Halls' Girls Back In The Sub-State

Halls High School's girls' basketball team (19-7) returned to sub-state play with a 60-52 victory Monday over Gleason (20-6).

Halls will play Bradford at 7 p.m. Thursday for the championship of the Region 7-A tournament in Greenfield.

Bradford and Halls split in regular season play, but Bradford led Halls, top-seeded in the District 14-A tournament, 67-49 to take its fifth straight title and its eighth in 10 years under head coach David Russell.

Halls won its debut in the regional Thursday of last week from Bruceton, 47-42.

Halls had led 17-8 after the first quarter and 27-14 in the second, before Bradford scored the last 10 points of the half to pull within three at half-time.

Halls scored five points in the final minute.

Kecia Miller hit two free throws with 56 seconds left to break a 42-all tie.

Gina Warren and Paula Hutcherson paced Halls scoring with 18 and 14 points, respectively.

consecutive baskets and Gina Warren's steal produced a lay-up.

Final Call For History Book

The county Historical Society has set a final deadline of April 1st for family, church, or community histories (volunteer historians needed) for book publication.

More than 250 family histories are in hand, and more than 200 books have been ordered.

Neal Ammons is writing a history of Asbury, Willie Mae (Mrs. Bill) Harmon that of the Open Lake area.

If you can help with a contribution or need help with your family history, contact Neal, 635-1942.

Time To Choose

Next Tuesday voters in 20 states will go to the polls to select delegates to the Democratic and Republican conventions on what has become known as Super Tuesday.

In addition to Tennessee other states participating in Super Tuesday are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Missouri, Nevada, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, Texas, Virginia, and Washington.

Super Tuesday is unique because it is the first time that so many delegates to the national conventions have been determined on the same day so early in the year. Whether or not the original idea behind Super Tuesday will be effective is yet to be determined. Voting on the same date was designed to give more clout to Southern states in naming presidential candidates.

Super Tuesday is unlikely to determine the two nominees but almost certainly will narrow the field to two or three candidates in both Republican and Democratic ranks.

Among the Republicans Vice President George Bush, Senator Bob Dole, and Evangelist Pat Robertson probably will be in the race until convention time. Governor Michael Dukakis, Rep. Richard Gephardt, and Jesse Jackson should be still in the race with the fate of Tennessee's Senator Gore probably being determined by Super Tuesday.

Other candidates may prove to be stronger than anticipated but it appears that those names are the leading candidates. March 8th will give Tennesseans an opportunity to support the presidential candidate of their choice. Take time to go to the polls and vote.

Halls Boys Bow To State Power

Halls High School's boys' basketball team (19-7) buried Palmersville, 97-61, in Region 7-A play in Greenfield before being edged Monday, 80-77, by Dresden, ranked second in the state by The Associated Press.

In action Friday, Halls led Palmersville 23-13 after the first period, 49-25 at the half, and 74-37 after three quarters, despite 41 points by Palmersville's Mark Hardy.

Derrick Cliff paced Halls with 28 points. Chuckie Nelson had 16, Chris Brown 15, and Dennis Brown 11.

Coach Winston Jarrett, going to his bench in the final period, was pleased with six points from freshman guard Louis Williams.

Halls First Led Lions

Halls led Dresden Monday, 12-4 and 18-11, before catching two technicals and seeing four free throws made.

But Dresden tied the score before the half and scored its last six points.

After a tie at 57, the Lions lagged 76-74 with 15 seconds left. Dresden's Peanut Winn hit two free throws.

Halls' Derrick Cliff posted a 3-pointer with seven seconds left.

Halls fouled to try to regain the ball, but Popeye Jones, Class A Mr. Basketball this season, made both tries.

Chris Smith missed a 3-point attempt at the horn which would have tied the tilt.

40-Year Pin

DALTON A. WESSON, of Toulon, Monday received from Gates Postmaster Peggy Hartman a pin recognizing 40 years of postal service. He entered the service as rural carrier in March, 1948.

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

President Reagan has recently submitted his 1989 budget proposal to Congress. Securing the budget into a workable solution is a very complex and complicated matter. Since the President has submitted his proposal, Congress will now begin the lengthy procedure of the authorization and appropriation process.

Each dollar that the federal government allocates comes from a variety of sources. Each dollar is divided into six unequal segments representing a percentage of that source. Twelve percent of each dollar spent comes from borrowing, 38 percent comes from individual income taxes and 32 percent comes from social insurance receipts. The remaining one-fourth of each revenue dollar includes 11 percent from corporation income taxes, 3 percent from excise taxes and the last 4 percent from a miscellaneous other category.

Where each dollar goes once it is obtained is quite another matter. It is the debate over how those dollars are spent that is the critical part of the budget discussion. Each year the President and the Congress must decide how to apportion funds to the various departments. Even in the midst of all the concern over necessary budget cuts, there are some departments which would be greatly hindered by a decrease.

In a brief summary of the FY89 budget allocations, agriculture programs would receive a total of $21.7 billion which represents nearly the same spending level as last year. 1989 defense-related outlays would total $294 billion which is a 2.8 percent increase over FY88 defense spending.

Federal funding for major education programs would total $37.4 billion which includes the Worker Readjustment Program, as well as Trade Adjustment Assistance. The 1989 request for the energy function is $3.1 billion with emphasis on military programs and high-technology research.

Natural resources and the environment would receive $16 billion and foreign affairs would receive $15.6 billion. The request for international affairs operations and foreign aid programs is down 1 percent from last year.

A total of $501.2 billion is requested for health, welfare and income-security programs. This includes Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid programs. Housing credit, commerce, and community development projects would receive $13.8 billion, which is a decrease of 26 percent from last year's budget.

For the administration of justice, which includes criminal and civil law enforcement, $9.9 billion has been allocated. Science, space and technology programs would receive $13.1 billion. This request would benefit the atom-smashing Superconducting Supercollider of which Tennessee is one of the seven sites picked for this project.

Big Truck Wheel Balancing

— Announcing The Arrival Of —

THE "STATE OF THE ART" IN ALIGNMENT EQUIPMENT

We now have the capability for Total Alignment on the following vehicles: Passenger Cars, Light Trucks, 4x4 Trucks, Farm and Grain Trucks, Step Vans, Motor Homes, School Buses, Over The Road Tractors and Trailers.

Four Wheel "Total Alignment"—Rear toe is measured and adjusted to factory specifications so the rear wheel thrust line coincides with the vehicle's geometric centerline. The front wheels are then aligned relative to the centerline/thrust line. This sets all four wheels straight ahead and parallel, and centers the steering wheel. Using four sensors, this can be accomplished without moving the sensors or the vehicle.

Thrust Line Alignment—Rear toe is measured (but not adjusted) to determine the rear wheel thrust line. The front wheels are then aligned relative to the thrust line. This sets all four wheels parallel and centers the steering wheel.

Geometric Centerline Alignment—Front wheels are aligned relative to the geometric centerline. If the rear wheels are not perfectly straight, the steering wheel will not be level and the steering system will be off center.

HERE IS THE OPPORTUNITY TO LOCALLY TAKE CARE OF YOUR ALIGNMENT NEEDS.

Is It Time for Computer on Your Farm?

by Larry A. Johnson
Assistant Professor
Agricultural Economics
& Resource Development
University of Tennessee

"Is it time for my old dairy cow to enter the computer age?"
"Should I get a personal computer to help me get a little better handle on my production costs?"

These are the types of questions many farmers are asking themselves. In many cases the answer is, "Yes."
Computers are becoming less expensive and more powerful. The programs that run on the computer are getting easier to use. With many programs available today, all you need to know is how to turn on the computer.

Computers are used primarily to make tasks easier and help make decisions. For example, there are record keeping programs which keep track of all receipts and expenses. The program will then produce financial statements, such as profit and loss statements.

There are programs for livestock producers that balance feed rations, keep production records and set up production schedules.

There are programs available for row-crop farmers that help with decisions about participating in government programs. Other programs assist with grain or cotton marketing, storage and determining when to spray. Computers also allow users to ask "what if" types of questions.

Computers, however, are not human and they cannot sit on a table and operate themselves. They can only analyze the information they are given. An old saying sums it up—"Garbage in, garbage out." So, you must keep good records and enter accurate information.

You may ask, "How much does all this cost?"
The answer depends upon what you need and how much you are willing to do yourself.

Most farmers have the misconception that the smaller computers are easier to use. That is not quite true. The larger computers are able to hold larger computer programs. The larger programs are generally easier to use because much of what the user needs to do is already written into the program.

There are many different types of computer programs. Some are free and some are very expensive. In most cases you get what you pay for. If you are interested in a computer for your farm, you should begin by listening, studying, and talking to those who already have computers. You may also want to contact your county agent office for more information.

Testing Boosts Profitability of Feeder Pigs

by Ralph F. Hall, D.V.M.
Professor
Extension Veterinary Medicine
Agricultural Extension Service
University of Tennessee

Having feeder pig herds tested for pseudorabies can mean dollars in your pocket.

Pseudorabies, a serious disease affecting all ages of pigs, is a big concern in other states. To assure that feeder pigs moving into these states do not carry the virus of this disease, many of the states require that the herds producing these pigs be tested and found free of the disease.

Tennessee livestock producers derive a good share of their income from sales of feeder calves and pigs. In 1986 more than half of the feeder pigs produced in the state went to other states for finishing. Almost 300,000 feeder pigs having a value of $11 million were shipped last year.

If markets in other states were to be lost due to restrictions because of pseudorabies, these herds would have much reduced value. This would greatly reduce the income for Tennessee feeder pig producers.

