State Committee Retaining Wilder

At the Sixth Joint Conference On Juvenile Justice in Memphis, Lauderdale County Juvenile Judge Robert C. Wilder, of Ripley, was elected to a fourth consecutive term as a member of the Executive Committee of the Tennessee Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges.

The committee has been working with the Select Committee on Children and Youth of the General Assembly on criteria for commitment of children to state custody.

Other responsibilities of the committee have included the implementation of a state-wide reporting system for children coming into contact with Juvenile Court and the development of a plan for the education of children on the recently passed Drug Free Youth Act, which will affect the driving privileges of youth found guilty of alcohol and drug offenses.

Home-Coming, Revival Slated

Westside Baptist Church in Halls will hold Home-Coming Sept. 10th with Sunday School at 10 a.m., worship at 11, and a meal following in the new Fellowship Hall, all members, former members, and friends invited.

A revival Sept. 10-14th will hear Dr. Walter St. Clair, who has served in full-time evangelism for nearly 25 years and has had crusades throughout the Southeast.

His wife, Connie, will have a nightly ministry for children, "Joybells for Jesus". She will present puppets, Bible stories, music, mission slides, and surprises.

Dr. St. Clair will preach Sunday morning at 11, Sunday evening at 7, and Monday through Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. St. Clair will offer the children's program Monday through Thursday evenings at 7.

The Rev. Stan Anderson, pastor, invites the public.

There will be special music nightly, and a nursery will be provided.

Halls, Victor Late, Hosts Univ. School Of Jackson

Halls High School's Tigers, who led Crockett County last week, 14-7, on Chris Hurt's 48-yard touchdown pass to Chris Smith with 52 seconds on the clock, this Friday host University School of Jackson, in another non-district game.

USJ lost 13-6 last week at First Assembly Christian School in Memphis.

Senior Mark McDade (5-8, 140) led the Crusaders' win, drawing first blood with a 16-yard TD in the first quarter. Bruin senior Mark Bennett (5-10, 170) tied it from the one in the second, but before the half, McDade scored from the one and Ross Spain (6-0, 150) booted to close the ledger.

Bennett had 12 tackles and three assists.

He's one of 40 players in grades 9-12 coached by Mickey Marley, 31, a graduate of the University of Tennessee in Martin who has taken over the Bruins after three years assisting Walter Kilzer.

USJ's strength appears to lie in its offensive line.

Halls Pulls It Out

It was 7-7 in the third period in Alamo after Crockett County's King Allen (5-10, 175), converted from offensive guard to running back, scored from the four.

And it was only in the final minute that the Smith-Hurt pass solved the stand-off, with Justin Taylor's kick adding the final point.

Making that possible was Thomas Robinson's interception for Halls, on its 31, with two minutes in the contest.

Smith had scored for Halls with 5:33 in the second period. He had gained 40 yards on six carries in the 65-yard drive, which he capped with nine.

Taylor, who had taken a 22-yard pass to spark the push, booted the point.

With first down on the Halls 10, the Cavaliers failed to connect two passes before a penalty for interference moved them to the five. Allen went over from there to tie the game with 2:49 in the third period.

Each team had 13 first downs. Halls had 183 yards rushing, 70 passing, on two of seven tries; the Cavaliers had 132 rushing, 38 passing on four of 11 tries. Each team was intercepted twice.

Crockett fumbled four times but lost only one bobble. Halls didn't fumble.

Halls caught six penalties for 35 yards, Crockett four for 16.

The Lauderdale County Chamber of Commerce has moved its offices from City Hall to 110 Jefferson, the former South Central Bell office.

Carolyn (Mrs. James) Mitchell is executive director.

DUES NEEDED

Halls Community Club is conducting a membership drive.

Dues ($25) may be mailed or delivered to Shea Lea Harris at Lauderdale County Bank, P.O. Box 217, Halls.

Branch Opened

JERRY CRIFIELD, second from left, of Halls, president of the Lauderdale County Bank, of Halls, welcomed guests as C. N. Armour, of Halls, chairman of the board, cut a ribbon to open the bank's new branch on Cleveland St. in Ripley Wednesday of last week.

Wood Duck Hunt Begins Saturday

Tennessee has a daily bag limit of two wood ducks in a season opening half an hour before sunrise and closing at sunset for five days, Saturday, Sept. 9th, through Wednesday, Sept. 13th.

Only wood ducks will be legal, and steel shot must be used in Lauderdale, Crockett, Dyer, Obion, Tipton, and Shelby Counties, among others.

Hatchings appear up. Same hours will apply during the duck season Dec. 9th-Jan. 7th.

Daily bag limit in that season will be three (two mallards, only one of which may be a hen, one black, two wood, one red-head, and/or one pin-tail).

The daily bag on mergansers is five (only one of which may be a hooded merganser), and 15 coots. The season remains closed on canvas-backs.

The basic goose season in the Tenn. Valley Population (Kentucky/Barkley) for blues, snows, white-fronted, and Canada geese will open Nov. 23rd (Thanksgiving Day) and close Jan. 31st. The basic limit is two Canada geese per day.

Because of record numbers of Canada geese in the Mississippi Valley Population, the season in the Northwest Zone has been increased to 70 days, opening Dec. 8th and closing Feb. 15th. The quota this season will be increased to 8,500 up from 6,200 birds last year. If the quota is reached before Feb. 15th, the season will close in this zone. The Northwest MVP Zone involves Lake, Obion, and Weakley counties and portions of Byer and Gibson.

For the Mississippi Valley Population of Canada geese in the Southwest Zone, two geese per day is the limit, with a total quota of 700 birds, in a season to run Dec. 9th through Jan. 7th. The Southwest Zone is bounded on the north by state Hwys. 20 and 104 and on the east by U.S. Hwys. 45W and 45.

Dove Fields Sought

The Tenn. Wildlife Resources Agency will lease dove fields at $8.25 to $25 per acre (limit per land-owner, $625, for three days or more). Information from local officers or 1-800-372-3923.

The first of three dove seasons (Sept. 1-30) has a daily limit of 15 (half an hour before sunrise to sunset).

Squirrels Plentiful
With squirrels more plentiful, the daily bag limit for the season which opened Aug. 28th rose from six to 10.
Season ends Jan. 31st.

Westvaco Deer Hunts

For a permit to hunt deer on Westvaco Corp. lands (100,000 acres), send a check for $16.70, payable to Westvaco, the Had-A-Call Grocery, P.O. Box 8, Springville, TN 38566.

Include your name and address, state hunting license number, and a No. 10 (long business) envelope bearing 50¢ postage (why 5¢ over first class rate for two ounces)—ask Westvaco—Ed.

Ask for one or both maps of lands: one of southwestern Tenn. (Chester, Hardeman, Henderson, and McNairy Counties); one of the Big Sandy/Dover area.

Permits are also on sale in 14 shops, including Sportsman's Super Market at 4751 Summer in Memphis and Wal-Mart's in Camden and Waverly.

In 1890, a St. Louis physician ground up peanuts and produced a product that would revolutionize sandwich making and become the hit of the lunch box set. It was peanut butter.

Most moss grows on the north side of trees in open, dry country, not in the forest or on lowlands.

Chickamauga Reenacts Historic BBQ

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. - Civil War reenactments are nothing new, but there has never been a reenactment quite like the one which will take place on September 23, 1989 on the Civil War battlefield at Chickamauga. In contrast to most such events, this reenactment celebrates peace, and an event which helped to preserve many of the historic battlefields of the Civil War under the jurisdiction of the National Park Service.

Exactly 100 years ago, on September 20, 1889, some 14,000 Union and Confederate veterans of the Civil War battles in and around Chattanooga gathered on the site of one of the war's bloodiest battles. They brought their families and friends to show their support for the idea of creating a national park on the ground where 26 years earlier more than 160,000 Americans had fought in the battles of Chickamauga and Chattanooga. Some 34,000 of them were killed, wounded, captured or missing after the huge battle along the banks of tiny Chickamauga Creek.

Among the 14,000 veterans at the old Chickamauga battlefield that September day in 1889 were General William Starke Rosecrans, commander of the Union forces at Chickamauga, and former Confederate General John Brown Gordon. For Rosecrans, the 1889 gathering at Chickamauga was particularly poignant.

In the summer of 1863, Rosecrans was perhaps the best known general in the Union Army, a man frequently mentioned as a presidential contender but any presidential dreams Rosecrans may have had ended on the morning of September 20, 1863 when a Confederate charge shattered his line at Chickamauga, sending most of his army reeling back toward Chattanooga in what could only be described as a rout.

Rosecrans' chief of staff, a future president named James A. Garfield, had convinced Rosecrans that his only hope lay in rallying his retreating army in Chattanooga.

Unknown to either Rosecrans or Garfield, Union General George Thomas had managed to hold his position. Thomas' heroic stand at Chickamauga became a Civil War legend, but it left his commanding general in the awkward position of being among the first members of his army to reach safety in Chattanooga. The press created such a furor over Rosecrans' unfortunate situation that President Abraham Lincoln was eventually forced to remove him from command.

Twenty-six years later, on September 20, 1889, William Rosecrans stood on the site of his greatest defeat and accepted the cheers of both the men he led at Chickamauga and the men they fought on that bloody battlefield. There were speeches and music. Both Rosecrans and Gordon called for an end to destructive national feelings and asked for cooperation in achieving the designation of the battlefield as a national park. The highlight of the day, however, was a gigantic barbecue laid out over a ten-acre site enclosed by ropes. Inside the ropes were 30 tables, each 250 feet long.

Newspaper accounts of the day describe the crowds "swaying to and fro outside the ropes. Ladies, children, men and boys were crowded into one tremendous mass, all anxious to get at the tables that they might satisfy their hunger. Every now and then, when a guard had his back turned, some urchin would creep under the ropes and endeavor to get on the inside, but they were quickly captured and retired in double quick order."

