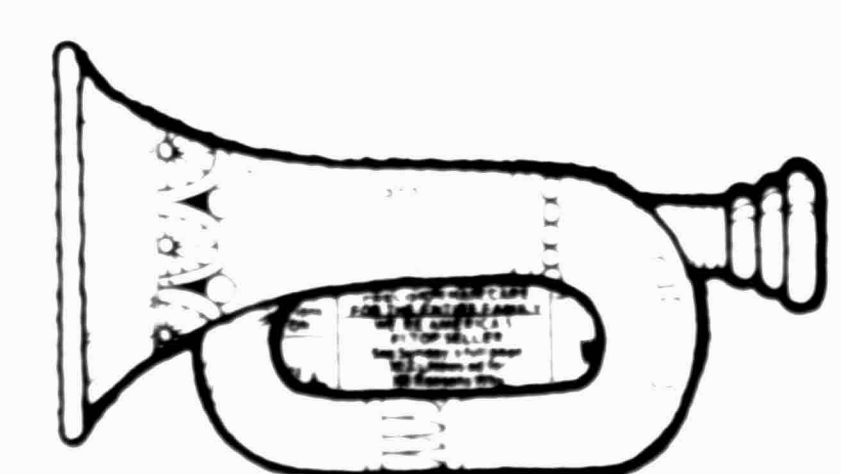

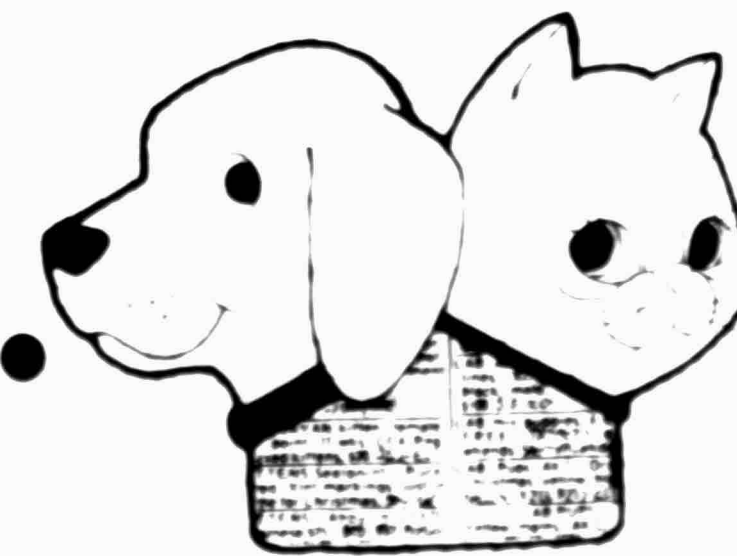

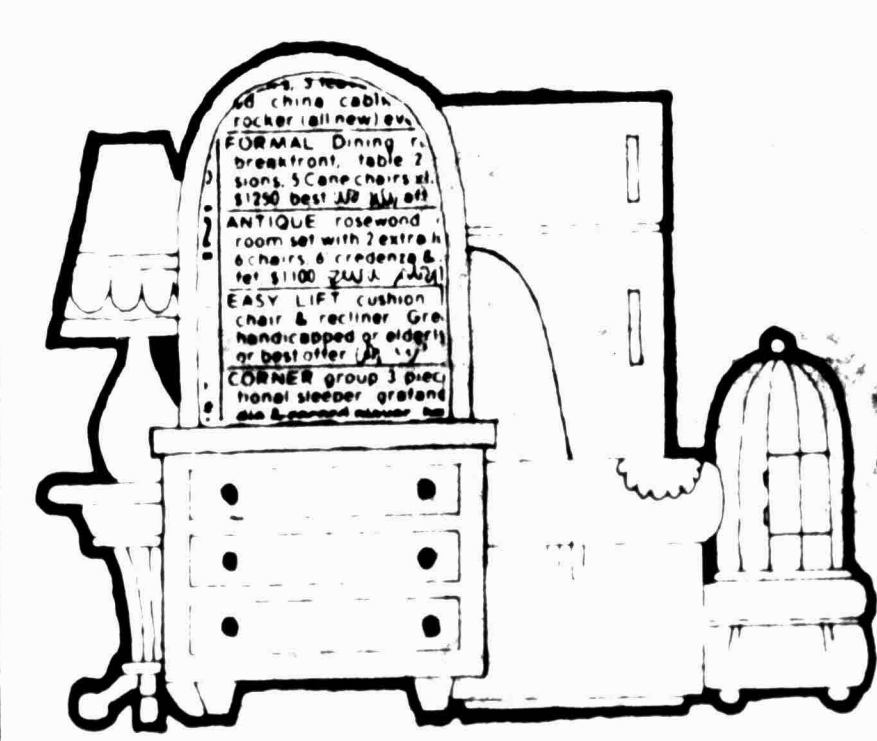

Tennesseans deserve a renewed growth in family income. There is also a growing concern for the care of the environment, job stability, and the economic welfare of existing industry in Tennessee. But these concerns are part of what will allow us to succeed in attracting new firms to our state.

High technology industry is known to be non-polluting, to pay high wages, and to require little of local governments in the way of social services and electrical power.

As in other areas where high-technology firms have located, the Research Triangle in North Carolina, Route 128 in Massachusetts, and the Silicon Valley in California, related businesses have emerged and it appears that the relatively easy transition by industry into these areas has been the drawing card.

However, as you probably know, Tennessee has to provide similar incentive, forcing entrepreneurs to take notice of Tennessee, and to act promptly, recognizing the tremendous resources we have to offer. Monumental steps must still be taken to make it known to industry that Tennessee is a thriving resource of opportunity for prospective settlers in high-technology.

SPRING CAR CARE TIPS

HERE'S WHY IT'S IMPORTANT TO CHECK THESE 12 MAJOR POINTS REGULARLY

- 1. SPARK PLUGS - Many drivers think that spark plugs are designed for perpetual life and will last forever, especially with today's high technology, electronically controlled ignition systems. Far from the truth, plugs are battered by high combustion temperatures, sometimes reaching 4000 degrees Fahrenheit. Combustion deposits accumulate on internal surfaces, and plugs get dirty and worn out. Plugs should be cleaned regularly and replaced at realistic intervals for maximum gas economy and peak engine efficiency. If you want better engine performance, then a fresh set of NAPA Champion spark plugs is the place to start.
- 2. BRAKES - Fluid leakage anywhere in the brake system can occur without warning. One drop of fluid lost each time the brakes are applied can empty the master cylinder in just a short time. A spongy brake pedal feel, reduced stopping ability and erratic brake action are often caused by air entering the fluid pressure system because of fluid loss. If necessary, top off the reservoir with approved NAPA brake fluid.
- 3. ENGINE OIL - An oil level below the Safe mark on the dipstick seriously affects the life of the engine. All moving parts must be protected from grinding themselves to pieces by a film of motor oil thinner than a piece of hair. Internal bearing pressures exceed 1,000 pounds per square inch and pistons often reach 400 degrees Fahrenheit. More reasons for keeping oil at the correct level: Change oil at realistic intervals with NAPA oil, and don't forget a NAPA filter too.
- 4. TRANSMISSION - Too little or too much fluid can cause serious transmission problems and often lead to early failure of this expensive component. Excessively low fluid causes bands and clutches to slip and wear rapidly. Overfilling causes air to enter internal pressure lines, causing erratic shifting and damage to vital parts. Keep fluid at the recommended level. Use quality NAPA fluid.
- 5. STEERING FLUID - Too little fluid in the power steering pump reservoir causes the pump to operate without sufficient reserve supply. Pumps can produce up to 1000 pounds per square inch. They therefore need the right amount of fluid to handle the driver's steering demands. If pumps "starve for fluid", higher steering effort will result and the driver's control will be seriously reduced. Use NAPA MAC's quality fluid to "top off" the reservoir to the correct dipstick level.
- 6. AIR FILTER - Clogged air filters prevent the engine from breathing easily. Engines that can't breathe properly because of restricted air passages in the filter element "roar" you gas mileage. More than half the necessary to operate the engine at peak efficiency flows spark plugs with combustion deposits and causes an increase in exhaust pollutants. A new NAPA air filter can save you money and will keep the engine running smoothly.
- 7. RADIATOR - Thousands of gallons of coolant must circulate throughout the cooling system every hour of engine operation or it would virtually melt into a mass of molten metal. You can prevent costly engine damage and costly repairs by keeping the coolant at the correct level. Use a 50/50 mix of NAPA Approved 50-50 Anti-Freeze. Water offers less protection from corrosion, freeze-up and overheating.
- 8. BATTERY - Although a battery is a silent partner of the entire electrical system and usually forgotten, it is vital to the dependable starting and operation of your car. Corrosion that naturally develops on battery cables and terminals eats away the metal and eventually destroys them. Corrosion can also block current flow and prevent the battery from doing its job. Power Loss or missing hoodlump clamps cause battery vibration and will "kill" it faster than almost anything else. So check your battery regularly. Without it, you're sure to become stranded. Keep it clean, keep it tight, make it last!
- 9. BELT HOSES - Hoses that burst without warning and drive belts that crack and suddenly wear out are a real safety hazard. Hoses that are worn and belts that are frayed and stretched can slip and squeal. Then water pumps, alternators and fans lose their efficiency for safe insurance. Change air belts and hoses at least every 20,000 miles.
- 10. LIGHTS - In all 50 states it is illegal to drive without all running lights working properly. Good lighting from rear and turn signal indicators makes driving safe for you and all other motorists on the road. Headlight alignment and stop lights should be checked regularly. With lights ON, walk around the car to be sure they all work properly. Have someone else look about stopping operation as you apply the brakes. Replace burned out bulbs immediately. It's important for your safety.
- 11. WIPERS - Poor visibility during rain or snow conditions destroys your ability to see the road ahead clearly. Tired, worn-out wiper blades cause windshield streaking and reduces your road ahead visibility. Not weather blades the life out of blade contact to windshield surfaces and leads to 1000 wiper quality. Road safety splashed on glass surfaces. Use quality wiper blades. New NAPA wiper blades and/or refills are cheap insurance for safety.
- 12. TIRES - Underinflated tires rob you of good fuel economy and are one of the major causes of rapid tread wear. Low tire pressure also seriously weakens the tire carcass through excessive sidewall flexing. The car is driven, steering and braking control also suffer from excessively low tire pressure. Level the pressure by looking "use an accurate NAPA pressure gauge".

Have your car checked at the following participating dealers. Bring a $20.00 invoice for NAPA parts to Puckett Auto & Tractor Supply and receive a "FREE GOLD CAP"

The Tenn. General Assembly—

Legislative Report

NASHVILLE—After rejecting more than 100 amendments, the House Finance Committee has recommended what could be the leanest budget in modern memory. In the space of about two hours, the committee eliminated $99.6 million from Governor Alexander's proposed budget for next year.

The drastic cuts became necessary after the legislature declined to pass the administration's one cent sales tax increase which, coupled with another administration tax on insurance premiums, would have generated $85 million in new funds. In the absence of these revenues, the House has decided to pass what is essentially a budget identical to that passed last year.