A pseudorabies testing program for feeder pig producers was begun in Tennessee in early 1987. It has enhanced the value of Tennessee feeder pigs markedly.

People at all county Extension offices can discuss these and other issues with their county agents.

Crop Price Risk Can Be Managed

by Charles M. Farmer
Professor
Agricultural Economics
& Resource Development
Agricultural Extension Service
University of Tennessee

As farm business operations become larger, the need to manage the risk associated with adverse price changes also increases.

The more important methods for managing this type of risk are considered below.

USDA commodity programs — Participation in the feed grain, wheat and/or cotton program can provide protection against major price declines. Lower market prices are largely offset by higher deficiency payment rates (and vice-versa).

Forward pricing — When developing annual and long-run farm plans, consider both risk levels and income potential. Reduce price risk by shifting to enterprises which involve less risk. Corn prices, for example, are more predictable than fresh-market cabbage prices. Unfortunately, many crops having low price variability also have lower net income potential.

Diversification — Price cycles vary by commodity, which means that low prices for one or more crops may often be offset by above-normal prices for other crops. Growers, though, should be careful not to sacrifice production and marketing efficiency just to gain what may be small benefits from diversification.

Flexibility — Farm managers may want to build as much flexibility as practical in the production-marketing phase of their farming operation to take advantage of good profit opportunities when offered.

Crop production-marketing plan — This plan will provide guidance and discipline in a "price wilderness." Develop this plan around the operation's resource base, financial position, cash flow needs, and risk preference. A good plan calls attention to attractive prices when offered. The plan will also help manage price risk and improve net farm income over a period of years.

New Grade of Beef Is Coming

by Curtis Melton
Professor
Food Technology & Science
Agricultural Extension Service
University of Tennessee

A new grade of beef will soon be found in meat cases across the nation.

Actually it will only be a new name for a grade that consumers have shunned in the past because its name implied mediocrity.

In November, the U.S. Department of Agriculture changed the "USDA Good" grade for beef to "USDA Select."

Various consumer and health groups had sought this change in the hope that shoppers would choose this lean, lower-calorie beef, rather than the more heavily marbled "Choice" and "Prime" grades.

Ellen Haas, director of Public Voice for Food and Health Policy, said that the "Good" grade implied lower value than the "Prime" and "Choice" grades. The "Select" name should be more appealing.

Supporting the change were the National Cattlemen's Association, the American Meat Institute, the American Heart Association and the American Cancer Society.

Many consumers prefer the "Prime" and "Choice" grades because of their greater tenderness and juiciness, partially due to more marbling or fat within the muscle.

Other consumers, however, are willing to sacrifice quality in an effort to decrease calories from fat, according to a recent national survey.

This name change will offer greater marketing opportunities and more efficient production of beef.

If consumers respond favorably and raise the demand for "Select" beef, feedlot operators will use cattle for shorter periods, using less feed.

USDA will cooperate with educators, consumer groups and industry to provide information regarding the new "USDA Select" beef grade.

Count Your Trees

by George Hopper
Associate Professor
Forestry, Wildlife & Fisheries
Agricultural Extension Service
University of Tennessee

Most forest landowners in Tennessee do not know how many trees they own. But, it is a tree count that gives you the value of your woodland.

Tree counts are similar to knowing the number of head in a livestock herd. Future sales and management begin and end with knowing how many units, either cattle or trees, you own.

You should record the number of trees of each species. Usually the tree count also reflects the size of the trees. For example, with a tree count you would be able to tell a prospective buyer, "I have 150 white oak trees, 14-20 inches in diameter; 135 red oak trees, 16-22 inches; 45 yellow poplar trees, 10-14 inches; and 80 miscellaneous trees of ash, walnut, sweet gum and hickory."

With this information, you can calculate rough estimates of timber value from current Tennessee price lists.

Best of all, the basic inventory gives you the data you need to plan future harvest schedules. By having the tree count for each species and size class, you can determine the best strategy for harvesting a particular species when market conditions are most favorable.

Also, forest land planning prevents spur-of-the-moment decisions on timber sales that often result in abusive harvesting.

Inventory records are the first step to forest management. You can use inventory as a method to judge growth and growth rate. Use these annual timber production figures to determine when a stand needs to be thinned.

Finally, inventory establishes timber value separate from land value. Many land sales are underpriced because the timber has not been included in the appraisal value.

Count your trees. Tree counting is simple in the winter since the leaves are off the trees. Ask a forester for help. But, get started on your forest inventory now.

Keeping Records Makes Sense

by Alvin E. Wade
Assistant Professor
Agricultural Economics
& Resource Development
Agricultural Extension Service
Tennessee State University

Keeping good records of what has happened on the farm provides the information needed for future planning.

To know where they are going, farm operators must know their current position. And to reach a financial goal, they must have a set course and landmarks along the way to guide them. This is the role of records.

There are at least five reasons for having a record system:

- to comply with tax reporting requirements and to assist in tax planning and management
- to measure financial success and progress of the business over time
- to establish a factual basis for comparisons with past years, with goals that have been set and with the performance of other comparable operations
- to aid in planning for the future by providing data that will help to estimate the effects of operational changes on economic conditions of the business
- to aid in obtaining credit

In financing agriculture, good farm records are becoming increasingly important. Credit is based in part on the ability of the borrower to repay money. Lenders expect their borrowers to keep adequate records that will show that their businesses are on sound financial footing and that their operations are or will produce satisfactory income.

The cost of wrong decisions is growing. Using records in decision making is just another tool to help minimize wrong decisions and their consequences.

Livestock producers are often confronted with the decision of whether to market this month, next month or some later time.

A study of monthly feeder and slaughter livestock prices for the past 16 years has revealed some very reliable trends, and some which were not so reliable.

For example, 15 out of the last 16 years, prices for medium-frame No. 1 feeder steers have increased from January to February. That is 94 percent of the time and a very reliable trend. Prices over that 16-year period averaged going up $3.77 per hundred pounds. The one year that prices declined, they dropped $3.66 per hundred pounds.

In contrast to this definite trend, the average price increase from July to August has been less predictable. Nine years, or 56 percent of the time, prices increased by an average of $2.97. Seven years, or 44 percent of the time, prices declined by an average of $0.91 per hundred pounds.

Overall prices averaged increasing $1.27 per hundred pounds from July to August, but this uptrend in price is certainly less reliable than the January-February trend.

Better Grade Pigs Mean More Money

by Glenn E. Conatser
Professor & Leader
Extension Swine
Agricultural Extension Service
University of Tennessee

Producing pigs with a better grade means money in the pocket of the swine producer.

Producers who are able to market most of their pigs as grade number 1 receive more money than producers whose pigs are grade 3 or below.

Pigs that grade number 1 and 2 are desirable pigs that return more money to the producer. In general, they will perform better for the feeder who purchases them.

Pigs that grade 3 or below are often mismanaged pigs that are infested with internal parasites and have not received adequate nutrition.

Tennessee has been an important producer of feeder pigs for the past 25 years. There are about 7,000 feeder pig producers in Tennessee that market between 500,000 and 600,000 pigs each year through the 12 organized sale locations in the state.

Pigs marketed through the organized sales are sold on the basis of weight and U.S. Department of Agriculture grade.

This past year, about 55 percent of the pigs sold graded number 1 (top grade), 29 percent graded number 2 and 17 percent graded number 3 or lower.

Producers who sell 16 grade 3 pigs per year from their sows can increase their income by $146.88 per sow simply by increasing the grade to number 1 (based on 45-pound selling weight).

In production, well better grading pigs, producers must have better genetics, better nutrition and better disease and parasite control.

If producers in Tennessee could eliminate the pigs grading below 2, it would increase their income by at least $600,000 yearly.

Time Sales to Maximize Your Profits

by Emmit L. Rawls

Overall prices averaged increasing $1.27 per hundred pounds from July to August, but this uptrend in price is certainly less reliable than the January-February trend.

Cost of production and value of the added gain also need to be considered in making short-term marketing decisions.

Livestock producers desiring information on monthly price changes should obtain a copy of Extension Publication 1203, "Month-to-Month Price Changes for Feeder and Slaughter Livestock." The publication also includes a procedure for making short-run price decisions on whether to sell this month or in the future.

Herbs Require Care to Keep Their Taste

by L.E. McCarty
Professor
Food Technology & Science
Agricultural Extension Service
University of Tennessee

The way you handle herbs can affect their flavors.

The essential oils that give herbs their flavor break down when exposed to sunlight, heat and moisture. So, your method of harvesting and preservation can adversely affect them.

Herbs are ready to harvest when the first flowers burst open. The essential oil content peaks at this time.

Harvest the herbs in the early morning after the dew has evaporated, but before the sun is too bright.

Mishandling herbs during harvesting and preparation for drying leads to rapid evaporation of the oils and a lessening of quality.

Drying is the easiest method of preserving herbs.

Simply expose the herbs to warm, dry air in a shaded, well-ventilated area until the moisture evaporates. The ideal drying temperature is 80-85 F. Temperatures above 90 degrees cause evaporation or chemical changes of the essential oils.

Dry long-stemmed herbs in bunches. Tie the stem ends together into small bunches and hang them upside down in a warm, dry, shaded area.

Tray drying is best for seeds, large-leaved herbs, short-stemmed herbs and herb roots. Spread herbs one layer deep on trays. Stir or turn them daily to assure uniform and thorough drying.

Air circulation is essential in both hand and tray drying. When drying herbs outside, cover them with cheese cloth to protect them from airborne contamination.

Drying takes one to two weeks. When the leaves are crispy dry and crumble easily in the fingers, they are ready to be packaged and stored.