The same account described a bugle call to dinner, at which point the ropes were lowered so the throng could move to the tables. The newspaper also noted that the crowd consumed "15,000 pounds of meat from 428 hogs, sheep, goats and beefs, along with 12,000 loaves of bread, 300 pounds of butter, 65 pounds of pepper and 1,200 pounds of salt."

Following the feast, the participants were asked to join in the symbolic smoking of the peace pipe. Each of the 14,000 participants was provided with a pipe made from wood cut from Snodgrass Hill where George Thomas had made his heroic stand 26 years before.

Caught up in the spirit of that remarkable day, both Rosecrans and Gordon were hoisted to the top of the long center table while the band "trumped up a rousing chorus of 'Dixie' and the crowd raised the rebel yell."

For Rosecrans, whose rising star had crashed on the battlefield at Chickamauga 26 years earlier, the tribute by both Union and Confederate veterans must have been particularly gratifying.

The huge 1889 event at Chickamauga had the desired result. In 1890 the Congress of the United States designated the battlefields at Chickamauga and Chattanooga as the first of America's national military parks.

The September 23, 1989 reenactment of the Chickamauga barbecue is the first in a year-long series of events and activities commemorating the establishment of the Chickamauga-Chattanooga National Military Park as the nation's oldest and largest national military park, and while there are no Civil War veterans left to participate in the 1889 barbecue, the sponsors hope to recreate some of the flavor and atmosphere of the 1889 event.

There will be historical recreations of the original speeches, music and entertainment, souvenir peace pipe pins, a Civil War encampment complete with infantry and artillery drills, a Civil War medical program, a folk life program and, of course, a huge barbecue to climax the day.

Those attending the barbecue are encouraged to wear 1860 period costumes and appear as "extras" in a new orientation program to be shown by the park as a part of the dramatic story of both the Battle of Chickamauga and the creation of the national military park.

Ticket prices for the September 23 event are $6 in advance, or $7.50 on the day of the barbecue. The ticket price includes parking, a complete barbecue dinner, entertainment, music and souvenirs.

For more information about the barbecue reenactment, contact Friends of the Park, P.O. Box 748, Chattanooga, Tennessee 37401, or the Tennessee Department of Tourist Development, Room 7, Box 23170, Nashville, Tennessee 37202.

The Lost Sea

SWEETWATER, Tenn. - Deep inside a cavern in the western Tennessee just off Interstate 75 a boat halfway between Knoxville and Chattanooga lies a remarkable body of water which is listed by the Guinness Book of World Records as "the world's largest underground lake."

The Lost Sea is officially a part of the much more extensive and historic Craighead Cavern system, and while the four-and-a-half acre lake lying some 300 feet beneath the surface is the major attraction for most visitors it is only one of the cavern's many attractions.

"Among cave experts, Craighead Caverns and The Lost Sea are best known for the abundance of a rare crystalline cave formation known as anthodites," says the Lost Sea's Jennifer Fain. "These fragile, spiky formations are found in only a few caves in the world, and no other cavern in the world has them in such abundance."

The astounding number of these rare formations in Craighead Caverns led the United States Department of the Interior to designate The Lost Sea as a Registered Natural Landmark, an honor The Lost Sea shares with such unique geological areas as Cape Hatteras National Seashore in North Carolina and Yosemite National Park in California.

"Craighead Caverns has been known and used since the days of the Cherokee Indians, but its history goes much further back," Fain says. "One of the cave's earliest visitors was a giant Pleistocene-era jaguar which apparently wandered into the cave about 20,000 years ago and was unable to find its way out. Its tracks have been found in the deepest parts of the cave. It must have wandered in the darkness for days before plunging into the crevice where some of its bones were found in 1939. They are now on display in the American Museum of Natural History in New York."

Faster casts of the cat's tracks and some of its bones are displayed in The Lost Sea visitor center, and the tale of the giant jaguar which once roamed the passageways of The Lost Sea invariably sends chills down the spine of visitors.

"The Cherokees were probably the first people to use the cave," Fain says. "We have found many of their artifacts - pottery, arrowheads, weapons and jewelry - in a large room we call The Council Room which is more than a mile from the cave's natural entrance."

The natural entrance, a tiny opening on the side of the mountain, is no longer used by most visitors. A large opening leading directly to the cavern's more interesting sections was blasted out of the mountain in recent times.

We still use the old natural entrance on some of our wild cave tours," Fain says, "but when the cave was first opened to the public in 1915, that was still the only entrance. The original public use of the cave was as a dance hall. They used a huge room just a few steps off the route our guided tours take. The old wooden dance floor was still there until just a few years ago. Over the years, the cave has been used for all kinds of purposes from moonshining to cock fights."

Another huge cavern room also a few feet off the usual guided tour route contains an immense supply of canned food and water, a legacy of the Cold War paranoia of the 1950s.

"The cave was designated as a fallout shelter and stocked with enough food and water for 20,000 people for two weeks," Fain laughs. "I don't know what sort of shape it is in after all these years, but I've never had a tour get lost like the jaguar did, at least they won't starve to death."

During the Civil War, the Confederate Army mined the cave for salt-peter, a component necessary to the manufacture of gunpowder. A diary of that period reveals the intriguing story of a Union spy who nearly succeeded in blowing up the mining operation before he was captured. He was, according to the diary, executed near a large gum tree near the entrance to the cave. The Civil War miners, however, never found the lake at the bottom of the cave.

"The Cherokees may have known about it, though," Fain says. "Throughout its history there were rumors of a large body of water somewhere deep inside the cave, but it was not actually discovered until 1905 when a 13-year-old boy named Ben Sands wiggled through a tiny opening and found himself in a huge room half filled with water. The room was so large that his light was swallowed up long before it reached the far wall or the ceiling. For the rest of his life, he delighted in talking about how he threw mudballs as far as could land on the blackness and heard nothing but splashes in every direction.

The full extent of The Lost Sea is still not known. The visible portion of the underground lake is 800 feet long by 220 feet wide. Glass-bottomed boats powered by electric motors carry visitors out onto the lake as a highlight of the guided tours.

These days the lake is stocked with some of the largest rainbow trout in North America.

"Some of our visitors are surprised that the fish aren't blind," Fain laughs. "The truth is that rainbow trout are not natural cave dwellers. They are raised outside and stocked in the lake where they really thrive. They have no natural enemies in here, fishing is not allowed - as much as some of our visitors would like to throw a trout fly into that lake - and, of course, they get fed by 'very boisterous' visitors to the cave."

So large a lake so far underground is an impressive, but deceptive, sight. Beneath the calm surface waters of The Lost Sea divers have discovered an even larger series of rooms completely filled with water. More than 13 acres of flooded rooms have been mapped so far, and no end to the lake has yet been found.

"Divers have been into some of those huge flooded rooms below the surface of The Lost Sea," Fain says. "One diver equipped with a sonar device took soundings in all directions and found nothing but more water. How large The Lost Sea really is, is still anybody's guess. All we know for sure is that there is a lot more to this lake than meets the eye."

For more information on The Lost Sea, contact the Tennessee Department of Tourist Development, Room 7, Box 23170, Nashville, Tennessee 37202.

COOK IT LIGHT

COOKIES WITH MORE PLEASURE, LESS FAT

Dear Jeanne: Several years ago, a friend gave me this recipe. I really like the cookies, but they have a lot of fat. Any changes would be greatly appreciated. Debra Dirks

St. Louis Park, Minn.

PORTABLE APPLE AND CHEESE PLEASERS

¼ cup all-purpose flour
¼ cup margarine
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups oatmeal, uncooked
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
¾ cup raisins
¾ cup applesauce

1. Combine flour, margarine, sugar, egg, vanilla, cinnamon, baking powder and salt in large bowl; mix well.
2. Add oats, cheese and raisins and again mix well. Stir in applesauce.
3. Drop by heaping tablespoons onto ungreased cookie sheet; bake in preheated 375 F oven 12 to 13 minutes or until golden brown. Store in tightly covered container in refrigerator or in loosely covered container at room temperature.

Makes about 2 dozen cookies.

Dear Debra: I based my nutritional analysis on the assumption that since these cookies are so good, nobody can eat just one! If you like cheese and apples like I do, these are sure to be a favorite.

I reduced the fat, and to make up for the loss of moisture from the fat I increased the applesauce. Using egg substitute instead of a whole egg solves much of the cholesterol problem, and reducing the salt allows the sweetness of the cookie to predominate instead of the saltiness. The only other change I made was to use a fat-reduced cheese instead of regular cheese. I hope you are happy with my revision of your pleasers. I am calling them "pleasers" because now that they are better for you, the pleasure of eating them more often is all yours.

APPLE AND CHEESE PLEASERS

¾ cup unbleached flour
¼ cup corn-oil margarine, softened
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ cup liquid egg substitute
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups uncooked oatmeal
4 ounces low-fat Cheddar cheese, shredded (1 cup)
1 cup raisins
1 cup unsweetened applesauce

1. Combine flour, margarine, brown sugar, egg substitute, vanilla, cinnamon, baking powder and salt in large bowl; mix well. Add oatmeal, cheese and raisins and mix well. Stir in applesauce.

This Halloween get the whole family involved in making healthful treats for the neighborhood trick-or-treaters. Pretzel-making is also a fun and educational Halloween project for scout groups and community centers. The children not only learn all of the cooking techniques involved in making pretzels, they also have the fun of creating their own shapes and sizes.

To reduce the sodium in this recipe, I call for poppy seeds on the pretzels instead of salt. If you prefer salt, use a coarsely ground kosher salt. Caraway, sesame and fennel seeds are also good. I like these pretzels best served warm.

SALT-WHEAT PRETZELS

1 package active dry yeast (check date on package)
¼ teaspoon sugar
1½ cups water
3 to 3½ cups whole-wheat flour
2 teaspoons salt
Corn-oil margarine, melted, for coating
4 cups water
4 teaspoons baking soda
Poppy seeds, for sprinkling

1. Combine yeast, sugar and ¼ cup of the water. Set aside in a warm place until yeast is soft (about 5 minutes). Meanwhile, in a large mixing bowl, combine flour and salt. Add remaining water and yeast mixture; mix well. If necessary, add more flour to make a stiff dough.