Since the governor put together his budget in anticipation of a sales tax increase, the failure of his tax bills necessitated a swift revision of the budget. Leaders from both the administration and the legislature determined that the fairest and most effective way to hold down spending requests would be to allow virtually no additions to last year's budget other than those mandated by law.

While unprecedented in recent years, a continuation budget actually would result in more available funds for most agencies. Because the governor this year has impounded more than $65 million, an identical budget appropriation for next year would provide many state programs, especially higher education, with a net funding increase.

Despite the substantial budget cuts adopted Wednesday by the House Finance Committee, it will still be necessary to find approximately $12.5 billion in additional revenues before the budget will finally be balanced. With this in mind, a series of tax proposals surfaced this week which could have a significant impact on state revenue.

At the close of Wednesday's Finance Committee meeting, two amendments were added to a minor tax bill that could generate a sizeable amount of both revenues and controversy. A motion was adopted to apply the 4% sales tax to all amusement events such as theaters, concerts and athletic contests. A second amendment would strike the newspaper industry with a 4% sales tax on advertising. A third proposal pending in the Finance Committee would generate a 10 cent tax on bingo cards, a move that many legislators favor as alternative to the governor's sales tax.

Because these tax proposals caught many legislators by surprise, it may be several days before their fiscal impact can be determined. Meanwhile, the legislature is bracing for the hectic pace of the final two weeks of the 1983 session.

Other legislative developments:

PRISONS—The House Judiciary Committee Tuesday recommended for passage legislation which for the first time would establish clearly the legislature's policy guidelines for the state's troubled prison system.

The legislation, which was approved Wednesday 31-0 by the full Senate, is the product of a bi-partisan Subcommittee on Corrections created last August by House Speaker Ned McWherter. After touring each of the state's eleven prison facilities, the subcommittee worked quietly on policy recommendations which they hope will reduce the inconsistency of the prison system over the past decade.

The bill approved Wednesday has a primary focus on the issue of inmate labor. The subcommittee recommended that all inmates except those designated as too dangerous be put to work on a variety of jobs designed to reduce the expenditures of state and local governments.

The first priority of jobs would be those associated with growing food or manufacturing materials for use in the prisons. In addition, a large number of prisoners would be utilized by the departments of Conservation and Transportation for projects such as land reclamation and the repair of maintenance roads.

Aside from a consistent policy of prison management, the Corrections Subcommittee hopes that a well-defined statement of legislative intent will satisfy the federal court's directive for substantial reductions in violence, idle hands and overcrowding in the state's prison system.

HORSE AND DOG RACING—An 8-year effort to legalize horse and dog racing may be a result of questions about how effectively the state could prevent organized crime from infiltrating the racetrack operations. In deferring the bill, the Senate proposed a more detailed study of the manner in which pari-mutuel betting would be organized and monitored.

Despite the Senate's proposed study, Rep. McKinney indicated that he may no longer devote any effort to passing the racing legislation. The controversial bill, which would have authorized referendums on horse and dog racing in four counties, was passed last year in the House by one vote, only to fail in the Senate by a similar margin.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION—The House approved Wednesday a package that proponents hope will restore the solvency of the state's Unemployment Trust Fund. The fund, which is financed by taxes levied upon employers, has been broken since January despite assurances last year by the administration that 1982 tax increases would ensure continued payments to Tennessee's unemployed workers.

The legislation passed Wednesday was the product of a study committee created by House Speaker Ned McWherter. The committee included representatives from the administration and the legislature, along with spokesmen for labor, manufacturing and Tennessee's retail merchants.

The complex compromise package is designed to generate $112 million in additional revenues for the Unemployment Fund. Prominent features of the legislation include an increase in the taxable wage base from $6,000 to $7,000, and a reduction in benefits for seasonal and part-time workers, many of whom are employed in the tourist industry.

The legislation's most unique aspect may be a provision insisted upon by Speaker McWherter. While premiums now charged all employers would be raised 7%, those employers with a high number of layoffs would pay up to 10% more.

Meal, 'Cole' Fete Mrs. R. J. Nunn

Mrs. Ramon Clough, of Germantown, honored her mother, Mrs. R. J. Nunn, Mrs. Alvin D. Hallman, and Mrs. Wymond Hurt, of Halls, at dinner Friday in honor of Mrs. Nunn's birthday May 14th.

They then saw Cole in Germantown Theatre, in which Cathy Daws (Mrs. Harvey) Gardner, formerly of Halls, had a leading role, singing Cole Porter melodies.

Feature of the event will be the crowning of the Senior Citizens King and Queen.

An Unlikely Fish Story

39-LB. YELLOW CATFISH was the center of attention Saturday as Johnny Free, left, and Jerry England, with Fletcher Taylor and Benjie Goodwin, attempted to retrieve the fish from the swimming pool at the Free home on Cheshire St. in Halls. Free claims he placed the catfish on a line in the pool Tuesday night of last week, after he and England caught it. The next morning, the fish had mysteriously gotten free, as Free tells it, but his wife, Betty, is certain Johnny cut him free. Anyhow, it took four hours and a light electrical shock to recover the monster fish Saturday.

New 5-8 School, Other Improvements Sought

The Board of Education, meeting Thursday last week, unanimously approved this committee report:

"The Committee recommends that the Lauderdale County Board of Education proceed to take the following steps in regard to the busing zone and health and safety needs in Lauderdale County Schools:

1. Eliminate the busing between Arp and Henning Schools.
2. Take steps to meet State Fire Marshal regulations in Arp, Henning, Halls Junior High, Ripley Junior High, and Ripley High Gymnasium.
3. Respond to the State Commissioner of Education in regard to eliminating the use of portable units at Arp.
4. Respond to the State Commissioner of Education in regard to fire and safety codes at Arp, Henning, Halls Junior High, Ripley Junior High, Ripley High Gymnasium.
5. Respond to the State Commissioner of Education in regard to carrying out the completion of the building program started but not completed as pertains to Arp, Henning, Halls Junior High, and Ripley Junior High.
6. Take steps to maintain conditions at Halls High School to prevent further deterioration.
7. Sufficient rooms on Halls Elementary [adding four, for kindergarten].

"In consultation with the state department of education and the architectural firm of Hart-Freeland-Roberts, the committee recommends the following program to meet the needs stated above:

1. Construct a new building in Ripley on the acreage north of Ripley Elementary to house students in grades 5-8 in the southern portion of the county, including Ripley, Arp, and Henning. Said building would be equipped with all appropriate academic and athletic facilities for the approximate 1,200 students for a cost of $3,816,000 (estimate). (Students in grades K-4 would use the existing Ripley Elementary Building.)
2. Renovate Halls Junior High to meet fire and safety codes as outlined by the State Fire Marshal's Office as well as the State Department of Education. This will include both the junior high academic building as well as the gymnasium—with an appropriate auditorium facility in the gymnasium. Energy conservation measures will be included in the project. Estimated cost $170,000.
3. Install new carpet at Halls High School at a cost of approximately $20,000, paint the main building at a cost of approximately $14,000, and install a new lighting system in the gymnasium to meet current standards and operate on energy efficient standards at a cost of approximately $10,000. Total cost $44,000 (estimate).
4. Renovate to meet fire and safety regulations and upgrade the facility at Ripley High Gymnasium. Energy conservation measures included at a total estimated cost of $215,000.

"Total Program Cost, $4,245,000.

"The above program can be completed without increasing taxes by continuing the Sales Tax already in existence for the construction of Halls High and Ripley High and Ripley Elementary and Halls Elementary.

"A fund balance will exist June 30, 1983 in the amount of $1,800,000, which can be used by approval of the Board of Education, the County Commission, and the City Boards to implement this program immediately.

