Jackson Univ. School Hosting Halls Tigers

Halls High School's District 14-A Tigers visit District 15-A's University School of Jackson this Friday after a second half loss last week to AA Crockett County, 18-7. AA Trenton, coached by Walter Kilzer for 31 years, last week defeated the USJ team he now coaches, 27-14.

In 31 rushes, the Golden Tide's junior tailback Walter Dickson posted 255 yards and three TDs for Trenton.

Halls Led At Half

Hosting Crockett, Halls led 7-6 at the half but in the tilt fumbled five times and allowed three interceptions.

Crockett's senior quarterback Kevin Howell (6-0, 190), hit tight end Terry Wade (5-11, 170) at the line of scrimmage for 75 yards and first blood with 3:30 in the first period, but a kick for a point after failed.

The Tigers drove back 50 yards in 10 plays to send sophomore Patrick Dampier (5-10, 146) 20 yards to score with 9:46 in the first half, and Justin Taylor boot-ed the point to make it 7-6 at half-time.

Crockett had all the second half scoring on Howell's passes to junior Chris Wade (5-11, 170), for 10 yards with 7:30 in the third period and to senior split end Steve Powell (5-11, 170) for nine yards with 8:11 left.

Halls had three more possessions but was forced to punt once, lost a pass, and ran out of time on the Crockett 12.

Good News For HHS

Parents of students in Halls High School participating in Future Farmers of America activities welcome the news that Bill Newsome will continue as instructor at Halls High School.

Newsome had asked for and received a leave of absence to attend Mississippi State University on a special scholarship program and had not expected to be here this year. However, a change in the scholarship program delayed Newsome's participation, and he will teach this year.

Newsome has an outstanding record both state-wide and nationally. Year after year, his students take state and national honors. We are happy that Bill is still with us and hope he will continue far into the future.

"Quayle" Hunting

Both newspaper columnists and television commentators have developed a new sport—"Quayle" hunting—since the naming of Indiana Senator Dan Quayle as Republican vice-presidential nominee by George Bush. Reports should be on the sports page, not on the editorial page.

Sen. Quayle has been assailed from every side with accusations that he illegally joined the National Guard to avoid the draft in the Viet Nam War, that he entered University of Indiana law school without the proper credentials, that he was involved in a sex scandal in 1980, and various other charges.

Along with most people, we know little about these charges. We do know that Selective Service and the armed forces were encouraging college students to join the National Guard and continue their education at the period of time in question. We also know that some newspapers, some television stations and many colleges were encouraging students to go to Canada to avoid the draft. At least Dan Quayle did not flee to Canada.

Whether or not Quayle had the qualifications to attend Indiana law school we can't say, but knowing some of the cantankerous college professors that we have, it seems doubtful he would have been able to complete the courses and receive his degree through influence as has been charged.

At the time of the supposed sex scandal, two Indiana Congressmen were involved but Quayle was judged as uninvolved. There seems to be no reason to think otherwise.

Perhaps the choosing of Quayle as Bush's running mate was bad judgment and will damage the ticket, but Quayle has already served four years in the House of Representatives and eight in the Senate without a touch of scandal. The news media are reaching because they were caught flat-footed when Bush unexpectedly chose Quayle. Some are screaming that they did not have a chance to do their job of investigating the prospective candidates. We don't know just who gave them the authority to pick or turn down a candidate.

No one knows what the outcome will be but "Quayle" hunting is the favorite pastime right now.

Haley Has Yule Book To Precede TV Sequel

A Different Kind of Christmas, by Alex Haley, will be published by Doubleday this fall (96 pages, $15) before ABC-TV airs A Roots Christmas, a sequel to its Roots mini-series (but not written by Haley).

Haley's Christmas tale—of a pre-Civil War white college student who joins the Underground Railroad and aids a slave to freedom on Christmas Eve—was written at sea in July.

In the Coast Guard 20 years, Haley boards freight ships to write and got proofs of his new book by courier while in port for two days in Europe.

On his current voyage, he is putting final touches to his new novel, Henning, set in Henning in the 1920s and 1930s, "essentially complete."

Each school and the office of the Food Service supervisor has a copy of the policy, which may be reviewed by an interested party.

The following household size and income criteria will be used for determining eligibility:

HOUSEHOLD SIZE	REDUCED PRICE MEALS
	YEARLY	MONTHLY	WEEKLY
1	10,675	890	206
2	14,301	1,192	276

8	36,057	3,005	694
For each additional family member, add	+3,626	+303	+70

Parents: If your total household income is within the limits listed above, your children may be eligible for either free or reduced price meals.

Children from households whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced price meals, households should fill out the application and return it to the school. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application will be used for the purpose of determining eligibility and may be verified at any time during the school year by school or other program officials.

For school officials to determine eligibility, households receiving food stamps or AFDC must list the child's name, their food stamp or AFDC case number and the signature and name of an adult household member. Households not receiving food stamps or AFDC must list: names of all household members; social security numbers of all adult household members or a statement that the household member does not possess one; total household income and the amount and source of the income received by each household member; and the signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct.

Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

Under the provisions of the free and reduced price policy Principals in each school

(Title of Determining Official) will review applications and determine eligibility. Parents or guardians dissatisfied with the ruling of the official may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. Parents wishing to make a formal appeal may make a request either orally or in writing to Phillip Jackson, P.O. Box 350, Ripley, TN 38063, Phone-635-2941 (Name, address, and phone number of the hearing official) for a hearing on the decision.

Households that list a food stamp or AFDC case number must report when the household no longer receives these benefits. Other households approved for benefits are required to report increases in household income of over $50 per month or $600 per year and decreases in household size. Also, if a household member becomes unemployed, or if the household size increases, the household should contact the school. Such changes may make the children of the household eligible for reduced price meals or for free meals if the family income falls at or below the levels shown.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a household has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for them, the household should contact the school for more information.

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for purposes of determining eligibility and verifying data.

In the operation of child feeding programs administered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, sex, national origin, age or handicap. If any member of a household believes they have been discriminated against, they should write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, DC 20250.

