Gravely Offensive Honoree

BILL AND BLONDIE ROBISON were startled Saturday night when they returned to their Gates home after a trip to Dyersburg. The Memphis State University fans found this grave on their carport with a head marker reading, 'Bill Lee, Nov. 7, 1939, March 30, 1985, My Last Goal, Goodbye.' The MSU Tigers were eliminated Saturday from the National Collegiate Athletics Association tournament by Villanova.

JASON COX, great-grandson of Mrs. Effie Smith Williams, of Route 2, Halls; and the late A. A. Smith, will be listed in the 1985 National Merit Award yearbook as an English Merit Award winner. He was nominated by his Trenton Middle School teacher, Mrs. Mary Jane Scott. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Cox and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith, all of Trenton.

Readers Speak

Editor:

I read with a great deal of interest the mention that was made in the March 14, 1985 issue of The Halls Graphic of plans being made for Homecoming '86 insofar as the Dyersburg Army Air Base, formerly located at Halls, Tennessee, are concerned.

I think that what is being planned has a lot of merit and I do hope it will be a huge success. Barring development of an adverse and unforeseen nature at this time, Alice and I would certainly expect to be in Halls on this occasion.

I believe that if you would drop a line to the Air Force Association, 1750 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006, you would be able to obtain through this medium (Air Force Magazine) some good publicity which might help locate some of the fellows who served in World War II at the Dyersburg Air Field. I have been a member of the Air Force Association for a number of years, and I would have no objection whatsoever if you would use my name in connection with your request for publicity.

Keep me posted with regard to all material developments in connection with Homecoming '86. I am quite interested and look forward to making arrangements to be in Halls on this occasion. I hope everything is well with you and Nell and with our other good friends out there in Halls.

(Mr. Williams will be remembered as the husband of the former Alice Fenton Kimbrough, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Kimbrough, of Halls. He was stationed at the Dyersburg Army Air Base.)

McDearman Motors Is Closing Its Doors

T. E. McDearman, president of McDearman Motors, Inc., says the Ford dealership will close its doors this weekend after more than 60 years in business in Halls. He blames high unemployment and surging car prices for the business closure.

The original Ford dealership was found in the early 1920s by the late J. R. Brown. In 1926, Brown Motor, Co., Inc. was established with Brown, H. A. Townsend, Charles Wilson, N. S. Daws, W. H. Bailey, W. C. Patton, and D. C. Warren as stockholders. All of the original stockholders are deceased.

In 1928, J. R. Brown sold his stock, with the provision that the name be changed. Lon Viar became a stockholder and the name was changed to Townsend-Daws Co., Inc.

Construction of the present building on the southwest corner of North Church Street and West Tiggert was started in 1929. The building occupied in early 1930.

In 1962, Lon Viar and his sons, L. R. Viar, now of Memphis, the late Wilson Viar, of Ripley, and Charles O. Viar, of Halls, bought the firm and operated it under the same name.

M. E. McDearman, who had purchased stock in 1946, remained with the firm.

In 1965, Mr. McDearman, his wife, Rebekah, and his son, T. E. McDearman, purchased the firm and changed to the present name.

After the death of M. E. McDearman in December, 1968, and Mrs. McDearman in April, 1976, T. E. McDearman, with his wife, Jean, became sole owners of the firm.

Births

To Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Countess, of Halls, a 7 lb., 2 oz. daughter, Brittany Leigh, March 25th in Parkview Methodist Medical Center in Dyersburg. Grandparents are Jim Countess and Mr. and Mrs. James Wallace, of Halls.

AEROBICS COURSES

Two courses in rhythmic aerobics are offered at Dyersburg State College—12:40 to 1:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, beginning April 2nd, taught by Elene Winn, and 6-7 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays, starting April 8th, taught by Pat Jones.

Both are certified rhythmic aerobics instructors.

Karate and knitting courses are also offered.

Information from 285-6910, Extension 227 or 230.

Mourned

MRS. WYMOND HURT, 76, talented organist and pianist, died Friday of last week in her home in Halls, after long illness with cancer.

Services were at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in Halls First Baptist Church, with burial in Halls Cemetery, Halls Funeral Home in charge.

Pattie Rhea Spence Hurt had served the church as pianist and organist for 36 years. She had previously been pianist in Halls First Methodist Church.

She had taught music in Halls schools and had played for beauty revues, talent shows, and the annual industrial banquet, as well as making guest appearances throughout West Tennessee.

In 1983, she was chosen as Halls Woman of the Year by Halls Police Department. Presentation of the award was made at Halls-Gates Rotary Club.

She and Mr. Hurt celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in June, 1977.

Besides her husband, she leaves a son, Wymond, Jr., of New Albany, Miss.; a sister, Mrs. Nell McCord, of Nashville; three grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

A SMALL TORNADO, accompanied by hail, about 11:20 p.m. Saturday demolished a mobile home (upper photo) occupied by the Charles Bryson family on Jennings Road in northwest Lauderdale County. The Brysons and a small child suffered only cuts and bruises. Two trees (lower photo) were blown into the house, a quarter of a mile south, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wallace and three children, badly damaging the house and contents. Only injuries suffered by the Wallace family were bruises from large hail. Several houses in the area suffered some damage, but no injuries were reported.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of Robert C. Ashcraft
Promotion Came At Last
His battle now is over,
And all his pains are past,
For he's at home with God,
Promotion came at last.

Now I shall think of him
As if asleep somehow,
God just promoted him
And he's in heaven now.

Of course, I know he'd leave,
And his promotion came,
But when it came at last,
It left us shocked and stunned.

But I'll rejoice, although
My grief may never pass,
I know he's home with God—
Promotion came at last. Adv.P.