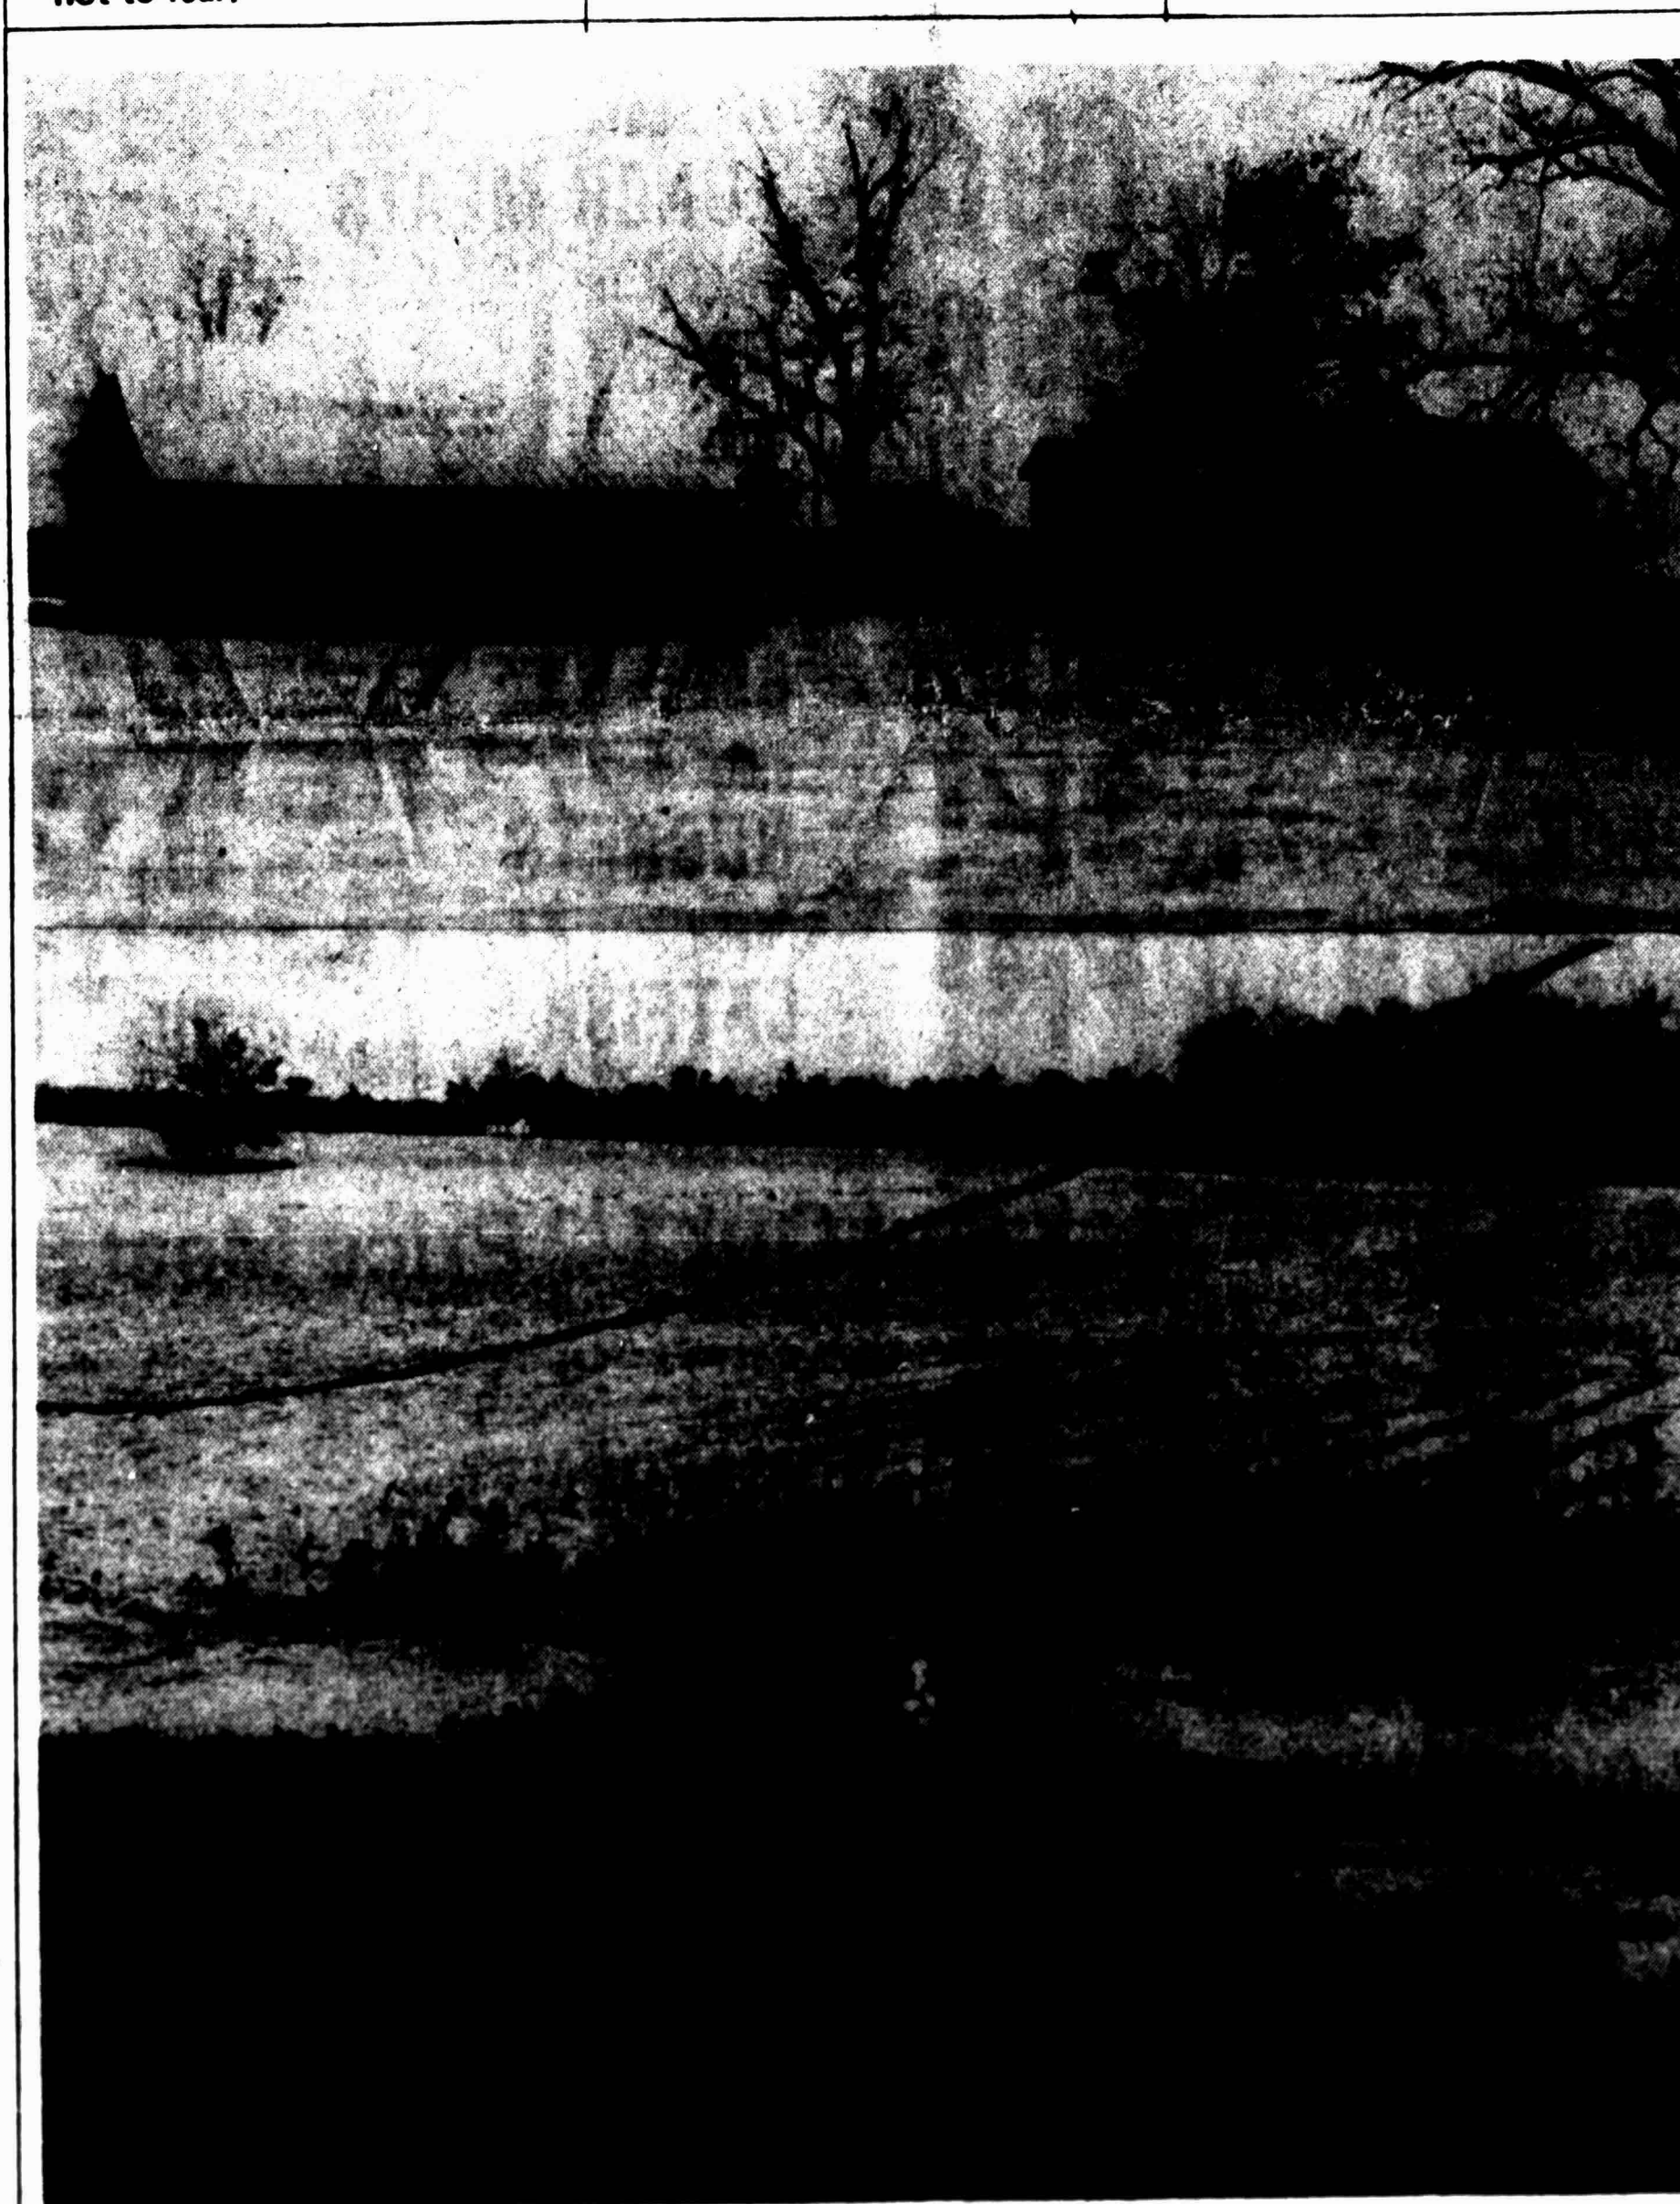

"The Sales Tax fund for school construction and maintenance exists only for the purpose of construction, renovation, and maintenance and may not be used for any other purpose, as outlined in the referendum creating the tax and the existing agreements between the cities and the county."

Pair Awarded Ford Plaques

The T. E. McDearmans and Mr. and Mrs. James Smith attended a dinner for Ford dealers of the Memphis District at Colonial Country Club in Memphis Saturday.

Mr. McDearman and Mr. Smith were awarded plaques for outstanding achievements in the Parts and Service Division of Ford Motor Co.

"Courage is knowing what not to fear." Plato

WORST FLOOD in a decade has driven 19 families from their homes on Hwy. 19 west of Ripley. Charles Peal, county Extension leader, told fellow members of the county's Emergency Board, meeting Tuesday, that wheat losses total 7,500 acres, with alfalfa and grain damage brigade the total well over a million dollars. County Executive Jerry Corlew left at once for Nashville to seek disaster aid. Other board members are Joseph E. Cotton, of the Farmers Home Administration, Larry Hawks, of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, and Earl West, of the Soil Conservation Service.

Cutlip Is Elected To School Board

Charles Cutlip, of Ripley, was elected May 9th by the county commission to fill the seat on the Board of Education vacated by the resignation of John Snead. The vote was 13-9 for Cutlip over Wayne Douglas, of Ripley.

The court approved a motion by Clifford Sweet to declare Lauderdale County a disaster area, in hopes of obtaining federal funds to repair bridges and roads damaged by flooding.

Notaries public elected were C. G. Dyer, Robert R. Pipkin, Demetra Daniele, Teresa Chisholm, and Elgin R. Smith.