Glovers Renovate Junk Into Jewels

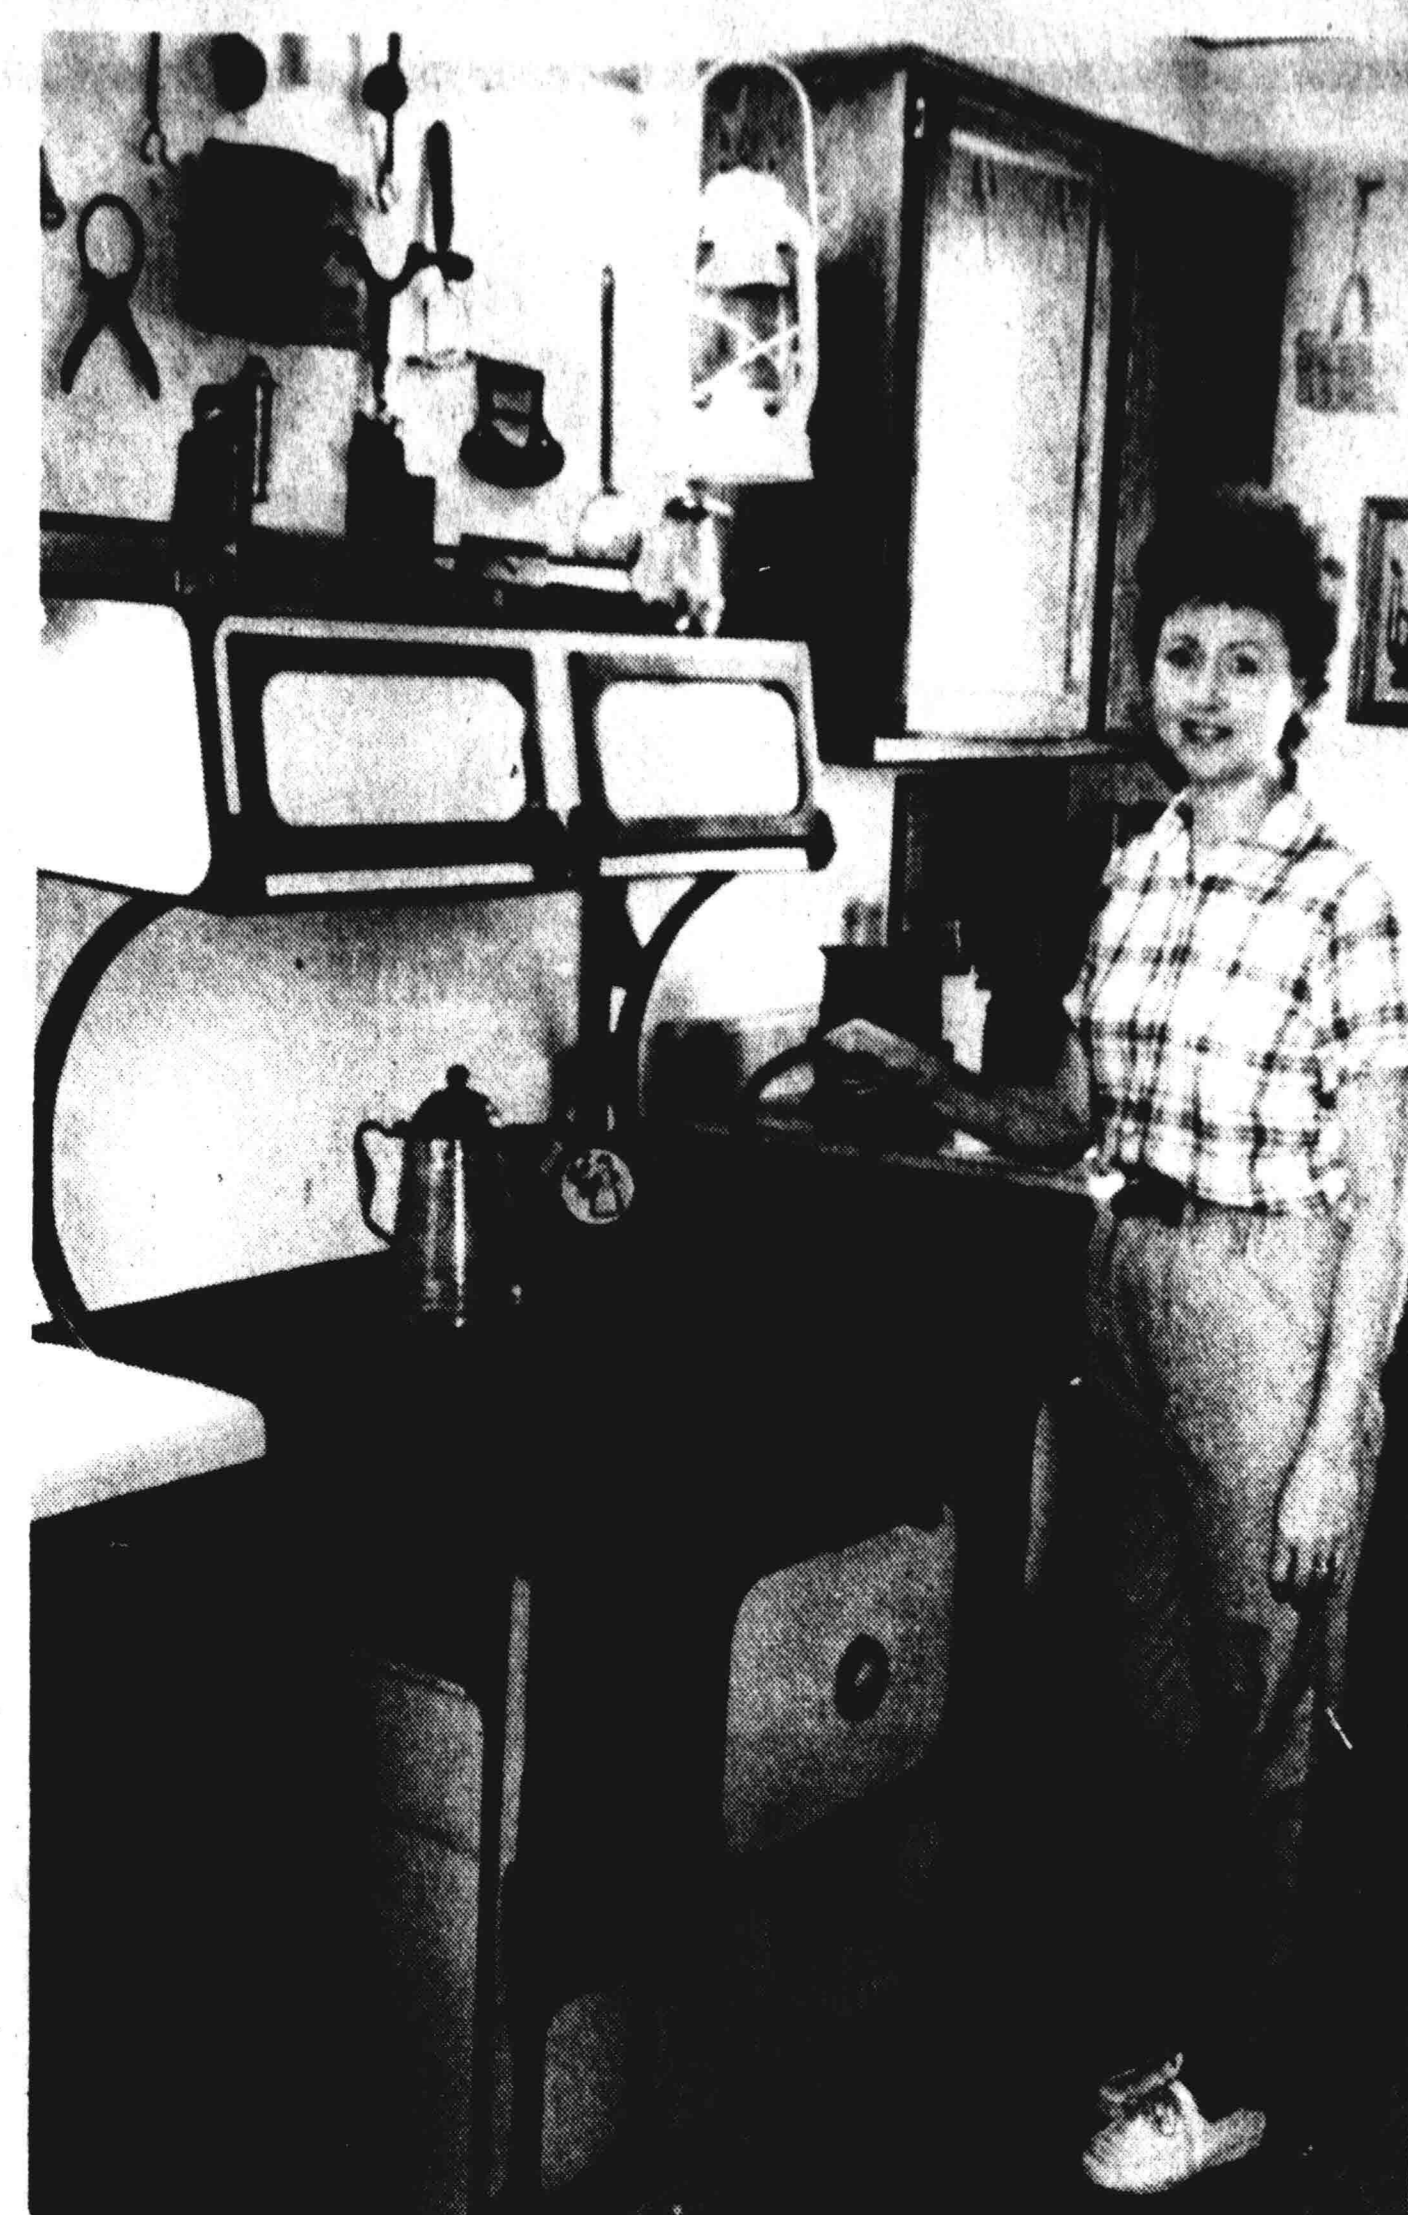

By Mrs. Sandra Holman
Jerry and Linda Glover were building a new home on Cedar Grove Road near Ripley—Jerry drove by Jordan & Sons Swap Shop—Jerry went home to tell Linda what he had seen on the front porch—Linda said, "Don't show it to me unless you're serious about buying it." Jerry bided his time and kept driving by to have a better look—Jerry finally took Linda to Jordan & Sons Swap Shop—Jerry and Linda came away with what their family and friends called a piece of junk.

This brief scenario describes to my readers how Jerry and Linda Glover found their kitchen stove. It's not just any kitchen stove—it's a wood burning kitchen stove that has been wired for electricity. The Glovers had two of the openings on the stove top transformed into two burners. Dan Holland, of Holland's Reconditioned Appliances, did the job for them, and he even managed to find two black drip pans to go under each eye (they usually come in white or chrome). The end result is a very unusual appliance that is almost exactly like the original. It is so heavy, that the builder had to reinforce the floor underneath so that there would be no extra strain on the kitchen floor.

Mr. Jordan bought the stove from an elderly man in Arkansas. He had bought it new for $13, and it is believed to be a model that was made sometime between 1918 and 1927. Made in Beaverdam, Wisc., by the Monarch Company, Linda has written the company for more information concerning the stove, but has, as of this writing, not received a reply.

Hanging on the wall above the stove are many antique kitchen utensils that Linda has acquired through years of visiting yard sales, antique shops and flea markets. These utensils only add more authenticity to the whole kitchen scene. The stove has the usual features of a stove built during this period of time: an ash bin; a water reservoir to keep boiling water going for cooking, and a bread warmer above. The oven has two shelves, and I would dearly love to have a nickel for every biscuit that has ever been baked in it. Think of the many meals that have been made and served from this one stove—it makes you wonder how many children were in the family, when did his wife pass away; were they a happy family and did they sit around this very stove on cold, dreary winter nights?

From the outside porch that Linda only described to her builder, Don Medford, of Ripley (and he built it just like she wanted), to the inside, where every piece has a loving and sentimental memory attached to it, this house is a dream come true for the Glovers.

Jerry is a very talented man—Linda said that she gets the big ideas, and Jerry makes them come to be. The 'Welcome' sign out front is the first indication of the talents that Jerry possesses. He makes the signs himself, and I've never seen one that made you feel quite so welcome. Jerry's father was a sign painter in Mayfield, Ky., and this talent

Halls History

By Mrs. Charles Alsbrook
Halls has a population of 2,562 in the last census. About 1,400 people work in Halls with Tuppers expecting to hire more when its expansion is completed. We have changed from a town that depended on farming or agriculture to truly a manufacturing town.

A new gin is being built which will be ready to gin cotton this fall, and we have a new Halls newspaper. I can remember when there were five gins in Halls and two just three miles away in Gates. There has only been one gin here for several years. Mr. Joe Sumrow put in the new modern gin and it was sold after his death.

The new cotton gin on the old air base will be modern and owned by several big farmers in the community. The new newspaper is also locally owned.

It is good to see new businesses here, as we have lost several merchants in the past few years. We are proud of our schools. Children who go away to college from Halls High School make higher than average grades on entrance tests.

Our mayor, Pat Higdon, has asked us to clean up around our homes. Grass has grown up in some of the sidewalks and streets. This not only looks bad but ruins the concrete and asphalt. People continue to throw more and more beer cans, pop bottles and litter of all kinds in people's yards and on the streets and public places.

Halls is a good place to live, work and send our children to school and church. Let's all do as our mayor has asked us to do and make Halls also a clean and pretty place to live.

Editor:
Oak Street in Halls has a new asphalt surface and concrete curb and gutter. This is the street that runs east and west and joins Jaynes Drive with Railroad Avenue.

There are 11 houses on Oak, and the road is also a convenience to all who live in the vicinity.

Mack Stanley and Randy Harris as well as Mayor Pat Higdon and the remaining members of the City Board all agreed to have this work done, and I commend all of them.

Billy Joe Childress had the contract for work, and it is a job well done. He stayed with his workers and helped the town when needed with their part of the work.

The people that live north of Tigrett Street, on Jaynes Drive, and west of Jaynes Drive, take pride in their homes, and as taxpayers, we appreciate this improvement in our neighborhood.

The unfortunate truth is that almost one in ten women will eventually develop breast cancer. Early detection greatly increases the ability to successfully treat and cure a patient. Mammography is the best means of early detection.

This screen is for women with no lumps and no prior history of breast disease. If you have a lump or any history of breast disease, we suggest you consult your family physician and talk to him about a possible diagnostic mammogram which can also be performed at BMH-Lauderdale.

Prison's Gains Related From AIDS To Zucchini

Wayne Douglas, of Ripley, associate warden of Fort Pillow State Prison Farm on Hwy. 87 west of Henning, told Ripley Rotarians Tuesday of changes at the prison under Warden Billy Compton, ranging from AIDS to zucchini.

AIDS (acquired immunity deficiency syndrome) is a new challenge to prison managers but has not been a problem at Fort Pillow, Douglas says, with almost all tests negative. But the ancient main prison in Nashville, which houses the prison system's hospital, is being converted to care for mentally, physically, or age-handicapped convicts, of whom he says there are many.

Fort Pillow has inmates with one arm or one leg and one man, 70, who can't manage stairs and has food brought to him. On a brighter note, prisoners raised last year (without so much as a fist-fight) 471,000 pounds of zucchini (sold to United Foods in Bells) on 30 acres, planted this year to yellow squash.

Douglas credits supervising correction officers, equally with convicts, for the venture's success. "They had to work together, and they did."

"They can both be proud of the results." A $120,000 irrigation system is being installed. The water plant is getting a $750,000 overhaul.

Steam lines are being reworked for $300,000. "We use steam heat," Douglas says, "but we only had two settings, 'hot' or 'off!'"