Place herbs in air- and moisture-proof containers and store in cool, dry, dark areas to protect color and fragrance.

Properly packaged herbs will retain good quality for up to two years.

No Certain Weed Killer Is the Best

by Elmer L. Ashburn
Professor
Plant & Soil Science
Agricultural Extension Service
University of Tennessee

There is no "best" weed killer for everyone. Some may be too expensive, while others may be inexpensive but too time-consuming.

For example, some producers of large acreages of row crops may have become too dependent on herbicides. If producers need three or more herbicides to control the problem weeds in a field, perhaps they should consider cultivation as an alternative.

Cultivation could replace one or more chemical applications, or it could reduce the amount of chemical needed by applying herbicides only on the crop row.

Cultivation, by itself, may not be a feasible means of weed control on some farms. Susceptibility of soils to erosion, unpredictable weather and time requirements dictate that herbicides be used to some degree in most row crops.

The "best" weed control program for most row-crop farmers is not simply chemicals or cultural. Instead, combine cultural practices, such as timely cultivation or no-till farming, with the use of proven herbicides. The combination will normally result in the best overall weed control for your dollar.

In order to determine your best weed control program, you should first determine what major weed problems to expect. Then, consider all herbicide options and determine which ones do the best job of controlling your particular weeds. Next, you should decide whether cultivation is a reasonable substitute for controlling some of your weeds.

Improve Profits in Soybeans

by Wayne T. Flinchum
Professor
Plant & Soil Science
Agricultural Extension Service
University of Tennessee

Tennessee soybean producers must be more efficient in 1988 to survive economically.

They must improve their profitability by reducing cost and improving yields.

Producers should select only those fields that can produce yields high enough to cover variable costs. Listed below are several short-run recommendations that will reduce variable cost.

Take a soil sample for each field to be planted and send it to the University of Tennessee Soil Test Laboratory for analysis. Unless soil phosphorus is extremely low, recommended amounts of phosphate can be reduced or eliminated without lowering yields.

If the soil pH is 5.6-6.1, use a molybdenum seed treatment at 0.2 ounces per bushel of seed as a substitute for lime. When soil pH level is 5.0-5.5, a molybdenum seed treatment may replace half of the lime recommended.

Apply potash according to soil test recommendations, but do not apply nitrogen to soybeans.

Identify weed problems for each field and select the most economical herbicide program for each field. For example, banding pre-emergence and post-emergence herbicides over the row or post-directing herbicides will reduce chemical costs.

Plant recommended varieties in each field according to its yield potential, disease problems and resistance to nematodes.

If the race or races of nematodes are not known, take a one-gallon soil sample and submit it to the University of Tennessee Diagnostic Laboratory in Nashville. Cyst nematodes can drastically reduce yields in fields planted with a susceptible soybean variety.

Once a variety has been selected, adjust the planter to use the recommended number of seeds per foot of row at the row spacing used. Many producers use too many seeds per foot of row, which results in lower yields and increased seed cost.

Can be seen through mammography

The unfortunate truth is that almost one in ten women will eventually develop breast cancer. Early detection greatly increases the ability to successfully treat and cure a patient. Mammography is the best means of early detection.

This screen is for women with no lumps and no prior history of breast disease. If you have a lump or any history of breast disease, we suggest you consult your family physician and talk to him about a possible diagnostic mammogram which can also be performed at BMH-Lauderdale.

CONFIDENTIAL CORNER

Pay More, Get Less
The U.S. Postal Service announced last week that first class postage stamps will advance in price to 25¢ from the present 22¢. We have not seen a complete breakdown of the overall postage increases, but historically, newspaper and magazine postage costs have advanced at the same time but the powerful bulk mailers lobby has held down additional costs on so-called "junk" mail.
The increase comes after Congress refused to continue a 1.2 billion dollar subsidy. The USPS had already announced the cancelling of $800,000,000 in new construction, cut-back of service hours at post offices and no Sunday mail pick-ups.
Since the new post office opened in Halls in January, we have heard some complaint about the new location but far more concerning the change from 8 a.m. window opening time to 8:30 and the two hours of service time on Saturdays.
Many business men had made a practice of picking up their mail as they went to work, but now a second trip is required, or they arrive at their business 30 minutes later, which many find inconvenient.
We realize that a 1.2 billion dollar cut is a serious blow, but we suspect that some of the changes are an effort to blackmail the Congress into renewing the subsidy.

Personal Thoughts
Halls' Lady Tigers, despite two heart breaking losses last week, should be walking around with their heads high in the air after an outstanding season. After several years of frustration, some winless, the Lady Tigers lost Thursday evening of last week by one point to Bradford in Region 7-A finals and then were defeated Saturday 42-40 by Jackson University School in sub-state play. The amazing feature of this team is that every starter is returning next year. Our hat is off to the Lady Tigers and Coach Bobby Cain.
While we are praising the Lady Tigers, we should recognize that the Tigers also had an outstanding season before losing to Dresden, second ranked in the state, by 3 points in the region semi-finals. Coach Winston Jarrett will also have the nucleus of a good team returning next year. So the basketball program looks good at Halls High School.
Halls residents were proud of Becca Stolarick, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bob Stolarick, as she sang in the Epilepsy Foundation selection Saturday from Halls High School. Becca is a crowd pleaser and has a fine voice. We will continue to hear from her.
We received a short note recently from an old Halls High classmate, Monte L. (Laverne) Jones, now of Perry, Okla., enclosing a check for renewal of his subscription to The Halls Graphic, which he says he passes on to a library for use by school children after he has read it. He writes that he will be 80 years old next July but still plays golf twice each week. He recalled some of the 1917 snowstorm and influenza epidemic which we recently wrote about. He sends greetings to his friends of Halls.

LIFE-LINE PROGRAM
Gates Extension Homemakers drew about 30 to Baptist Hospital Lauderdale Wednesday of last week to hear Peggy Holmes, co-ordinator of the Life-Line Program, demonstrate the emergency response system.

Halls High D.E. Stars

911 Wins Easily; Bush, Gore Lead

HHS Five Edged In Region, Sub-State
Halls High School's girls' basketball team, edged by Bradford, 63-62, in overtime, for the Region 7-A crown, was nipped again Saturday, 42-40, by University School of Jackson (26-4) in sub-state play on the USJ court, to close a stellar season at 19-8.

Lauderdale County voters Tuesday approved a "911" emergency phone system, 2,463 to 103.
Prospective partners in the system also won big majorities:
Haywood County voted for it, 2,335 to 177.
Tipton County, with three small precincts unreported at press time, voted for it, 2,458 to 249.
As expected, a Tennessean, U.S. Sen. Albert Gore, Jr., led the county's Democratic primary with 1,764 votes to 737 for runner-up Jesse Jackson.
Trailing were Michael Dukakis, 61, Richard Gephardt, 50, Gary Hart 30, Paul Simon, 8, and Bruce Babbitt (who quit the race weeks ago), 6, with 12 votes for uncommitted delegates.
No surprise, either, in the county's Republican primary, with George Bush's 312 votes almost tripling 113 for Pat Robertson and tripling 103 for Bob Dole.
Jack Kemp trailed with 18 votes; four were cast for uncommitted delegates.

Funds Fight Drug Abuse

Covington's Tri-County Mental Health Services, which operates the Walker Counseling Center at 477 South Washington in Ripley, will use a $10,580 grant from Gov. Ned McWhorter's Alliance For A Drug Free Tennessee to work with high school faculties in Lauderdale and Fayette Counties to identify youngsters with a special need for early intervention and offer group sessions for 10 or 12 weeks.
Information from Connie Ballard, 635-3968.
S.S. Taxes Shift
Beginning Jan. 1, 1988, a farmer must pay Social Security taxes on wages paid to a wife or children 18 years old or older.
A farmer must deduct 7.51% of their wages, plus pay the employer's share of another 7.51% total 15.02%.
This compares to 13.02% self-employment taxes farmer would owe on income if not paid out as wages.
Another change affects part-time help. Previously, a farmer was not required to pay S.S. on a worker paid less than $150 in cash wages in a year or who worked fewer than 20 days in a year.
The new rule eliminates the 20-day exemption, and the $150 per year exemption applies only if the farmer's total wages paid are less than $2,500.

Achtung! It's Crab Grass Time Again

By Charles T. Peel
It's that time again, folks, when we have to give some thought to preventing that beastly weed, crabgrass, from invading our lawns again. If only this weed would last the entire year, not be so scarce, not produce those ugly crab-like seed heads and grow in a more upright manner, then maybe we could live with it.
This never-ending war between the good guys, which is the lawn; and the bad guys, otherwise known as the soldiers of crabgrass. Well, we can't fight "Father Nature," but we can properly guard the good guys to combat this problem and make 1988 a Crabgrass-Free Year!
First of all, long-term crabgrass control depends upon the use of the right grass in the right place, planted at the right time with adequate and timely fertilization, liming, mowing, watering and proper insect and disease control. Having a well-kept, healthy, vigorous lawn is the first line of defense against this ugly intruder. This is Plan A.
But like most wars, if Plan A fails, then we must be prepared to put Plan B into action. Plan B is where we keep our ground by protecting it with a pre-emergent crabgrass control.
Man your battle stations when the forsythia bushes are in full bloom. This is the cue that it's time to apply a crabgrass preventer and that we shouldn't wait much longer or we will miss our target. A second "round of fire" or application may be necessary eight to ten weeks after the first if Balan is used. Balan at the rate of 2 to 2.5 pounds per 1,000 square feet is recommended. Purchase tobacco Balan—it's cheaper.
You're probably wondering what you can do if you don't stop the enemy before it starts. Well, using pre-emergent crabgrass preventer is the very best way to prevent crabgrass from invading our territory; but, if we miss our target there is still hope of winning the battle. It is just going to take more time and ammunition by controlling it post-emergently.
(DSMA, MSMA) can control crabgrass after it has invaded our lawns. With DSMA or MSMA, a second application may be necessary five to seven days after the first treatment. Temporary discoloration with any of these materials may