She'll Be Missed
Few other persons in Halls will be as greatly missed as will Pat Hurt, who died Friday, after a long fight against cancer. Pat had been a friend of your editor for most of our lives. Before we moved to Halls from Maury City in 1923, Pat had visited her aunt and uncle, Mary and Herbert Poston, in Maury City and had spent quite a bit of time at our home there. When we did move to Halls, the families were neighbors, and Pat spent many hours playing the piano in our home. An extremely talented musician, Pat gave of her time at weddings, funerals, revivals, and every type of activity where music was appropriate. One of our prized possessions is a tape of a musical program which she presented at a Halls-Gates Rotary Club program, as our guest. As a music teacher, she had many outstanding pupils, including well-known organist and pianist Bill Kelly. Last May, Pat was honored by Bill and other former pupils with a concert which drew a crowd from throughout the area. She performed at the piano, but her greatest pride was the performance of her granddaughter, Mrs. Patti Hurt Scarpati, of Memphis, a concert pianist now teaching in Memphis State University and Rhodes College in Memphis.

Welcome Note
We were happy last week to receive a short note from Laverne Jones, formerly of Halls and a classmate of your editor in Halls High School. Laverne, who now resides in Perry, Okla., was writing to congratulate Nell and your editor because of the many kindnesses shown by neighbors and friends at the time of Nell's surgery and the ice and snow during January and February. He seemed proud but a little bit surprised of his old home town. We're thankful but not at all surprised! Also he sent copies of the Perry newspaper and other newspapers he thought we might find interesting.

Still Too High
The most recent report on unemployment in Tennessee shows a rate of 9.2% for the state and 14.3% for Lauderdale County. These figures reveal a desperate need for more jobs in Lauderdale County although we sometimes wonder just how accurate the figures are. The shutdown of Halltex in Halls has, of course, cost some jobs but we don't think there have been any major layoffs at other plants in the county. It is still not known if Halltex will be able to secure new contracts and re-open but there remains a chance. Perhaps some major effort needs to be made locally to determine just how many persons are actually unemployed in Lauderdale County and also determine if they are actively seeking work.

A Good Choice
President Reagan made a good choice for both the American people and the Republican party when he nominated former Tennessee Sen. Bill Brock to be Secretary of Labor to succeed Sec. Donovan who resigned earlier this month after being indicted by a federal grand jury. Brock has served well for four years as the United States trade representative. He is well liked among some leaders of the unions although the Tennessee president of the AFL-CIO does not support him. Known as a strong conservative he will be able to negotiate with both union and non-union workers. There is certain to be some opposition to his confirmation by the U.S. Senate but there seems to be little likelihood of any great delay. He should be confirmed quickly so that he can get with the job of straightening out the Department of Labor.

ALL MERCHANDISE SOLD AS IS

Fullen Bull Star Seller

By Charles T. Peal
A Santa Gertrudis bull sold by S.S. Fullen Farms, of near Ripley, brought the second highest price in the Performance Tested Bull Sale in Springhill, reports Jerry Parker, associate Extension agent.

The breed led the sale in average price as 64 bulls brought an average of $1,105.

The sale was sponsored by the University of Tennessee.

Skip Peach Spraying

Spraying peach trees barren after winter freezes is not needed.

Control borers with four applications of 50% Thiodan to trunks and lower part of scaffold limbs on April 15th, June 1st, July 15th, and Sept. 1st.

Lorsban 4E can be used, three quarts per 100 gallons of water, one application per season, during the first week of August.

Borers emerge in May and begin laying eggs then.

Spray also to control the tip moth. Sevin will handle them, but they are difficult to control, timing of the spray is critical.

Fertilize Lawns Now

Properly fertilized lawns are usually healthier, more attractive, and less weedy. Home owners who want a luscious, summer lawn carpet should begin now.

A soil test will help to know the kind and amounts of fertilizer needed.

In this area, there is no need to start fertilizing Bermuda grass until around May 1st.

If tests show soil has high levels of phosphate and potash, only straight nitrogen fertilizer, such as ammonium nitrate, will be needed, with just small amounts of phosphate and potash.

If the test shows the levels are low, a complete fertilizer, such as 10-10-10 or 15-15-15, is usually preferred.

Removing grass clippings will increase the need for potash.

Besides applying the correct amounts of lime and fertilizer, properly applying them is important. If you spread materials unevenly, light and dark strips will be likely to appear. Growth will be uneven, stands may be thinned, and fertilizer burn may occur.

Always apply lime and fertilizer to lawns when grasses are dry.

If you apply fertilizer containing herbicides, be sure you understand both the nutrients requirements and weed control needs of the lawn.

This will prevent chemical mis-

Training

JACKIE LYNN JACOBS, JR. has completed basic training with the 12th Military Police Battalion at Ft. McClellan, Ala., will complete advanced training April 10th, and will return to Halls with family members assigned to the 269th M.P. Co. of the National Guard. use, plant injury, and wasted dollars.

Protecting Survivors

Many farmers spend a lifetime building a successful farming operation but give up the right to determine how their property will be distributed after their death, because they have no estate plan.

This is more than making a will. Estate planning may also involve the use of the property during the farmer's lifetime.

The business organization of the farm is also important. When the farmer dies, some of the heirs may want the farm's assets liquidated, or the heirs who intend to farm must incur a large debt to keep the business intact.

Through estate planning, one can assure that the farm business will provide security during the owner's lifetime and be distributed as desired after death, with a maximum of tax savings.

A New Rodent Killer

The Environmental Protection Agency has approved the sale of a new rodent killer completely different in action from the Warfarin based. Material now in use is an anti-coagulant bait which relies on hemorrhage to kill rodents.