Power lines (a puzzle, some transformers and lines owned by the state, some by Southwest Tennessee Electric) are being improved, for $145,000. Two "car wash" showers for mobs of men at a time (built decades ago as one each for blacks and whites) are being replaced by 12 showers in each of five cell blocks, at a cost of $145,000. Using prison labor, the former shower areas will be converted into offices for $30,000 or less. The laundry is getting a $100,000 upgrade.

A maintenance building is being added, for $60,000. The original prison, now the dairy barn, is being renovated (for $340,000) into a modern facility (it supplies milk to many other state institutions and sells any small surplus). Convicts housed there built the present prison, which employs about 500.

The present prison is being converted to house about 450 medium security prisoners, while a new, $2,000,000 building will bring minimum security beds to 150, up by 48. A new maximum security prison across the road (due for completion next year—cost trimmed from early estimates of $37,000,000 to $28,000,000) will have 640 beds and employ 350.

Planned for it are two new prison industries—manufacture of shirts, bed linens, etc., for con-

Halls Westside Baptist Church will celebrate Home-Coming Sept. 11th, with Bible study for all ages at 10 a.m.; worship at 11, with the message by The Rev. Harry Willburn, former pastor; covered dish lunch at 12:15 a.m.; gospel singing by the Barnett family at 1:30 p.m.

"We thank First Baptist Church in Halls for its vision and support in the beginning, and many members and friends who have remained faithful to their Lord and their church," says Mr. Anderson.

Beans, Cotton Need Rainfall

By Charles T. Peal
The outlook for soybeans and cotton is excellent if enough moisture arrives to help fill bean pods and mature green the medium-sized scene.

As this is being written (Friday), the ground is very dry, and prospective yields of 1 1/4 bales for cotton and upwards of 50 bushels on early beans will not be forthcoming without adequate moisture. The market outlook Soybean Outlook Acres planted to soybeans is up two percent from last year. This is above farmer's acreage intentions as determined by the March survey, but below the average trade expectation. A fairly large acreage of double-crop soybeans has been planted during July, following long-overdue rainfall. A moderately late first frost will be needed for some fields to mature. Yield prospects have been reduced by very dry weather. However, rather extensive rains in most major growing areas during mid-July have boosted crop potential considerably. Although this year's crop is far from made, national average yields of 27-28 bushels are still quite possible if rainfall amounts are at least average through mid-September.

Based on the estimated yield levels, supply for the year ahead projects to be 17% to 21% smaller than last year. Stocks will be

Motorcycle Rider Killed In Crash

Alan Clinton Koonce, 32, of Ripley, was killed at 12:30 a.m. Monday when his motorcycle struck the rear of an automobile on U.S. Highway 51, officials said. Koonce's motorcycle struck a car driven by Louie Bradley, 50, of Winston-Salem, N.C., who was traveling south on the highway, said Dennis Stephens of the Tennessee Highway Patrol Memphis District.

Koonce was wearing a helmet, and Bradley was wearing a seat belt, Stephens said. The accident is being investigated by Trooper Raymond Smith.

Koonce, a truck driver, was pronounced dead at Baptist Hospital in Lauderdale. Bradley was not injured.

Services were at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Yarbrough Funeral Home, with burial in Ripley Memorial Gardens.

He leaves his mother, Mrs. Louise Dyer, of Halls; his father, Sam Koonce, of Ripley; a sister, Mrs. Sandra Jackson, of Memphis; and his grandmothers, Mrs. L. E. Koonce and Mrs. Carmen Smith, of Ripley.

America and the United States. Congress has already proposed program changes which would boost soybean acreage in 1989.

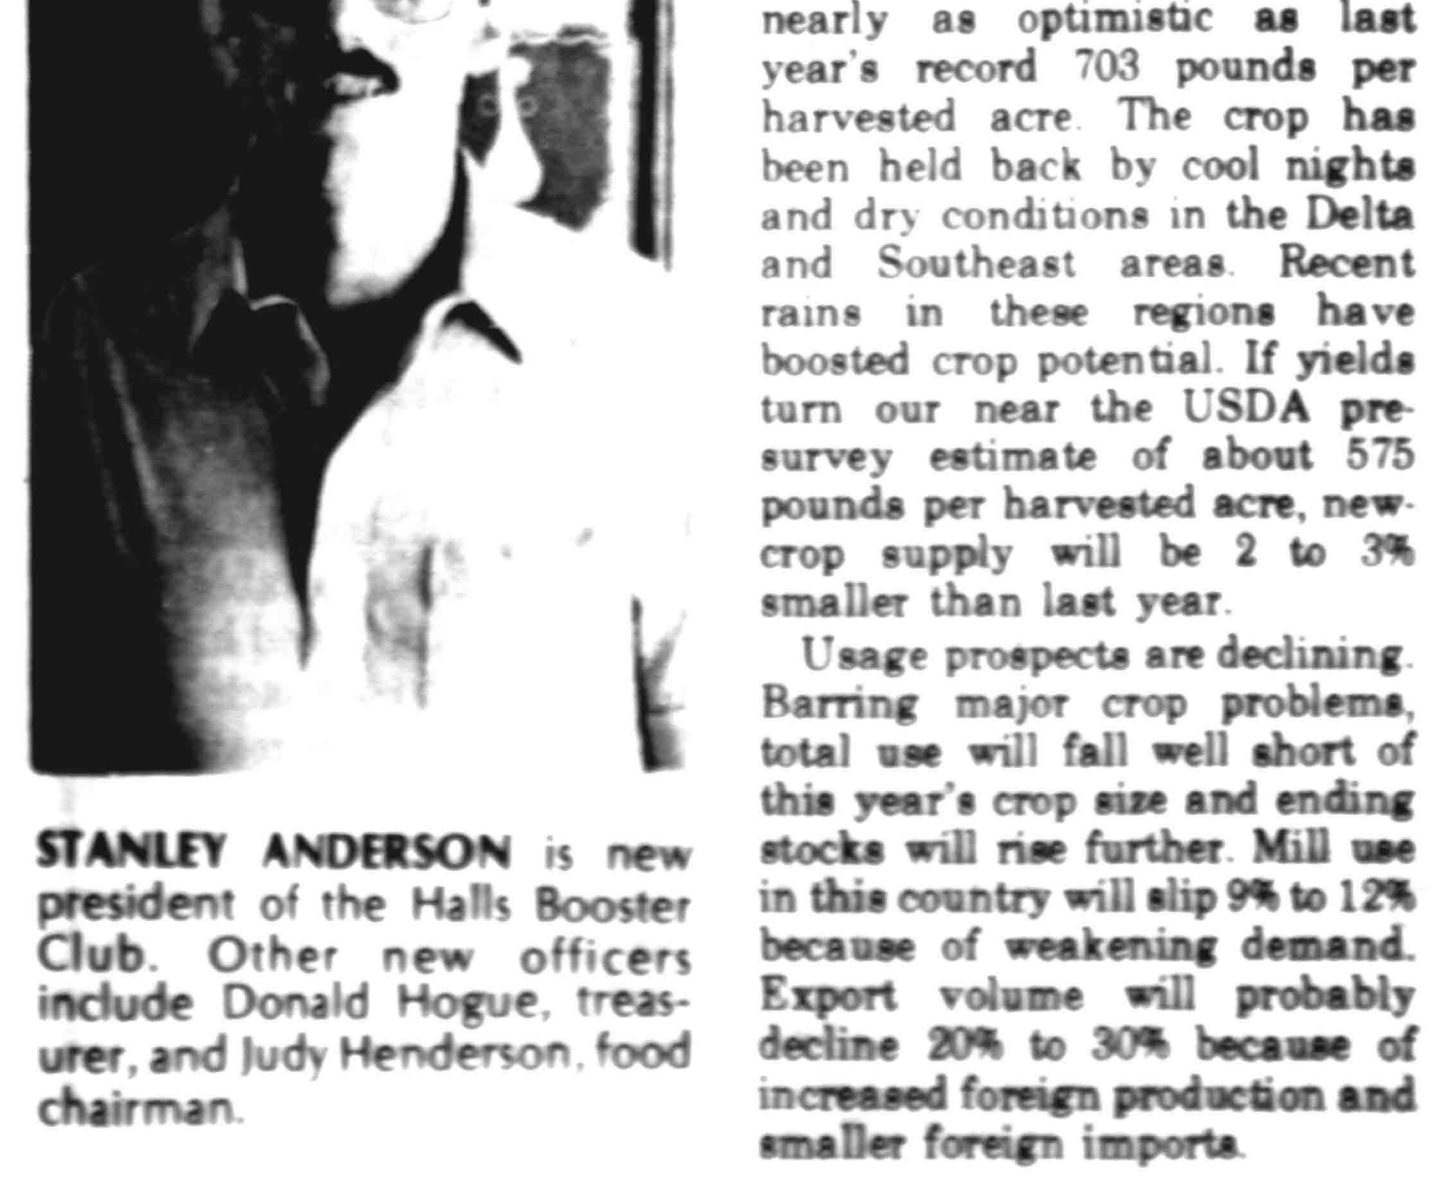

Corn Outlook
A smaller supply will cut usage and boost prices. Total use of corn may decline 10% to 15%. Prices paid to Tennessee farmers may average near $3.

The short-crop price pattern suggests that prices may peak by September and then decline.

Cotton Outlook
The 1987-88 marketing year, which just ended, featured rather large stocks but heavy usage. Mill use at 7,750,000 bales was down 1.5 million from the previous year's favorable level. However, usage will fall about 500,000 bales short of USDA projections made five months ago. Most of the shippage has been on the export side.

The 1988-89 marketing year, which began Aug. 1, features a smaller crop size and reduced usage. Carryover stocks are about 11% larger than a year ago. US acreage planted this spring is up 17% from a year ago because of favorable yields, prices and profits last year, and a reduced acreage reduction requirement in the '88 cotton program. Yield prospects are not nearly as optimistic as last year's record 703 pounds per harvested acre. The crop has been held back by cool nights and dry conditions in the Delta and Southeast areas. Recent rains in these regions have boosted crop potential. If yields turn out near the USDA survey estimate of about 575 pounds per harvested acre, new crop supply will be 2 to 3% smaller than last year.

Usage prospects are declining. Barring major crop problems, total use will fall well short of this year's crop size and ending stocks will rise further. Mill use in this country will slip 9% to 12% because of weakening demand. Export volume will probably decline 20% to 30% because of increased foreign production and smaller foreign imports.

STANLEY ANDERSON is new president of the Halls Booster Club. Other new officers include Donald Hogue, treasurer, and Judy Henderson, food chairman.

 REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

Although there are many Americans who would like to forget about the happenings and tragedies of the Vietnam War, there are many more who can't because family and friends have been labeled as POWs and MIAs. The House of Representatives passed a resolution in the middle of August which would establish an official database, known as interest registries, in Washington and Hanoi. This is an attempt to resolve the humanitarian concerns between the United States and Vietnam which have been standing in the way of our relations for quite a number of years.
 There is no doubt that there remains tension between America and Vietnam.
 It is quite likely that those tensions will remain for some time. Resolving the questions about the POWs and MIAs has been one of several actions that could result in more cordial relations between the two countries.
 That doesn't mean that there will be normal relations for some time. Scars remain among many Americans over the difficult experience of the Vietnam War. There can be no doubt that similar harsh feelings remain among Vietnamese people who remember America only as a nation that deployed combat troops there.
 After these many years, hopefully these new initiatives between America and Vietnam will produce some concrete information about the POWs and MIAs that have gone unaccounted for. Those families whose sons, brothers, fathers, and husbands remain unaccounted for deserve to see a conclusion to this question.

Married In Memphis

MR. AND MRS. DAVID IRBY WOOD pledged double-ring vows in Central Church in Memphis Aug. 6th.

The bride, Lori Michelle Linebaugh, is the daughter of Sandra Bray Linebaugh, of Memphis, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clinton Linebaugh, of Ripley.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mack Wood, of Dyersburg.

The Rev. Don Johnson officiated as tapers in arch and pyramid candelabra glowed over altar vases of white and yellow gladioli. Hurricane lamps lined the center aisle.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of candle-light satin by Jean of New York. An off-the-shoulder neck-line curved into huge loop sleeves adorned with taredrop pearls and crystal lines. A Basque waist-line accented a fitted bodice covered with antique English beaded lace, descending to a bustle below a V's mid-back. A full skirt flowed into a cathedral train; both featured appliques and borders of English lace.

Her processional head-piece, adorned with large taredrop pearls and crystallines, held a full pouffed veil of silk illusion, decorated with seed pearls and scalloped edging.

She carried an arm bouquet of white calla lilies, miniature yellow carnations, and yellow-throated gladioli, twined with ivy and tied with a yellow bow with streamers.

Kelly DeLoach, of Memphis, was maid of honor. Other bridal attendants were Miss Beth Hamm, of Germantown, and Mrs. Lisa Greer, Miss Lori Payne, and Miss Denise Pearson, of Memphis. Miss Rachel Thompson, of Ripley, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

They wore tea-length gowns of emerald green iridescent taffeta with off-the-shoulder necklines, fitted waistlines, and full skirts. They carried decorated hurricane lamps, gifts from the bride.

The bride's cousins, Melanie Cagle, of Memphis, and Laura Thompson, of Ripley, carried baskets of rose petals. Another cousin, Sarah Thompson, of Ripley, carried in a basket bouquets presented to mothers as the couple left the church. They wore tea-length dresses of yellow smoked cotton, with halos of baby's breath in their hair.

Nuptials In Florida

MR. AND MRS. DAVID LEE BLEHM pledged double ring vows Aug. 20th in Pilgrim Congregational Church, UCC, in St. Petersburg, Fla., with The Rev. Daniel Horn officiating.

The bride, Delia Ann Henson, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Denton Henson, of Jackson, and the granddaughter of the late E. C. and Selma Henson, of Jackson, and of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Caldwell, of Ripley.

Mr. Blehm is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Blehm, of St. Petersburg, and the grandson of Gladys McClure, of St. Petersburg, and of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Blehm, of Hooker, Okla.

The altar table held an arrangement of white gladioli in a crystal vase, along with a unity candle. It was flanked with large ferns.

Mrs. Rosalia Moresca, of St. Petersburg, presented music. Traditional marches were used.

Given by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown with long fitted sleeves ending in bridal points over the hands. The fitted bodice was appliqued with lace and seed pearls. The gown flowed into a chapel train. A headpiece of silk roses and seed pearls held a fingertip veil of illusion.

The bride carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses nestled in by ivy, with white satin streamers.

She wore a string of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Lisa Preston, of St. Petersburg, was maid of honor, in a gown of wine satin with off-the-shoulder sleeves and a draped bustle. Her cascading bouquet was of mauve sweetheart roses, pink and mauve carnations, and ivy.

Other bridal attendants were sisters of the bride, Lori Henson Williams, of St. Petersburg, and Elizabeth Henson, of Jackson. Their gowns were identical to the maid of honor's, except they were misty rose. Their bouquets contained pink carnations, mauve sweetheart roses, and small white daisies.

D. J. Kishman, of St. Petersburg, was best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Steve Stanley, of St. Petersburg, and Todd Theodore, of Orlando, Fla.

The groom wore a grey shadow and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Arwood, of Ripley. Great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Caldwell, Sr. and Mrs. Mildred Arwood, of Ripley.

Residing In Gates

THE REV. AND MRS. JODY STARK are residing in Gates after July 16th vows in Willow Grove Missionary Baptist Church near Covington, with The Rev. Charles Hayes officiating.

The bride, Claudia Fitzpatrick, is the daughter of Annie Lou Fitzpatrick and granddaughter of Mrs. Jennie Lou Deberry, of Ripley. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stark, of Covington.

A reception was held after the ceremony in Fraizer Community Center in Covington.

The food table, covered in white, was decorated with white gladioli. It offered assorted meats and cheeses; onion and cheese dip; a vegetable tray; finger sandwiches; and assorted breads and crackers.

The round bride's table, draped in white, held a 2-tier white and chocolate cake, decorated with wine silk flowers, with a bridal couple on top.

Assisting in serving were the bride's aunt, Mrs. Mazie Cook, of Ripley, Kathy Kidd and Carrie Sutton, of St. Petersburg, and Mrs. Tina Thomas, of St. Joseph, Mo.

Among other guests from a distance were the bride's grandmother, Delia (Mrs. Walter) Caldwell, and Mrs. Thomas's husband, Joe, of St. Joseph, Mo.

The rehearsal dinner was at The Food Factory in St. Petersburg. Guests enjoyed barbecued ribs and chicken, salad, potatoes or rice and Key lime pie. The couple presented their attendants with gifts.

The couple honeymooned at the Hilton on St. Petersburg Beach before flying to the Virgin Islands. They are at home in Palestine, Ill.

JEANNE JONES

CHICKEN CASSEROLE WITH INTEGRITY

Dear Jeanne: A friend of mine gave me this recipe, but told me it was pretty rich. I told her about your column and she asked if I would send it to you. Could you please help?

Beth Schumacher
Tonawaw, Wis.
CRISPY CHICKEN CASSEROLE

- 2 cups diced cooked chicken
- 1 (10½-ounce) can cream of mushroom soup
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1 cup cooked rice (cook in broth if desired)
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated onion
- 1 (3½-ounce) can sliced mushrooms, drained
- ½ cup sliced almonds, toasted
- 1 cup crumbled corn flakes
- 3 tablespoons butter, diced

1. Preheat oven to 350 F and grease a 2-quart casserole.

2. Mix together the chicken, soup, mayonnaise, celery, rice, lemon juice, onion, mushrooms and almonds; place mixture in casserole.

3. Sprinkle with the corn flakes and diced butter and bake in 350 F oven for 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Dear Beth: Your friend has given you an easy-to-prepare recipe; however, she was correct in thinking it could use some help to make it more healthy. There is always a trade-off in convenience versus quality when it comes to casseroles such as this one that use canned ingredients. One of my favorite sayings is, "The integrity of any recipe is totally dependent upon the quality of the ingredients used."

By making your own cream soup you control the amount of fat and sodium your casserole will contain, and eliminate unwanted additives as well. Using fresh rather than canned foods will assure maximum flavor for the calories consumed, and again avoid such additives and preservatives as sodium and MSG.

You will see I have reduced the fat in your recipe by both reducing the amount of mayonnaise and by substituting a reduced-calorie mayonnaise for my revision. I used less nuts, since they are also a high-fat ingredient. By using whole, unblanched almonds, chopped and toasted, and sprinkling them over the top of the casserole instead of mixing them in, you get more flavor and texture for less calories. This allowed me to eliminate the cornflake-and-butter topping without missing it.

I like the added flavor and texture of brown rice, plus it has more nutritional value and fiber than white rice. However, white rice can be used if you prefer. I have changed the name of my revised recipe to better reflect its new character. I hope you are pleased with the results.

CRISPY CHICKEN CASSEROLE

- 1 tablespoon corn-oil margarine
- 3 tablespoons unbleached flour
- ¼ cup defatted chicken stock
- ¼ cup non-fat milk
- ¼ teaspoon salt (omit if using salted stock)
- Dash of garlic powder
- Dash of freshly ground black pepper
- 2 cups diced cooked chicken
- ½ cup reduced-calorie mayonnaise
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1 cup cooked brown rice (cook in broth if desired)
- 1 tablespoon freshly squeezed lemon juice
- ¼ cup grated onion
- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms, steamed
- ¼ cup raw almonds, chopped and toasted

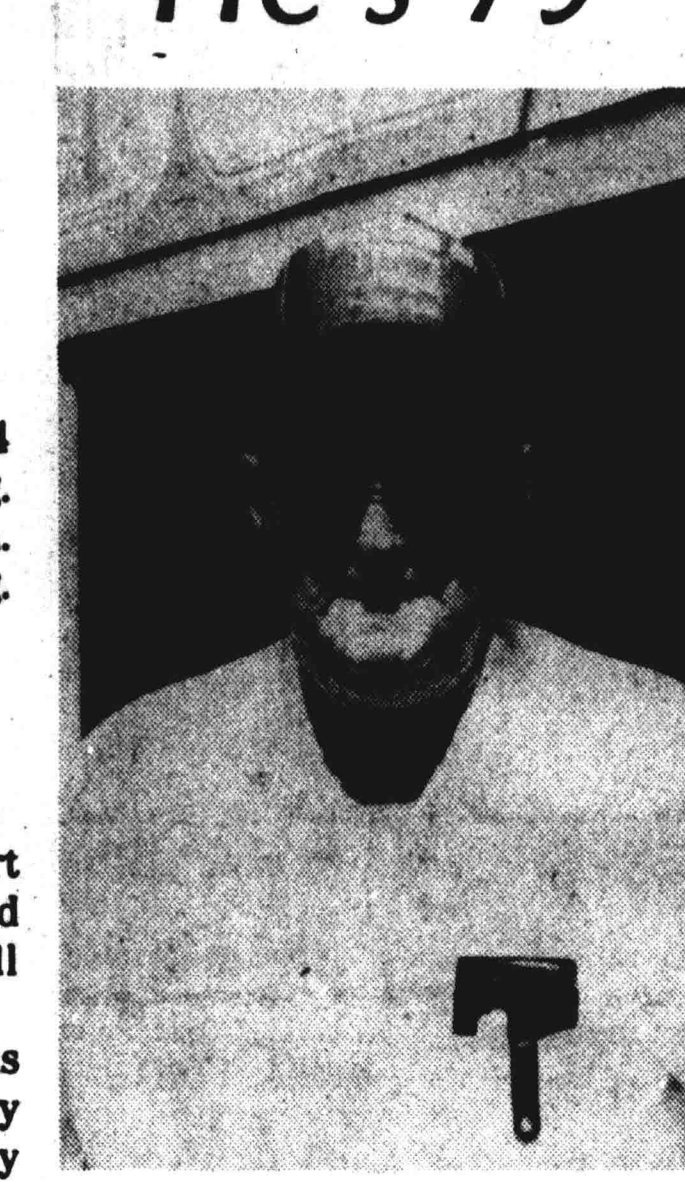

1. Preheat oven to 350 F. Melt the margarine in a heavy skillet; add flour and stir over medium heat for 1 minute; do not brown.