2. Knead dough until it is shiny and feels elastic (about 10 minutes). Form dough into a ball and coat with margarine. Place dough in a bowl, cover with a towel and allow dough to rise until doubled in bulk (about 1½ hours).

3. Divide dough into 12 pieces. Roll each piece with your hands to form a rope approximately 20 inches long and ¼ inch in diameter. Cut each rope in half, then form into a pretzel shape. Wet your fingers and pinch pretzel together firmly.

4. In a large pan combine the 4 cups water and baking soda; bring to a boil. Carefully lower into the boiling water as many pretzels as will fit without crowding, and boil until pretzels float to the top (about 1 minute). Remove pretzels with a slotted spatula and place on a paper-towel-lined plate to drain thoroughly. Repeat with remaining pretzels.

5. Preheat oven to 350 F. Place drained pretzels on a greased baking sheet and sprinkle with poppy seeds. Bake until golden brown (about 25 minutes). Serve warm.

Makes 2 dozen pretzels.

Each pretzel contains approximately:

COCKEN

3 tablespoons corn-oil margarine
1 egg
4 egg whites
¼ cup non-fat milk
¼ cup whole-wheat flour
Preheat oven to 425 F

1. Put corn-oil margarine in a small pan or casserole and set in oven to melt.
2. Put egg and egg whites in blender container and blend on high speed for 30 seconds. With motor running, slowly add milk and then slowly add flour. Blend for 30 seconds more.
3. Remove pan from oven and add batter. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until puffy and a golden brown.
Makes 4 servings.

Each serving contains approximately:
Calories: 203
Cholesterol: 54 mg
Fat: 11 gm
Sodium: 207 mg

FREE CHECKING FOR LIFE!

In celebration of the opening of our Ripley facility, any new checking account opened before October 1, 1989, will never be assessed a service or maintenance charge on that account. NEVER!! Think of it, if you have your checking account at The Lauderdale County Bank, that monthly maintenance or service charge you may now be paying at one of the other financial institutions in our area can be put back in your pocket, not the bank's. That could save you up to $50.00 a year, maybe more, depending on which bank you are with now. And that's today, think how much that service charge has gone up in the last few years and how much it will probably go up in the future. A LIFETIME OF FREE BANKING. THAT'S WORTH CHANGING BANKS FOR...BUT YOU ONLY HAVE UNTIL OCTOBER 1ST...DON'T DELAY!

This offer will be good at both our Ripley and Halls locations

Congressman

JOHN TANNER REPORTS TO THE EIGHTH DISTRICT

Over the past several weeks, I have used the August Recess to continue my Summer Listening Tour, which included visits to about 200 communities, towns, and cities throughout the Eighth Congressional District. These visits provide a worthwhile opportunity for me to listen to the views of the people of the district.

With the passage of Labor Day, it is now time for Congress to reconvene and for me to put to work the many suggestions and comments I received while visiting with thousands of constituents. The Congress has a very busy agenda ahead of it.

After what most observers have described as a slow start early this year, legislative activity in the Congress picked up steam. Before adjourning for the recess, the House had passed all 13 appropriations bills needed to fund the departments and agencies of the federal government. The differences in the House and Senate passed versions of these bills must be reconciled in a conference committee before a final vote is taken.

One of the major pieces of legislation awaiting Congressional attention is the Budget Reconciliation Act. This is a comprehensive bill which makes the changes necessary in federal programs to achieve reductions in federal spending. Over the years, this bill has been used to make significant changes in a wide range of programs.

It is important because it is one piece of legislation that actually implements spending cuts. Its passage before October 1 is essential so that the recommended spending reductions can take effect at the start of the new fiscal year. Without passage of Budget Reconciliation, the Gramm-Rudman mechanism of across the board, indiscriminate budget cuts will be triggered to achieve cuts in federal spending needed to reduce the budget deficit.

On occasion, this bill has also been used to move legislative proposals through the Congress which might not come to the floor under normal circumstances. It is expected that this bill in 1989 will include legislative action on some key issues on which many constituents have contacted me.

They include modifications in the so-called Section 89 legislation passed in 1988 to change the tax status of employer provided fringe benefits. The Ways and Means Committee is also trying to complete consideration of legislation that will modify the catastrophic health insurance program for senior citizens.

In addition, these next several weeks will include work to finalize the Defense Authorization Act which authorizes all of the activities of the Armed Forces. A conference committee must work out differences in the differing bills passed by the House and Senate in July.

These are going to be busy weeks in the Congress, and the visits I held with constituents throughout the Eighth District will be very helpful in reflecting the views and values of the people of the Eighth District as issues important to our area and the nation are debated.

Like Boston, New Jersey had a "tea party" during the mounting friction between the colonies and Great Britain. At Greenwich, near Delaware Bay, men in Indian costumes burned a shipload of tea from England in 1774.

Mourning

LINDY KAY SINCLAIR, 20, of Ripley, was killed instantly about 10:30 p.m. Wednesday of last week in a one-car accident on U.S. Highway 51 in Tipton County.

A 1987 graduate of Ripley High School, she had attended the University of Tennessee in Martin and was presently attending Dyersburg State College while employed by City Finance in Ripley.

Services were at 4 p.m. Sunday in Ripley Church of God, with burial in Memorial Gardens, Yarbrough Funeral Home in charge.

She leaves her mother, Mary Lou Sinclair, her father, Ellie C. (Junior) Sinclair, a sister, Amanda Kay Lewis, in critical condition in the Med in Memphis, and her grandmother, Mrs. Lucille Demmon, all of Ripley.

The Highway Patrol says Barbara Hale, 23, of Ripley, was driving on the eastern edge of Munford when the car struck a concrete bridge side wall.

Also injured were Sheila Moore, 30, of Gates, and Loreleia Ueselon, 23, of Halls, the Patrol reported.

Luther Sanders & Wife Injured

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Sanders, of 278 JoAnn, Ripley, are in Baptist Hospital Memphis after a collision about midnight Friday as they were driving toward town on Highland St. in Ripley.

Maurice Mooby, 19, of Henning, unharmed, has been charged with running a stop sign on Watkins and striking the Sanders' car, which then struck a utility pole, Ripley police report.

Mr. Sanders, retired Metropolitan Life Ins. agent, is reported in serious condition; his wife, Betty, remains in intensive care.

Home-Coming Set At Hutcherson Ch.