The material kills rodents through calcification of the circulatory system and heart attack.

A lethal amount of this bait can be consumed at one feeding.

Because rodents do not continue to eat this material, there is no buildup of toxicity in the carcass or the rodent to pose a threat to other animals.

FmHA Pays Over-Time

The Farmers Home Administration has been authorized an additional $50,000 to pay overtime to FmHA personnel to speed farm loan processing.

FmHA has also hired 33 temporary employees to help FmHA county offices process loans and the Soil Conservation Service, the Extension Service, and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service have offered 70 of their employees from around the state to help FmHA in county offices.

Mule Day in Columbia

Columbia's annual Mule Days will be April 12-14th, Jerry Parker reports.

Since the 1840's, mules shipped from Missouri were traded or sold in Columbia to sugar and cotton plantations in the South. The first Monday in every April, Mule Day, became known throughout the U.S., and Columbia was noted as the largest mule market in the world. Mule Day became an official celebration in 1934. It took an intermission during the war years

Education: brings the joy of learning -- a life-long experience

Education is a life-long process, not something which can be completed in a few years. It is a much-needed quality for adults as well as children. There is no end to learning. The more you learn, the more you know. Learning is a continuous process that should be a part of your life.

People learn by a variety of methods. Book learning, classroom instruction, on-the-job training, and self-teaching are all valid ways to gain knowledge. Learning is a continuous process that should be a part of your life.

Whether your interest is in a specific field or whether you are interested in everything, there are many ways to keep learning. There is nothing so useful as a continuous learning attitude. Learning is a continuous process that should be a part of your life.

CONFIDENTIAL CORNER

By Henry Murchison

Federal Budget Must Be Thinned

According to newspaper reports last week, Republican Congressional leaders and President Reagan reached an agreement by which the federal deficit will be cut by more than 50 billion dollars. This agreement doesn't necessarily mean that the cuts will be approved by the entire Congress but, at least, it is a step in the right direction. Apparently the cuts will mean the end of revenue sharing, the Small Business Administration, the limiting of Social Security increases to 2% annually unless inflation exceeds 4%, increases in the defense budget but not as large as had been requested by Mr. Reagan, and large cuts in some domestic programs. Immediately after the figures were released concerning the agreement, various special interest groups began to scream that the programs which they support should not be cut and accused Mr. Reagan of backing down on his promise not to cut Social Security.

It now becomes time to realize that any real effort to reduce the federal budget must include all spending programs, including revenue sharing, Social Security, the farm program, etc. Any attempt to cut federal spending is doomed to failure if special groups are able to protect their pet programs. Despite the screams of state, county, and municipal officials, they either are going to have to cut spending or raise the money locally. The Town of Halls has been particularly fortunate, through hard work by city officials, in securing federal funds, but we are probably going to have to live without some of the programs or reach into our pockets on a local basis. Revenue sharing has been helpful, as have many other programs, but the federal government can no longer afford them without catastrophic federal deficits.

School Board Names Superintendent?

Recent action by the Lauderdale County Commission in seeking legislative approval allowing the Commission to elect the County Superintendent of Schools was met with a storm of protest from many Lauderdale County citizens. It seems to us that such a change would not be in the best interests of Lauderdale County, but we have often wondered if the County Board of Education should not employ the superintendent. In years past, some of the greatest controversies have arisen because of the question of authority between the school board and the superintendent. According to figures we have seen, the best operated schools in the state are using such a system.

We are not advocating any such change at this time, but we do suggest that some thought about such a change should be undertaken by interested groups. After all, most of us just want the best possible schools.

Upcoming City Election Is Important!

Interest in the city election May 2nd seems at a very low point. Of course, interest will increase as the election draws nearer, but the citizens of Halls should not forget that the officials elected next month will have some tough decisions to make during the next two years. Don't fail to cast your vote with that fact in mind.

Henning Getting New Post Office

The Postal Service has awarded a contract to Mr. and Mrs. Johnny M. Garner, of Wynne, Ark., to build a new post office on Highway 51 in Henning, Postmaster Mary Smith reports. The building, of about 1,832 square feet, is expected to be completed in September. Construction cost will be paid with private funds and the building leased to the Postal Service for 10 years, with renewal options for 20 additional years.

Teachers Rush Career Ladder

More than 90% of county teachers opted for Level 1 of Gov. Lamar Alexander's career ladder program, and Ripley High School alone has more applicants for Level 3 than all of Madison County, School Supt. Phillip Jackson told Ripley Rotarians Tuesday of last week, as program guest of Bill Thompson.

Proficiency testing of students has shown a slow but steady increase in scores in the county over the last few years, he said. Next year, there will be a new high school diploma, an "honors" diploma, in addition to the three documents now issued—the regular diploma, the certificate for meeting less demanding requirements, and the special education graduation for the handicapped. Summer programs for gifted students are in prospect, and students or parents should contact Mr. Jackson.

ED JONES 8th DISTRICT of TENNESSEE REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

Just prior to Easter, the House and Senate took action on non-binding legislation calling upon the President to take action to eliminate the huge trade deficit that exists between the United States and Japan. This action, taken in both chambers on separate days, primarily came as the result of recent Japanese trade actions and recent announcements that trade negotiations between the two countries have not made much progress.

The House legislation, a concurrent resolution, did not go as far as the Senate version of the bill. Essentially, the House Bill called on the President to do two things: First, to develop a concrete plan to reduce trade deficits by attacking their causes. Secondly, the resolution tells the President to secure the elimination of unfair Japanese trade practices, policies, and acts. Primarily, the resolution is designed to focus attention on trade practices that simply close Japan to imports of many American goods.