2. Add the chicken stock and non-fat milk and, using a wire whisk, stir the mixture over medium heat until it comes to a boil. Add the salt, garlic powder and pepper and continue to cook for 1 minute more.

3. Mix the sauce mixture with the chicken, mayonnaise, celery, rice, lemon juice, onion and mushrooms, and pour into a 2-quart, vegetable sprayed with non-stick vegetable coating. Sprinkle almonds over the top and bake in a 350 F oven for 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

vegetables on top of the puree. Any pattern you like is fine, just let your imagination run wild.

If you are really adventurous, puree some part-skim ricotta cheese in a food processor until it is satin-smooth and, using a pastry tube, decorate the top of your Vegetable Fantasy with swirls and squiggles. Not only is this fun, it is also low in calories it could be aptly titled A Dieter's Dream!

1 cup zucchini, thinly sliced (32 rounds)
32 carrot slices (1 cup)
½ cup corn kernels
1 cup broccoli flowerettes
1 cup cauliflowerettes
1 medium red bell pepper, seeded and cut in shapes
1. Steam squash until soft, about 10 minutes. Peel squash and place in a blender jar. Add the water and puree until satin-smooth, adding a little more water if necessary to reach an easily pourable consistency.

2. Cut all other vegetables into desired shapes (rounds, diamonds, strips, etc.) and steam until crisp-tender.

3. Pour ½ cup of the puree into the center of each of four dinner-size plates with rims. Tilt the plates until squash puree evenly coats entire inner surface of the plates and arrange the vegetable shapes artistically on the top.

4. Using a pastry tube, decorate with pureed part-skim ricotta cheese, if desired.

200 YEARS OF FRIENDSHIP

IN PARIS, Lafayette and Washington by Auguste Bartholdi.

More than two centuries of friendship between France and the United States will be marked in many ways in the coming year, and is symbolized by the life-size statues of General Washington and General LaFayette, erected in 1881 on the Place des Etats-Unis in Paris by Auguste Bartholdi shortly after he completed the Statue of Liberty.

The Bicentennial year of the French Revolution will fill 1989 with fun and celebration, highlighted by pageants, festivals, exhibitions and spectacles.

The American and French Revolutions, only decades apart and of mutual inspiration, led to two fundamental charters in the history of human rights—the French Declaration of the Rights of Man, and the American Bill of Rights—both approved in the landmark month of July. Ever since, Americans and Frenchmen have celebrated together the pursuit of liberty and democracy.

The Bicentennial Year of the French Revolution will be celebrated in Paris and Versailles, and throughout France in key cities such as Bordeaux, Rouen, La Rochelle, Reims and many more.

Opening ceremonies in January on Paris' Place de la Concorde will be seen worldwide on satellite television. "Sails of Liberty" tall-ships of the world rendez-vous in Rouen July 9 to 16. From May to September the Eiffel Tower celebrates its centennial (it was built to mark the 100th anniversary of the French Revolution) in June and July Versailles will re-enact the Estates-General that launched the Revolution, while the chateau and gardens will host opera.

Bad Check Law Shifts

The state legislature has toughened the bad check law, reports District Attorney General Paul G. Summers, of Somerville, serving this area.

Public Chapter 868 makes it unlawful for a person with fraudulent intent to stop payment on a check for which services or a thing of value was received. If there is a dispute between the customer and the merchant, criminal liability does not apply. If the merchant accepts a post-dated check or knows that the customer did not have sufficient funds to cover the check, a crime is not committed.

If a customer violates the criminal law, the judge shall require the defendant to pay back the check with interest and any service charges incurred by the business in collecting the check. For felony convictions the judge may fine the person up to $5,000 instead of jailing the defendant.

There are some new civil penalties in Public Chapter 868 as well. If an individual defrauds a business by use of a bad check, he is liable for (1) the amount of the check; (2) 10% interest from the date the check was issued; (3) court costs; and (4) reasonable attorney's fees.

If notice is given from the business to the customer of a dishonored check and the person makes restitution within ten (10) days, interest, court costs, and attorney's fees will not be assessed. Notice is given by the merchant depositing a letter in the United States mail at the customer's last known address.

If the merchant sends a certified letter and the customer does not make restitution within thirty (30) days, the customer will be liable for the amount of the check plus treble the face amount of the check not to exceed $500.00. But the certified letter must be sent before treble damages may apply. It should be noted that a business must choose whether to pursue a criminal action or a civil action which involves the treble damages; it cannot use both.

There was much debate in the legislature about this new bill when it passed. The bill provides benefits to both

DON SMITH, right, new assessor of property, was sworn in Thursday of last week, in the chambers of Judge Willard Norvell, by County Executive William Tucker, left. Smith, who has worked for the assessor's office for 13 years, succeeds Bernice Crain, who did not seek re-election.

At Libertyland

UPPERWARE FAMILY OUTING drew more than 3,500 Halls plant employees and guests to Libertyland in Memphis Aug. 13th and 20th. Among them were, from left, above, Jackie Hall, of Dyersburg, Judy Jones, of Halls, Delores Littlejohn, of Ripley, Connie Duval, of Halls, Ken Baumgartner, of Dyersburg; and at right, April Dowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Dowell, of Ripley; Lendy Bartlett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Dunavant, of Ripley, with furry friend; and from left, Kirk Greer, of Halls, James Ingram, of Ripley, and Dianne Ingram, of Ripley.

the business and the customer if the customer does not have fraudulent intent. Of course, if an individual under the old law had no criminal intent, he or she could not be prosecuted criminally. But the provisions for treble damages may be a means for the business person to let people know that writing bad checks does not pay off in the end.

Victorian Village:

A Visit With History

MEMPHIS, Tennessee — A stroll down Adams Avenue past a row of elegant Victorian homes is an irresistible draw to another era. In the mind's eye it is the 19th century, and the front doors are opened wide by gracious hostesses welcoming guests. It is the time when Memphis was a boom town, prospering from the cotton trade. The homes along Millionaires' Row reflect the values of the day — when large homes displayed wealth and offered room for family and friends, and polite society moved at a slower pace in contrast to the bustling business world.

Today, the Victorian Village Historic District preserves this special part of Memphis' history. Three homes, the Magevney House, the Mallory-Neely House and the Woodruff-Fontaine House are open to the public. Others are privately owned and can be enjoyed on a walking tour.

Although all original owners of these homes were wealthy, the Mallory-Neely house best reflects the attitude of conspicuous consumption. The home exudes a "High Victorian" atmosphere. Patterned wall-to-wall carpeting, flocked wallpaper in rich, bold colors, intricately carved mahogany mantels, stenciled walls, elaborate moldings and furnishings brought from around the world were considered the height of interior design in the 1890s.

The home was built in the 1850s as a two-and-a-half story brick and stucco structure. It was purchased in 1883 by James Columbus Neely who literally raised the roof during extensive renovation in the 1890s. Neely added a third floor and tower, giving the house 25 rooms, nearly 16,000 square feet and an Italianate Victorian style.

Neely died in 1901, but his daughter Frances Neely Mallory lived there until her death in 1969 at the age of 96. Because of the home's continued occupation, 95 percent of the furnishings are original to the Neely family. The home belongs to the city and is being restored to an 1890s style.

In the parlor are gasoliers which were never converted to electricity.

Neely liked the idea of electricity, but not enough to wire the whole house. Instead, at each of the eight points of two roundel star patterns in the ceiling is a lightbulb — bare. Installing electricity was very expensive, and Neely wanted to show he was wealthy enough to afford it. Here also are wedding gifts to Frances Neely and Barton Lee

William Green

William A. (Doc) Green, 62, of Halls, employee of Hutcherson Scrap Co. in Halls, died Monday in William F. Bowld Hospital in Memphis.

Services are set for 2 p.m. Thursday in Hutcherson Chapel Church of God, of which he was a member, with burial in the church cemetery, Ripley Funeral Home in charge.

He leaves his wife, Pansy Nelson Green; three sons, William A. Green, Jr., of Memphis, Buddy Green, of Halls, and Timmy Green, of Ripley; four daughters, Kay Johnson, Denise Rose and Miss Janice Green, of Halls, and Annette McCaslin, of Ripley; his step-mother, Earline Green, of Ripley; three brothers, Franklin Green and Guy Green, Jr., of Atoka, and Larry Green, of La Grange; three sisters, Helen Yarbrough and Virginia Cobb, of Brownsville; and 14 grandchildren.

1925) died in 1930, the home was boarded up. In 1941, it was given to the city and restored.

Another successful restoration effort is found at the Woodruff-Fontaine House. In 1959, when the city planned to demolish the home, the Association for the Preservation of Tennessee Antiquities (APTA) interceded. The house opened in 1964 and has been furnished as a decorative arts home. Furnishings include a handwoven silk Aubusson rug in the parlor, Louis XV and XVI style furniture, an 1854 piano with mother-of-pearl keys and a harp made in England in 1845.

Although only a few furnishings are original, they complement the three-story mansion built by Amos and Phoebe Woodruff in 1870. The home is French Victorian, Second Empire style. First floor ceilings are 16 feet high, and floors are oak and mahogany. In 1883, Woodruff sold the home to Nolan and Virginia Fontaine who lived there until 1928. The home was then used as part of an art school until 1959.

Designers planned for balance to the extent that a door was installed against the back wall in the hallway to match an opposite door — and then nailed shut. During the restoration, the door was unsealed, revealing the craftsmen's signatures and the date — February 11, 1871.

The house also holds a collection of more than 2,000 articles of clothing dating from the 1830s to the 1920s. Different portions of the collection are always on display such as delicate bridal gowns or sturdy sailor-style suits for little boys. Other articles include beautiful lace party dresses, brightly flowered day dresses, hats, parasols, gloves, corsets, jewelry and shawls.

Services were at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Mary's Chapel Baptist Church, with burial in the church cemetery, Ripley Funeral Home in charge.

She also leaves her husband, John G. Brooks; two daughters, Alice Joiner, of Searcy, Ark., and Johnny Sue Swann, of Springfield, Mo.; five grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

MALLETT RETURNS

Dr. Reginald Mallett, one of the most popular ministers ever to speak in Ripley's First Methodist Church, will be heard in services Oct. 2nd-5th in First Church, Brownsville. Chief Medical Officer and General Manager of the Cheltenham District Health Authority in England, he is in town every weekend. He has visited the U.S. since 1963.

Sunday services are at 10:50 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Morning schedule includes coffee at 6:30, worship at 7, and Continental breakfast at 7:30.

Tomato producers here have been using it for 20 years. Sprayed on mature fruits, it causes them to ripen in five days, speeding marketing.