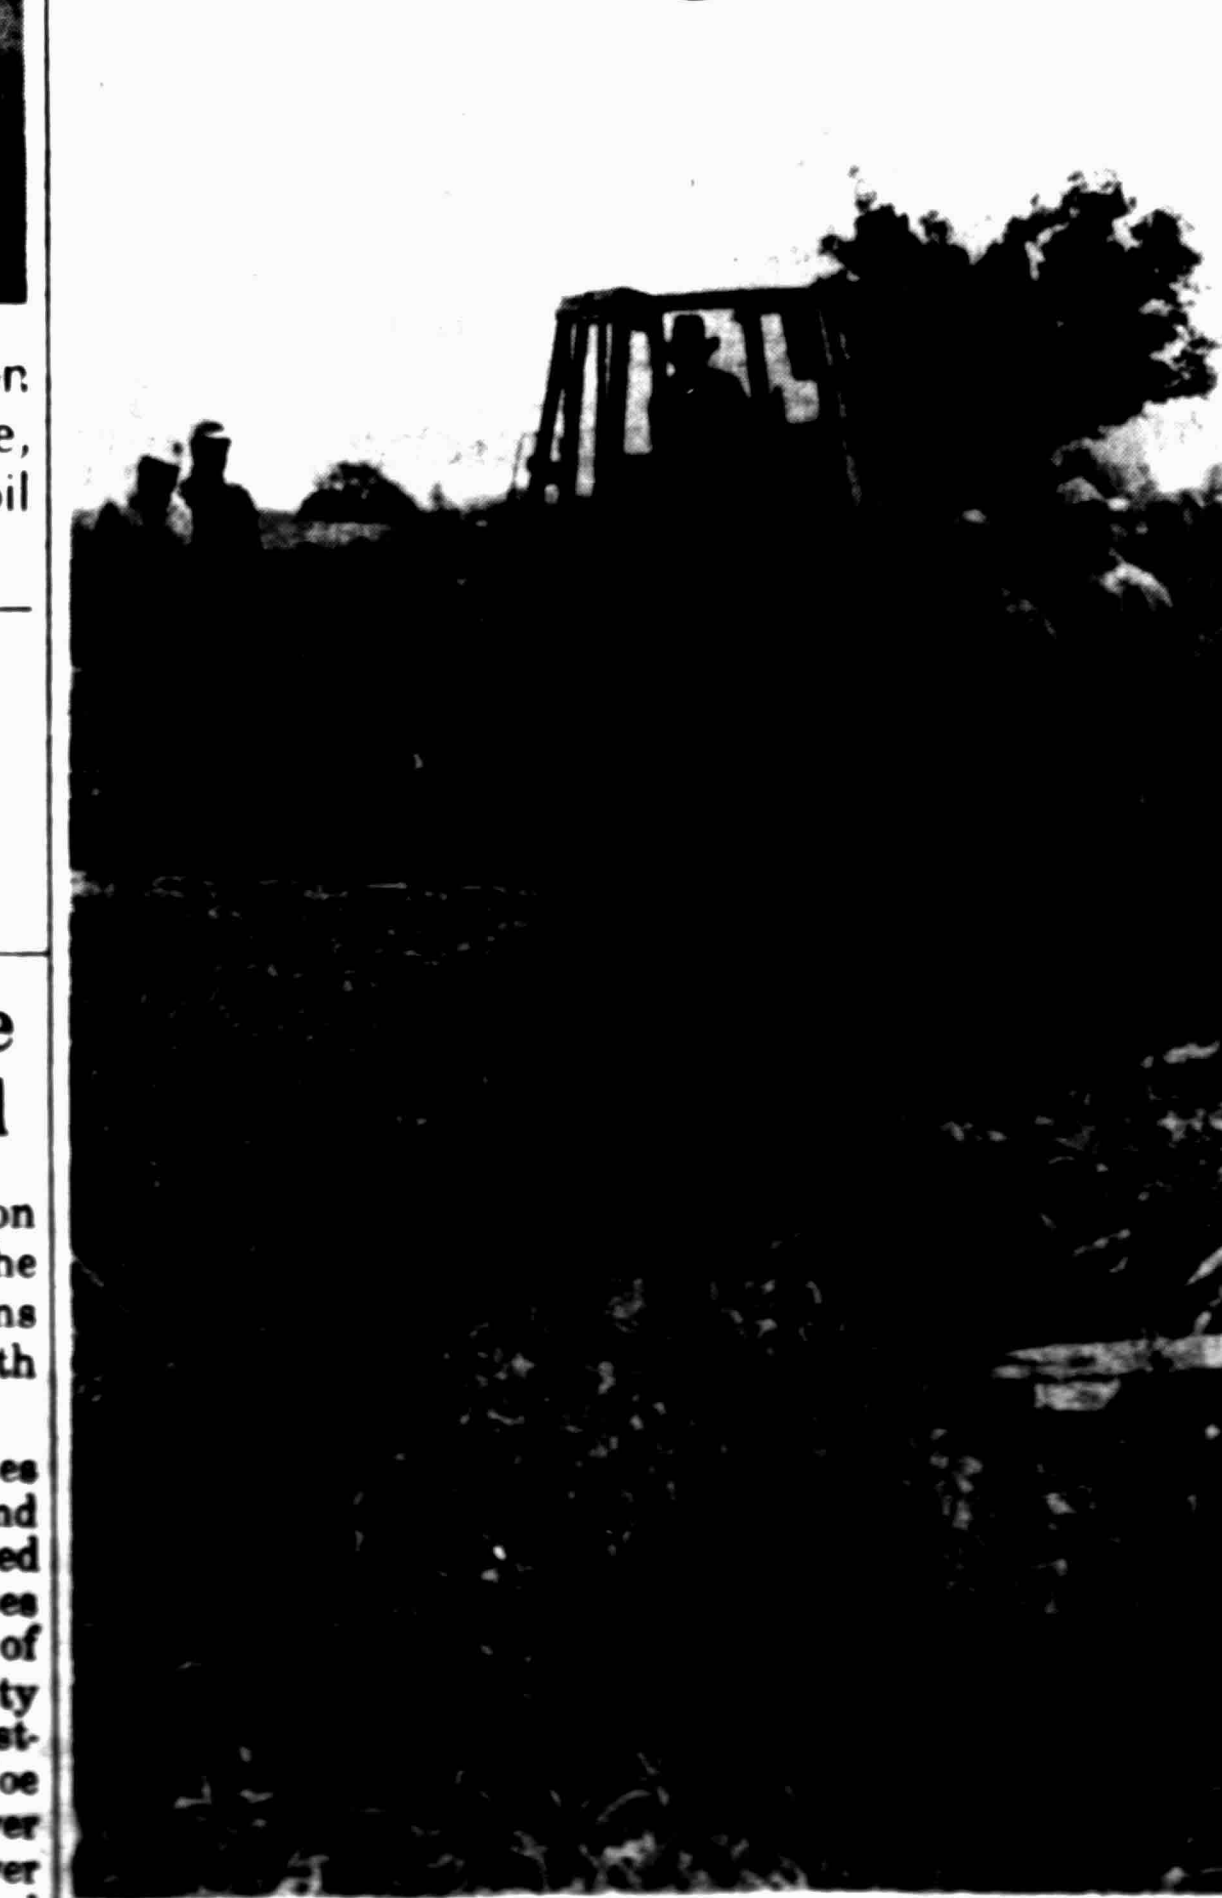

Riley Is Awarded Lambuth Degree

James Larry Riley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Riley, of near Halls, received a bachelor of arts degree from Lambuth College in Jackson May 1st.

CLUSTER PICNIC

This county's Cluster of United Methodist Churches will hold a pot-lock picnic at 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. Sunday, ice provided. There will be supervised activity for all age groups.

Flooding Eased

LAYING LARGER CULVERTS under the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad tracks at the north city limits of Gates last week alleviated flooding problems in Town and Country Subdivision. Gates Mayor John Crutchfield said co-operation between the Town of Gates, railroad officials, and Tennessee Public Service Commission Chairman Frank Cochran made the work possible. Old Hwy. 51 and much of the Sub-Division have often been with water after a heavy rain.

Arthritis Drive Well Supported

The Arthritis Foundation has raised $424.07 from the Halls area, with contributions still coming in, reports Ruth Hooper, chairman.

"I congratulate the ladies who worked so willingly and faithfully in their assigned areas," she says. Business contributing were the Bank of Halls, the Lauderdale County Bank, Jones Equipment, Western Auto, Spry's Fashions, Joe L. Nuptials In Oklahoma

Mrs. Stephen Charles Wulz, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith, of Halls, became the bride of First Lt. Wulz in an evening ceremony April 23rd in First Baptist Church in Norman, Okla.

The Rev. Dr. Lavonn Brown officiated. Music was provided by Col. Roy Duke, soloist, and Helen Duke, organist, of Jackson, Miss.

The bride, Clifine Jane Wesson, was given by her father, Harold R. Wesson, of Norman, in a baroque gown of satin damask in a mille-fleur pattern, featuring a sheer yoke with lace collar on a dropped-torso bodice. The full skirt was detailed with satin scalloped edging the hem and well, covering tiny pink and white roses entwined in her hair, was edged with silk Venise lace and secured with a bank of lace and pearls.
Janet Lee Odor, of Norman,

Wulz, of Conway, Ark., as best man. Groomsmen were Eric Carter, of St. Louis, Mo.; Lester Cowden, of Oklahoma City, Okla.; Dana Robert Dillon, of Mannheim, Germany; and Tom Parker, of Houston, Tex.

Ushers were Mark Grayson, of Dallas, Aubrey Wesson, and John Cedimir Wesson, of Norman, and Harold R. Wesson, Jr., of Duncan, Okla.

Assisting in the reception at the Oklahoma Memorial Union were Julie Horsch, of Kansas City, Mo., and Kathryn Todd and Laura Wall, of Norman.

Beth Jaques, of Halls, registered guests.
After a wedding trip to Vienna, Austria, the couple will reside in Mannheim, where the groom, a graduate of Westminister College and a member of Delta Tau Delta, is stationed.

The bride was graduated from William Woods College and Baylor University. Her memberships include Alpha Phi and Beta Beta Beta. She has worked in the Burn Intensive Care Unit in Parkland Hospital in Dallas.

Tennessee guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Dodson, of Unionville, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Jacques, of Halls, and Mrs. James Lewis and Mrs. J. W. Vaden of Curve, who flew to Norman Saturday, returning Sunday in a plane piloted by John Dodson.

A whirl of festivities complimented Miss Wesson when she visited her grandparents in Halls before the wedding.
The O. J. Nunns entertained at an Easter Sunday buffet at the Dyersburg Country Club.

Mrs. Smith was hostess at brunch at the Holiday Inn in Dyersburg, April 4th. Guests included several Dyersburg friends, Mrs. Kelly Anderson, Mrs. Curtis Curry, Mrs. E. B. Eller, Mrs. A. B. Hendren, Mrs. Otis Manner, Mrs. Cleo Russell, and Mrs. Reece Thompson.
She also hosted a country ham country breakfast at the Golden Hawaii Restaurant in Ripley April 6th for 20 guests from Brownsville, Ripley, and Memphis.

Mrs. A. C. Carter and Mrs. J. W. Vaden, of Curve, hosted a coffee in the Carter home April 5th. Mrs. Phillip Dirmeyer, of Memphis, assisted in entertaining.

In the afternoon, Mrs. Roy Patton was hostess at tea at the Dyersburg Country Club, also honoring her mother, Mrs. A. G. Hargett, on her 96th birthday.
The country home of Mrs. Reece Thompson near Dyersburg was the setting for a morning party April 7th. Co-hostesses were Mrs. E. B. Eller, Mrs. A. B. Hendren, and Mrs. Cleo Russell. The menu included ham biscuits, assorted sandwiches, dips, cheese cake, fruit bread and featured fruit kabobs arranged in a whole fresh pineapple.

Mrs. Ben Bales, Mrs. J. A. Dunaway and Mrs. Michael Jacques, of Halls, hosted a luncheon April 9th at the Holiday Inn in Dyersburg. Special guests were Clifine Jane's mother, Mrs. H. R. Wesson, of Norman, her aunts, Miss Mildred Smith, of Ripley, and Mrs. J. W. Vaden, of Curve, a cousin, Mrs. James Lewis, of Curve, and Mrs. John Dodson, of Unionville. The hostesses gave the bride-elect several pieces of her chosen china, a cross-stitch plaque, and a hand-made pillow.