What those practices translate into is a trade imbalance with Japan of $36 billion last year alone. Our overall trade imbalance reached a record $125 billion last year and is expected to hit $150 billion this year. Those are substantial figures. While they may be hard to comprehend, they mean that American jobs are being exported; import competitive industries are having a difficult time competing with imported products; and American industries are finding it more profitable to invest in facilities overseas.

Part of the trade imbalance problem lies in the value of the dollar. Even the Administration admits that the dollar may be overvalued as much as 60 percent. Consequently, American products are not competitive overseas. That is why the House passed resolution calls on the President to attack the causes of the trade deficit.

However, part of the trade problem is the result of markets overseas that are virtually closed to American products. The Japanese are the ones whose policies are criticized now, but they are not the only ones who have policies that are biased against our products. They happen to be the country with whom we have the greatest individual trade deficit.

It must be made clear that the intent of the resolutions passed by the House and Senate is not aimed solely at retaliating against the Japanese. What we are seeking is an open market for American products. Right now, agricultural products such as citrus, soybeans, and forest products are not sold in Japan. Other industries are getting the same treatment. Barriers of all types are in place to prevent the economical sale of American telecommunications equipment there.

Negotiations are underway in an effort to resolve that problem, but there is great sentiment that the talking has gone on long enough. Our country has opened its trading doors wide. The response on the other side is a small crack. We make good faith gestures only to be met with continued discriminatory trade practices. The resulting frustration has climaxed in the passing of this resolution. Though the President is not legally bound by the resolution, its passage is an indication of the bipartisan support that the President would have in taking strong action.

Head Start And Schools Enroll 88% In Poll Want School Supt. Elected By People

The Lau-Fay-Ton Community Action Agency Head Start Program will have pre-registration and open house at the Lauderdale Head Start Center next Friday, April 26th, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Children registered must be 4 years old by Sept. 30, 1985.

Children who will start to kindergarten or school for the first time in August, 1985, should register from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. April 26th at Arp Elementary, 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. April 29th at Halls Elementary, or 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. May 3rd at Ripley Elementary.

Children who did not attend kindergarten this year, but will enroll in first grade this fall, go to the principal's office to register.

Children registering must have a birth certificate or legal proof of age—for kindergarten, five years old by Sept. 30, 1985, for first grade, six years old by Oct. 31, 1985.

Each must have a physical examination and proof of immunization against polio, rubella, measles, diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus. Parents should bring health records.

Kindergarten students currently enrolled will not attend on their school's registration day.

Hearing, vision, speech, language, and development screening is given all pre-school children, ages 3, 4, and 5, on the schedule for kindergarten registration.

Children who passed all areas last year do not need to be re-screened. If your child did not pass one of the areas, bring him to the screening in your school zone on the above dates.

Three Escapees Seized Speedily

Two of three Fort Pillow State Prison inmates who escaped Wednesday night of last week were recaptured Thursday, and the third Friday.

William David Arendall, 33, serving 30 years for armed robbery in Davidson County, was captured shortly before dawn Thursday on Old Highway 51, about 12 miles from the prison.

Gary William Holt, 32, serving a life sentence for armed robbery in McMinn County, was recaptured about 3:40 p.m. on the same road.

Marshall Eugene Fortner, 39, serving 25 years for armed robbery in Hamilton County, was recaptured at 4:30 p.m. Friday, near where Holt was captured.

No action was taken on plans to improve the Northside Community Center building, because additional work is needed.

The board sold half an acre of land to Richard Deaton on the old air base, opposite the White Repair Service building.

It approved purchase of papers for the volunteer fire department at an approximate cost of $2,500. The board was told the present telephone system, costing about $1,800 per year, can be eliminated, so that cost of the papers can be recovered within two years.

State Rep. Floyd Crain reports 88% of Lauderdale County citizens responding to a survey taken by him and State Sen. Leonard Dunavant feel the county school superintendent should be elected by popular vote, as at the present.

Crain said he opposes efforts to end the popular vote selection of school superintendents, because "the people deserve a voice in the public education system."

County Commissioner Billy Spence, of Halls, seconded by Roland Henderson, got an 18-5 vote from the Commission's March meeting to ask Crain and Dunavant for state legislation to let the Commission name the school superintendent.

County Executive William Tucker IV allowed the vote on the surprise motion, not on the agenda as required by CC rules.

Only votes against Spence's motion came from Delmus Connell, Lawson Elder, Robert Flagg, Gus Hargett, and Charlie Moore. Don Ammons and Gwinn Matthews did not vote.

Voting against popular election of the school Superintendent were County Commissioners Danny Beard, Anderson Bentley, P. B. Bridges, Lawson Chipman, W. D. Chisholm, Neal Crain, Darrell Crook, Talmadge Cribfield, Roy M. Cook, B. G. Graves, Roland Henderson, James L. Jones, Vernon McBride, Hal J. Pennington, Eugene Pugh, William L. Spence, Clifford Sweet, and L. G. "Red" Thompson.

Crain said 48% of those responding opposed requiring wearing of seat belts, 30% favored it, and 22% were undecided.

"This tells me that the people of Lauderdale County do not want the state to tell them every little thing they have to do," Crain says.

Halls Board Hiring Pugh, Haley, Land

Halls' Board of Mayor and Aldermen, meeting Monday of last week, voted to pay Andy Pugh $200 per week for 15 weeks to direct the city baseball and recreation program in Cribfield Park.

Mayor Joe Jacobs named Alderman Bob Stolarek, Harry Adcock, and Eugene Pugh to work with him on some needs of the park.

The board agreed to hire Charley Haley as water plant superintendent at a salary of $900 per month and Martha Land to assist with the water tests at $250 a month.