Prune Ornamentals

Spring horticultural tasks such as pruning, spraying, and fertilization were on homeowners' minds as temperatures reached 80 degrees and the sun shown brightly.
Prune bush roses around the middle of March, just before growth starts. First remove dead wood carefully cutting an inch or so below the dark colored area. If no live buds are left, remove the entire branch or cane. Next, cut all weak growth and any canes or branches growing toward the bush's center. If two branches cross, remove the weaker. Finally, shape the plant by cutting the strong canes to a uniform height. Strong plants can be pruned to a height of 24 inches. Some varieties may have severe dieback. In this case cut the dead wood back to the white pith, saving all the live wood possible.
Shrub roses should be pruned after blooming. These hardy plants need pruning only to thin out and remove old canes. Climbing rose are pruned after flowering. This stimulates cane growth for next year. Tree roses require some pruning in the spring and during the growing season to keep the top from becoming too large for the stem. Cane on all classes of roses need to be protected from borers by painting the ends with black tree paint.
Roses have a vigorous "appetite and a capacity to utilize comparatively large quantities of nutrients. One general recommendation is starting 6 inches from trunk of each rose bush and extending at least 18 inches from trunk, apply 1/4 cup of 13-13-13 fertilizer March 15 and every month through August. For rose growers serious about growing, you may have a copy of our complete rose growing guide by visiting the Extension Office.
Pruning broadleaf evergreens is needed only when improving shape, to prevent crowding and to reduce actual size. Make run-

Nuptials Near Plans Revealed

AMANDA JUNE HARRIS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Harris, of Gates, will marry Jackie L. Jacobs, Jr., son of Betty and Jackie Jacobs, of Memphis, at 7 p.m. March 25th in Gates United Methodist Church, all friends invited.

Miss Harris is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vester Shepard, of Gates, and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harris, of Curve. A senior in Halls High School, she is editor of its newspaper, a member of the Close-Up, Science, and Distributive Education Clubs, and an honoree in Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Mr. Jacobs is the grandson of Mrs. Marshall Jacobs, of Halls, and the late Mr. Jacobs and of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers, of Wabash, Ind., and great-grandson of Joe H. Rose, of Ripley. A 1984 graduate of Halls High School, he is with the Navy, stationed in Orlando, Fla.

The couple will reside in Schenectady, N.Y., where the groom will complete his training and the bride plans to pursue a career in law.

SANDRA LEE BLACKBURN, daughter of Mrs. Lee Roy Blackburn, of Newbern, and the late Mr. Blackburn, will marry Thomas Reagin Cross, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Cross, of Dyersburg, at 4 p.m. April 16th in Mt. Tirzah Baptist Church in Tatumville, all friends invited.

Miss Blackburn is the granddaughter of late Mr. and Mrs. Will Blackburn, of Alabama; and of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe White, of Dyersburg. A 1984 graduate of Gibson County High School, she attended Dyersburg State College and was graduated from the State Area Vocational Technical School. She is employed by the State of Tennessee Department of Human Services in Ripley.

Mr. Cross is the grandson of Mrs. Ernest C. Cross, of Dyersburg, and the late Rev. Cross and of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Yarbro, of Dyersburg. A 1981 graduate of Dyersburg High School, he attended the University of Tennessee in Knoxville and Dyersburg State College and was graduated from the State Area Vocational Technical School. He is employed by Custom Fire Systems, Inc., in Dyersburg.

Webb Is Refused Leave For Race

The county Board of Education, on advice of county attorney J. Thomas Caldwell, of Ripley, Friday denied a request by Bobby Webb, Halls High School band director, for a year's leave of absence to oppose re-election Aug. 7th of Phillip Jackson as superintendent of county schools.

Caldwell said board policy permits leaves only for medical or educational reasons.

Webb then said he was resigning but was told by Caldwell to "follow the regular procedure" to resign.

Jackson said late Tuesday that Webb has not submitted a resignation.

Webb said he could not run the band's summer program and campaign at the same time.

The board, after having expelled three Lauderdale Middle School students on drug-related charges, adopted a policy of automatic expulsion for the rest of a school year of a student suspended and found guilty of possession or use of alcohol or drugs.

Carol (Mrs. Dan) Walker, board chairman, urged counseling for expelled students but was told such a program was difficult and expensive.

Last Survivors Of HHS Class Of '19 Recall Days Of Old, In Covington

Jimmie Strain (Mrs. Lovelace) Wortham, of 116 East Washington, Covington, entertained the only surviving fellow graduate of Halls High School on May 27, 1919—Susie Edna Briggs (Mrs. Charlie) Hilliard, 87, of 276 Anthony, Ripley—and Irene (Mrs. Ivan) Caldwell, of Ripley, March 2nd.

Five other members of the class—Anna Mary Hanna, Cary Brown Hutcherson, Pauline Lucas, Annie Lorene Smith, and Clarke Witt are deceased, according to Mrs. Hilliard.

She says the only boy in the class, Cary, son of Donis (Mrs. A. P.) Massengill who operated a hotel in Halls, died of cancer after Army service earning the rank of colonel.

Mrs. Strain had no children but has several brothers residing elsewhere.

Mrs. Hilliard married Charles after he spent a year in France in World War I. He farmed for several years before beginning 34 years of service with the Ripley Post Office.

They had three sons, all of whom served in the Navy, and a daughter.

Boyce married an Iowan, Rosalie Garton, and resides in La Belle, Fla.; two children reside in California.

Ray, who also served in the Merchant Marine, resides in Memphis with his wife, the former Mary D. Evans; they have two daughters and two grandchildren.

Linda, married to John Drury, resides in New York, as do their two sons and a daughter.

Karen worked for a dance studio in Memphis before employment with a railroad in California, where she and her husband now reside.

Two Receive UTM Grants

Accepting a Leaders-In-Residence Scholarship and a College Cheerleading Training Program Scholarship to attend the University of Tennessee in Martin this fall are:

John Eskridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eskridge, to major in business management.

Begina Stanley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Stanley, of 149 Jaynes Drive, to major in communications.

Sick & Ailing

Ora E. Agee, of Halls, was dismissed Thursday of last week from Jackson-Madison County Hospital.

Benjamin D. England, of Halls, was dismissed Friday from Jackson-Madison County Hospital.

Dinner Speakers

DR. CLYDE TILLEY, professor of religion and philosophy in Union University in Jackson, and his wife will speak in a Pastors and Wives Appreciation Dinner at 6 p.m. Saturday, March 19th, in Halls First Baptist Church, sponsored by the Women's Missionary Union of the Dyer Baptist Assn. Ladies and their husbands are invited to bring a covered dish.

Dr. Tilley has served pastorates in Tennessee and Kentucky and is now pastor of Woodland Baptist Church near Brownsville. Mrs. Tilley has served as recording secretary for the Tennessee Woman's Missionary Union. Both are writers and have traveled extensively.

A nursery will be provided.

Prison Probes Pistol Access

Fort Pillow State Prison associate warden Wayne Douglas, of Ripley, says the prison is investigating how Eudra James Mabry, 28, of Shelby County, serving a 50-year sentence for robbery with a deadly weapon and assault, had a 25-caliber automatic pistol with which to shoot a fellow convict, Walter Eugene Kendrick, 26, of Davidson County, in the shoulder about 2:15 p.m. Monday.

Mourning

URLINE WINDROW GIVEN, 96, retired Lauderdale County Health Dept. nurse, died early Saturday in Baptist Hospital Lauderdale in Ripley, after years of residence in Hillhaven (Nursing Home and now Convalescent Center) in Ripley.

Episcopal services were at 2 p.m. Sunday in Maplewood Cemetery, Ripley Funeral Home in charge.

County Put Atop Wave Of Future

Lauderdale County is the only county in West Tennessee west of Chester County (county seat, Henderson, southeast of Jackson), named by Jack Lessinger, professor emeritus of real estate and urban development in the University of Washington (State), as an "ideal core" in a "Wave of the Future" he predicts in a 5-page article in the March-April Mother Earth News.

The "Original Country Magazine" ($3 on news-stands, $14.97 for six issues from P.O. Box 3122, Harlan, IA 51593-21188), has just published its 110th issue and has a nationwide circulation.

The land economist, author of Times Books' Regions of Opportunity, thinks "a mere ripple generated by back-to-the-landers, urban drop-outs, and even city and suburban residents who maintain a weekend house in the country" will soon be followed by a massive re-location in the same directions—from obsolescing urban and suburban clusters to the more remote and spacious rural counties...

East of Chester County, Lessinger rates "ideal" in West Tennessee; Benton County (county seat, Camden); Henderson (seat, Lexington); McNairy (seat, Selmer); and most east of the Tenn. River, Hardin (seat, Savannah).

South of Hardin, Mississippi's northeast counties, Alcorn (Corinth) and Tishomingo (Iuka) get the nod.

South of Fayette, Mississippi's Marshall County (Holly Springs) and south of it, Lafayette (Oxford) win; Lessinger's thinks "ideal".

Evangelist

THE REV. CLYDE SPURGIN, pastor of First Baptist Church of Piggott, Ark., and his friend, Archie, will lead revival services in Halls First Baptist Church at 10:50 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday and at 7 p.m. next Monday through Friday.

