

ROBERT S. THOMAS, 68, of 161 Tucker, Ripley, Chancellor of the 25th Judicial District, including Lauderdale County, since 1974, was found dead about 9:30 a.m. Monday in bed in a Holiday Inn room in Dyersburg.

A friend, Fleming Hodges, of Dyersburg, said he had last seen Thomas as Thomas left a reunion of his Dyersburg High School class at Dyersburg Country Club about 10 p.m. Saturday. Jeanette Lacy, motel maid, said Thomas told her early Saturday afternoon he was attending his class re-union that evening.

Sunday, she found the door to his motel room locked and chained, and the room did not answer the phone, according to the Dyersburg State-Gazette. Monday, she reported the same conditions to motel manager David Ozment, who cut the chain to enter the room.

Born in Dyersburg and a graduate of Dyersburg High School, he was employed by a local bank until he enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1942 and participated in landings on the Marshall Islands, Saipan, Tinian, and Iwo Jima, in units earning two Presidential Citations.

After the war, he attended Murray, Ky., State University and took a law degree from Vanderbilt University in Nashville.

He began law practice in Ripley in 1949.

Generous to a fault, he was

Play Being Staged By Palmer-Turner

Palmer-Turner Community Center in Henning will present a play, Hey Teach Aug. 10-12th in the Little Theater of Ripley High School.

an alternative to the streets for young people, will feature persons between the ages of 12 and 20 from the Ripley, Halls, and Henning area. It is hoped it will be the forerunner to developing a Little Theater group in this area. The cast includes, from Ripley, Brandon Adams, Carolyn Graham and Stephanie Watkins; from Henning, Calvin Douglas and Kenneth Gause; and from Halls, Felice Adams, Randall McKinney, Johnny Moore, Jr., Kim Pitts, Michelle Pitts, 'Tamara Reynolds, Toshla Roberts, Yolanda Ward, LaToya Ward, and James Williams.

Adult sponsors for the play are Shirley Fulton, of Ripley, Phyllis Jacox, of Henning, and Gloria Williams, of Halls, who directs.

Galloway, as always in this series, played key roles at bat.

Rod Schuh, president of Ripley Youth Baseball, and his colleagues are grateful to all the organizations and individuals, too numerous to list, who have played key roles in preparing for the meet and extending hospitality to visitors.

"It took a lot of team-work and a lot of commitment to our young people to stage this tournament in Ripley," he says, "but our community came through with results which have been tremendous, and I'm grateful to everyone who helped in any way."

Besides providing a worthy event for young men and their families from across the state, a lot of folks are going home who had never before heard of Ripley The play, an effort to provide but are leaving with favorable impressions.

Job Training Slots Offered

The Job Training Partnership Act is seeking students for high school freshmen English and math classes designed to prepare them for the 9th grade proficiency tests.

In Ripley, Cathy Rose has space for 12 students in her class; in Halls, Shirley Roberts, has room for eight. Each student is furnished with a computer.

This is the second year these classes have been offered in this county. To enroll children, parents are urged to call 635-5418.

cotton now!

Boll-worms plus boll weevil and stink-bugs can cut crops severely, Parker says.

His best suggestion is to check cotton by pulling 100 squares per 15 to 20 acres and determining damage by worms, weevils, or stink-bugs.

Spraying, is recommended at levels of 5% worms or four worms, 5% weevils, or 2 stinkbugs per six row feet.

Southwest Plans Annual Meeting

Hubert H. Williams, general manager of the Southwest Tennessee Electric Membership Corp., announces the 52nd Annual Members Meeting will be held Aug. 11th in the College Hill Auditorium in Brownsville.

Registration of members will begin at 6 p.m. The meeting will adjourn at 8:45 p.m.

... Reports will be given on the member-owned electric system which supplies TVA power to more than 33,504 consumers in Tipton, Haywood, Madison, Chester, Hardeman, Fayette, Henderson, Crockett, and Lauderdale Counties.

The co-op has more than 3,185 miles of line with a net plant value of $29,000,000.