The board directed Mayor Jacob to sign the necessary resolution to commit part of the town's share of the sales tax for construction and re-modeling of county schools.

The board approved increasing natural gas service to Hutchinson Scrap Co., Inc., north of Halls, but asks Hutcherson to contract for gas for five years and to seek a contract with Texas Gas to supply gas.

The new lines are expected to cost about $55,000, to be recovered over a five year period.

City Attorney Tom Caldwell suggested that possibly Anticipation Bonds could be issued, with local banks asked to participate. The Board authorized Mayor Jacobs to proceed with the contract.

No action was taken on plans to improve the Northside Community Center building, because additional work is needed.

The board sold half an acre of land to Richard Deaton on the old air base, opposite the White Repair Service building.

It approved purchase of papers for the volunteer fire department at an approximate cost of $2,500. The board was told the present telephone system, costing about $1,800 per year, can be eliminated, so that cost of the papers can be recovered within two years.

WE CARE MORE ABOUT BUSINESS ON MAIN STREET THAN ON WALL STREET.

Bank of Halls

Let's face it. The big financial networks pay much more attention to international economic trends than they do to what's happening here. If you're trying to get a small business loan from a financial network maybe you got the feeling they didn't really care about your individual needs. To them small loans and small businesses are peanuts.

Our independent Bank makes its business loans right here in the community we serve. We understand the importance of your business and we respond to your individual needs. The next time you need a hand... turn to the bank that understands and is proud to share in what happens on Main Street. Our local independent Bank.

You Know Us. We Know You.

Building Reserve For Feeder Sales

By Jerry Parker
County Directors to the Brownsville Feeder Sales Board, Russell Evans, Jr., James Koonce, Terry Kelly report that the Board has voted to withhold 10 cents per pig and 50 cents per feeder calf marketed at Brownsville. They report that these funds, while not reducing producer returns to any great degree, will be used to build an escrow account to protect producers should buyers give bad checks.

The account shall never exceed $100,000 and will take several years to attain. Also, the accounts will never be used for any other purpose than to protect the seller of pigs and cattle.

The local directors encourage county producers to utilize this sale and realize greater returns from their livestock. The Brownsville sale is unique to this area in that it is producer owned and operated. Premium returns are received from uniformly graded and weighed lots of pigs and cattle.

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

Among those items relating to the budget over which there is great disagreement are funds that have been earmarked for various medical research projects. The Office of Management and Budget announced recently that it was not going to use all the funds which Congress specifically appropriated for medical research in this fiscal year. Last year, when the research money was being discussed in the Congress, both the House and Senate passed legislation calling for spending $200 million on about 6,500 medical research projects. OMB's decision essentially said that only 5,000 such grants would be awarded and the remaining funds simply not spent.

This decision has been contested by those in the Congress who sit on committees with jurisdiction over research funds and has been objected to by those in the scientific community. Those objections are raised for good reason—both legal and practical. From a legal standpoint, the Congress specifically directed that these grants be awarded. From a practical standpoint, history tells us that, as research is curtailed, our nation's ability to develop new drugs and therapies to treat various diseases also declines. Furthermore, the loss of these grant funds will surely result in the loss of talented scientists and remove the incentive for promising young researchers to practice their vocation.

There have been repeated criticisms of apparent research projects that, on the surface, do not appear to have merit. Those projects are not funded through these funds. The funds in question now are administered through the National Institutes of Health and deal with various biomedical research projects. All of them are aimed at searching for new ways to fight diseases in this country.

This is an important issue that relates to the general health of the American people. It should not be viewed in political terms. Health is not a political issue. The actions of the office of Management and Budget, however, raise serious questions about that agency's commitment to insuring long term attempts to battle the deadly diseases that confront us.

The research undertaken in the 1960's is paying great dividends today in new drugs, therapies, and treatments. It has been among the reasons that the quality of life and the general health of our people is so greatly improved over what it was 20 years ago. That kind of progress takes the long term commitment that Congress intended when it passed last year's legislation.

There is no question that there is great need to address the budget deficit issue and take some action that will start on a trend that will lower it and eventually eliminate it. However, in doing so, there must be some priorities established so that goal is accomplished in a systematic but rational way. To just start reducing funding is every

Road Not Easy For Halls Nine

The Halls Tigers last week found playing on the road a big hurdle, winning only two of five games.

In Greenfield Monday, the Tigers won 6-0, Benjie Goodwin in second win of the season. Benjie Belton pitched the last two innings.

They allowed five hits, struck out nine, and walked five. Richard Voss got two of the four Tiger hits and drove in two runs.

Keith Barlow and Jason Binkley got the other Tiger hits.

Tuesday, Ripley evened the score for the year with an 8-6 win, racking up all eight runs in the third inning.

Terry Lents was the starting pitcher, with Belton relieving in the sixth.

Gary Fain, Travis Lane, and Michael Norfolk were on the mound for Ripley.

Leading Halls hitters were Dickie Deaton and Ricky Harrison, with two each.

Steven Coleman and Blaine Bushmani led Ripley, with a double and a single each.

In a hit-fest Wednesday in Newbern, the Tigers defeated the Dyer County Choctaws 18-13, banging out 14 hits, with Ricky Harrison as the starting pitcher.

Belton and Lents also saw time on the mound, with Belton getting credit for the win.

Belton led the Tigers with four hits, Harrison, Monty McWilliams, Binkley, and Goodwin each hit safely twice. Barlow added a home run, and Voss got a single.

In Kenton Thursday, the Tigers lost 11-8. Goodwin was relieved in the second by Jimmy Clark, after he developed arm problems.

Goodwin and Barlow led Tigers hitters with three each.

Friday, the Tigers lost at Sharon 11-10. Control problems kept tiger hitters in trouble throughout the game. They walked 12 and hit three batters.