CHANGING How I long for the day when the world turns around. And for times when nature is like it was found. Now everything is plastic and nothing is real. From things we eat to the things we build. Where are the potters that worked with clay? They have replaced them with paper, to be thrown away. What happened to craftsmen who made things by labor and sweat? A machine has taken their place, on that you can bet. Look at the old dollar and how it is spent. Used to be worth a dollar, now it's about thirty-seven cents. The amount of our taxes grows bigger each day. Is there any limit on what we must pay? We used to buy things marked "Made in U.S.A." Now they are shipped from Japan, that's the American way. Inflation has risen it seems three hundred percent. And our checks are all gone before they are sent. We can walk on the moon and that's quite profound. But let's get our heads out of the clouds and back on the ground. There is no changing or going back somehow to the things past tense. We can't return now. Yesterday is gone, so let's work for today. By pulling together in a team spirit way. We can make all of the tomorrows a lot better today. If we just say what we mean and mean what we say. Written by James Wyrick

Mary's Chapel Vows Set Fiancee Of Mr. Buckner

BARBARA JO NEWMAN, daughter of the Adron Newmans, of Woodville, will marry Jimmy Tolbert, Jr., whose parents reside at 151 Barbee in Ripley, at 7 p.m. June 24th in Mary's Chapel Baptist Church, all friends invited.

TONYA LEE WRIGHT, granddaughter of the T. G. Wrights, of 514 Locust, Halls, will marry Scotty Lynn Buckner, son of the John C. Buckners, of Nankipoo, at 7 p.m. June 25th in First Baptist Church in Halls, all friends invited to the vows and reception at the church.

She is the daughter of the Vernon Newmans, of Forked Deer. A 1979 graduate of Ripley High School, she is employed by Wal-Mart in Ripley. Mr. Tolbert is the grandson of the James L. Parker Children Stage Re-Union

Children of the late Squire (as County Court members were called) and Mrs. Emmett G. Parker, of Gates, met Wednesday of last week in the Plaza Restaurant in Dyersburg.

Mrs. Ella Harwell, of Nashville, had arrived the day before and was the guest of her sister, Ann, and her husband, Bill Alexander, of Dyersburg.

Cornelia and her husband, Ellett Lawrence, left their home in Greenwood, Miss., in his plane Tuesday, planning to fly to Dyersburg, but due to the weather, they had to spend the night in Memphis and come to Dyersburg Wednesday morning.

With their brother, Emmett G. Parker, Jr., they visited the Gates Cemetery, where their parents are buried, and then went to the Parker farm in the Frog Jump community of Crockett County.

The farm has been in the Parker family for well over a 100 years and due to the fertile soil and the lay of the land is considered one of the best farms, if not the best farm, in Crockett County.

My father, Lawson Spence, also had a farm in the Frog Jump community. I asked him one day where the place got its name and why one end was called Upper Frog Jump and the other Lower Frog Jump.

He said he had heard two versions, but the one he liked to believe was that where the South Forked Deer River and Black Creek ran pretty close, with the road running about half way between them and many of the farms in the area bordering both the river and creek, people said that a frog could jump from one to the other.

The other version was that they had "frog jump" contests, with spectators wagering.

As to the Upper End and Lower End of Frog Jump, he assured me that there was no distinction between the classes of people who resided there.

Possibly it had to do with the flow of the river and creek. The three Parker girls, their brother, Emmett, and Ellett drove around the community and recalled their childhood, when they lived there.

They walked over the farm and had their picture taken in front of the old F-20 Farmall tractor, the first tractor their father bought. Much of the farming they remembered was done with mules and horses pulling the plow, cultivators, seeders, and other machinery.

They returned to Dyersburg to visit Victoria Gould Alexander, who was christened Sunday, May 8th, in Dyersburg's First Presbyterian Church.

She is leaving this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Polk Alexander, and brother Bill IV, for Saudi Arabia, where they make their home.

Steaming your food may lower your blood pressure

Cooking lessons are not usually featured in such a dignified and prestigious medical journal as Britain's Lancet. But in the January issue three Swedish doctors told how steaming food can improve health.

Steaming cooking for vegetables, fish, and other foods has become increasingly popular in this country. The hot vapors quickly tenderize food without leaching away as many vitamins and minerals as does boiling. Steamers range all the way from elaborate, expensive contraptions sold in gourmet shops to the collapsible metal kind used inside ordinary pots and available for a few dollars in variety and discount stores. Either way, the steamed food has more taste, looks more appealing, and retains more nutrients.

One of these nutrients, the mineral potassium, has been much in the news lately. Studies here and abroad have demonstrated that potassium has a blood-pressure-lowering effect, especially in people with high blood pressure. Potassium also has a beneficial effect on some of the metabolic disorders involved in obesity and insulin-resistant (maturity-onset) diabetes—two conditions that often coincide with each other and with hypertension.

Also important is the dietary ratio of potassium to sodium, which has a blood-pressure-raising effect. Our main source of sodium of course is salt. Scientists believe man evolved in a high-potassium (from natural, uncooked foods), low-sodium environment, since pure salt was not readily available to most prehistoric humans. Today, we have turned that ratio around, adding salt to processed foods, in cooking, and at the table and leaching out the potassium during food processing and preparation.

The Swedish doctors point out that when potatoes are boiled in water 10 to 50 percent of their potassium is lost, depending on size of potatoes and cooking time. When potatoes are steamed only 3 to 6 percent of the potassium is lost. The same general results have been found for carrots, beans and peas.

The Swedish doctors are instructing their hypertensive, overweight, and diabetic patients to steam foods. They believe this kind of cooking, plus reducing salt intake by half, would bring potassium-sodium ratios near that found in unprocessed, uncooked foods, which is probably ideal.

Whether potassium supplements in the form of a salt substitute are desirable for the average person has not really been determined. These sodium or low-salt substitutes are readily available without prescription in food stores and elsewhere, however.