A widely known evangelist and ventriloquist, he has performed on television, in conventions, and in pulpits in 11 states and Europe.

Tony Jones will lead music.

Trooper Phillips Injured In Crash

State Highway Patrolman Tansil L. Phillips, 38, of Halls, assigned to Dyer County, went to the intensive care unit of Methodist Hospital of Dyersburg after his patrol car struck another vehicle about 7:30 p.m. Tuesday of last week and caught fire.

He had surgery Thursday of last week in Baptist Hospital in Memphis for a broken wrist.

Dyersburg police say Debra Lee Bottom, 30, of Newbern, failed to yield as she drove a 1974 Chevrolet pickup truck south on 22nd Main and pulled into the path of the patrol car, northbound on U.S. Highway 51.

With Jennifer D. Prince, 7, she was treated in the hospital and released.

She was charged with having no driver's license.

Drake's Receiving Knoxville Honors

Davis-Kidd Booksellers, on Cumberland Ave. in Knoxville, (with stores in Nashville and Memphis) will stage an autographing party Sunday for Dr. Robert Drake's new book, Survivors (Mercer Univ. Press, $24.95 hard cover, $14.95 paper-back) available from Sugar Hill, Lauderdale County Library in Ripley.

Next Wednesday, Dr. Drake, born and reared in Ripley, will serve on a panel for Library Day at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, in which he is a professor of English, with former Gov. and new UT president Lamar Alexander as principal speaker.

Convention Slated By County's Dems

Lauderdale County Democratic Party chairman Charles Cutlip will convene a county convention at 11 a.m. Saturday in Ripley High School to elect delegates to the 8th Congressional District convention March 26th.

Albert Gore, Jr., and Jesse Jackson, each having won 15% or more of the Democratic primary vote, are each entitled to seven county delegates to the district convention, which will select five delegates and two alternates to attend the national convention in Atlanta, Ga., July 18-21.

Participants in the county convention must be registered voters in the county and must sign a credentials list stating name, address, residential preference, and a pledge of support for the Democratic Party.

AT CONFERENCE
Twenty junior and senior high school students and their counselors from Westside Baptist Church in Halls attended the annual Tenn. Evangelism Conference in Nashville, March 11-12th.

Counselors for the trip were Mrs. Ruby Garrett, Stan Anderson, Jonathan Jones, Westside youth minister, and the pastor, The Rev. Stan Anderson.

In spite of bus trouble while returning Saturday night, and late arrival in Halls at 1 a.m. Sunday, everyone enjoyed a good time.

When polio, small-pox, typhoid, and whooping cough were still dangers here, she sympathetically but firmly gave 'shots' and awarded 'Blue Ribbons' (for records of good diet and other health practices) to tens of thousands of school children, including a nephew by marriage, Lauderdale County Enterprise editor Bill Klutz, who made the weight for his Blue Ribbon in 1937 only by gorging on bananas and water just before weighing.

He knew she wouldn't bend the rules.

Inside a protective shell of crankiness, she concealed an orphan's concern for all walks of life, and she always confronted the troubles of the world (such as giving you a shot) with a twinkle in her eye which eased the pain.

She was the widow of Millard F. ("Flip") Given, Jr., who died in 1960. She also leaves a foster nephew, Dr. Thomas Windrow Marks, an orthopedic surgeon in Atlanta, Ga., a foster niece, Mary Jack (Mrs. Hunter) Micks, of Athens, Tenn., a nephew by marriage, Robert Edmond Given, athletic information director of Middle Tenn. State University in Murfreesboro, and a niece by marriage, Barbara (Mrs. William E.) Hardy, Jr., of Casper, Wyoming, where Mr. Hardy, former minister of youth and music in First Baptist Church, Ripley, now serves a Baptist Association.

Protesters Told Buildings Legal

Nine Halls residents who appeared Tuesday of last week before the town's Planning Commission to question Dotson Broglin's construction of five apartments on his property on Tice St. were told by Jerry Horner, speaking for the commission, that Broglin has complied with all requirements.

Frankie Hutcherson spoke for the nine, including his wife, the Ray Clarks, the Jim Van Dykes, Vye Edens, Carl Hoggard, and Tommy McNearman.

They were told Broglin must provide 2,000 square feet of parking for the units and that space is not available for constructing another five units on the property.

Horner said she had her neighbor's consent, per the Planning Commission's manual, and had shown this to the building inspector before obtaining building permit.

Alvin Shands was granted a permit to build a concrete block used car office on his lot on North Church.

Playmate For Baby

Baby, our kitten with the raccoon face, has a new playmate! On several occasions we have written of the acrobatic squirrels which perform all sorts of tricks on snatching feed from our bird feeders and from the pecan trees. For the past two years one of these has been a white squirrel which eats on a fairly regular basis.

This spring the white squirrel seems to have the territory to himself and takes every advantage of his position. He visits the bird feeder, the pecan trees, comes to the patio and generally makes himself at home.

Now that the weather is some better Baby spends much of the time outside and is particularly interested in stalking the white squirrel, with absolutely no success.

The squirrel will come down on the ground just far enough to be beyond pouncing distance, stare at Baby and as much as say, "Yah, yah, you can't catch me!" The squirrel will run up a tree, come back down to the ground across the fence and just tantalize the kitten. Apparently, both kitten and squirrel enjoy it.

Super Tuesday Over

Now that Super Tuesday is over there seems to be a few things settled, some of which were already obvious.

Vice-President George Bush has jumped out to an almost certain victory with Sen. Bob Dole still hanging on but likely to drop out if Bush takes a substantial victory in Illinois this Tuesday. Rep. Jack Kemp has ended his candidacy and Evangelist Pat Robertson is still making noises but is pretty well out of the race.

The Democratic situation is not so clear but Gov. Michael Dukakis appears to be the leading candidate followed by Jesse Jackson and Sen. Albert Gore in that order. It appears likely that no candidate will go to the convention in Atlanta next July with enough delegates to assure nomination. Rep. Richard Gephardt and Rep. Paul Simon are still hanging on but their prospects of continuing are quite poor.

About the only thing we are sure of after Super Tuesday is that the campaigns are too long and cost too much money with too many candidates in the races.

We wonder if requiring members of Congress and other government officials to resign their positions would not trim the field to some extent. That possibility is not advisable but the candidates with no backing and little chance of being nominated might think a little longer before tossing their hats into the ring.

What's New In Tennessee For 1988

Three major new attractions in The Great Smoky Mountains, new shows and a new hotel wing at Nashville's huge Opryland USA complex, and a variety of new attractions all over the state highlight the 1988 travel season in Tennessee.

At Pigeon Forge, entertainer Dolly Parton has added to her Dollywood theme park at the edge of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. Several major entertainers have already been signed for Dollywood's 1988 live concert series.

Dollywood has also added five new rides to its children's section for 1988.

Another major new Pigeon Forge attraction is The Dixie Stampede, a 1000-seat arena theater "Medieval Times" style dinner attraction, opening May 28. The attraction features real rodeo events within the framework of a live musical comedy.

Kingdom Resort, a third major attraction, also opens in May at Pigeon Forge. The resort features a new 160-room Quality Inn Hotel adjacent to a 4000-seat amphitheater offering nightly performances of The Great Smoky Play.

At nearby Knoxville, the new 325-passenger Robert E. Lee Riverboat begins weekend cruises on the Tennessee River in April, with a daily cruise schedule beginning in May.

In Chattanooga, Radisson is putting the final touches on an $18 million restoration of the Historic Reed House Hotel.

Chattanooga's Tennessee Valley Railroad Museum will begin operating daily steam train excursions between the museum headquarters on Jersey Pike and the famous Chattanooga Choo Choo in the downtown area.

Opryland, Nashville's huge music theme park, is adding a major new production to its show lineup for the 1988 season. The new 45-minute show, titled "And the Winner is..." features award-winning Oscar, Tony, Grammy, CMA and Dove songs.

Country music star Brenda Lee has joined the cast of Opryland's separate ticket, 75-minute Broadway, Hollywood and Nashville music spectacular which has been renamed Music! Music! Starling Brenda Lee. Lee's signing marks the first time that a major country music star has appeared in an Opryland production on a regular basis.

New shows are also being added to the daytime cruises of Opryland's General Jackson Riverboat, and major revisions are being made in the riverboat's live evening dinner show.

Opryland Hotel opens its new 824-room Casades section in the spring of 1988. The enclosed two-acre garden spot will feature waterfalls, fountains, flowing streams and an indoor mountain. The Casades expansion ranks Opryland Hotel as the 12th largest hotel in North America with 1,891 total rooms.

The new Bill Monroe Bluegrass Supper Club opens near Opryland in the spring.

Nashville's Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum opens a new biographical exhibit in March, "Johnny Cash: The Man In Black," is the largest and most elaborate biographical exhibit ever produced by the museum. A second new exhibit, "Chart Toppers," detailing how hit records are made opens in April.

Also in Nashville, two new water theme parks are scheduled to go into operation for the 1988 season.

The $25-acre $7 million Water World is scheduled to open in May. The $3-acre, $7.5 million Aqua Land has a June opening date.

The Tennessee State Capitol in Nashville has reopened after an extensive $2.7 million restoration which uncovered some of the "long lost" treasures of the historic 1855 building.

The Parthenon, a long-time Nashville landmark, reopens in April following a major renovation project which has added, among other things, a new access for the handicapped, and a huge statue of the Greek goddess Athena, a replica of the original in the British Museum.

At Hurricane Mills west of Nashville, the plantation home of country music star Loretta Lynn will be open for public tours for the first time beginning in May at the Loretta Lynn Ranch. Along with the house tours, Loretta's Jaguar convertible and the jeep used in the motion picture "The Coal Miner's Daughter" will be on display. The ranch is also adding canoe rentals to its list of attractions.