Harrison, Belton and Lents allowed only four hits and struck out 13, but the lack of control was fatal.

Goodwin and Lents had home runs for the Tigers.

Deana Siegler, assistant band director, will be mistress of ceremonies. Refreshments will be served.

Twenty dollar donations have been received from Sammie Arnold and Joe Jacobs to excuse them from the revue.

Charest Leaves Tupperware Co.

Roger Charest, manager of Halls' Tupperware Co. plant, was terminated last week, after 24 years with the plastic molding company.

Charest came to Halls from the Rhode Island plant in August, 1968, as assistant plant manager, and was named plant manager in March, 1974, when then plant manager Phil Balcom was moved to Idaho.

Charest said Monday he has no immediate plans, other than a short vacation, but hopes to remain in Halls.

Assistant plant manager Leslie Newman has been named acting manager.

Tupperware officials have not issued a statement.

CONFIDENTIAL CORNER

By Henry Murchison

Old Dog, New Tricks

Your editor doesn't really have any quarrel with the proposed law requiring the wearing of seat belts, but we do wonder just how difficult it is going to be for some of us to learn to wear them.

There can be no doubt that wearing seat belts reduces traffic fatalities and also cuts down on serious injuries, but a lifetime without wearing the belts is difficult to change.

Long before any regulation requiring the wearing of seat belts was proposed, we started trying to learn to wear them, but we found them irritating, and also, we had difficulty in remembering to fasten them.

We're certain many older drivers are going to have the same problems that we anticipate, but, nevertheless, a mandatory seat belt law will probably be a good law.

Never mind the cries about personal choice—there are some drivers who prefer to drink and drive and others who even prefer driving on the wrong side of the road!

SHOTS POSTPONED

The County Health Department will postpone fourth and fifth doses of diphtheria-tetanus-pertussis immunizations, usually given at 15 to 18 months and at the age of four, until a nationwide shortage of the vaccine is ended, perhaps not until the end of the year.

The department will issue a temporary Certificate of Immunization to show the child will be recalled when vaccine is available.

Chairman

As we recall, the pastor of Halls Methodist Church when we moved to Halls in 1923, and at least soon afterwards, was a Rev. Yates. We don't remember any of the names, but we do remember that one of the boys was a classmate. There were younger children.

Does anyone remember the Yates family?

Mower Clips Dr. Stallings

Dr. Morris Stallings, of Dyersburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stallings, of Halls, was severely injured Tuesday of last week while mowing the lawn at his home.

Dr. Stallings lost the big toe and second toe and damaged a third toe on his right foot when his foot slipped as he attempted to pull a power mower backwards, out of a hole.

He had surgery in Campbell's Clinic in Memphis, returning home Thursday.

En route home, Dr. Stallings discovered a 4-inch slit in his left chest.

U-T ALUMNI MEET

Vernon McBride, president of the county chapter of University of Tennessee alumni, invites friends of UT to a dinner meeting at 7 p.m. April 30th in the Golden Hawaiian Restaurant in Ripley ($8), to him on Route 6, Ripley.

Dr. Bob Hathcock, of the UT-Martin agriculture faculty, will speak.

Craig Fitzhugh is vice-president; Michelle Griner secretary-treasurer.

The scooter was invented by a 15-year-old London schoolboy, Walter Liles, in 1897. But he didn't take out a patent. His father didn't think it would catch on.

Hurler

DAVID MCCORKLE, son of Dr. and Mrs. Hutson McCorkle, of Orlando, Fla., and grandson of Mrs. H. G. McCorkle, of Halls, has compiled a 11-0 pitching record for the South Florida College Moccasins, of Lakeland, through March. A 6 ft. 2-inch, 180-lb. right hander, McCorkle began playing baseball in Little League, making the all-star teams. His team defeated Miami for the state high school championship during his senior year in high school. The Moccasins are now ranked No. 1 in College Division II, leading the Sunshine State Conference. Last year, they finished second in the Division II College World Series in Riverside, Calif. McCorkle pitched and won a game over the University of Tennessee at Knoxville, striking out 12 hitters. David hopes to play professional baseball after his college career ends this year.

A Plea To Voters

Usually, by this time, I have made my rounds, seeing you to ask for your vote in the upcoming City Election (May 2, 1985). About the time I had scheduled myself to start, I had two jaw teeth that were causing me a lot of discomfort. I finally had to have root canals done, and it has been an effort to open my mouth—then, to multiply that, I have had an unusual number of deaths.

At this point, it looks as if time is not going to permit my getting around to seeing all, so please accept this as asking you to please vote for me, it will be greatly appreciated. As all of you know, I am for Halls 100%—its well being and its future. I have already spent about 40 years here and hope to have that many more. As your personal Funeral Director for the past many, many years all of you know my capabilities. Your vote appreciated.

Sincerely Yours,

Noel Sherrod

Times Are Tough In Halls

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

The Town seems to be full of empty buildings. Stores that once thrived are going out of business. Factories are laying off, or even shutting down entirely. The unemployment rate for Halls is over 14%. That is about 5% higher than the state average, and almost twice as high as the national rate. No new industry has come to Halls since 1982 when Crafcro began operating. The town has lost around 300 jobs in the last 5 years.

What Can Be Done?