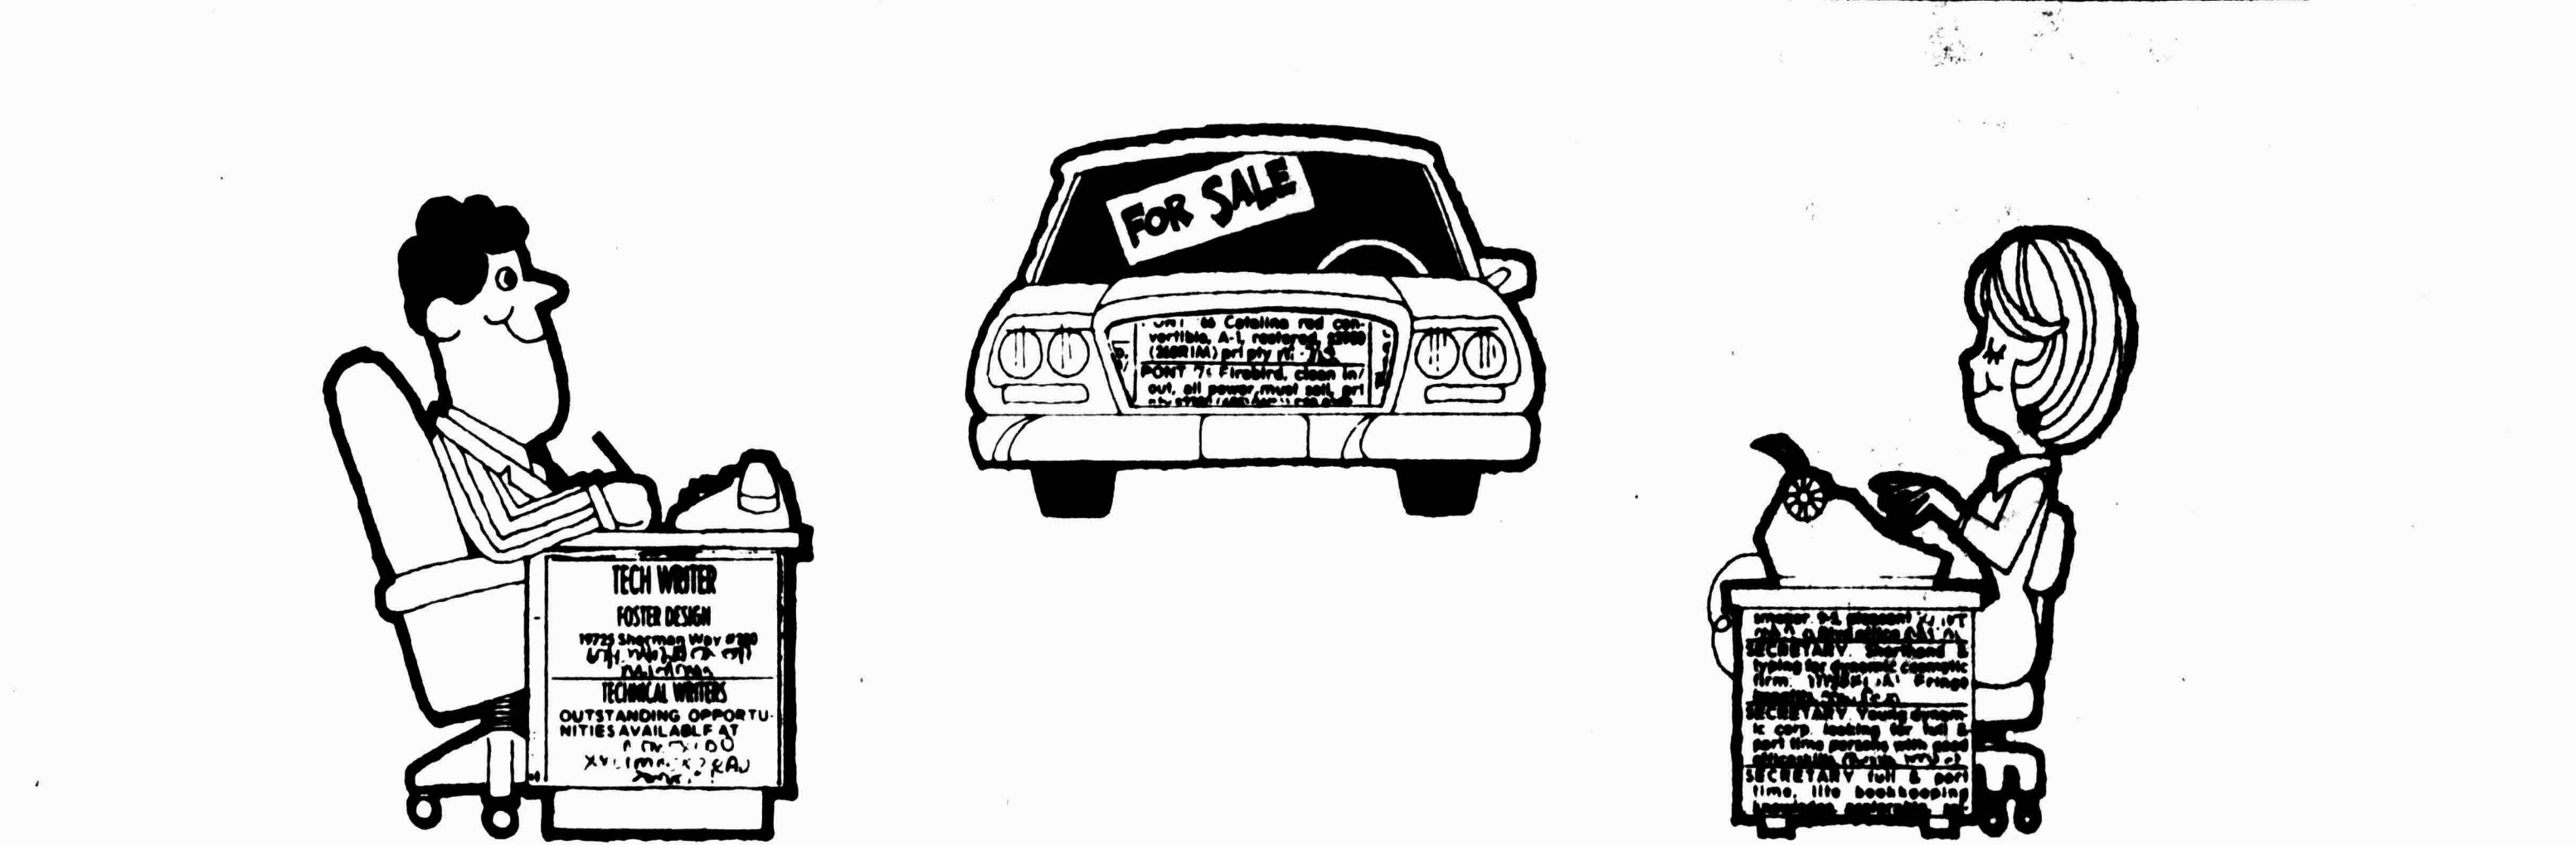

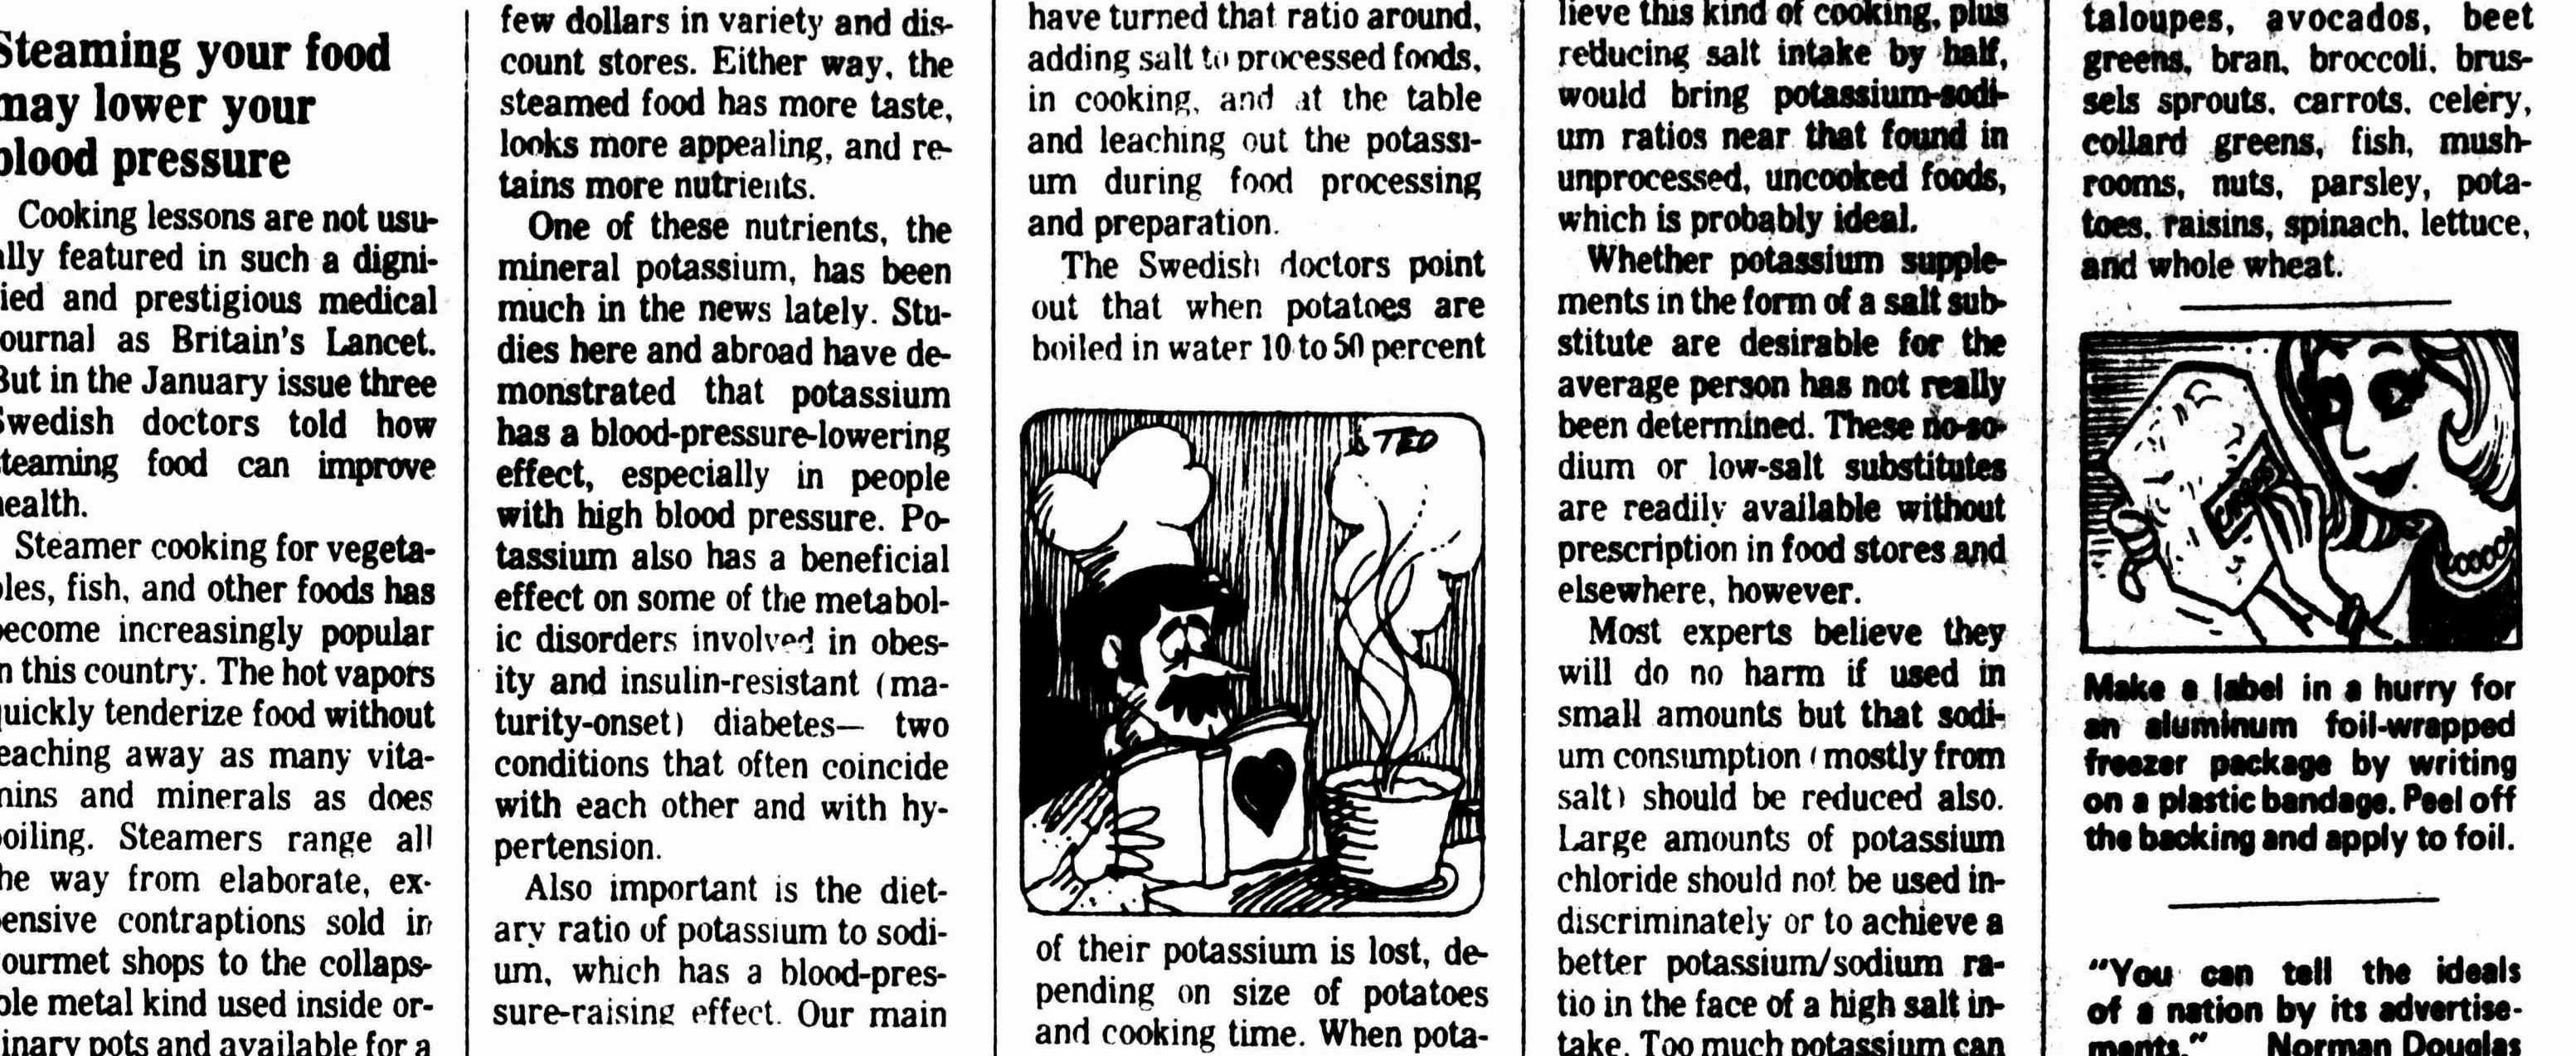

Most experts believe they will do no harm if used in small amounts but that sodium consumption (mostly from salt) should be reduced also. Large amounts of potassium chloride should not be used indiscriminately or to achieve a better potassium/sodium ratio in the face of a high salt intake. Too much potassium can cause abnormal heart rhythms and is especially risky for persons with liver or kidney disease or diabetes.

The best natural sources of potassium are fresh fruits and vegetables and whole grains. Foods high in potassium include oranges, bananas, cantaloupes, avocados, beet greens, bran, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, carrots, celery, collard greens, fish, mushrooms, nuts, parsley, potatoes, raisins, spinach, lettuce, and whole wheat.

Make a label in a hurry for an aluminum foil-wrapped freezer package by writing on a plastic bandage. Peel off the backing and apply to foil.