The business meeting will elect three members to the Board of Trustees. Ballots have been mailed to each member; votes must cast by mail.

Entertainment will be furnished by "Encore," a group of young ladies from the West Tennessee area; "The Harmonizers," of Haywood County; and "The David Curtis Show," of Brighton.

CARD OF THANKS

My heart is filled with love and gratitude to my friends, neighbors, relatives and co-workers for the many ways in which you have shown your love and concern for me at the time of my grief and sorrow, the death of my husband and loved one, Donald Gilliland. Your calls, cards, gifts, and visits touched my heart, but my greatest support came from your prayers. could feel the strength of your love and prayers and this served to sustain me during those trying hours. A special thanks for the kind and consoling words of Bro. Jim Peyton, Dr. Willis Gilliland and Bro. Norville White, to the Crockett County Ambulance Service and oversburg Methodist Hospital Emergency Room, gracious hospitality of Noel Sherrod and staff of Halls Funeral Home and Jackie and Joe Fincher for the lovely nusic. A special thanks to those prepared the delicious food and those who sent the lovely flowers and memorial gifts. Although here is a void in my life that will never be filled, I bow in humble subnission to the will of our Heavenly ather. I know His grace is suffieient for my needs and I will try to remember that as I face each new ay, and trust Him for strength and idance. Your love and concern has meant so much to me. 3-State Contest Leader: Parker

By Charles T. Peal Extension Agent Jerry Parker, of Ripley, has won a competition among about 80 other agents in herbicide damage identification weed identification, and handling farmer complaints concerning herbicide usage.

West Tennessee Green 'Arkansas, and Mississippi. The Scene contest involved

Jerry says Sandoz chemical is to be commended for sponsoring the competition and that there were several other West Tennessee Agents equally capable of winning.

Spider Mites Seen

Several species of spider mites attack trees and shrubs and cause the plants to take on an off-green color. This color change results from the mites sucking sap from the plants. Spider mites get their name from the fact that they are spider-like in appearance. Many species of mites spin a string of silk webbing on host plants. Mites are only about the size of a pepper flake; they are often over-looked until populations reach damaging levels inside infested plants. Severely infested plants lose their vigor, become unsightly, and may be killed.

One way to determine if mite are present is to make a foliage check. Plant foliage should be checked every other week if pos-sible. This is done by taking a piece of white paper, holding under a branch suspected have mites, and striking the branch hard against the paper If several of the tiny mites ar teen, then management proc Service Office for specifi

Spray Stumps

Freshly-cut hardwood stumps can be sprayed with herbicide to prevent sprouting. However, research has shown that a delay of more than two hours between cutting and herbicide treatment will'greatly reduce the effectiveness of the treatment.

A utility spray bottle or any sprayer can be used for this application.

Only the outer one-inch circular area of the stump should be treated.

Several herbicides can be used. Check with an agent at the Extension Office for specific herbicide names.

Spray For Borers

Dogwood tree owners should be applying sprays for control of the dogwood borer.

The borer is the most serious insect pest of dogwoods. Larvae cause damage by girdling the tree under the bark. Infested trees take on an unthrifty appearance

Research at the University of Tennessee showed that two timely applications of Dursban will provide good control of dogwood borers. Trunk sprays should be timed at Mid-April and Mid-Julv

To get good results, it's extremely important to spray the trunk from the lower limb scaffold to the soil line until runoff begins. This assures that some material will soak into the bark and act as a protective barrier to attack.

If the materials is just misted on, it will not be soaked into the bark and will most likely be degraded by the sun and air.

Peach tree larvae burrow into the cambium between the wood and the bark and partly in the heartwood. Feeding damage weakens older trees and kills young trees. In the damaged areas large masses of gum are exuded by the wounded tree. Only one generation or life cycle occurs in Tennessee.

Several chemicals are available for peach tree borer control The most effective control is with the single application treatment of Lorsban 4E or Dursban. It is applied after harvest or after Aug. 1st.