In Memphis, restoration continues on the Beale Street Historic District. The newest addition to the street, Handy Hall, opens in April as a "Preservation Hall" type showcase for blues artists and musicians.

Beale Street's Old Daisy Theater becomes headquarters for the new Beale Street Tours opening in June. The company, operated by Graeland, features a new film about Memphis music and will offer guided tours of attractions on the famous street.

Graeland itself is expanding its operating hours from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. during June, July and August. Sun Studios, Elvis Presley's original recording label, has also reopened for public tours.

Also new in Memphis is the multi-million dollar, 600-acre Memphis International Motorsports Park, a venue for national and international racing events, including the National Hot Rod Association Championship drag race scheduled for national television coverage in May.

At Adamsville, the new Buford Pusser Home and Museum opens May 28. The museum contains personal memorabilia of the legendary "Walking Tall" sheriff of Tennessee's McNairy County.

At Tiptonville, the new Carl Perkins Museum details the career of the entertainer and songwriter whose "Blue Suede Shoes" helped to launch the era of rock and roll. Perkins' boyhood home at Tiptonville is also open to the public, and a new Tiptonville Welcome Center housed in a railroad caboose assists in directing visitors to the new attractions and to various points around the area's unique Reelfoot Lake.

The first successful gasoline-driven car was created in 1885.

Halls Bit & Spur Club

The Halls Bit & Spur Club will open their season on Saturday night, April 9, 1988. The first scheduled Horse Show will be held on Sunday afternoon, April 17, 1988.

This year club members will be earning points in each of the riding categories, to be totaled for end of the year scores. The club rides every Saturday night; however, points will be awarded the first and third Saturday nights of each month. Top riders in each category will be recognized and awards given at the end of the riding year.

Halls Bit & Spur Club is urging each member to work toward increasing membership in the club. If you are interested in becoming a member, the membership of $15.00 per year per family or $10.00 per year for an individual. Membership in the club is due at this time and can be paid to Barbara Garrett, 836-5890, or Pansy Gibbons, 836-9870. Additional information can be received from either of the two numbers.

There will be an open meeting Monday night at Halls Community Center from 6:00 P.M. to 8:00 P.M. for anyone who has an interest in the riding club.

Readers Speak

Editor:
If you live in Lauderdale County and where you live is zoned "fringe residential" or "residential," do zoning laws protect your property value? Do county officials enforce zoning laws?

I live in a "fringe residential" area, but there are two junk yards in front of my house and a cotton gin under construction behind my house.

This could happen to every home owner in Lauderdale County if county officials do not enforce the zoning laws of Lauderdale County.

Do county officials vote for profit or what's best for Lauderdale County?

Get the answers to these questions at the zoning meeting which will be held on March 21st, at 9 a.m., in the Courthouse.

The Lauderdale County Democratic Convention will be held Saturday, March 19th, in Ripley High School—registration starts at 10:30 a.m., convention will be called to order at 11 a.m. Participants in the county convention must be registered voters and must sign a credentials list, starting their name, address and presidential preference, and a pledge of support of the Democratic Party.

audience a few laughs; they give us a few dollars for the Cancer Fund.
We are not actors, as everyone knows. Just people like you who are willing to volunteer their time for a good cause for their community.

In the past few years, we have lost several cast members to cancer. They included Judy Glenn Lampert, Emma Langley, Bill Smith, and Everette Agee.

This year's production will be on March 31 and April 1st and 2nd in Lauderdale Middle School. The Thursday evening performance will go to the Judy Glenn Lampert Scholarship Fund, the Friday and Saturday night performances will go to the Cancer Society.

We hope the public will pay a few dollars and have a lot of fun with the 1988 Hee-Haw cast.

Vows Exchanged

Mr. and Mrs. WILLIAM DONALD SINCLAIR pledged double ring vows Feb. 12th in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Gay, in Ripley, where glowing torches and candles flanked the snow-covered drive.

The Rev. James Larry Riley officiated in the soft light of tapers in 15-branched candelabra, flanked by arrangements of white glads, white palms, red miniature carnations, baby's breath, and spengler.

The bride, Sherry Lynette Gay, was given by her father. Her tea-length gown by Bernelle included a Victorian lace jacket with a pearl and embroidered lace neck-line over an ivory satin princess bodice featuring diagonally gathered lace sleeves. Flowers cascaded from the hairpiece holding her veil.

The bride's mother, Verna, was matron of honor. She wore a red handkerchief tea-length gown with a Chantilly lace jacket over a princess bodice with long lace sleeves.

Mother and daughter carried cascades of red and white miniature carnations, baby's breath, and spengler.

Brent Stanley, of Halls, was best man. Ushers were David Jennings and Jeff Moore, of Halls. The groom and his attendants wore black Dynasty tuxedos with red accessories, including boutonnières of miniature red carnations.

Kelly Grimison registered guests.

The groom's mother wore a tea-length grey crepe dress with a pink linen duster. She wore a corsage of white roses.

Special guests were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Holcomb, of Ripley, and the groom's brother, Stephen, of Sante Fe, N.M.

For the reception at Rolling Hills Country Club, a 3-tier white cake was decorated with red roses and red tapers, over a fountain of red water.

The groom's chocolate cake was a golf course. The groom's table was flanked by silver candelabra.

The hors d'oeuvres table was centered with an arrangement of white glads, white palms, red miniature carnations, baby's breath, and greenery in a crystal bowl, flanked by silver candelabra.

Assisting in serving the cake, nuts, mints, and punch were Mrs. Jeff Moore, of Halls, and Miss Lea Jarrett, Miss Marion Thompson, and Miss Kelly White, all of Ripley.

The newlyweds are residing in Ripley.

A miscellaneous shower was given Jan. 13th by Beth Tillman, of Louisville, Ky., in the home of her parents. Her mother, Brenda, assisted in serving.

A lingerie shower was hosted by Lea Jarrett and Sheila Sonderman Jan. 28th. The guests enjoyed cake, nuts and mints.

A Mexican Fiesta supper was hosted Jan. 30th by Mr. and Mrs. David Jennings, and Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Steelman in the Steelman's home. They served Mexican food chosen by each guest from a menu. The menu featured tacos, enchiladas, avocado and Rotel dips, nachos, and cherry tarts. The honorees were given a crystal ice bowl.

Mr. H. G. McCorkle returned home Sunday after a three week visit with her son, Dr. Hutton McCorkle, and Mrs. McCorkle in Orlando, Fla., where she attended pre-nuptial events and the wedding of her granddaughter, Kelly Ann McCorkle, of Paisley, Fla., March 4th in Pine Castle Methodist Chapel in Orlando, with a reception in the McCorkle home.

Mr. Ellis' parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ellis, of Paisley.

Brevities

Mrs. Ralph Hendrix, of Jackson, spent Monday with her sister, Mrs. Sidney Gooch.

Mrs. Mary Davis, of Memphis, spent Saturday night with Mrs. Virginia Simmons. They were joined for lunch Sunday by Mrs. Wilburn Simmons, of Dyersburg.

The Oliver Nunns attended the grand opening of Charlene's Collectibles at 121 Carriage House Drive in Jackson Friday.

Wendy Murchison, a student in Union University in Jackson, spent Friday night with her grandparents, the Henry Murchisons.

Mrs. Vera Escue

Mrs. Vera T. Ables Escue, 84, of Ripley, died at 3:45 a.m. Saturday in Baptist Hospital Lauderdale.

Services were at 4 p.m. Sunday in Halls Funeral Home, with burial in Dry Hill Cemetery.

She was the widow of Jim Escue.

She leaves three sons, William, George, and Delma Ray Ables, of Ripley; a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Clement, of Halls; 14 grandchildren; and 15 great-grandchildren.

Sick & Ailing

HHS Heroes

They went to the regionals undefeated, emerged region champs, and won in state competition over Christian Brothers, of Memphis, 43-25. Coopertown, 34-19, and Scott's Hill, 29-19, before losing the state crown to College Grove, 34-24, in their third game in one day.

The team earned a trophy, and gold basketballs went to each player and their coach.

It was Coach Dodds' second year at HHS; in addition to coaching the football team, boys' and girls' basketball teams, and track, he taught a science class every period during the day except one, when he kept the study hall. He taught a Sunday School class in the Baptist Church. "He was a shrewd coach," as Mrs. Nunn remembers him, "who taught the fundamentals of the game in practice, then let the players do 'their thing' in the games."

Brooks Jackson, all-star forward, probably set a record when he scored 50 points in one game; he was high point man in the tournament. He was last and received passes accurately while playing the defensive forward position well.

He served as alternate captain with Tiltford Adamson, a keen shot, even from mid-court. "He was a crowd-pleaser," Mrs.

ED JONES

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

8th District, TN

Recently the House passed a resolution concerning the situation in Panama. The relationship between the United States and Panama has been strained during the period of conflict between the Panamanian government and its own military forces. The resolution emphasizes the discontent felt by the United States toward this Panamanian conflict.

Even in the midst of their internal disagreement, the United States will continue to fulfill our commitment to the Panama Canal Treaty. To show our disdain over the conflict, the United States may place into an escrow account the monthly payments given to Panama from canal revenues. This money, as well as any other government payments owed to Panama, will be put into an account on behalf of the Panamanian president for the people of Panama.

The purpose of this resolution is to assist the Panamanian government in ousting General Noriega, head of the country's armed services. The General has ruled the country for the last few years through the military. He has been indicted in the United States on his alleged involvement in drug running, money laundering and selling restricted U.S. technology to the Soviets and Cubans.