50-Year Re-Union Is Emotion-Filled

By Mrs. Charles Alabrook

Some tears were seen, and many voices quivered with joy as 54 persons met in Halls May 14th for a golden anniversary re-union of Halls High School's Class of 1933. Faye Williams Currie, of Halls, Margaret Daws Massey with her husband, Cecil, of Ripley, and Ruth Brown Wilkes with her husband, James, of Dyersburg, were at HHS before 5 p.m. to give name tags to those touring the school and inspecting class.

At Halls Community Center, they were greeted by Lucille Cunningham England and Mildred Sumrow Younger, with husband Clyde, of Halls, and Mary Frances Chaney Hurt, of Paducah, Ky., for dinner featuring roast beef and country ham.

The U-shaped table was dressed with three Williamsburg arrangements of fresh flowers from gardens of friends in Halls and Dyersburg.

Agnes (Mrs. Rosa) Dyer, sister-in-law of Margaret Dyer Smith, a class member attending from Albany, Ga., spent the better part of the morning arranging the bouquets which, with pots of ferns, adorned the room.

Frew Buffaloe, of Gates, was master of ceremonies, as 20 years ago, when the class held its only other reunion. Seated with him were his wife, Laverne, and teachers, Olive Kirk James, with her husband, Johnny, of Dyersburg; Mrs. Freda Elmore Revelle, of Mary City, and Mrs. Pauline Grammer Thomas, of Ripley. James McFarland, of Nashville, brought the invocation. Sitting with him was his wife, Martha Pybas, home economics teacher in Halls High School during the 1940's.

Frew noted that 108 students entered HHS in 1929, in the depression years; some had dropped out to work and some to get married. Others moved to Halls to join the class.

Present were 29 class members, plus spouses, children, brothers, and sisters. David Parrish called the names of deceased class members, spouses, and teachers, as Mary Spence Alabrook lighted candles in their memory.

Sitting with them were David's wife, Mary Alice, and Mary's husband, Charles. Mrs. Annie Kiestler Bartlett, a freshman with the class who was later graduated from Ripley High School, came from California, with her son, and brought her brother, Fred Ripley.

Sue Latham Chambers, a freshman in the class, whose husband, the late Robert Chambers, was graduated with the class, told of her active life in Lebanon, Tenn., working with the Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations.

Mrs. Maude Frances West King, of Helena, Ark., said she had seen few of these peo-

Cub Scout's Training Saved Mother's Life

Reggie Hudson, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hudson, Jr., of 510 Airport Street, Halls, is credited with saving his mother's life after she had a stroke about 5 a.m. April 15th.

When she had difficulty breathing, Reggie applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation while awaiting arrival of an ambulance.

The Hudson family and ambulance attendants believe that his quick action possibly saved her life. He had learned the technique as a Cub Scout, and the Hudsons are grateful to the Scout leaders who worked with Reggie to give him this important training.

Miss Bradford Earns Degree

Sherril Ann Bradford, a 1978 graduate of Halls High School, will receive a bachelor of science degree in business from Austin Peay State University in Clarksville this weekend.

She is treasurer of Alpha Kappa Psi, business fraternity.

She is the daughter of Eddie Bradford, of Gates, and of Dorothy Bradford, of Clarksville.

She is the granddaughter of Ledy Bradford, of Halls, and Lem Bradford and Mr. and Mrs. James Sawyer, of Gates.

She is the daughter of the newspaper, and John Porter made some of those who wished to buy them. Others' flash bulbs were popping during the evening.

Nannie Sue Barnes England told of becoming a nurse and spoke of her deceased husband, daughter, and brother, Joe Barnes, a class member.

Joe Clyde Escue, of Halls, retired after years as head of the Halls Utility Department, was there with his wife, the former Dora Kirby, whose class held a reunion May 20th.

The reunion was tape-recorded so Mrs. Ebbie Lee Viar Parker and Mrs. Marjorie Harward Voss, of Halls, unable to attend due to poor health, could hear their classmates.

Recalled was the late Charlie Dodds, coach of football and girls' and boys' basketball teams.

He also taught three classes of science, kept the study hall, and met many students at the Epworth League at the Methodist Church on Sunday afternoon.

He had no paid assistants. Players went to games in cars of the players' parents or other supporters.

But Halls had one boys' basketball team in the state finals in Knoxville, one girls' basketball team in a district tournament, and football teams which consistently defeated such teams as Covington Dyersburg, and Trenton.

Lewis Dalton and his wife, Margaret, of Memphis, may have shed some light on these matters. Lewis was in the class of 1932 until Dodds became aware that he and another good lineman were only 17 and had another year of football eligibility. He decided they needed to repeat a class and graduate in 1933.

Jane Brown Ortis, who came with her daughter, Lisa, from Memphis, remained until well after 10 p.m. before returning home.

It was difficult to say goodbye to old friends who had not been together in such a long time.

ROSE MARIE SUMROW, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sumrow, Jr., of Route 1, Halls, has won a $250 Halls Community Club scholarship to the school of her choice. A 1983 graduate of Halls High School, she received several Future Farmers of America awards and was "Miss Halls" in the 1983 Humboldt Strawberry Festival. She plans to attend the University of Tennessee in Martin.

Honored

CHRISTI LYNNE BIVENS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wren, of Greenfield, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Baker, of Halls, was graduated from Greenfield High School May 23rd as class historian, with a 95.875 average. She is Miss Greenfield. Miss Merry Christmas, second maid to Miss Reelfoot Princess, and second maid to Miss Teen in 1982 and first maid to Miss Weakley County and second alternate in the Strawberry Festival in 1983.

Jury Acquits Claybrook Of Kirkpatrick Slaying

Federal Bureau of Investigation tests which failed to link Willie Claybrook, 33, of near Halls, to the bludgeoning death of Leona "Ginsey" (Mrs. Frank) Fitzpatrick, 65, of Henning, spurred an all-white Dyers County Circuit Court jury, deliberating 3 1/2 hours Friday morning, to reject the state's circumstantial evidence and find Claybrook not guilty of first degree murder.

Steve Edwards, of Dyersburg, hunting rabbits in partly flooded woods near Bruceville, near the Lauderdale County line east of Dyersburg, found the woman's body Dec. 1st. She had been missing since Nov. 10th.

Though Claybrook signed a claim he had never been in Henning, Henning residents testified they had seen him there. Two employees testified he visited Reelfoot Lumber Co. in Henning, seeking work, about a week before "Miss Ginsey" was reported missing. They testified, however, that they had never seen him with "Miss Ginsey."

The state used video tapes to show the route it alleged Claybrook took, from the victim's home to south Dyers County and to Claybrook's home.

FBI Special Agent Andrew Podolak shook the state's case with his analysis that hairs found on the victim were not Claybrook's and that hairs found on a hat near her body were Caucasian.

Gates alderman Booker Joe Nance testified that between 7:30 and 9:15 a.m. Nov. 10th, he drove about three miles to Claybrook's home, worked on his truck, ran several errands in Halls, and returned to his farm. His testimony was supported by cancelled checks and two co-workers.

He said the tool had threads of the same color as the victim's clothing, but too tiny to determine their nature.

He also displayed a handkerchief, with a red flower in one corner, found on the passenger seat of the pick-up, which Patricia Scoggins, Henning merchant, said was similar to one which "Miss Ginsey" often drew from under several layers of clothing to purchase beer from her.

Only the handkerchief linked "Miss Ginsey" directly to Claybrook, except the testimony of Patricia Taylor, 18, of Glimp, who said she saw the victim with Claybrook, in his truck, northbound, halted by a traffic signal in Henning, between 8 and 9 a.m. Nov. 10th. She said the victim was then wearing a black cap found near her body.

Johnny Moody, of Haywood County, testified he found the victim's wallet Nov. 10th on Highway 51 between Four Points and Fowkes, containing no money.

On Nov. 28th, Mrs. Sue Richardson, of Dyer County, near Unionville, a purse containing the victim's identification

Claybrook was convicted of murder in 1973 and was arrested for Mrs. Kirkpatrick's death shortly after having served a sentence for larceny. Since he did not take the stand in his trial for the Kirkpatrick death, this information could not be provided to the jury.

Richmond's Resurgence Is Challenged By CORE

Calling The Rev. Isaac Richmond, deposed state chairman, a "bandit" who "abused his position...to go into businesses and pretty much extort money from them," George Holmes, public relations director of the Congress of Racial Equality, says N.Y. and St. Louis, Mo., officials are visiting Memphis this week to reorganize a CORE chapter and will contest in court Richmond's use of "New-Core" as his newest organization.

Richmond, who founded the "Church of Human Development" in Ripley, lost his state post after Jackson CORE members protested his boycott of a grocer who offered a $30 ad in the Voice, a newspaper Richmond published from Clarksville, when he demanded a $200 ad.

Of 25 employees of the Jackson store, 18, including two managers, were black.

RICKY CRINFIELD, center, of Halls, with the help of Benjie Goodwin, left, and Randy Brown, right, caught this 17-lb. channel catfish Monday morning at Twin Rivers, along with several other nice catfish.

The all new 1984 Ford Tempo Style and technology in total harmony. America's newest front-wheel-drive sedan for the 80's.

Form follows function. In its creation of Tempo, Ford set out to design a car which would prove that a spacious interior could be compatible with fuel efficiency. As an acknowledged world leader in aerodynamic design, Ford utilized a sound design principle: Form follows function. Tempo's aerodynamic design has a profound effect on the overall performance of the car. Tempo's pleasing form followed naturally. Tempo is equipped with the world's most advanced automotive computer, Electronic Engine Control (EEC-IV). It monitors and controls seven vital engine functions, including fuel/air mixture and spark advance, intake air temperature, ignition timing, even oxygen levels in exhaust gases. EEC-IV helps deliver optimum power and fuel efficiency in all driving conditions. Although EPA mileage ratings were not available at time of publication, preliminary Ford engineering tests project 42 est. hwy. and 28 est. city mpg. Tempo Features: Front-wheel drive: All weather traction, precise handling. 4-wheel independent suspension: Responsive handling and a smooth ride. EEC-IV computer: Instantly monitors and controls seven vital engine functions for optimum power/output and fuel efficiency. 2300 HSC engine: New High-Swift Combustion engine designed for quick power response. Transaxle: Available with manual or 5-speed or automatic transmission. Computer refined interior: More rear passenger room than a Mercedes 300D. Commitment to quality: Body fit tolerances that can be compared with European sports sedans. The complete line of Ford cars is available at your local Ford dealer. See your Ford Dealer Now. FORD

Magee-Pugh Kin Feasted

Elizabeth Dean Magee (Mrs. Ab) Taylor with her husband and their children, Ab IV, Courtney and Mark, welcomed Magee and Pugh relatives May 14th to their home on Highland in Jackson. Ab's mother, Mrs. A. U. Taylor, who lives next door, was also there for the alfresco dinner. Elizabeth's father, M. E. Magee, with the help of Amanda James and Mary McCauley, of Dyersburg, made three freezers of homemade ice cream early in the afternoon. Mary Helen (Mrs. Eugene) Pugh, of Halls, supplied hand-painted name tags, decorated with strawberries for the adults, footballs and bugs for teenagers, and ships, balloons, and ice cream cones for children. Norene (Mrs. Farnsworth) Pugh, of Halls, brought big ball balloons, which kept the children occupied much of the afternoon. A cousin, Charlotte, and her husband, John Barlow, of New Orleans, La., brought Junior League Jambalaya cook books, gift wrapped with miniature bottles of Tabasco sauce tied in the bows, for the ladies. Before the downpour, everyone piled their plates with barbecue, fried chicken, potato salad, baked beans, home-made bread, pickles and other goodies. They were seated under a covered patio at tables covered with yellow checked cloths and centered with potted red geraniums. Freshly cut spring flowers were placed at vantage points, and wooden ducks sporting bow ties marched through the flower beds. Others attending were Milton Magee with his wife, Beverly, and their children, Milton, Jr., and Maribeth, of Dyersburg, Eugene Pugh and children, Elizabeth, Eugene III, and Leigh, Barbara and Steve Pugh with their children, Melanie and Stevie (James Stephenson, Jr.), and Donna and Andy Pugh and daughters, Amanda and Angela, of Halls. Dorothy Pugh and her husband, J. T. Stutts, of Birmingham, Ala., and the Barlows, of New Orleans, were house guests of Ab and Elizabeth Saturday night and of Beverly and Milton Sunday night. Printed booklets, "History of the Pugh Family," compiled by Norene and Donna, were given each family and then read by Mary Helen. The next day, Norene (Mrs. Farnsworth) Pugh and Bubba (M. E.) Magee hosted the group at the Sunday buffet at Dyersburg Country Club. Iris from Norene's garden centered the table at which 22 were seated.