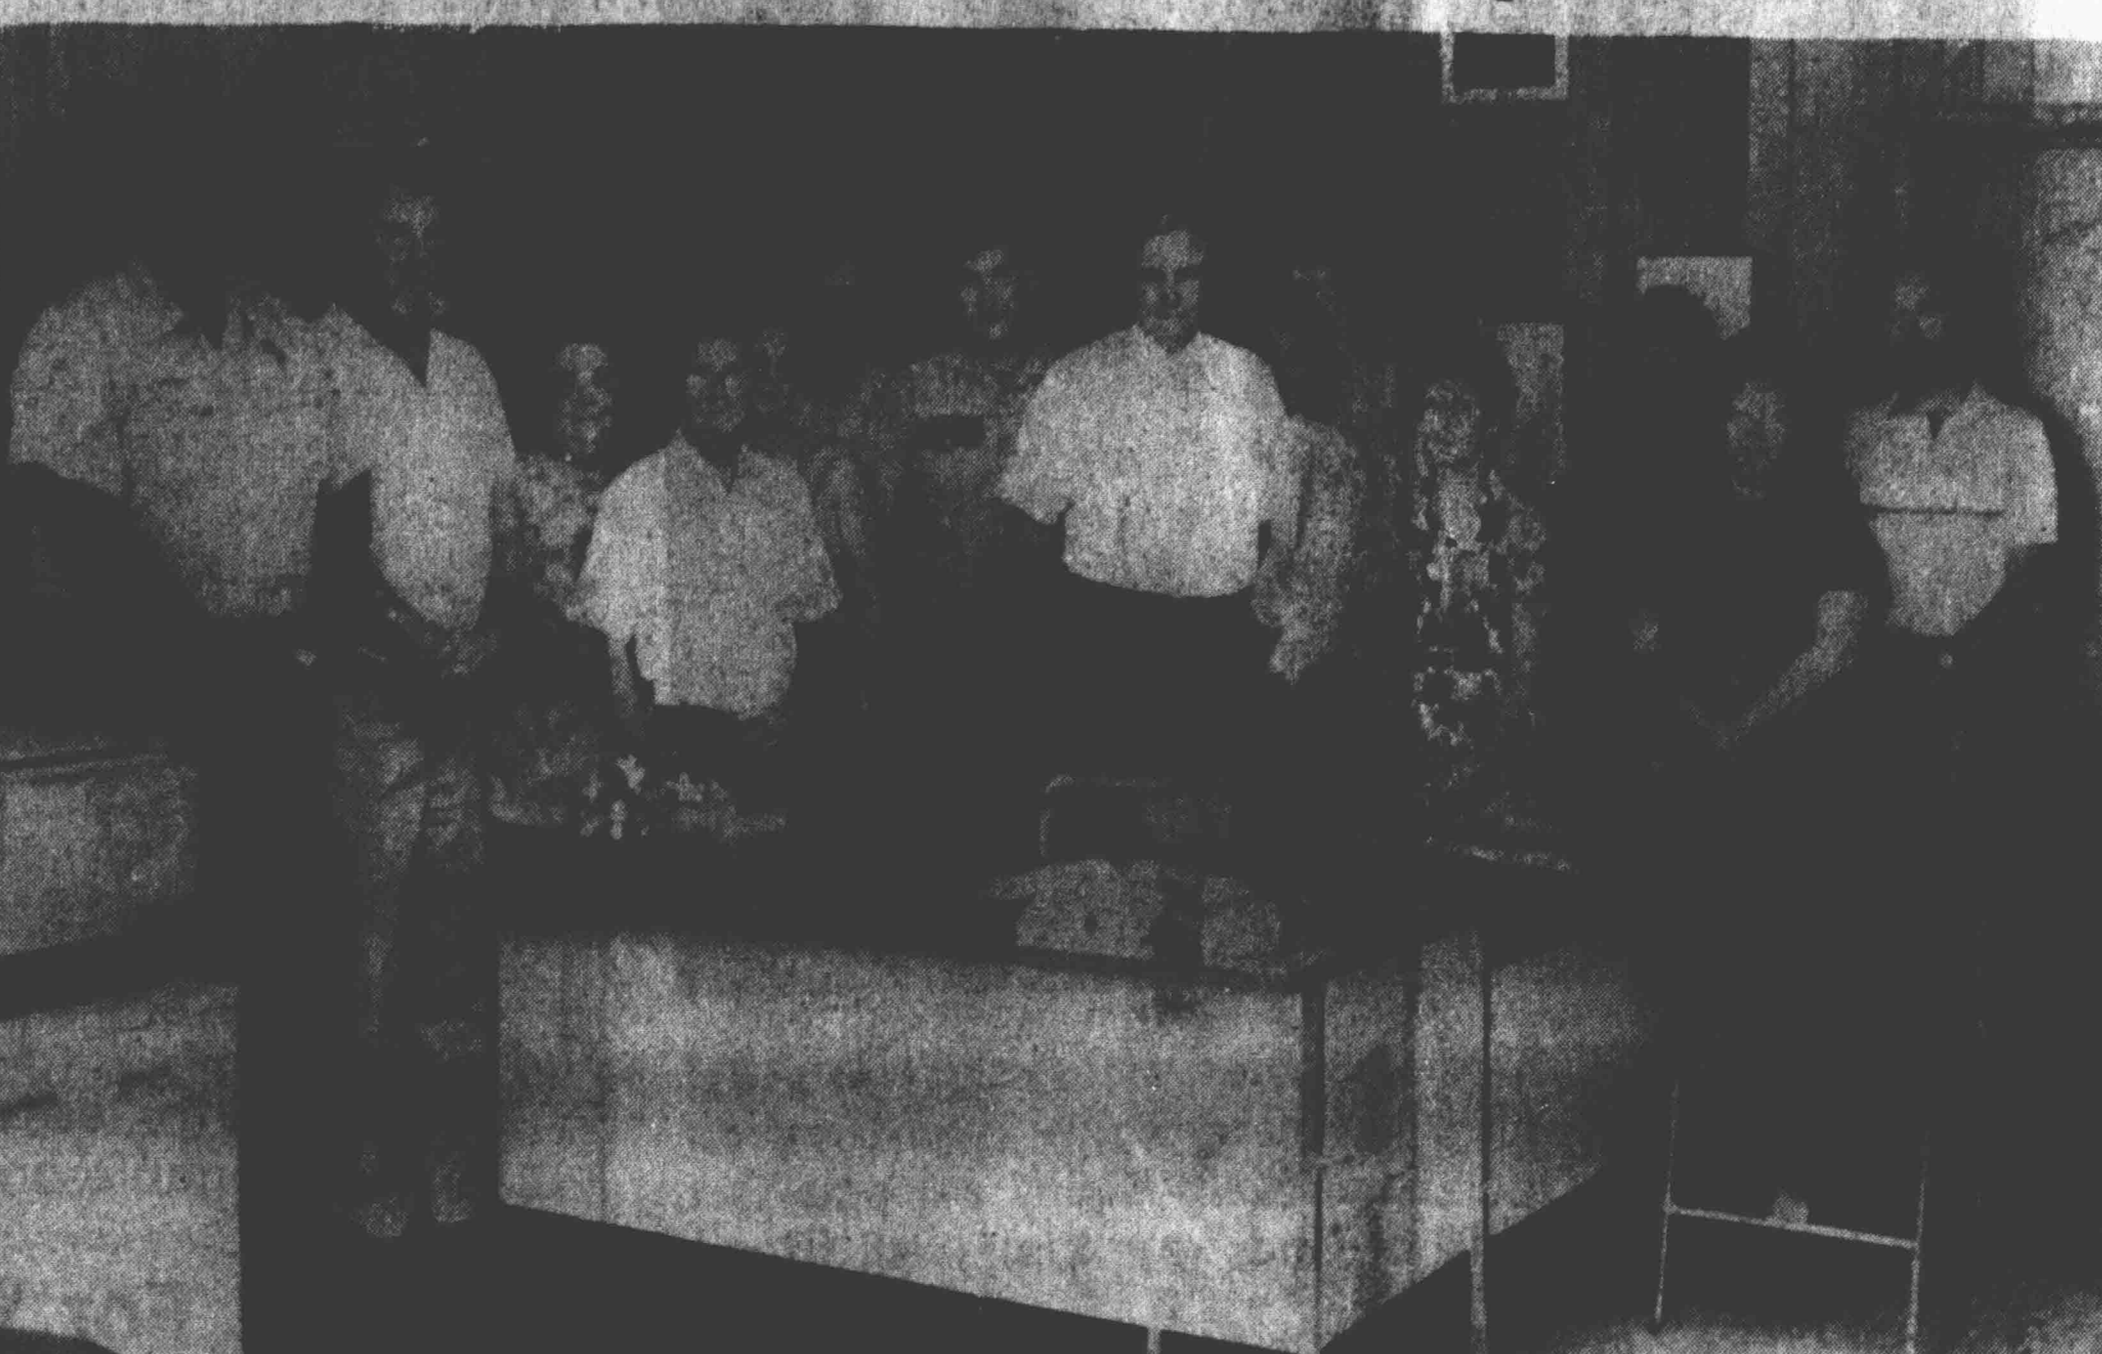

Hutcherson Chapel Church of God will have home-coming services Sunday, with The Rev. Thomas Gibson, pastor, bringing the morning message.

Lunch will be served at noon, with singing at 1:30 p.m., featuring Earl Graves, of Mississippi, and the Henson Family, of Ripley.

LAURA BEST, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Best, of Henning, will perform a vocal medley with Flair, a group of students from the Kincaid-Gooch Studio in Bells, in the Mid-South Fair Youth Talent competition at 7 p.m. Sept. 23rd. The group was in last year's final 16 acts chosen from 516 other competitors. Laura will also compete in the ley, call 635-1621 for special pick-ups Friday, Sept. 15th, and Monday, Sept. 18th; elsewhere, call 635-9541 for special pick-up Saturday, Sept. 16th. Have trash on the curb by 1 p.m. for pick-up.

Halls, At Peabody, Must Beware Walter Dickson

Trenton's Golden Tide, undefeated in two outings, including one in its District 13-AA, this Friday hosts Halls High School's Tigers, unbeaten in two games outside their District 14-A.

Tide mentor is Tim Haney, former Milan griddier, an assistant for the last three seasons to Jim Graves, who has retired from the post.

Haney's 29 players include, from last year's 4-6 squad, 17 lettermen and six offensive starters.

One of them, senior Walter Dickson (5-9, 195), as a sophomore tail-back, posted 1,124 yards and 10 touchdowns; last season, he turned in 1,026 and 14 and was All-District.

In the Tide's T-formation, Haney now runs Dickson from full-back, so he can run in either direction.

Dickson posted 129 yards on 15 carries (one for a 24-yard first quarter touchdown) as Trenton, hosting McNairy County, led 26-0 at the half. Final score was 26-6.

McNairy, of District 14-AA, was 1-9 last season. Last Friday, Dickson got 116 yards in 21 tries, including a 3-yard touchdown, as the Tide hosted Westview (which had all but two offensive starters back from last year's 4-6 squad) in a district tilt.

But top billing in the Tide's win, 14-7, went to junior quarterback Conchas Powell (6-0, 160), an option specialist who tossed for 666 yards and four TDs last fall.

Scoring ended in the third period, but mid-way in the final stanza, on fourth down, a Tide punt attempt from its seven saw the snap sail into the end zone.

Powell recovered the leather and ran it out to the 36.

The Tide controlled the ball for six minutes to preserve its margin of victory.

Tigers Blanked USJ
Senior tail-back Chris Smith (5-9, 158) went 31 yards for a second period touchdown and 21 for one in the third quarter as Halls coasted over University

Ave Maria Pastor Is Rev. Ponticello

The Rev. Robert D. Ponticello, 35, has been appointed pastor of St. Alphonsus Catholic Church in Covington and of Ave Maria Catholic Church Mission in Ripley by the Most Rev. Daniel M. Buechlein, bishop of the Diocese of Memphis.

The Rev. Mrs. Ponticello was ordained to the priesthood in November, 1981. He has served at Catholic Churches in the Memphis area—St. Paul, St. James, St. Ann, and the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception in various capacities at the Diocesan Pastoral Office. He is currently Adjutant Judicial Vicar of the Diocesan Tribunal.

He is a member of the board of directors of St. Peter Villa Nursing Home in Memphis and serves on the ethics committee there. He is a member of the Calvary Cemetery Committee and the Continuing Education Committee for clergy of the Diocese of Memphis. He is a canon lawyer and member of the Canon Law Society of America.

He is a volunteer in work for the Teen, Department of Correction at Fort Pillow Prison and Farm.

He earned a bachelor of arts in psychology and in philosophy and religion from Curry College, Milton, Mass., in 1977. He earned a master of divinity degree from St. Meinrad, Ind.,

School of Theology in 1982 and after four years of service in a parish returned to school to earn baccalaureate degrees in canon law, both civil and ecclesiastical, in 1986 from the University of Ottawa and St. Paul University in Ottawa, respectively. In 1987, he earned a license in canon law from St. Paul University and a master's in canon law from the University of Ottawa.

He comes to the pastorate from his most recent parish assignment at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception located in Memphis.