Best results are seen when the material is applied with a hand sprayer or hand gun. Spray trunks where run-off occurs.

JACKSON, Tenn. -- A hundre vears ago in western Tennessee, pure élean water was as precious as gold to when Jackson city engineer Sam Lancaster discovered an apparently inexhaustible source of the crystal found, it was a cause for celebration. What had begun as construction on the city's first modern water works in the early 1880s turned into a regional landmark and a focal point for much of Jackson's social life when Lancaster's drill bit broke through t an underground river sending a fountain of water shooting skyward. Lancaster's fantastic mineral spring, known as the Electro Chaly beate Well, still bubbles up from the ground continuously. Whether it was the slight electrical charge of the minerals or both in the water, thousands of people came to drink and to find a cure for their "internal ail-

Lancaster Park, which developed around the spring and the man-made Alexander Lake, became a great at traction for residents and visitors to Jackson. It was after all, before the age of air conditioning, and the park offered the only cool breezes to be found on a hot summer evening

In time the park, with its open-font wells and cool breezes, became the gathering spot for the whole town. Musicians played under the shade of a gazebo. Exotic Japanese lanterns illuminated Alexander Lake. There were row boats for courting couples, and the call of peacocks from a miniature 200. Lancaster Park at the turn of the century was a time and a place for romance and fellowship According to John Hudson, whose father, "Popcorn Johnnie," ran the park's concession stand, the lake and the wells drew thousands of people from all walks of life. "My father and I saw the great and the near great," says John. "In one summer people from 40 different states would visit the park and drink from the well. The passenger trains that ran beside the park stopped within a few yards of the well, so people frequently disembarked just get a drink. If someone missed a they could always enjoy the park until the next one arrived."

Jackson's Electro Chalybeate Well

John also remembered many musing moments with his father's customers. "There was a women's college near the park, and the youn ladies were sometimes marched line to the park for an outing. They were watched carefully, but some gir always managed to slip my father a note and some money asking him t leave a bag of popcorn behind certain tree, to be picked up on the way back to the school.

"Sunday afternoons brought the preachers and the baptizing. I member one old woman who would come every Sunday to be baptized three or four times. One Sunday the preachers refused, so she says, 'Tll just baptize myself,' and without warning she took a running leap into the water, knocking the preachers over. I was only 14 or 15 years old at the time, but I thought it was one of the funniest things I had ever seen Oh, how I loved working in that park just to see the people!"

In time, John Hudson would grov up to work in the Jackson wate works plant, and he would not have t leave the site of so many memories until he retired

Today, Lancaster Park and Alexan der Lake are both gone, but the mineral waters still flow from the spring and people still come to "take the waters.'

In 1980, the Jackson Utility Divi sion rebuilt a gazebo over the park's remaining artesian well, carefully fol lowing 1904 photographs from the Jackson Daily Whig which covered the building of the original gazebo. stored the Art Deco buildings and water treatment plant surrounding the well on South Royal Street. The Electro Chalybeate Well is located in a small public park beside the utility' water operations center. Park benches, flowers, and plenty of shade trees make the little park an idea spot to sit and imagine the Lancaster Park of John Hudson's childhood

At the other end of the park, cturesque old train station seem ready to accept passengers again if only the boards were removed from its doors and windows.

The revitalization efforts around old well and park are part larger rediscovery of Jackson's heritage. Only three blocks away, Jackson's Town Square and Main Street are both being restored to their hey-walk down Jackson's Main Street, lined with beautiful homes, is tour of almost every period of architectural history since the city was founded. A few blocks to the north is one of the last Art Deco Grevhound Bus terminals remaining in America. Designed by famous architect and engineer W.S. Arrasmith, the smooth streamlined, gleaming blue walls welcomed travelers for five decades. Its exterior has been preserved exactly as it was when built in 1938.