In late February, the President of Panama tried to remove the General from office and appointed a replacement. General Noriega refused and in response, had one of his supporters appointed as the new President. Although the former President is living in exile, the United States does not recognize this new leader. one of his supporters appointed as the new President. Although the former President is living in exile, the United States does not recognize this new leader. In fact, the resolution calls for the General to comply with the order and give up his post as commander of the Panamanian Defense Forces.

In addition, the Congressional Resolution commends the Reagan administration for supporting democracy in Panama. It is requested that President Reagan consider the full range of economic and political sanctions which could be imposed on Panama in order to restore civilian authority.

One of the sanctions to be enforced includes heavier enforcement by the United States Customs Service on goods and individuals coming into our country. Of the available options, a total trade embargo would not be feasible because it would possibly do more harm than good for the people of Panama. The object of imposing sanctions on Panama is to punish the government, not the people.

The United States continues to recognize a democratic government in Panama and supports any sanctions needed to reestablish that form between the government and the military.

ED JONES REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

Recently the House passed a resolution concerning the situation in Panama. The relationship between the United States and Panama has been strained during the period of conflict between the Panamanian government and its own military forces. The resolution emphasizes the discontent felt by the United States toward this Panamanian conflict.

Even in the midst of their internal disagreement, the United States will continue to fulfill our commitment to the Panama Canal Treaty. To show our disdain over the conflict, the United States may place into an escrow account the monthly payments given to Panama from canal revenues. This money, as well as any other government payments owed to Panama, will be put into an account on behalf of the Panamanian president for the people of Panama.

The purpose of this resolution is to assist the Panamanian government in ousting General Noriega, head of the country's armed services. The General has ruled the country for the last few years through the military. He has closed down the opposition press and has been a stumbling block in the civil rights movement. He has been indicted in the United States on his alleged involvement in drug running, money laundering and selling restricted U.S. technology to the Soviets and Cubans.

In late February, the President of Panama tried to remove the General from office and appointed a replacement. General Noriega refused and in response, had

TENNESSEE TRAVELER

Knoxville's Frontier Legacy

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — It was along the rivers that America's first settlers established their towns. The rivers were the highways of the frontier era, and the junction point of two rivers created an almost inevitable site for a town.

One such town began to develop in 1796 when James White traveled across what are now known as the Great Smoky Mountains to claim land given to him by the State of North Carolina in recognition of his service in the American Revolution.

White built a home for himself and his family on the banks of a creek near the place where the Holston and French Broad Rivers join to form the Tennessee River. It was an elaborate home for that time—a full 20 by 30 feet, one and a half stories high with three rooms and a sleeping loft. The entire structure was built of logs felled and shaped with the primitive hand tools available.

Other settlers moving into the wilderness on the river highways began stopping at the White home. There were so many of them that White began expanding his facilities. He added three smaller cabins, linking them together with sharpened log posts to form a square stockade. White's own home served as one corner of the small fort. Across the creek, White built a small tub mill to grind corn for his growing number of neighbors.

The tiny settlement blossomed into a town with the arrival of Territorial Governor William Blount. Blount, appointed by President Washington to oversee the huge area known as "The Territory of the United States South of the River Ohio," originally established his capital near Jonesborough in northeastern Tennessee, the only genuine town on the frontier. In 1791, however, Blount moved his headquarters south to the more centralized settlement around White's Fort.

The fort served as the territorial capital while Blount was building his own elegant home just a few hundred yards from White's trading post. The two-story frame home finished in 1792 was a true mission and perhaps the first frame home west of the Appalachians.

Blount named the now fast-growing town "Knoxville" in honor of his old friend, Major General Henry Knox, President Washington's Secretary of War.

In his office, and in the mansion's elegant formal gardens, the territorial governor plotted the strategy that led to the establishment of the State of Tennessee in 1796. Not surprisingly, the new state chose Knoxville as its original capital.

Tennessee's capital long ago moved westward to Nashville, but there are still many reminders of Knoxville's frontier legacy, including the sprawling main campus of the University of Tennessee, the modern version of tiny Blount College established by the Territorial Legislature of 1794. Modern Knoxville also serves as the headquarters for the vast Tennessee Valley Authority.

The home James White built in 1796 still stands in downtown Knoxville. The marks of his tools can still be seen on the hand-hewn logs. The palisaded fort of the 18th century around which the city of Knoxville grew has been reconstructed in the shadows of 20th-century glass and steel skyscrapers.

Just up Hill Avenue, Governor William Blount's beautiful two-story frame house also still stands, its formal gardens intact, its age belied by the almost modern appearance which caused such wonder on the Tennessee frontier of that earlier era.

James White and William Blount are both buried in the cemetery of Knoxville's First Presbyterian Church which was built on land donated for the purpose by James White.

In addition to the fort and the elegant Blount Mansion, many remnants of Knoxville's frontier legacy are still intact.

Across the street from Blount Mansion is the Craighead Jackson House (1818) which now serves as the visitor center for Blount Mansion.

Other important historic sites include Marble Springs (1790), the home of John Sevier, Tennessee's first governor; Ramsey House (1797), the first stone home in the area; Crescent Bend (1834), also known as The Armstrong Lockett House, with its impressive collection of American and English furniture, 18th century decorative arts and English silver; and Confederate Memorial Hall (1856), known as Bleak House when Confederate General James Longstreet used it as his headquarters during the 1863 Civil War battles around Knoxville.

Much of the rich heritage of the Knoxville area is nicely detailed at the Frank H. McClung Museum on the University of Tennessee campus. Its many displays include exhibits of anthropology, archeology, geology, architecture, local and natural history plus decorative and fine arts. The University also offers the fascinating books, papers and political memorabilia of the late Tennessee Senator Estes Kefauver at its Hoskins Library.

The Sunspire, the glass-balled theme structure from the 1982 Knoxville World's Fair, still serves as an impressive observation point for views of the city. The Knoxville Museum of Art now occupies the restored Candy Factory building on the World's Fair site.

Other worthwhile Knoxville attractions include the Student's Museum and Akima Planetarium at Chilhowee Park, the Beck Cultural Exchange Center, the 11th Street Artist Colony, and the stern wheel Robert E. Lee riverboat cruises on the Tennessee River which made James White's Fort such an important part of Tennessee's frontier history.

One of the city's most popular attractions is the internationally renowned Knoxville Zoological Park, which contains more than 1,000 animal exhibits, including one of the world's best collections of reptiles, Asian lions and other large cats.

For more information about the Knoxville area, contact the Tennessee Department of Tourist Development, Room T, Box 23170, Nashville, Tennessee 37202.

DOCTORS DAY

MARCH 30, 1988

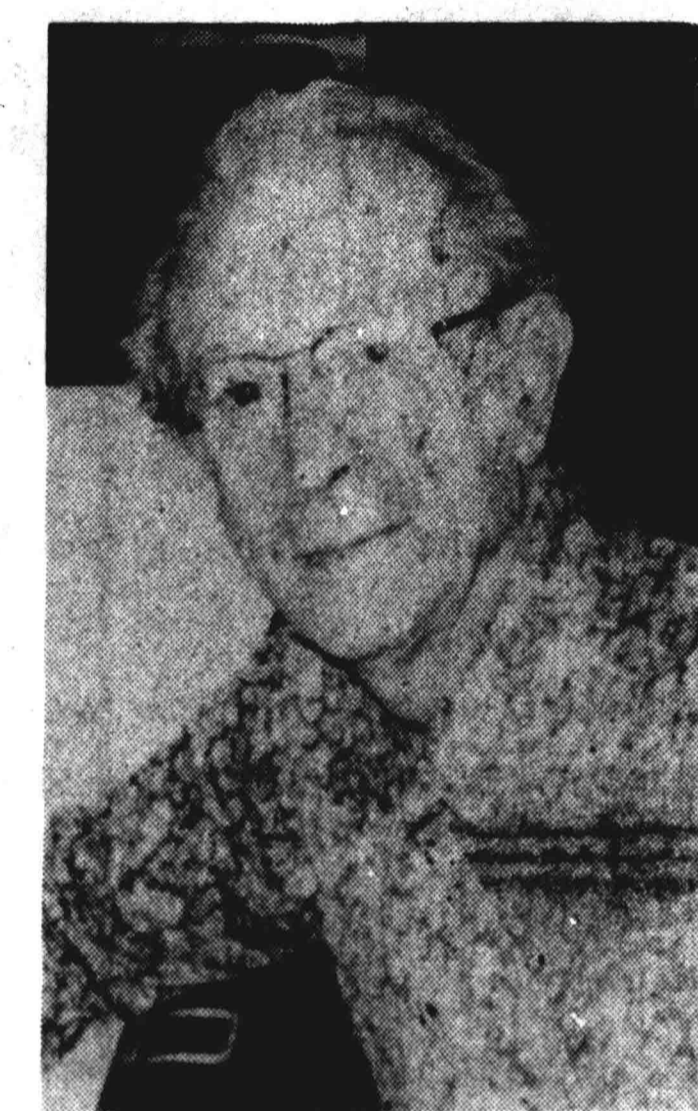

Baptist Memorial Hospital - Lauderdale will be honoring the members of the medical staff on their day, March 30, 1988.

Doctors Day has been traditionally observed on this date since 1933, when Dr. Crawford W. Long became the first claimed physician to use ether as an anesthetic agent in a surgical technique on March 30, 1842.

We are proud to have such a dedicated group of people who practice medicine in our community and have continued their support of our local hospital.