Revival Hearing Harold Goodwin

A revival in First Christian Church in Halls at 7:30 nightly, Sept. 17-19th will hear visiting evangelist Harold Goodwin, of Memphis.

There will be special music Sunday night by "Carpenter's Crew."

John Porter, minister, invites everyone. A nursery is available.

AT WILLOW GROVE

Lance Cpl. James K. Mustion, son of Vernon L. Mustion and Mary K. Moore, both of Ripley, has reported for duty at 4th Marine Aircraft Wing at Willow Grove, Pa.

A 1986 graduate of Ripley High School, he joined the Marine Corps in May, 1986.

New Garbage System Increasing Halls Fees

On the motion of Mack Stanley, Halls' town board voted unanimously Monday to invest $150,000 (if financed at 7% or less) in a new garbage truck with lift, 30 6-yard dumpsters, and 1,000 rolling garbage containers.

On the motion of Eugene Pugh, the board also approved increased monthly garbage service rates to help pay for the system when it goes into operation:

- $5 for residences.
- $15 for light commercial customers.
- $35 for heavy commercial customers.

Contract for the equipment was awarded to Bucy Equipment Co., of Rector, Ark., whose president, Fred Bucy, told the board the system will cut manpower and time required to collect garbage.

Park Meadows Aided

David Lowrance, of Memphis, representing Wesley Homes, which has purchased the Park Meadows Apartments for the elderly, asked tax exemption for the apartments except for essential services, noting rates in Memphis and Paris of $5 per apartment.

On Pugh's motion, the board granted the $5 rate.

Hutcherson Assisted

On Pugh's motion, the board agreed to modify its agreement with Hutcherson Scrap to permit the scrap firm to install a baler and roll spaw on property purchased from Evelyn Smith Quarles, between the taxi-way the firm now occupies and the runway of Arnold Field.

Approval was conditioned on agreement between the firm, the Airport Committee, and the state Aeronautics Commission.

Water Plans Eyed

Kathy Ashmore, water plant supervisor, said Gates is interested in interconnecting not only with the county system but with Halls' system for emergency use. She noted a need to move a power generator.

Chlorine detection equipment was also discussed.

Wright Zoning Pends

The board requested changes in an agreement reached between Marty Joe Wright and Ruth Wright and Russell Rice, attorney for the town, on use of property purchased from James Jones which was formerly Hargett Poultry, at Tigrett and Wilson Sts.

The agreement authorizes "a shop to store, maintain and repair motorized and non-motorized vehicles and equipment."

City attorney Charles Dyer suggested "for storage and minor repair of vehicles and equipment" or any other legal use not more detrimental to the community.

Many Issues Remain

A 3 1/2-hour meeting adjourned with five agenda items postponed until next month: Crafo spur track lease; Simmons Creek drainage grant; police car bids; windsock installation; and deed transfer of Keltner St. Left Station property vs. C. D. Coleman.

The judgeship will be in addition to the positions currently held by Circuit Judge Jon Kerry Blackwood, of Somerville, Chancellor Dewey Whitenton, of Bolivar, and Chancellor John Hill Chisolm, of Covington, who was recently appointed to fill the vacancy created by the death of Chancellor Robert S. Thomas.

Church Vows Said

MR. AND MRS. HOLLIS WAYNE BELTON, of Halls, exchanged double ring vows at 3 p.m. Aug. 6th in Halls First Baptist Church. The Rev. Mike Pilcher, of Memphis, and Dr. John Adams, of Jackson, officiated in candle-light.

The entry hall held a crystal vase of white roses. Pewes were decorated with white bows. Mother's pews were marked with white roses.

Guests were registered by Elizabeth Taylor, of Halls.
The bride, Mary Jane Fennell, was given by her father, Henry Harlan Fennell, of Ripley.

Her gown of white taffeta and lace by Mori Lee featured a Victorian neckline and a Basque waist. The bodice was heavily adorned with sequins and pearls. The ballgown sleeves were edged with lace, accented with pearls and sequins. Her cathedral train was accented with pearls and sequins. Her headpiece of silk flowers and pearls held a finger veil adorned with scattered pearls.

The bride carried a bouquet of orchids, white roses, stephanotis and eucalyptus, with a spray of pearls. She carried a handkerchief train was accented with pearls and sequins. Her headpiece of silk flowers and pearls held a finger veil adorned with scattered pearls.

The bride's sister, Donna Fennell, of Memphis, was maid of honor. Other bridal attendants were the bride's niece, Rachel Williams, Libby Henderson and Beth Sanders, all of Ripley. They were fitted peplum tea-length dresses of dusty mauve chitra tulle by Jordan of New York.

Beth's waist was accented with a double candy-box bow on a tulle skirt. Each carried a bouquet of mauve and white roses adorned with mixed flowers.

The bride's niece, Miss Katie Fennell, of Knoxville, was flower girl. She wore a floral tea-length dress with heavy lace. She carried a miniature bouquet like the bridesmaids.

The groom wore a charcoal gray tuxedo, with woven pin stripes, in tails, with a vest, a gray bow-tie, and a boutonniere of stephanotis.

The groom's father, Carmon Bruce Belton, of Halls, was best man. Groomsmen were the groom's brother, Stephen Belton, Jimmy Barnes and Bruce Tims, all of Halls. The male attendants wore charcoal gray tuxedos with woven pin stripes, designed by Christian Dior, with dusty mauve cummerbund, white bow-tie and white boutonniere.

The bride's nephew, Guil Williams, of Ripley, was ring bearer. His tuxedo was identical to the groom's.

Ushers were the bride's brothers, Tommie, of Knoxville, and Henry, of Nashville, the groom's brother, William, of Halls, and the groom's cousin, Scott Nunley, of Booneville, Miss.

The bride's mother wore a tulle-length dress of mauve silk with an overlay and long sleeves. She wore pearl and rhinestone earrings.

The groom's mother chose a tulle-length dress of mauve satin with a dropped waist and ruffled tiers on the bottom. She wore a single strand of pearls with pearl and rhinestone earrings.