Walter K. Harris, 73, of Halls, retired from employment with Madison Foundry Steel Co., died Friday in University of Tennessee Hospital in Memphis. Services were at 2 p.m. Monday in St. Luke Missionary Baptist Church in Gates, with burial in its cemetery. He leaves his wife, Olivia, four sons, Walter K. Harris III, of Ripley, D. Homer Harris and James Knox Harris, of Rockford, Ill., and D. Henry Harris, of Las Vegas, Nev., and two daughters, Mrs. Jewell Brown, of Halls, and Mrs. Lucille H. Crook, of Champaign, Ill.

Ocle Garrett, 84, of Halls, retired farmer, died Sunday in Haywood Park Hospital in Brownsville. Services were at 3 p.m. Monday in Halls' First Christian Church, with burial in South Fork Cemetery. He leaves three sons, Charles "Rusty" Garrett, of Halls, Buford, of Byhalia, Miss., and Kenneth, of Canolou, Mo.; two daughters, Mrs. Marie Little, of Brownsville, and Mrs. Delores McDaniel, of Memphis; and a sister, Mrs. Ella Archer, of Memphis.

Claude E. White, 83, of Halls, retired farmer, died Thursday of last week in Jackson-Madison County Hospital. Services were at 2 p.m. Saturday in Lebanon United Methodist Church near Halls, with burial in its cemetery. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Willie Belle Heath White.

Cherokee History At Red Clay

In 1838 the government of the United States ordered some 15,000 Cherokee Indians to leave their homes in the lush valleys of the Appalachian Mountains and resettle them far to the west in the Oklahoma Territory. The long march, known to history as the "Trail of Tears," had its beginning in the southeastern corner of Tennessee near the present-day city of Cleveland at a place called Red Clay. Today, Red Clay, a 275-acre State Historic Area, is the beginning point for the Trail of Tears State Historic Route, a 260-mile motor route which closely follows the original overland trail of the Cherokees. As the last council ground of the eastern Cherokee Nation, Red Clay's period in history was both brief and turbulent. It began in 1832 when the state of Georgia stripped the Cherokees of virtually all rights except the right to sell their land. Forced out of Georgia, the Cherokee leaders moved their capital across the state line into Tennessee. From 1832 until the removal in 1838, Red Clay was the seat of the Cherokee government and the site of eleven national councils attended by as many as 5,000 people. It was at Red Clay that the Cherokee leaders learned that they had irrevocably lost their beloved mountains, streams and valleys and it was here that their ordeal began. The exact number of deaths on the Trail of Tears will never be known, but among the thousands of victims was the wife of Chief John Ross, principal chief of the Cherokee Nation from 1828 to 1866. Red Clay State Historic Area attempts to recreate Red Clay as the Cherokees knew it. This is a model Cherokee farm, for example. The most imposing structure is unquestionably a historical replica of the Council House, the social and political center of Red Clay. The last council at Red Clay was held on August 7, 1837 in the Cherokees last, desperate, futile attempt to retain their ancestral lands. Perhaps the most significant feature at Red Clay is the small, spring-fed pool, which was what originally attracted the Indians to the area. The stream at Red Clay has proven to be 97% pure and is still considered sacred by many Cherokees still living in the area, the descendants of those who escaped the Trail of Tears to form the eastern band of Cherokees. The visitor center at the state historic area contains an excellent film presentation about Red Clay, the events leading up to the removal, and the Cherokee way of life. It notes, for example, that the Cherokees adopted many aspects of the encroaching society, including the Christian religion and much of the political and judicial system. They elected their leaders and had such institutions as a Supreme Court. There is an accompanying museum which details the careers of many of the major Cherokee leaders and the bitter disputes between them over the removal. There were many Cherokee leaders who believed it was better to accept the removal without protest rather than risk the total destruction of the Cherokee Nation, but there were also many influential leaders who counseled the Nation to fight whatever the cost. The area around Red Clay also contains many other sites which share in the Cherokee story. On Highway 411 near Benton, Tennessee, is a small park marking the grave of Nancy Ward, a Cherokee heroine considered by some historians to have been the most outstanding woman in Tennessee history. Her bravery during the "Battle of Hanging Rock" against the Creek Nation in 1813 earned her the title "Ghiguan," or "Beloved Woman," the highest honor a Cherokee woman could attain. Always an advocate of peace between the Indians and the growing number of settlers, it was her warning of impending attacks which saved several settlements from being wiped out. Also on Highway 411 on the grounds of the Polk County High School at Benton is Old Fort Murr, one of the last remaining relics from the Cherokee removal. The blockhouse, one of the few original structures of its type remaining in the United States, was built around 1814 as a supply depot for Andrew Jackson's army during the War of 1812. It later served as a rest stop for travelers on the stage roads and as a refuge from Indian attacks. The dents and scars made by flint arrowheads and rifle balls can still be seen on the ancient oak logs. During the removal in 1838, Fort Murr was part of the stockade built to house the thousands of Cherokees being rounded up for the trip to far away Oklahoma where the Cherokee Nation established a new capital which still serves the Nation at Tahlequah. Benjamin Franklin was the first head of the U.S. Post Office.

To The Citizens Of Gates: My name is Jimmy C. Garrett, and I have three children, Tonya, 16, Tony, 13, and Jeff, 24. I am seeking the office of Mayor of Gates in the June 2nd election. I would like the opportunity to serve the people for the next 2 years. I will only promise I will govern the city with fair, honest, and impartial government. I will enforce the laws without showing favoritism to any person or persons. I will work with the elected aldermen to better our town. I will work for grant money to have something for all citizens. We should have a program for our senior citizens and our children. Our neighboring towns have it, so why not Gates? Your vote and influence will be appreciated. Jimmy C. Garrett Paid For By Jimmy C. Tea Honors Miss Hart

Roses from the garden of Mrs. Roger Charest, flanked by glowing yellow tapers, centered the tea table, spread with a white hand-embroidered linen and lace cloth.

Bridal punch and assorted party sandwiches were served by Mrs. Barry Britt, Mrs. Tim Brown, and Mrs. Ryan Hilliard. Miss Mary Ann Vaden registered guests.

The hostesses—Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Gerald Cherry, Mrs. Gilreath Dyer, Mrs. Roger Harris, Mrs. Darriel Hilliard, Mrs. T. E. McDearman, Mrs. Jerry Stanley, Mrs. Bobby Steelman, Mrs. Wayne Vaden, of Halls, and Mrs. Odell Hilliard, of Ripley—gave the honoree a platter in her chosen china.

Tea Fetes Miss Stephens

Donna Stephens, center, of Dyersburg, bride-elect of Jimmy Lovelace, was honored Sunday with a gift tea in the home of Mrs. Robert Stolarick, left, on West Treggett Street in Halls. Special guests were the groom's mother, Mrs. James Lovelace, second from left, of Halls, the bride's mother, Mrs. James M. Stephens, second from right, of Dyersburg, and the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Lucille Stephens, right, of Dyersburg.

The table, centered with carnations flanked by white tapers in silver candlesticks, held a large crystal bowl from which peach punch was poured by Mrs. Carmon R. Belton. Silver trays held green, mixed nuts, and peach and green mints made by Mrs. Don Hilliard.

Arrangements of purple and yellow iris and white peonies were gifts of Mrs. Jim Ewell. Miss Lorie Lovelace registered guests at a table with a bud vase holding a single peach-colored rose.

The honoree, her mother, her grandmother and the groom's mother and sister were given daisy corsages.

Hostesses were Mrs. Stolarick, Mrs. Carmon R. Belton, Mrs. Tim Brown, Mrs. Harold L. Burroughs, Mrs. Gary Herron, Mrs. Don Hilliard, Mrs. J. W. Warren, Jr., and Mrs. Larry White. Their gift to the honoree was eight iced-tea glasses in her crystal.

Thank You!

I want to take time to say "thank you" to the 302 people who supported me in the election. I cannot put into words, how I appreciated each and every one of you.

All I can say is I love you and thank you from my heart.

I feel good about our new board and mayor. I want to and will support them in any way I can.

I do believe we the people of Halls, will see some changes made.

One thing we need to keep in mind, our mayor is just as strong as our board will support him to be. Let us all try to work in unity and prayer.

If I live and the Lord does not come, I will be knocking on your door in 1985. Be looking for me. I am one who does not give up. Thank you,

To The Voters And Citizens Of Gates:

On August 15, 1970, I was sworn in as Alderman for the town of Gates. Alderman E. S. Cates, a highly respected citizen and business man of Gates, was in poor health and he requested that I be appointed by Mayor Cecil J. Baker and the Board of Alderman to fill his unexpired term. The Board accepted his recommendation, and I was accepted.

Six times since that date, I have asked the citizens of Gates to allow me to continue serving as Alderman, and each time you have given me your support.

I am very grateful to each of you for your support and for the way you have accepted me and my family in Gates and the community. Not only have you accepted us as citizens of Gates, but many of you have accepted us as part of your family. For this we will ever be grateful.

Over the past almost 13 years that I have served as Alderman, I have served with some men and women who were dedicated to the town of Gates. We have not been able to accomplish everything that we would have liked to, but we have definitely made some good steps forward.

The Sewage System that we have would have to be the number one item on the list and I might add was the most complicated and baffling project that I have ever been a part of. Over ten years of planning, completing papers, surveys, meeting with engineers and public officials and refining applications before we were successful in getting a grant to make this project possible. Now we are all in a position to reap the benefits of our efforts.

Again I thank you, the voters of Gates, for allowing me to stay in office until this project was complete, along with many many more accomplishments that we, the Town Board and the Citizens of Gates, have made together.

We still have many things to do to improve our town, and that is why I would like to ask for your vote on June 2nd to re-elect me as Alderman. Your vote and influence will be appreciated.