Harvest aids do a good job dropping leaves in about 10 days. Some defoliants completely stop growth, while others allow terminal growth to return when moisture is present.

County cotton producers have received a newsletter providing information on, and rates for, all the recommended harvest aids.

Diseases Of Greens

Home gardeners planting turnips early for greens should note that leaves may develop problems with anthracnose, characterized by numerous tan leaf spots with thin purple halos.

Anthracnose is usually more severe in overly-thick plantings in rainy weather.

The fungicide Benlate is cleared for use on this disease but has a 14-day waiting period.

The only fungicide that can be used are old packages of Manzate or Diathane M-45 that have greens crops on the label.

Cannery To Close

Gardeners and others with peas to can, applesauce to make, or tomatoes to make into juice should do so soon.

The county cannery in Ripley's South Industrial Park has preserved a large amount of vegetables and fruits despite dry weather conditions.

Lola Allen and Beesie Johnson supervise the cannery, open to all.

Halls Board Shifts Real Estate Rules

Halls' Town Board, meeting Tuesday of last week, voted to annex the area from Gate 6 of the former Air Base to Industrial Rd., to re-zone a lot north of Cook Tire & Service Center from R-2 to B-1, and to allow apartments in the Central Business District.

The board agreed to allow Huey Lumber Co.'s lease to expire in 1991, as scheduled.

The board asked Charlie Dyer, its attorney, of Dyersburg, to inform it of state regulation on tinted glass and rental of sexually explicit videos.

Halls Eleven Opens District Vs. Sharon

Halls High School's Class A Tigers, 1-2 after a 28-10 loss to Class AA Trenton last week, open their District 14 season Friday, hosting Sharon's winless Eagles.

Sharon coach Jimmy Grooms, who founded the Eagles in 1982 and 1983, returns (replacing Larry Ingle) with four seniors—Greg Gardner (5-9, 150) at quarterback, and Daniel Arnold (5-8, 150), at half-back, keying a wish-bone offense, and David Ballard (tackle) and Brian Wheat (guard) in the line of a 6-2 defense.

Sharon has been 1-9 the last two seasons. This fall:

• Bruceton 41, Sharon 6—Gardner scored Sharon's only points with a third period quarterback sneak over left guard.

• Greenfield 33, Sharon 0—Yellow Jacket Randy Huffstetter returned the kick-off 75 yards, and it was no contest.

• West Carroll 35, Sharon 22—Marcus Cunningham returned the opening kick 80 yards.

Intercepting for 62 yards, WC led at the half 35-0. Gardner scored on runs of 4, 10, and 3 yards.

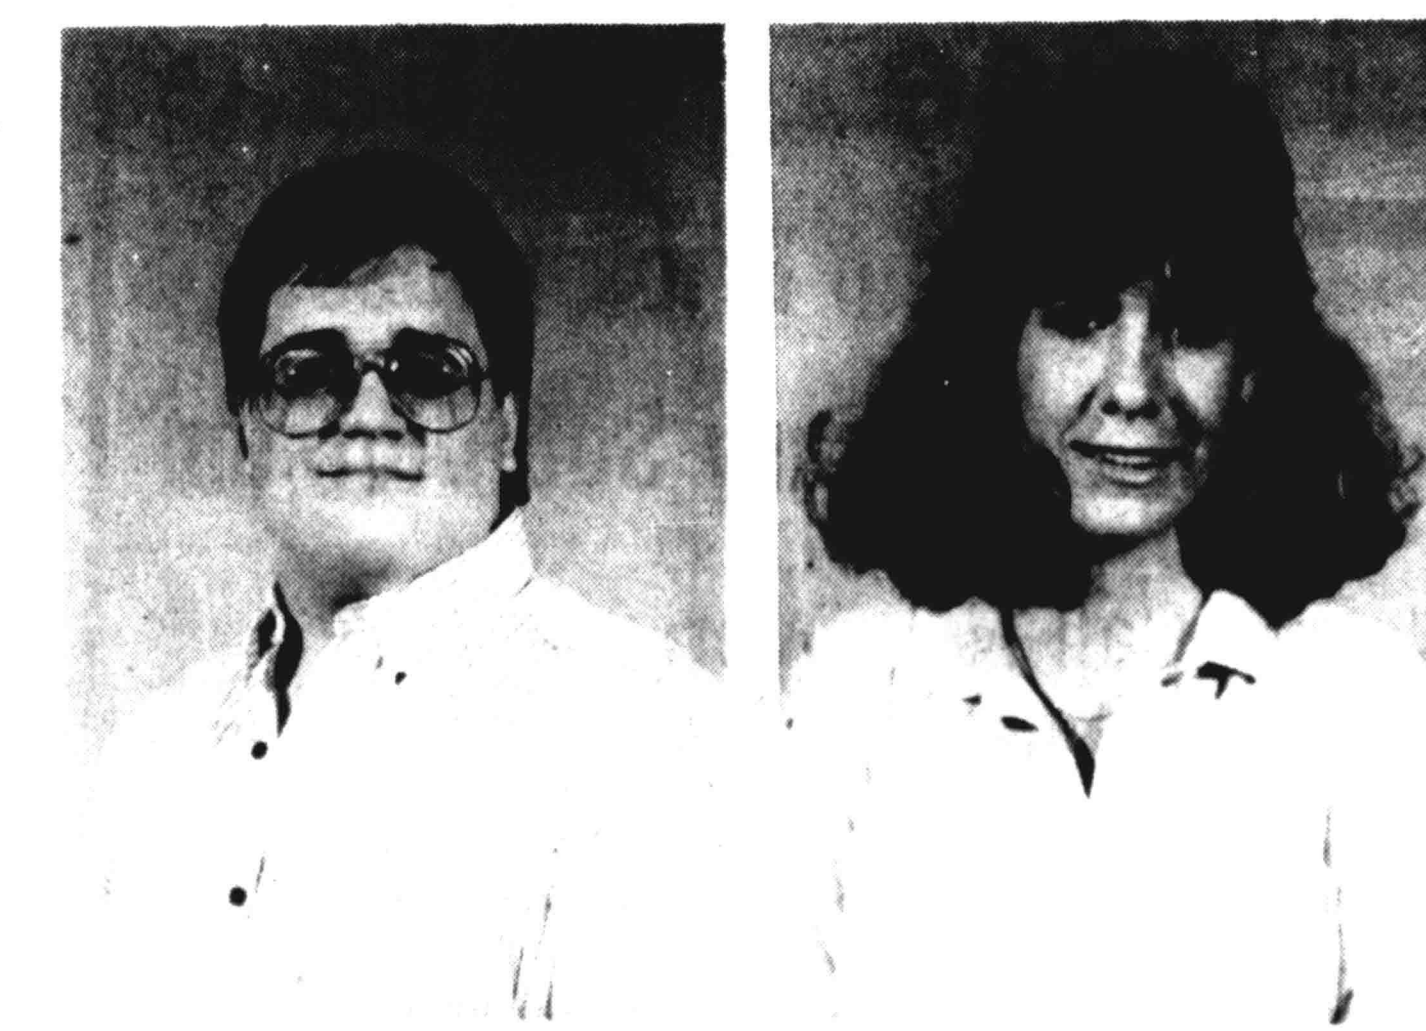

Dickson Led Tide

Hosting Halls, junior tail-back Walter Dickson (5-9, 180) posted all four TDs for Trenton on runs of one, nine, and 24 yards, plus a 97-yard second period kick-off return.

His 128 yards on 22 carries pushed his season record to 488 yards (and eight TDs) in 75 carries.

Tim DeWalt (6-0, 230) scored for Halls from the four, in the final period, and Justin Taylor (6-0, 190), who had posted a 25-yard field goal in the second period, added the extra point.

Martin Dorm Aides

RESIDENT ASSISTANTS at the University of Tennessee in Martin include Robert Ellis and Michelle Hargett, of Halls. Ellis is a senior, majoring in secondary education. Michelle is a sophomore, majoring in elementary education.

Some Cotton Is Defoliated

By Charles T. Peal
Rob Reviere and Sidney Talley, Jr., have applied harvest aid to cotton on lighter soils, where bolls are opening almost exhausted.

Defoliation works best in mature, well-fruited, uniform cotton in which the nutrient supply is almost exhausted.

Boll maturity is best determined by cutting a top boll crosswise. The presence of a thin brown line around the seed indicates the boll is near maturity and will not be adversely affected by harvest-aid chemicals.

Green Scene Sam Williams says some of his cotton is about 60% open, with the youngest bolls he expects to harvest now mature.

Weather conditions have a great effect on the response to defoliants. A night temperature above 60 degrees is important. Defoliation works best in mature, well-fruited, uniform cotton in which the nutrient supply is almost exhausted.

Boll maturity is best determined by cutting a top boll crosswise. The presence of a thin brown line around the seed indicates the boll is near maturity and will not be adversely affected by harvest-aid chemicals.

Prep, one of the newer chemicals being applied, is actually ethrel. It will cause the bolls to open. Pat Parker, Jr. and his son, Bill, first used this material in a demonstration about 15 years ago and have continued its use.

Halls History

By Mrs. Charles Alabrook Jesse U. Overall (Lt. Col., retired, U.S. Army) and his daughter, Lucianne Overall, have moved from Dyersburg to their home just west of Halls, the former Charles R. Viaz home.

They moved to the country to be able to have their horses near their home. I visited them Friday. Their names seemed familiar, but I could not place them.

Lucianne is owner-manager of the Ticker Travel Agency in Dyersburg. It has branches in Covington and in West Memphis, Ark.

Jesse recalled two experiences in Halls in about 1936, when he was in his early teens. He lived on Elm St., and a friend, Bobby Hart, lived a short distance away on Oak St. They were playmates in the hills and hollows behind Jesse's home and around the neighborhood.

One day, Bobby's parents, Lillian and Aubrey Hart, let Bobby have one of their cars, a Model-A Ford with a rumble seat, to go for a drive. Bobby got his friend, Jesse, and after tiring of Dyersburg, Bobby said he knew some girls in Halls they might take for a ride. They came to Halls and picked up two pretty girls, Mary Estelle Uley and Frances Nunn, and carried them for a ride around town.

Mary Estelle married Wilson Viar and is a widow, residing in Louisville, Ky. Frances married F. G. Craig and is a widow, residing in Jackson. I wonder if Frances and Mary Estelle remember this ride with these two young blades from Dyersburg?

Jesse's father was the Gulf Oil distributor in Dyersburg, and one day he told his young son that he needed a job for the summer. He brought him to the Halls Gulf Service Station, owned at the time by C. C. (Mack) Sumrow, and asked if he might have some work for the boy to do. Mack said that his station needed painting, and he contracted with the boy to do the work. Later, Jesse's father came to see how his son was getting along with his work. The boy told him that the walls had been easy, but there was so much ceiling, and it was very tiring.

I invited the Overalls to come to the Halls First United Methodist Church and told them that our minister, The Rev. Kim Kulow, and his wife, Jennifer, are also horse riders and lovers.