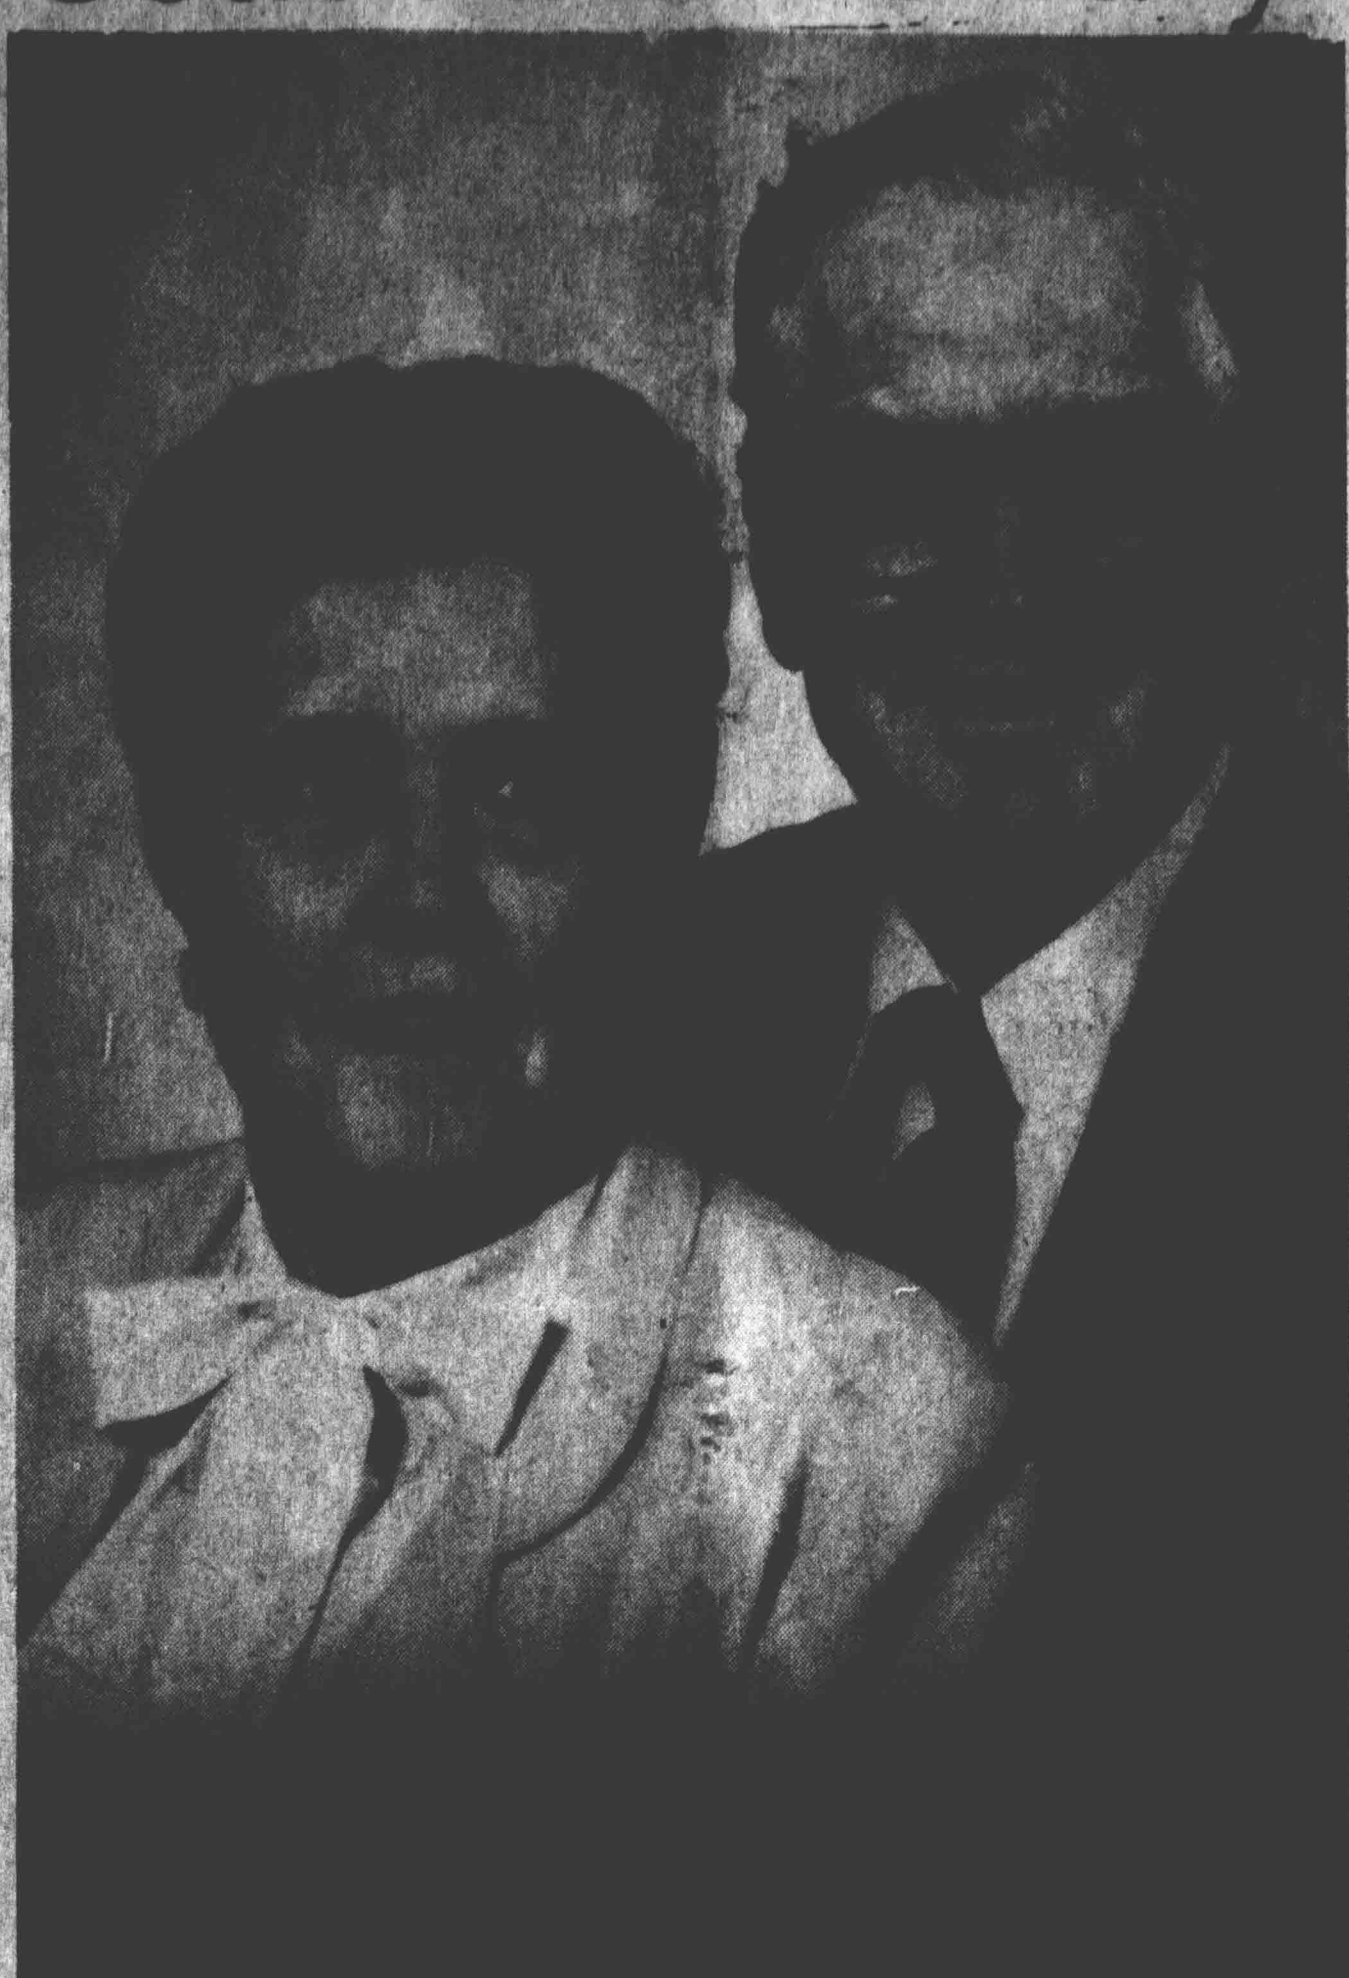

Grandmothers were each presented a corsage of three white roses.

Music was presented by Mrs. Marvin Hansford, of Halls, at the piano, and Mrs. Donald Hogue, of Halls, who sang You Were There, Whither Thou Goest, and The Wedding Prayer.

For the reception in the fellowship hall, tables were draped with white cloths. The bride's table was centered with a 3-tier cake made by Beth Hurt, of Halls. The white cake was decorated with white beads and the work with hearts and bells.

The tiers were separated by human columns and fresh flowers, which also topped the cake.

Halls History

By Mrs. Charles Alsbrook
Mrs. J. R. ("Miss") Kitty Brown will be celebrating her 100th birthday Sept. 29th. She is the oldest of eight children born to Minnie Montgomery and W. J. (Bill) Agee.

Miss Kitty's siblings are Mrs. Helen Badgett, of Alamo, Elbert Agee, Mrs. Willie Foote, and Mrs. Brookie Bloodworth, of Memphis, and Mrs. Eva Perrin, Mrs. Ruby Woods and Hershel Agee, deceased.

The family lived in the Old Field community in Crockett County, where six of the children were born.

Miss Kitty recalls making mud pies with her sisters. One day she said, "I am going to make a turban today". Her little sister replied, "I am going to make what you put in it."

One time, the Agee's chickens started roosting in the trees in the yard. The children were told to stay in the house, for they were going to get the chickens to move back into the chicken house. Kitty and a younger sister went out into the yard anyway, and when the little sister was looking up into the tree, chicken droppings fell in her eye.

Miss Kitty tells that her mother had a baby about every two years. When she was little bitty, she remembers rocking the babies in their cradle. Her "Pappy" was a school teacher, as well as a carpenter, and grew fruit trees, gathering and selling the fruit.

They lived in Ripley, where Kitty and Eva started to school, when their Pappy taught in the country near Henning.

The Agee family, with two other families, moved to Arkansas in 1902. They went in covered wagons, with a cow tied on behind. The cows in the caravan never got to their destination, as some of the streams they crossed were deep and they never could get the cows to swim across, they were left behind.

The pioneers arrived before Christmas in Paragould, Ark., where the Agees had relatives. It was here that Miss Kitty was graduated from high school, and the two youngest children, Elbert and Helen, were born.

The family moved from Arkansas to Memphis, where they resided for only a brief time.

Miss Kitty and her sister, Willie, had their first jobs there. They worked at Kress's 5¢ and 20¢ store for $3.50 a week. After Bry's built its store, they worked there for $7 a week.

The Agee family moved to Halls and lived on the corner of Park and Wilson Sts. In 1920, Miss Kitty married J. R. Brown, or Jimmy, as she calls him. They had known each other since they were children living in Crockett County.

Kitty and Jimmy lived on the Brown farm in the Old Field Community for several years, and their children, the late Robbie Patton and Jaunita Barfield were born there.

They moved to Halls in 1917 and lived on South College St., where Ruth Wilkes and J. H. were born.

Mr. Brown built the building on the corner of Main and Front St., where he had the Ford Dealership with Sewall Daws and H. A. Townsend. He sold out to Mr. Townsend and Mrs. Daws, and they built the building on the corner of Church and West Tigratt Sts.

Mr. Brown later had the Case Tractor and Chevrolet dealerships.

"When we lived on College Street there were 60 kids in the neighborhood," Miss Kitty says. The children would have shows in the big barn left behind their house.

Most people had large families, but Sarah Patrick, Hilda Abernathy, Roy Patton, Marcelline Harward and Ralph Colley were only children, and they all played, fussed, and sometimes even had a fight.

The Clarence Dyer family lived a few doors down the street. One day, Mr. Brown looked out, and Margaret Dyer, who was six or seven years old, was at the top of the telephone pole in front of his house. Mr. Brown hurried to tell Mr. Dyer, "Margaret is up the street at the top of the telephone pole." Mr. Dyer never stopped reading his paper and replied, "The Lord looks after Margaret."

People living on College St. have always been very neighborly, and it was and still is a good place for children to grow up.

When what is Old Highway 51 now was being built as the new road to Dyersburg, Mr. Brown bought a farm about a mile from town and built a large brick home on it, before the road was completed. Other than the business in town, they milked 22 cows, and Miss Kitty delivered milk, butter and eggs all over town. She also cooked for the hands Mr. Brown had working in the wheat harvest.

One day, after she had finished her deliveries and was on her way back home, planning to stop at Vester Walpole's vegetable stand to buy some cabbage to cook for dinner, and singing "When You Take Your Vacation In Heaven", she didn't hear the train coming.

She slammed on her brakes and stopped just in time for the train to take her head-lights and bumper off the car.

Miss Kitty said all the people in town were there in a few minutes. She got out of the car, shook herself good and declared there were no bones broken. The car, though torn up, would still run, and she still had to get that cabbage and cook dinner for those hands.

"Laura Warren called me to see how I was feeling, and she couldn't believe I was able to keep on going with my work that day," she says.

The Browns were faithful members of First Methodist Church. Miss Kitty served as treasurer of the women's missionary groups and the Zone Dyer Sunday School Class for years. Mr. Brown and their son, J. H., were regular members of the Board of Stewards and the Men's Sunday School Class. J. H. also sings in the choir.