South of the Electro Chalybeate Well, on South Highland Avenue another historic restoration has been undertaken. The historic Jackson Power and Light Company's turn-ofthe century building now houses Chip Edward's Chrysler-Plymouth-Dodge dealership, but its full-length arched windows and Spanish terra cotta roof tiles signal that this is no ordinary building. Its restoration and modern use show that preservation of the past does not always limit a building's usefulness - an idea expressed in many of Jackson's current projects

In an area where many old landmarks are being rediscovered, the bubbling waters of the Electro Chalv beate Well still shoot skyward as they have since the 1880s, and people like . Harden still collect the water for whatever medicinal properties it may

"I can't say if it really does cure you f anything," he confides. "All I know is my wife and I drink it every day and we are both in good health. I like it, too, because it makes me feel good different - inside. The Electro Chalybeate Well is located next to the Jackson Utility Division's water operations center on

South Royal Street and is open to the public free of charge. For more information on the Electro Chalybeate Well and other Jackson attractions, contact the Tennessee Department of Tourist Development, Room T, Box 23170, Nashville, Tennessee 37202. -- Lorene Lambert-

Todd Uniform's Not Expanding

Roston Scoggins, of Todd Uni form, has requested a correction of last week's story which he says "suggested an expansion of the Todd Uniform Cutting facility located on New U.S. High way 51 in Ripley."

Unlike the head-line in and ther publication, our report never mentioned "expansion."

Mr. Scoggins asks us to state that "there are no reported plans for expansion."

Such plans have, in fact, been widely trumpeted by Gov. Ned McWherter, in a news release distributed throughout the state.

It reports the grant "to assist expansion efforts by Todd Corp. in Ripley." This newspaper knew better and did not report the grantmuch less, head-line it-as aid ing "expansion." Nevertheless, we are glad to make clear that the Todd plant in question, the new Todd plant in Ripley, is not expanding, simply receiving state aid for extension of water lines.

Thank You From The Lauderdale County Chamber Of Commerce

*for making the 1989 Lauderdale County Tomato Festival a great success. Several new ideas were added this year and we hope to make next year a bigger success.

Reigning over the Lauderdale County Tomato Festival was Queen Jennifer Pittman, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Ronnie Moore, Maid Robin Reviere, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Herman Reviere, and Maid Susan Holman, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Tommy Holman.

This year the Chamber of Commerce was honored to present plaques to two outstanding tomato growers. Plaques were presented to Johnie Ford and Steve Watson.

It is not possible to thank everyone who helped with the activities or who donated so much to the Tomato Festival. The Chamber of Commerce is extremely proud of the participants.

Our co-sponsor, Dr. Pepper Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company, of Dyersburg gave so much of their time to our festival that it definitely was an added plus to the festival.

The attendance at all the functions was great this year. We hope to continue to grow next year. If you have any suggestions for next year, we welcome your ideas.

Congressman JOHN TANNE: 13 REPORTS TO THE EIGHTH DISTRICT

As Congress completed work on legislation prior to the August Recess, it sent to the President a bill providing disaster assistance for America's farmers. This bill was necessitated by the abnormal weather conditions of earlier this year. In some parts of the country, drought conditions severely affected winter wheat crops. In other areas, unusually high amounts of rainfall kept farmers from planting their crops this

The bill passed by the Congress provides assistance to farmers who grow what is called program and non-program crops. Program crops are feed grains, wheat, rice, sugar, peanuts and tobacco. Farmers who grow crops such as soybeans and fruit, for which there is no federal support program, can also receive benefits.

Farmers who grow the program crops and who participate in federal price support programs can receive disaster payments if they lose more than 40 percent of their crop. If those farmers have also purchased crop insurance, they can receive assistance if they lose only 35 percent of their crops. Other farmers would be eligible for disaster assistance if they lose a minimum of one half their crop. That includes farmers who grow crops covered by federal support programs but who do not participate in those programs. The disaster assistance would be limited to 65% of what they would have received from suppor programs for their crops on th market. This legislation closel parallels the provisioins of the bil passed by the Senate, Presiden Bush had threatened a veto if the House passed version was sent to his desk.