As I was leaving, I asked if either of the Overalls played bridge, my hobby. Jesse answered no, but told me that he has a friend, June Culp, who resides near Bells who enjoys the game. I remembered then why their names had sounded so familiar.

A few years ago, I attended a bridge tournament in Owensboro, Ky., with Martha Neal Ridick, of Maury City, June Culp, who lived near Bells, and Rose Mary Raines, of Alamo. No wonder their names were familiar, as June had told me about her friends, J. U. Overall and his daughter, Lucianne Overall.

ED JONES
REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON

8th District, TN

I have been pleased to announce over the past several months that Eighth District cities and organizations have been awarded federal grants and loans. Such award recipients include various housing authorities, airports, and cities interested in community development. Although the Eighth District of Tennessee has been fortunate to have received many of these federal funds, the overall Southern region of the country has not.

Our nation's economy has seen plenty of changes over the last few years. These changes affect the different regions separately. For example, the Sunbelt, of which Tennessee is a part, experienced rapid growth in the 1970s while the Industrial North saw a decline.

Because of this, proponents in the declining regions sought to make sure that their states received more priority in obtaining formula-driven grants-in-aid to state and local governments, as well as other federal funds. Evidently, this plea for redistribution worked. The apportionment of federal funds has significantly changed throughout the regions in recent years.

In relation to grants-in-aid and procurement on a per-capita basis, the Sunbelt has now seen a decline. Those regions to have benefited include the Mid-Atlantic and New England. Of the nine regions of the country, the South Atlantic and Southwest areas hold the bottom two rankings in per-capita aid received in 1987.

Within the most recent 10-year period, only 19 states across the country reported gains in per-capita income. Of this number, nine of the states added to a below-average income, with three states located in the Southeast.

During this same period, seven Mid-South and Southwestern states reported relative declines in their per-capita income. These two regions are among the poorest in the nation, while the Southeast ranks at the bottom as our country's lowest-income area.

According to statistics regarding federal grant and loan recipients, federal spending has significant regional impacts. As with the Sunbelt in the 1970s and New England today, states that have the highest incomes and strongest income gains are the ones that have received the largest percentage of federal funding.

It is obvious that different states vary one from another in their fiscal capacities and needs. As compensation for these differences, the federal government is supposed to vary the percentages of financial aid available to each state and local government. It seems about time for the wheels to turn back in favor of the Sunbelt region and the affected Southern states.

While today the Sunbelt continues to record the highest rates of poverty and the lowest educational achievement levels, the availability of federal grants and loans to these states will work to change that.

Mrs. Hicks
Mrs. Sallie Mae Hicks, 68, of Ripley, died Sept. 2nd.

FACTS & FIGURES

Here are a bunch of facts about bananas that may surprise and delight you. Americans eat about 11 billion bananas a year. Some 86 percent of the households in the United States buy bananas and over half do so every week. On average, each of us eats more than 25 pounds of bananas every year!

Bananas are not only quite nutritious, they're also a great food value. That's due to the persistent efforts of everyone in the industry, from the farmers in Latin America, to the shippers on land and sea, to the wholesalers here who ripen the bananas, to the supermarkets where we buy the fruit. All have modernized their methods, improved their handling practices. The result is a real bargain in food value to consumers.

Avery Onto State Panel

Gov. Ned McWherter has appointed Paul Avery, of Halls, human resources manager at the Ripley plant of MagnTek Universal Electric, to the 6-member state Occupational Safety and Health Administration Labor Advisory Council. His term will expire June 30, 1989.

Nankipoo School's Re-Union Popular

A Nankipoo School re-union was held Saturday in the former school building, with 116 in attendance, including seven former teachers. Travis Davis, of Halls, was master of ceremonies. Austin Prescott, of Dry Hill, asked the blessing. Traveling the farthest were Mrs. Anne Abernathy Jones, of Torrance, Calif., and Mrs. Nancy Hinton Johnson, of Canoga Park, Calif. Others came from North Carolina, Michigan, Missouri, Mississippi, Arkansas and from across Tennessee. Mrs. Mollie Ward, 88, of Nankipoo, was the oldest there. Shirlis Smith, of Nashville, showed video tapes of last year's re-union, along with a video close-up of the Class of 1937 group picture. A contribution was taken for the Lauderdale County Rescue Squad, which now owns the school building, in memory of 17 school-mates who have died since the 1987 re-union. A moment of silence was observed in their memory. Plans were made to meet on the third Saturday in September, 1989.

SECOND, UNDER DYERSBURG, in the Purple Class of 33-48 wind players was the rating given Halls High School's Golden Tiger Marching Band in Milan Saturday.

New field commanders, Trenis Nash and Sherry Prescott, were first over two classes, including Dyersburg, Evangelical Christian School, Huntingdon, and Harding Academy, of Memphis, and Martin Westview.

With James Henning, of Ripley, added as assistant band director, the band has several new members and section leaders:

Low brass, Fred Tate; saxophones, Eddie Crowder; French horns, Rhonda Phillips; trumpets, Robert Harris; flutes and clarinets, Tina Hastings; percussion, Jon Hargett; xylophones and bells, Jennifer Shattley; flags, Amy Vaden; and rifles, Carol Terry; soloists, Robert Harris, trumpet; Chris McCallister, baritone; and Fred Tate, trombone.

Songs featured Russian Overture, Jericho, a percussion feature, Brazil, and How Do You Keep The Music Playing?

Life In A Hospital Bed

Your editor returned home Thursday of last week after 17 days of looking at the ceiling of a room in a Memphis hospital. Being in a hospital is not a new experience to the writer, but never before had we been so ill and completely confined to a bed.

We cannot say enough about the care we received from our doctors and most of the nurses in the hospital. Doctors worked with me for more than a week trying to stabilize my loss of blood.

While we praise the medical and nursing staff, we find it difficult to understand how they can operate with the type of help that does the housekeeping, the nurses' aides, and other unskilled workers. At times it was almost impossible to receive any help, even though I was unable to leave my bed.

We are very grateful for every person who called or visited or who sent cards, fruit, cake, or flowers during our hospital stay. Thanks to everyone until I can tell you thank you personally.

As things now stand, we are still under treatment and will return to the hospital in six to eight weeks for surgery. All prospects seem good, and we hope to regain much of our strength during this time.

James D. Biggs, Jr. To Serve In Korea

Army Pvt. James D. Biggs Jr., whose parents reside at 355 South Washington, Ripley, has arrived in South Korea for duty as an X-ray specialist with the 2nd Medical Battalion.

His wife, Tammy, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danny L. Holt, of Route 1, Halls.

He is a 1983 graduate of Ripley High School.

His first anniversary this week end, with Elder Jimmy Wayne Carroll, new county resident, featured in services at 7 p.m. Saturday, 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Sunday p.m. Monday through Thursday, and a Youth Service at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Pastor Noah Gene Spain invites the public.

Elected

Center for the Health Sciences in Memphis, will begin doing ENT surgery in Baptist Hospital Lauderdale in Ripley each Thursday morning, and seeing patients in the afternoon, beginning Oct. 6th. Appointments may be made through the hospital's Outpatient Dept.

A native of California, he took a doctor of medicine degree from the Univ. of Calif. in Los Angeles and performed his residency in surgery in its hospital. He is certified by the American Board of Otolaryngology and the American College of Surgeons in Advanced Trauma Life Support.

He has surgical affiliations with Baptist, Methodist, LeBonheur, University of Tennessee, and Veterans Administration in Memphis and is a consultant for St. Jude's Childrens Hospital in Memphis.

He has authored many scientific procedures, books, and papers as well as scientific exhibits and presentations.

Amy and Rebecca Stolarick, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Stolarick, of Halls, qualified Saturday as individual vocalists and as a duet for the Mid-South Pat's Junior Youth Talent finale at 10 a.m. Sept. 29th.

Amy, 11, and Rebecca, 9, were among 217 participants from six states in preliminary competition.

CARD OF THANKS
 We would like to say thanks to all who were so nice to us at the time our grandson, Jeff Garrett, was shot Sept. 8th. Your calls to the emergency room, waiting room and at home have been very much appreciated. We thank you for the cards and money you sent and for the gifts which he enjoyed very much. Most of all we thank you for your prayers. He had a very close call and has to go to Memphis in three or four months and have more surgery. He is at home now and is doing very well, but we still need your prayers. He still has a long way to go yet. God bless each and everyone of you.

OAK RIDGE - The Energy City
 OAK RIDGE, Tenn. - Imagine a city so secret that all access is controlled by armed guards, checkpoints and fences.
 Picture a place where the local newspaper is forbidden to use names of residents, the guest register at the local hotel is classified information. Girl Scouts can register by first name only, and truck drivers have trouble making deliveries because the town is not shown on any map and does not "officially" exist at all.
 Such a city once existed in the hills of eastern Tennessee where in 1942 the federal government began turning the rural farmlands along Black Oak Ridge and Bear Creek Valley into a military boom town of more than 75,000 people working for a company known as the Clinton Engineer Works. Only a handful of them had any idea what the Clinton Engineer Works really did.
 The blanket of secrecy shrouding the city protected the huge Manhattan Project, the code name for the American effort to develop the atom bomb which was destined to end World War II.
 The once top secret city on Black Oak Ridge is now known simply as Oak Ridge. The mysterious Clinton Engineer Works is known as the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, one of the world's premier energy research facilities, and the city of Oak Ridge has become internationally famous as "The Energy Capital of the World."
 Modern Oak Ridge is no longer a closed city. The checkpoint guardhouses of the war years stand forlornly amid patches of weeds, but the city's military history is still visible in some of the old barracks which now serve as offices or apartments and in the "Army architecture" styles of many of the city's oldest homes.
 The focal point of the top secret World War II Manhattan Project, the world's first operating graphite nuclear reactor, is now a National Historic Landmark and freely open to the public.
 Other once secret facilities, such as the huge Gaseous Diffusion Plant and the Oak Ridge National Laboratory itself, are landmarks on a self-guided driving tour of the Oak Ridge area. Maps are readily available at the Oak Ridge Visitors Center at the city's most visited attraction, the American Museum of Science and Energy.
 The museum, once known as the American Museum of Atomic Energy, contains a fascinating series of hands-on exhibits, special programs and live demonstrations concerning all forms of energy from static electricity to nuclear power plants and such exotic sources as solar and geothermal energy.
 "The purpose of the museum is to help people understand what energy is, how it is produced, and how dependent we are on it," explains information officer Lissa Clarke. "We also try to get some serious messages across in the most entertaining way possible."
 One of the most popular of the regular live programs at the museum uses audience volunteers to demonstrate what energy is and how it is produced.
 "We'll bring someone on stage and ask them to pedal a stationary bicycle to produce enough electricity to power a light bulb," Clarke says. "Then we'll start adding things like radios, television sets and appliances to the electrical load. When you have to pedal harder and harder to keep everything going, the message about the need for energy conservation begins to come through loud and clear."
 The ten live demonstration programs offered by the museum are free, as is the museum itself. Films are also shown daily in the museum's 300-seat theater. Nine major exhibit areas on two floors feature more than 200 exhibits, many of them encouraging hands-on exploration.
 Along with the live demonstrations and programs, the museum's amazing series of exhibits include a realistic walk-in model of a nuclear fission generator, graphic exhibits of solar, wind and geothermal energy projects, and more familiar exhibits concerning hydroelectric power and fossil fuels like oil, coal and gas. There is also a variety of computer games, with energy themes and some intriguing exhibits about changing energy needs and sources.
 "One of the first exhibits a visitor sees is a huge three-dimensional graph of energy use in America beginning in 1800," Clarke says. "The U.S. Energy Curve is hard to miss since it is 45 feet long and 23 feet high. It shows that in the 1800s the United States was heated by wood cut from the forests east of the Allegheny Mountains. Power for transportation was provided by wind, animal power, or plain old muscle."
 "In the 1980s, less than two centuries later, our primary sources of energy are fossil fuels and nuclear power."
 In addition to its variety of energy-related exhibits, the museum also contains a section called The Oak Ridge Story which traces the history and development of the famous city through a fascinating series of films and photographs.
 "There is also an exhibit devoted to an east Tennessee mountain man named John Hendrix, who startled his neighbors in 1900 with an astounding prophecy.
 "I tell you," Hendrix said, "that Bear Creek Valley some day will be filled with great buildings and factories, and they will help toward winning the greatest war that ever will be. There will be a city on Black Oak Ridge, the center of everything to be a spot middle way between Sevier Tadlock's farm and Joe Pyatt's place. Railroad tracks will run between Robertville and Scarbro. Thousands of people will be running to and fro. They will be building things, and there will be great noise and confusion, and the world will shake."
 For the record, it should be noted that the spot between Sevier Tadlock's farm and Joe Pyatt's place is the exact location chosen for the federal office building when the Army moved into Bear Creek Valley in 1942.
 For more information about Oak Ridge and the American Museum of Science and Energy, contact the Tennessee Department of Tourist Development, Room T, Box 23170, Nashville, Tennessee 37202.