The Air Base took the Brown farm, and they lived in the building up-town during World War II. They had a restaurant in part of the building.

They then bought a farm in the Mississippi bottom and 18 acres on the bluff, where they built their home; Miss Kitty lives there now.

Mr. Brown was an avid hunter and fisherman, and they owned a fishing cabin near Perryville, on Kentucky Lake.

He also had a good garden, buying a new garden tractor only a few years before he died at age 95 in 1980.

He was only ill for about a week, suffering from complications from a fall breaking his hip.

One story Miss Kitty tells is that Mr. Brown once paid $100 for a big dog, went hunting, and killed one bird. Then the dog died.

She told him: "This is a $100 quail you are having for breakfast this morning."

She slammed on her brakes and stopped just in time for the train to take her head-lights and bumper off the car.

Bradley Chiropractic Clinic

Dyersburg, Tennessee

Many patients come to chiropractic as a "last resort," usually after more traditional modes of health care have left them dissatisfied. Upon their first visit to the chiropractor, these patients quickly sense that the chiropractic experience is fairly unique. Rather than rely on definitive tests, the chiropractor forms a diagnosis on focused observation. The chiropractor makes every effort to explain both the problem and the treatment to the patient in understandable terms. As for the treatment phase, it may well take the form of a series of ongoing therapy sessions. Its elaborate nature stems from the individual's characteristic physical peculiarities. Through personal contact, the chiropractor continually assesses the patient's condition and encourages patient participation. Chiropractic care is usually evaluated in terms of results.

P.S. With chiropractic care, the doctor stays with his patient through every phase, instead of sending him to the druggstore.

New Tennessee Commercial Driver License Ahead

Because of the new national laws, all states must begin issuing licenses based on the type of vehicle you drive.

If you drive a car, truck, van or farm vehicle for your own use, you are a Class D driver and basically nothing changes for you.

The changes apply to commercial drivers. You are a commercial driver if you (1) drive a vehicle over 26,000 lbs. GVW (Gross Vehicle Weight) or haul a trailer in excess of 10,000 lbs. GVW; (2) drive a van or bus carrying more than 15 passengers (including driver); or (3) drive a vehicle carrying hazardous material requiring a placard. When your license comes up for renewal, you will have to take vision, knowledge and/or skills tests.

The new laws will help make our Tennessee highways safer by guaranteeing drivers are well-trained and qualified.

To make these changes as simple as possible for you, the Tennessee Department of Safety, Driver Control Division, has prepared a free brochure and study manual. For more information, write the address below. Or go by your local Driver License Station, listed in the blue pages of your phone book under "State Government, Safety". We're happy to help.

Halls Tigers Visiting Memphis Sky-View

Halls High School's Tigers, 2-1 after a 19-8 loss to Trenton last week, remain outside District 14-A play this week as they journey to Sky-View Academy in Memphis. (To reach Skyview, turn left off U.S. Highway 51 South onto North Watkins, turn left on Frayser Blvd., turn right on University St., and go about a mile—the school is on the left.) Sky-View was 3-6 last fall and 3-2, to rank second among six teams, in District 16-A.

Split end John Todd (6-0, 137), who caught 10 passes for 124 yards, is back this year, as a senior, but with new tossing talent Chris Godwin, Hawk work-horse last season, has graduated. Five other starters are back, for depth in the offensive back-field but little elsewhere. Speed is also a problem. The Hawks lost to Lake County, 13-0, in a half of jamboree football in Memphis before they won their opener from Fayette-Ware, of Somerville, 23-13.

Last week, University School of Jackson, after a 14-0 loss to Halls, defeated Sky-View, 13-0.

Fumbles Fueled Tide
Trenton's Golden Tide, of District 13-AA, doubled Halls rushing and turned two Halls Tiger fumbles into scores to lead all the way Friday.

After Halls fumbled on the game's second play, the Tide 21 scored from the 21 in six plays with 7:34 in the period.

Forced to punt, Halls recovered the kick on Trenton's 14, but netted only four yards in two plays. A third down pass failed to connect. A field goal try was wide and low.

Halls held on fourth down at its 25 but couldn't post a first down. After an exchange of punts, Halls fumbled again, and Trenton marched 56 yards in seven plays to make it 13-0, with 4:37 in the first half.

The Tide scored again before half-time, moving 61 yards in 12 plays.

Halls' only points came in the final period when quarterback Chris Hurt dived five yards into pay dirt. Chris Smith ran two points after.

At linebacker, Hurt paced tackles with 15, plus four assists.

Higdon Named To State Board

Gov. Ned McWherter has appointed Patricia A. Higdon, of Halls, to the 16-member board of directors of the Tenn. Student Assistance Corp., which administers loans and grants for higher education.

Her term will expire June 30, 1992.

She was defeated this spring for re-election as mayor of Halls, after having served one term.

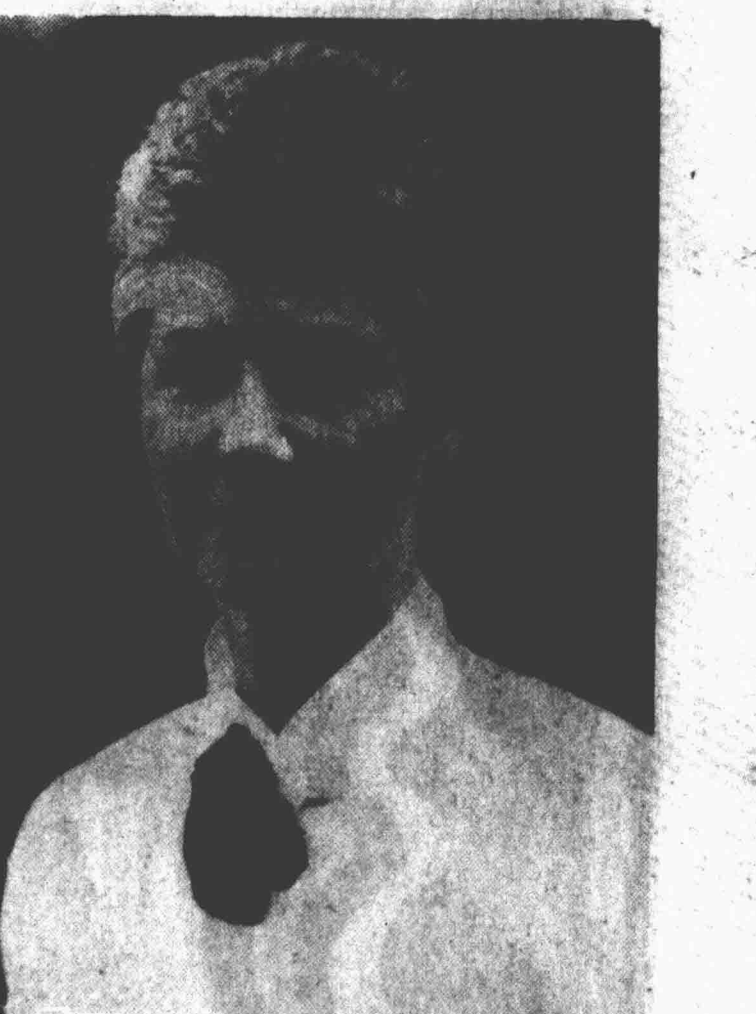

Mrs. Higdon has taught in Halls High School 10 years in business education and five in social studies, receiving many teaching awards, including the Tenn. Education Assn. Distinguished Classroom Teacher Award in 1986.

A CloseUp Club sponsor, she serves on the board of the Forked Deer Regional Library.

In 1985, she received the Agricultural Extension Service Vernon M. Darter Award for outstanding service.

The Connells have a daughter, Angela. They attend Whitefield Assembly of God Church.

Saluted

JANE (MRS. DON) CONNELL, home economist with the University of Tennessee Agricultural Extension Service in this county, received a Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of Extension Home Economists at the national meeting in Honolulu, Hawaii, Sept. 10th.

The award recognizes extension home economists for leadership and implementation of well-planned Extension home economics programs and for personal and professional growth.

Mrs. Connell co-ordinates Extension adult and youth home economics programs. She was honored by NAEHE for her work in health, food and nutrition, family life, and family economics to improve life for infants through the elderly.

A native of Haywood County, Mrs. Connell earned a bachelor's degree in home economics education from the University of Tennessee in Martin and a master's degree in extension education from UT, Knoxville.

She is a certified home economist with the American Home Economics Association and is a member of the Tennessee Association of Extension Home Economists, Tennessee Association of Extension 4-H Workers, Epsilon Sigma Phi and Gamma Sigma Delta honorary fraternities.

In 1985, she received the Agricultural Extension Service Vernon M. Darter Award for outstanding service.

The Connells have a daughter, Angela. They attend Whitefield Assembly of God Church.

APPOINTED SERGEANT

Janet L. Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy M. Scott, of Route 1, Gates, has been appointed a sergeant at the Kelly Air Force Base Tex. Clinic where she is a medical administration specialist.

She is a 1955 graduate of Ripley High School.