In 1967 Sammie Arnold was elected as alderman of Halls, and in 1969 he was elected as mayor, in which capacity he served except for about 1 1/2 years until 1981. During his years of service to the town, Halls saw many positive things take place. As alderman and mayor he gave leadership in bringing hundreds of new jobs to Halls. As a result of Mayor Arnold's countless hours of negotiations, the town received approximately 3 million dollars in state and federal grants, resulting in the upgrading of a condemned sewer system, the repair of streets and bridges, building renovations for the Senior Citizens Center, and extensive home repairs. Halls saw the construction of its present City Hall and fire station and the addition to the water plant. The medical clinic and the police and ambulance stations were built. Not only were much needed improvements made on the town's two existing parks, but a new one—Crichfield Park—was built as well. In 1967, '68, and '69, Halls won the Commercial Appeal Honor Awards for providing new job opportunities, through an outstanding program of economic development. Halls received the 1977 Municipal Achievement Award for excellence in small city progress, and in 1978, Halls received the Mid-South Industrial Award for Tupperware.

Church Vows Said

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Todd Taylor were married March 23rd in Macedonia Baptist Church at Edith, with The Rev. Virgil Presley, pastor of Second Baptist Church in Dyersburg, officiating in double ring vows in the glow of white tapers in an arched candelabrum flanked by spiral and tree candelabra dressed with jade foliage and baskets of white gladioli and greenery in brass stands.

Mothers' pews were marked with white glads in greenery. Candles in greenery and satin ribbons adorned four windows.

The bride, Tracie Darlene Dawson, was given by her father, The Rev. Jerrell Dawson, of Edith, who blessed the couple in prayer.

The bride wore a traditional gown of white tulle, its fitted V-neckline, front and rear, accented with a beaded chignon ruffle, and over-laid with a ruffled collar of lace on chiffon.

Lace accented the natural waist-line and sleeves, puffed at the shoulders, tightly banded by lace at the wrists.

She carried a cascade of miniature roses in many hues, baby's breath, and sprenger, with white satin ribbons.

Her sister, Rhonda, was maid of honor, in a pastel green gown by Biljoy, whose fitted bodice had a wide ruffle forming shoulder straps, with little puffed sleeves and a rose at the right, where a bow was tied.

She carried a bouquet of miniature pastel green roses, with baby's breath, sprenger, and white satin ribbons, bouquets matched in gowns and rose colors by other bridal attendants, the groom's sister, Tonya, of Halls, in blue, Sonya Braddy, of Dyersburg, in pink, and Wendy Valadez, of Ripley, in yellow.

The groom, in a white-tailed tuxedo, had his father, Jimmy E. Taylor, of Halls, as best man, in a pastel green bow-tie, bestman, and bestman; those accessories for groomsmen were pastel blue, for Quinn Perry, of Halls, pink, for the groom's uncle, James Val Smith, of Memphis, yellow, for John Coleman, of Huntington, and lavender, for ring bearer Jacob Kitchens, of Bear, who carried a white satin pillow embroidered with lace.

The bride's mother made the dress, with white satin bows at neck and hem lines, in which the groom's cousin, April, daughter of the Eric Dowell, carried a white basket of bridal flowers.

Eric Dowell, Mike Jacobs, and Darrin Thurmond, in champagne tuxedos and vests, lit candles.

The bride's mother wore a full-length dress of pastel blue crepe and chiffon, with blouson bodice and chiffon sleeves split mid-length. Fall skirt was tucked.

The groom's mother, Jean, wore a full-length dress of mauve crepe, fitted bodice topped in chiffon, with split short sleeves.

Each mother wore a white cymidium corsage with greenery.

For the reception in the church, satin bows in pastel shades trimmed a white lace cloth, over pink, on the bride's table. Pink roses, yellow daisies, and leather-leaf tips encircled a 3-tier cake with a pink fountain between tiers and a nuptial couple encircled by yellow and white daisies and green leaves. The table also held a crystal punch bowl and matching cups, silver nut and mint bowls, and an arrangement of multi-colored flowers.

The groom's table, similarly draped, held a cake with a farm scene in chocolate. Serving were the bride's cousin, Monica Daniels, and the groom's cousin, Jill Smith, of Memphis, Suzanne Hinson and Sharon Williams, of Dyersburg, and Tammy Johns, of Halls. Rice-filled satin roses and bells were distributed to guests.

The newlyweds are residing on Highway 88 near Halls.

Memphis Area Farmer Mart?

By Charles T. Peal

A proposed farmers market plan for the Memphis Area was outlined by Keith Harrison, market developer for the State Dept. of Agriculture, in a meeting at the Shelby County Extension Office Thursday. This proposed market would service the entire Mid-South Area. Space is being made available on the Shelby County Penal Farm near the Agri-Center. The site as proposed would be at the end of Walnut Grove Road giving access to the 240 Interstate and the highway through the penal farm would give access from the Germantown Area. There is a big segment of population in these general areas such as Germantown, Bartlett, and other areas where consumers might purchase products produced and marketed by our local farmers.

Jimmie Sumnar, Lawson Elder, and Charles Peal represented the Lauderdale producers in this meeting. Jimmie Sumnar said, "Our farmers small, medium and large need a market of this type in order to successfully sell and receive reasonable prices. The existing markets do not quite fill the bill." Jimmie also feels that this would not only need to be a retail market for housewives but also a wholesale market connecting the various farmers' markets throughout the state.

Lauderdale County this year has around 100 growers of vegetables that we know of. Many who have talked to us this winter about growing vegetables seemed to be concerned only with the production phases. Needless to say a market plan is just as important as producing. Small farmers with a pickup load of produce have not been able to a price comparable to quality and production cost. This type of market has been working quite well in Dallas, Asheville, N. C. and other cities of the Memphis.

Growers from Shelby County, Tipton and Hardeman were present at the meeting and all expressed the need for this market. Keith Harrison explained the need for the market. He said the pole type barn to which the produce growers could bring their produce on the trucks and be able to park in the shade. An association with a membership arrangement, a charge for stalls, or a portion of the gross proceeds for each person who marketed would help to defray the expense of the building and manager for the market place. The group plans to meet in two weeks to formally decide on plans and procedures for the market.