Because this legislation covers so many crops and treats them in different ways, it is important for farmers in the Eighth District to stay in touch with the local ASCS office in their respective counties History shows that there has been some confusion in the past over deadlines for filing and how appeals of adverse decisions must be handled

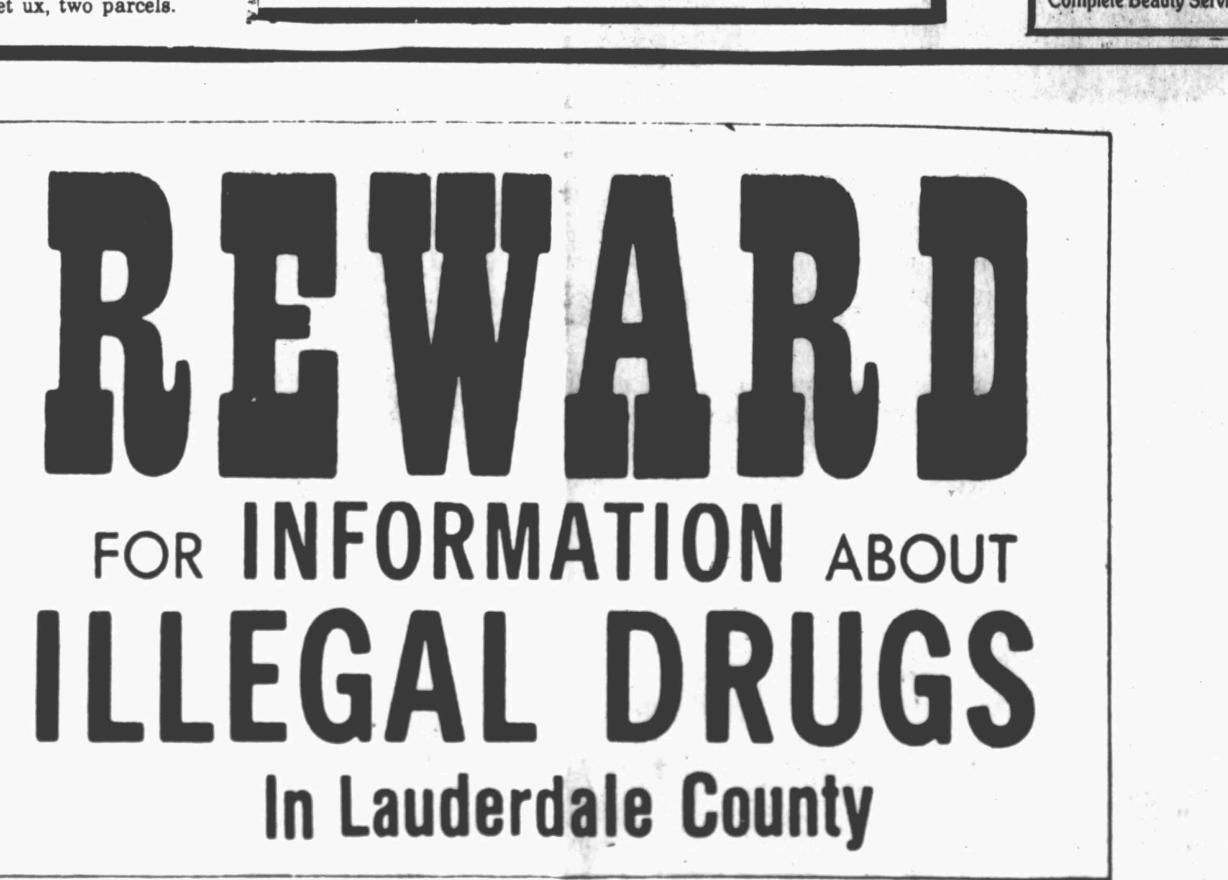

ASCS county officials try to be thorough as possible in getting the word out to farmers about disaster programs. Usually, they publish the announcement in local newspapers and in their local newsletters. Unfortunately, that does not guarantee that everyone obtains all the information neces sary, especially as it pertains to farmers who do not participate in federal programs.