Halls History

By Mrs. Charles Alsobrook

It is past the middle of September, and the hum of the cotton gins has not been heard this fall. Cotton is later this year than I can ever remember.

We have two gins for the first time in some years. Edwards Gin and Halls Gin are both ready to gin cotton. They just need suitable weather for harvesting.

This is the second time we had a Halls Gin Co. here. The one formed this year is managed by Tom Herring and Miller Pounds. This gin is located on the air base on land that was farmed by Leslie Crook.

People are beginning to send in their money for attendance at the Halls High School Homecoming of the Classes of the 1920s and 1930s.

Among them are Delmus Lucas, John F. Spence and Clarence Woodard, of Memphis; Hazel Moore Hendren and Elizabeth Nunn Palmer, of Dyersburg; J. B. Ellis, of Knoxville; and Rose Mary Siler Swift, of Huntsville, Ala.

Fred Whitaker writes he is planning to be here. He sends interesting information about the Great American Duck Race held in Deming, N.M., Fred's hometown now.

Evelyn Smith Quarles, of Kansas City, Mo., wrote a nice letter and sent copies of the programs for a Dance Revue presented April 29, 1949, with Miss Irene Blakemore the teacher and Mrs. Wymond Hurt the pianist. Does anyone know where Miss Blakemore is now?

Some of the children taking part in this revue were Annette Tomlinson, Carolyn Woodley, Faye Erwin, Joy Watts, Nancy Connell, Barbara Andrews, Dawn Robertson, Elizabeth Alsobrook, Tommy Dyer, Jimmy Beasly, Eugene Pugh, Jimmy Nunn, Pat Younger, Cary Alsobrook, Buna Smith, Carolyn McCorkle, Patsy Perry, Gracie Yarbrough, Lucinda Alsobrook, Marlys Cribfield, Blanche Nunn, Patricia Beasley, Gwila Ozment, Helen Cherry, Barbara Cannon, Peggy Dew, Barbara Freeman, Ann Younger, Shirley Sloan, Doris Fisher, Tommy McDearman, Josh Nunn, Jimmy Hoffus, Jimmy Perry, William Sugg, Mackie Cutler, and Peggy Norman.

Ushers were Joan Smith, Lynnie Hurt, Billie McGarrity, Loreta Perry, Gladie Rainey, Marietta Woodard, Anella Steelman, Peggy Steelman, Mary Simmons, Patsy Belton, Marilyn Reece and Barbara Scott.

Miss Blakemore thanked Mrs. H. G. McCorkle, principal, and all the teachers of the Grammar School for their help, also Mrs. Douglas Hurt and all who participated in costume making. She expressed appreciation to Miss Marjorie Herring and her co-workers for stage decorations.

Evelyn says this is not ancient history but does make her feel a little ancient. These people who were our children 40 years ago are scattered all across the United States.

Jimmy Nunn is in California, retired from the Navy. William Sugg lives near Washington, D.C., and is with the U.S. Dept. of Commerce. Dawn Robertson

Her only jewelry was a gold chain, a gift of the groom.

The bride's sister, Vickie, of Forked Deer, was maid of honor. She wore a white lace street-length dress with a peach ribbon at the waist and carried a bouquet of peach roses with peach and white streamers.

The bride's mother, Carol, and the groom's mother, Jeanie, each wore a aqua street-length dress and a corsage of peach roses with peach and white streamers.

For the reception, Vicki Emerson and Dorothy Stanley, of Forked Deer, and the Mike Moore, of Concord, decorated the church basement with ferns and other potted plants, and the Moores provided melon baskets of fruits, a cheese ball, cheese and crackers, pig-in-a-blanket, and pin-wheels.

The bride's table held a 3-tier cake iced in white, with peach roses, topped by a bridal couple. The groom's table held a chocolate cake inscribed "Janet and Bob."

Miss Debra Hayes and Miss Heather Hogue, of Halls, and Miss April White, of Brownsville, assisted in serving.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner, grilling hamburgers and hot dogs with all the trimmings.

Pardon Me Boy, Yes That's The Chattanooga Choo Choo

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — Modern automobiles and airplanes are designed to transport you as quickly as possible, but there was a time, a golden era some say, when the journey itself was an adventure.

"That was the age of railroads, when a traveler put on his best hat and coat and boarded a train. While on board, he could eat in an elegant dining car, be lulled to sleep by the train's steady clackety-clack, and pass the hours watching the countryside unfold as the train sped along."

Today, the Chattanooga Choo Choo Vacation Complex preserves that time period in the restored train station, which houses several restaurants, and railroad cars which have been converted into sleeping cars.

The Choo Choo stirs fond memories among former railroad men and passengers and gives younger visitors a glimpse of an era not so long gone. "I remember when this train station was at its peak — it was really something," says one visitor who has brought his family to share the memories.

Chattanooga's railroad tracks have lent fame to the town on more than one occasion. During the Civil War, the city was a key point for transporting supplies to soldiers. By 1900, passenger business was booming, and in 1906 Southern Railway System officials decided to build a new depot.

"It's been said that railroad stations are to America what cathedrals are to Europe," says Choo Choo Vice President Jim Schwartz. "Railway officials wanted a fashionable and functional station and succeeded in getting both. The brick in this building is of Flemish bond design — one long, one short — which is the most expensive way to build," Schwartz explains. "And each brick weighs 14 pounds."

On December 1, 1909, hundreds of people gathered to watch the first train depart for Atlanta and to dedicate the building.

For Chattanooga, the golden era of railroad travel had arrived. In the next 61 years, millions of people would pass through the train station, including such notables as Woodrow Wilson, Teddy Roosevelt, William Jennings Bryan and Franklin D. Roosevelt. In its heyday, there were 14 tracks and 68 trains a day arriving and departing. The station also gained a permanent place in history when the Glenn Miller Orchestra made famous the lines "Pardon me boy, Is that the 50th Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. CECIL JACKSON, of Halls, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary from 2 to 5 p.m. Oct. 1st in Halls Community Center, all friends invited. Hosts will be Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Coke, of Memphis.

Chattanooga Choo Choo?" But eventually, "the airlines replaced the railroads," Schwartz says. "They just weren't profitable anymore."

The last train left the Chattanooga Terminal Station in 1970. The constant scurrying of passengers suddenly ceased. The station was boarded up, the building left to deteriorate in the silence.

"When Southern Railway tore down their old station in Birmingham, people began wondering what they would do with this station," Schwartz said. "Then 24 investors decided to restore it. It took about a year to renovate before it was opened in 1972 as the Choo Choo. They also bought old coaches, and each car became two suites."

In addition, the complex has 360 hotel rooms in three buildings, four restaurants (including two dining cars and one restaurant with singing waiters and waitresses), formal gardens, a 1924 New Orleans trolley for touring the complex, 14 shops, three swimming pools, and a swing band for ballroom dancing.

The main entrance is the new Transcontinental Restaurant, originally the concourse. "The ceiling is original, and the back wall was the outside wall," Schwartz explains. "We just enclosed it with glass and made it a restaurant."

Visitors purchase a "dinner ticket" as if they were buying a train ticket. For example, if you're having steak you will purchase a ticket to New York; if your choice is shrimp, you'll be choosing New Orleans. "No one should go away hungry," Schwartz says. "Dinner is served family style with four vegetables, and there is also the salad bar and dessert."

Another dining area is the Grand Dome. Originally the main waiting room, this impressive room has an 85-foot dome — the highest free-standing dome in the world. Placed along the four arches are intricate plaster of Paris filigrees.

The original trolley floor is still here as is the ticket window. "You can see where the floor is worn smooth from passengers standing in line," Schwartz says.

If you really want to capture the feel of train travel, make reservations for "Dinner on the Diner" a restaurant in a restored railroad dining car. The elegant diner seats 36 and still uses the original kitchen to serve such dishes as medallions of pork and Louisiana File Gumbo.

And just as traveling by private railroad car was the height of luxury in the early 1900s, sleeping in one of the restored cars is a luxurious experience today. Each of the 24 railroad cars has been divided into two suites and furnished in Victorian style.

"Each one is decorated differently, but they all have a king-size bed, a secretary and a full-size bath," Schwartz says. "And each one still has the original luggage racks overhead."

The railroad cars are anchored under the original station sheds and overlook the lovely early 1900s-style formal gardens. "We have our own greenhouse, and in the spring we have 16,000 tulips and crocuses, and then later we'll have 16,000 begonias," Schwartz says. These flowers, along with azaleas, rhododendrons and evergreens, are planted around statues and fountains where the railroad tracks once arrived at the station.

On either side of the train cars are 14 shops in the original freight houses offering everything from antiques to homemade fudge. There is also a 174-foot-long model railroad display complete with more than 3,000 feet of track, 1,000 freight cars, and model cities along the route through Chattanooga.

Other freight houses have been converted into meeting space with facilities, including a 700-seat theater, the Imperial Ballroom for large gatherings, and smaller rooms for meetings.