Pacer

LORI CARTER, daughter of Larry M. Carter, of Martin, and Mrs. Patsy Atkinson, of Halls, is on the University of Tennessee in Martin softball team. The Lady Pacers are aiming for their first Gulf South Conference title. Lori is a freshman.

We invite comment from growers throughout Lauderdale County as to whether they would like to have the organization and/or market structure of this nature on the Shelby County Penal Farm. We will convey the thinking of our producers at the meeting. It will certainly have a bearing as to whether or not this farmers market will come about. Lauderdale County produces supply about 60% of the produce marketed through the Scott's Super Market at the present.

Sewing Is Program Subject For Group

Gloria Burroughs, clothing leader, spoke on "Sew or Not to Sew" when the Heritage Extension Homemakers Club met Tuesday of last week in Halls Community Center, with 10 members present. Mrs. Patricia Galloway was a visitor.

Janice Foley, president, called the meeting to order. Corinne Roark led the devotion. Roll was answered with new products tried. Angie Terry, secretary, read the minutes. Ima Webb gave the treasurer's report.

It was announced that Betty McCaslin won the quilt given away at the Flea Market.

A "Kitty Fund" was started to sending food or flowers to club members' families, with Corinne Roark as chairman.

Patsy Atkinson spoke briefly on wall coverings.

A pierced lampshade workshop was set for May 7th.

Refreshments were served by Juanita Elmore and Janice Foley.

Next meeting will be at 7 p.m. May 21st in Halls Community Center.

may become infested, the entomologist emphasizes. Natural finishes on wood, unpainted surfaces, and peeling paint are preferred nesting sites.

Painting and sealing the wood or using wood preservatives will make the wood less attractive to the bees. Rodding the holes to break up the nest in the fall will reduce over-wintering populations.

A five percent Sevin dust can be blown into the tunnels with a puff gun. Sprays of one percent Diazinon or Duraban can be used on the surface of infested wood to prevent bees cutting entrance holes into the wood.

It's believed that golden-rood growing near a house means the residents will have unexpected good fortune.

Education is a life-long process, not something which can be obtained while the child is in school. However, it is important that the child be given a good foundation in the early years of his life. The Brave Engineer From Jackson

Even as a boy in Cayce, Kentucky, Jonathan Luther Jones was in love with trains. In 1878, at the age of 15, "Casey" Jones went to work for the Mobile and Ohio line as an apprentice telegrapher. By 1890, he had reached the pinnacle of his profession as a locomotive engineer with the Illinois Central Railroad.

It was a natural talent for Casey Jones, and he quickly became recognized by his peers as one of the crack locomotive engineers in the railroad business.

On the night of April 29, 1900, Casey Jones began a ride which would carry him into the exalted realm of America's folk legends.

It began innocently enough with a request from his supervisor.

Casey had just completed a run into Memphis for the Illinois Central and was preparing to return to his wife and family in nearby Jackson, Tennessee, when he was asked to fill in for a sick engineer on a 150-mile run from Memphis to Canton, Mississippi.

The train was scheduled to leave Memphis at 11:15 p.m., but it was not until 12:50 a.m. that Casey pulled his train out of the Memphis station. He was behind schedule.

Jones' highballing Illinois Central Train Number One had made up some of the lost time when he reached the little town of Vaughan, Mississippi. It was there that his fireman, Sam Webb, suddenly spotted a caboose and three cars of a stalled train on the main track ahead. Webb shouted a warning to his engineer and leaped for his life from the speeding locomotive. Casey, however, chose to stay with his train to the end in a desperate effort to avoid the crash which would become the most famous of the American public in a ballad written by engineer Wallace Saunders in what is regarded as the most popular American ballad ever written.

"Between two and three o'clock in the morning we woke up and my daddy asked my mother, 'What was that terrible noise?' We waited a while, and finally we heard voices coming from down at my uncle's house. My daddy went out on the porch and asked him what had happened. He said there had been a terrible train wreck and the engineer was killed and for my daddy to come down there."

"I got into my clothes because I thought I could catch up with him, but I had a hard time getting down there. When I did get down there, I heard my daddy say that he was going to Canton to get a casket for Casey Jones."

"They built a fire right there beside the engine. People were standing around the fire talking. It was so dark they had to make the fire to see by. You couldn't even see the engine without the firelight."

"The engine was leaning up against a high bank on either side of the track. It looked like something had fallen on it from above and crushed it. Wood was scattered around everywhere."

"There were two tramps standing by the wreck laughing. They weren't hurt even though they had been riding the rails with Casey on the train that night. I stayed on until daylight. It was afraid to go back home by myself in the dark. I thought my daddy would come, but he and my uncle had gone to Canton to get the casket."

Casey Jones was the only casualty of the accident which was to become the most famous train wreck of all time. The story of Casey Jones' valiant effort to avoid the crash reached the hearts of the American public in a ballad written by engineer Wallace Saunders in what is regarded as the most popular American ballad ever written.

Museum

Casey Jones' home and museum is located at Casey Jones Village just off Interstate 40 at Jackson, Tennessee. The home, remaining much as it was when Casey and his family lived there, is surrounded by turn-of-the-century shops.

A focal point of Casey Jones Village is the Brooks Shaw and Son Old Country Store and Restaurant, which contains an impressive collection of antiques, including an authentic turn-of-the-century antique ice cream parlor.

Casey Jones Village is also the location of a second museum honoring another of Jackson's famous native sons, entertainer Carl Perkins, whose song "Blue Suede Shoes" helped to launch the rock and roll era of American music.