Congress has attempted to provide an effective program t assist farmers who face econom damage due to circumstances bevond their control, namely un usual weather conditions that have rsisted throughout the country is anticipated that the Presiden will sign this bill quickly so that this assistance can be made avail able as soon as possible.

MR. AND MRS. BARRY ARMOUR MCWILLIAMS pledged double ring vows at 6 p.m. July 29th at the home of the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Noble, on Tatum Road in Dyersburg.

The bride, Linda Noble Smith is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Noble and the late Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Roberts, all of Dyersburg.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry McWilliams, of Halls. He is the grandson of Gladys (Mrs. Bernice) Crain and the late Montelle Carson, of Halls and of Demetra (Mrs. Pete) Mc-Williams, and the late Mr. Mc-Williams, of Gates.

Chaplain Mike Campbell officiated, in the presence of mediate families, before the living room fireplace, which was. decorated with a triangular arrangement of gladioli, lilies, and daisies. Ivory tapers glowed in crystall and brass candle-sticks at each end of the mantel. Miss Elizabeth Wilkes, of Dyersburg, presented piano selections. The bride descended the stairway, which was draped with garlands of magnolia foliage and blossoms.

She wore a tea-length gown of Chantilly lace over pink peau de soie. The long sleeved bodice featured a mandarin neck-line trimmed with an Alencon lace bib insert. The full skirt fell from a dropped waist-line. The bridal bouquet was of rubrum lilies. The bride's son. Gregory

Smith, was ring bearer Mrs. Noble wore a 2-piece fuchcollar. Mrs. McWilliams chose a 2-piece lace dress. Each mother, wore a gardenia corsage. For the reception with which the Nobles honored the couple. hurricane lamps glowed at the entrance to the home. The front door featured a double wedding ring grapevine wreath adorned with magnolia.

Children from households whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced price meals, households should fill out the application and return it to the school. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application will be used for the purpose of determining eligibility and may be verified at any time during the school year by school or other program officials.

For school officials to determine eligibility, households receiving food stamps or AFDC must list the child's name, their food stamp or AFDC case number and the signature of an adult household member. Households not receiving food stamps or AFDC must list: names of all household members; social security numbers of all adult household members or a statement that the household member does not possess one; total household income and the amount and source of the income received by each household member; and the signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct.

Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

Under the provisions of the free and reduced price policy, principals in each school will review applications and determine eligibility. Parents or guardians dissatisfied with the ruling of the official may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. Parents wishing to make a formal appeal may make a request either orally or in writing to Mr. Bobby Webb, P.O. Box 350, Ripley, TN 38063, phone 901-635-2941, for a hearing on the decision.

been on-going for years. Despite the itiatives, it seems that new incidences of waste in government spending con tinually come to light. The recent revelations of abuse at the Department of Housing and Urban Development the most recent. Numerous examples of exorbitant costs of weapons systems and their components at the Department of Defense have resulted in repeated efforts to streamline and eorganize it.

In the mid-80s, the so-called Packard Commission appointed by President Reagan made numerous recommendations to improve the operations and management of the Pentagon. The Goldwater-Nichols Act, passed in 1986, sought to mandate military service reorganiza-tions statutorily. Earlier this year, the Congress approved a base closure plan to eliminate duplicative or out moded military installations throughout the

Even more recently, Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney presented a defense management report to the President and the Congress aimed at making numerous and significant changes in the management of the Department of Defense and the various military departments under its jurisdiction. That report continues a long term effort to make the defense department more efficient and less burdensome

Having had the opportunity to review the Secretary's report, I am confident that he is making a good faith effort to bring more coordination and accountability to national defense decision making.

Shortly after its release, the report was criticized for its lack of detail That was short sighted criticism. Mr. Cheney has already demonstrated his willingness to make tough decisions on defense spending. Until he shows otherwise, I am prepared to assume that he is devoting the same tough mindedness to making needed changes in the department's organizational hostile action