Shands Survives Crash Fatal To 2

Stephen M. Shands, 23, of Halls, was treated and dismissed from Methodist Hospital Dyersburg after a collision at 10:45 p.m. Saturday, about 1,500 feet south of the intersection of U.S. Highway 51 By-Pass and Wade Hampton Road in Dyersburg.

Killed in the crash were Mrs. Juanita Dianne Jordan Lemons, 44, of Newbern, driving a 1984 Chevrolet Monte Carlo north, and Joy Renee Leatherland, 25, a Dyersburg State student, in a 1976 Chrysler Cordoba with Shands, also northbound.

Injured were Mrs. Lemons' daughters—17, 14, and 11—and her passenger, Royce Holcomb, 24, of Newbern.

Arwood Expects Humming-Birds

Humming-birds will be in West Tenn. between April 10-15, Poston Arwood, of Double Bridges, advises.

Feeders should be in place April 1st to attract early arrivals, he says.

"Use one measuring cup of sugar in a quart container; fill with tap water.

"Each week, clean your feeder with hot water (no soap), and fill with fresh sugar water.

"You are competing with your neighbors; the cleaner you keep your feeder, with the right sugar water ratio, will help you keep your humming-birds.

Bowling, Kin Lure Alleys To Florida

The John Alleys, of Halls, were in Jacksonville, Fla., this month when Mr. Alley's Dyersburg Trophy team bowled in the American Bowling Classic.

With Mr. Alley's brother, Richard, and his wife, of Chicago, Ill., they visited in Florida another brother, Joe, and his family and Mrs. Richard Alley's sister, Mrs. DeWayne Stutts, and Mr. Stutts, and also visited the Busch Gardens, Disney World, and the Kennedy Space Center, in addition to Hilton Head, S.C.

CONFIDENTIAL CORNER

By Henry Murchison

Clock Changing Time

Next Sunday is of unusual interest to the citizens of the United States!

It is Easter Sunday, the day that all Christianity observes as the anniversary of the resurrection of Christ.

It also is the day when Daylight Savings Time becomes effective until the last Sunday in October. So unless you run the risk of missing that Sunrise Easter Service or other activities you plan to attend, you should run your clock or watch up one hour Saturday night before going to bed.

Another event occurring Sunday is the increase in first class postal rates from 22¢ to 25¢. All mail already in transit will be delivered at the old rate but failure to use the new rate beginning Sunday will likely mean that your letter will be returned for additional postage and thus delivery will be delayed.

Troops In Honduras

Since President Reagan ordered about 3,000 American troops to Honduras on a so-called training mission, this writer has been trying to make up his mind just what we think about it. We do not question the President's motives and resent the war mongering name that some have used, but we are still not certain that it was a wise move. Thankfully it appears that it will end without any real harm, and troops will soon be returning home.

Soldiers going to or near a war zone with orders not to shoot would seem to be in jeopardy although they are not to be aggressive.

The whole dilemma reminds us somewhat of a situation that a baseball team on which we played had to face.

Our manager, the late Dee Wells, had booked a double header baseball game on the Fourth of July in the early 1930s to be played at a small community in Dyer County on the banks of the Mississippi River. For transportation we all had to ride in a truck with a cattle bed along with a half a dozen or so fans who followed the team wherever it played. Knowing that the ride was long and far away from home and that the day was hot, some of us were dubious but agreed to go.

When we arrived we found a rough diamond on the school campus with a special added attraction, a wash tub containing a huge block of ice and quite a quantity of moonshine liquor, and a couple of dippers.

We were invited to help ourselves, but as far as we can remember no player on either team was drinking, although the spectators were doing well.

We jumped out to an early lead and easily won the first game, but by the time the first game ended the situation had gotten ugly, with spectators threatening our players.

Realizing that we were outnumbered, the team had Dee inform the manager of the home team that because it was such a long ride we would not play the second game.

We were quickly told differently and realized that we had to play or get into a fight we couldn't win. Okay, we played the game, but no team has ever tried as hard to lose as we did before finally succeeding. When the last out was made, we all made a dash for the truck, jumped in, and started off. After a short distance, Dee's new sailor straw hat blew off and out of the truck. So far as we know it is still there. He wanted to stop but was told an emphatic "No. Dee never again booked a game away from home without talking to some of the players first."

The comparison is somewhat ridiculous, but we know what it means to be in a no-win situation. American soldiers shouldn't be placed in jeopardy without being permitted to do what is needed. Korea and Viet Nam should have taught us that much.

Honor Grad Halls Family Weekends Despite Flaming Crash

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Harris, of Halls, report they escaped serious injury Friday when a car driven by Charles Taylor, of Milan, struck their car from the rear, burst into flames, and created a 4-car collision south of Jackson, as Mr. and Mrs. Harris and son, Robert, were en route to the second annual Sweet Jesus Retreat, sponsored by John Bramlett Ministries, of Memphis, at Pickwick Landing Lodge.

At the retreat, Robert roomed with Rusty Vollmer, great-nephew of Perry Williams, of Halls.

ANNE HURT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hurt, Jr., of Halls, was graduated March 15th from the University of Tennessee in Knoxville with high honors. She was a member of Pi Sigma Alpha honor society, with a major in political science. She was also a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority and a Little Sister of Phi Gamma Delta. She is residing in Knoxville.

Four From County To State 4-H Meet

Kelly Carnack and David Lawrence, of Gates, Logan Roberts, of Halls, and Angela Wakefield, of Ripley, attended the state 4-H Club Congress in Nashville Sunday through Tuesday.

They were accompanied by Joy Johnson and Joyce Wakefield, who attended a Volunteer Leader Forum in Lebanon March 11-12th.

David and Logan won gold (top) grades in the West Tenn. Jr. Market Hog Show and Sale at the University of Tenn. in Martin.

Paul, son of Sidney Talley, Jr., has bought a young Angus heifer he plans to show this year; he plans a small herd to help finance college.

4-H Club cook-books ($4)—all recipes from Lauderdale Counties—are available from the county Extension office.

Chris Thompson FmHA Committee Hailed As Eagle Nominees Sought

Chris Thompson, 17, son of the Lewis Terry Thompsons, of Southaven, Miss. and grandson of the L. G. "Red" Thompsons, of Curve, is having breakfast this Thursday with Memphis and Shelby County mayors and with his parents is attending an evening banquet at Wilson World Hotel in Memphis as a new Eagle Scout from Troop 30 in Memphis, sponsored by his church, Whitehaven United Methodist.

Between these events, he is exploring career opportunities, in which he is sponsored by International Paper Corp.

A Junior in Bishop Byrne High School, he is employed part-time by Kroger.

The Farmers Home Administration seeks nominations for county committee members under new rules that make it easier for farmers to qualify as candidates and to vote. Harriet Smith, county supervisor, reports.

"One important change broadens the definition of a farmer to anyone who has an interest in a farm in the county as owner, tenant, or share cropper," she says.

"The new definition also includes the spouse of an eligible farmer.

"An old requirement that more than half of the candidate's income must come from the farm operation has been dropped."

"The nominating period has been extended to 45 days from the previous 25 days, thus allowing more opportunity for people to run for the committee," Smith says.

"At least three eligible farmer voters, including the nominee, must sign the petition."

Two of the three committee members are elected by farmers in the county, one is appointed by FmHA. One of the elected seats is to be filled for a 3 year term at this year's election June 30th.

"Another important change is that one member of the committee can be an active FmHA farm borrower, or be eligible for an FmHA loan," Smith says. "Previously, this was not allowed."

Anyone interested in running for the committee can obtain a petition and other information from the FmHA county office at 109 E. Jackson St., Ripley.

ED JONES

REPORTS FROM

WASHINGTON

Recent legislative action has been taken on the way diesel fuel taxes are collected. As part of the fiscal year 1988 Budget Reconciliation Act passed last December, the diesel fuel excise tax collection process was changed by Congress. Under the new law, diesel fuel will be considered a producer's tax, rather than the previous retail tax. The term "producer" is defined to include wholesale distributors, as well as other immediate persons in the chain of distribution of the taxable fuel. Such persons include farmers, contractors, waterway users, independent petroleum marketers and others who previously were able to buy diesel fuel tax-free for off road use. Now these persons tax where the purchaser demonstrates that the fuel will be used in a non-taxable use. In addition, the purchaser must register and satisfy such bonding requirements as the Treasury may prescribe. Sales that may be exempted include diesel sold for use as a fuel for trains, aviation fuel sold for commercial aviation, and taxable fuel sold for use by any state. Any and all other exemptions from these taxes must be made through refund procedures following purchase of the fuels and payment of the taxes. I have co-sponsored several pieces of legislation this year which would help bring an end to some of this unnecessary paperwork involved with applying for exemptions and refunds. Resulting from the Tax Reform Act, state and local governments must now pay the excise gasoline tax and then file for a refund. One of the bills I co-sponsored would restore the right of the state and local governments to purchase gasoline without payment of the federal gasoline tax. Another co-sponsored bill would restore the up-front exemption to contractors and other off-road users including waterway users and port authorities. Hearings are already being held on some of this legislation.

Low Cholesterol Classes

As a follow-up to the cholesterol screenings, Janice Sutton, Dietitian at Baptist Memorial Hospital-Lauderdale will present a class on low cholesterol diets on:

Thursday, March 31, 1988 at 7:00 p.m.
Tuesday, April 5 at 4:00 p.m.
Thursday, April 7 at 10:00 a.m.

The classes will be held in the community conference room at BMH-Lauderdale. Presentation will include a copy of the AHA (American Heart Association) diet, tips on grocery shopping and sample menus.

A fee of $5.00 per person will be necessary to cover the cost of the materials. The classes will last approximately one hour and participants should arrive early to register.