Gin Office Razed

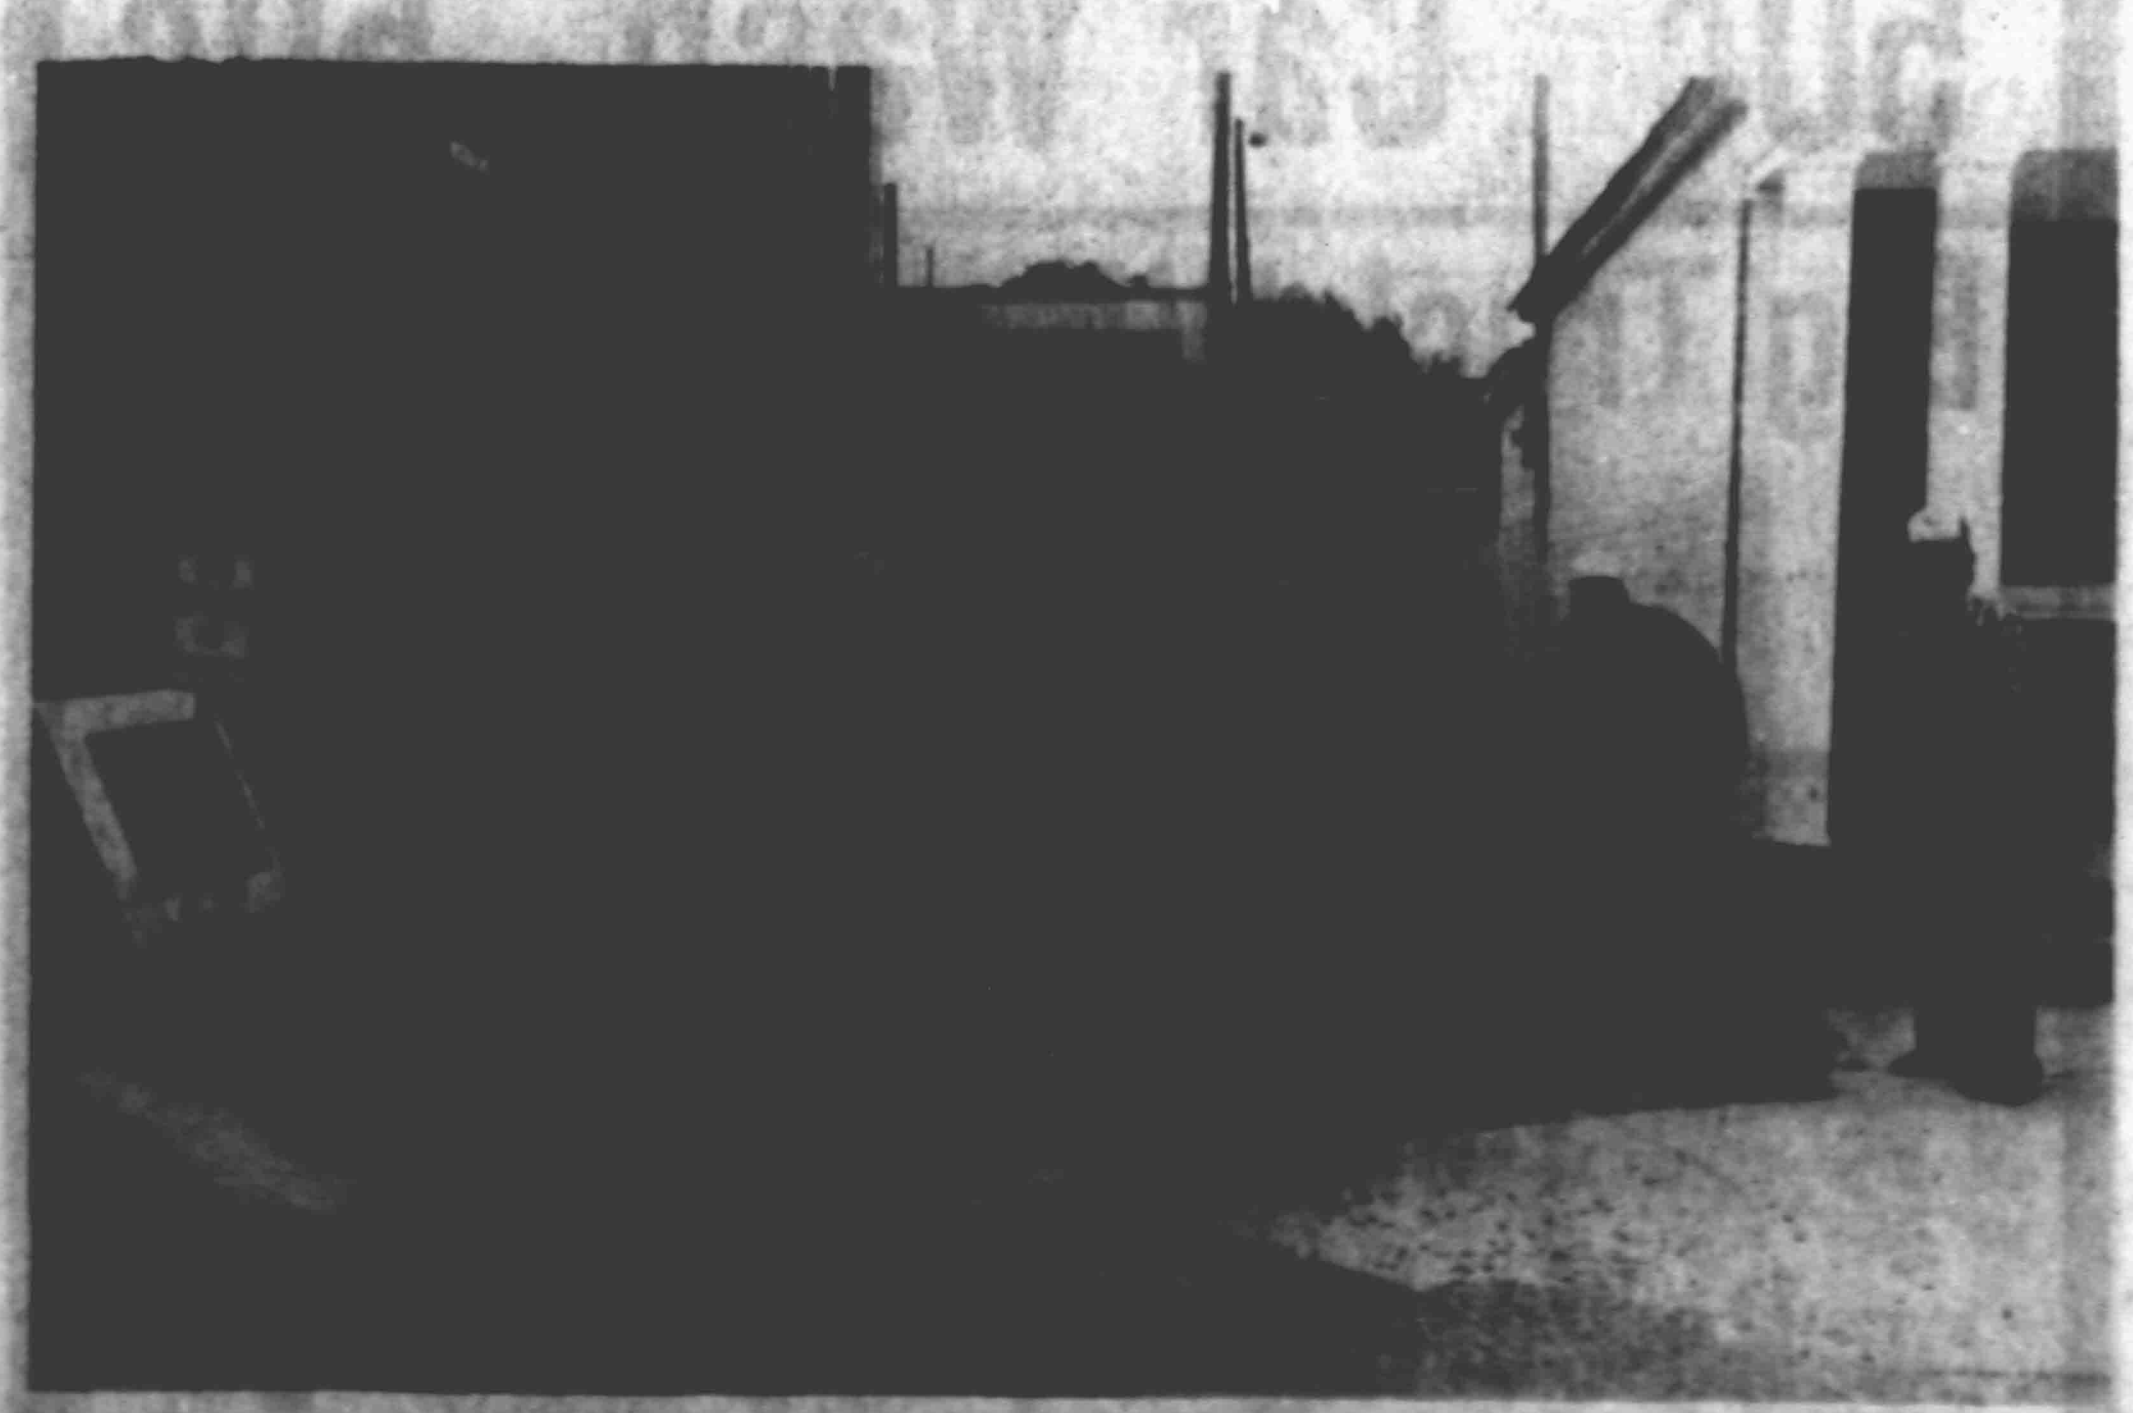

EDWARDS GIN CO. demolished its old office Monday to make more room on the gin lot. The old building was torn down with a Track Hoe and hauled off. A new building will house the scale office, business offices, and a store-room.

80 Owners Of Lost Properties Sought

In an advertisement in this issue, the state seeks information from State Rep. Floyd Crain, the Butler-Tucker Clinic, First Federal Savings and Loan, and 77 other Lauderdale County listings about property apparently abandoned. Check the ad to see if you can file a claim.

Clean-Up Succeeds

BANDY HARRIS, Halls mayor, was well pleased with Clean-Up Day Saturday. He says it was a success.

BAND TO MILAN

Halls High School's Band will go to Milan Saturday for their first concert, which is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

JACK R. HENDERSON, of Halls, as he looked in 1958 when he began his career as mail carrier on Route 2, Halls. This 1957 Chevrolet was the first of 15 automobiles he used on the route. He purchased this one used for $1,300. He will be retiring Sept. 22nd after 30 years and 10 months of service with the Post Office.

Looking Back

By Mrs. Charles Alsbrook
Two ladies who live a few miles west of Halls celebrated birthdays this month.

Mrs. Jewell Hughes was 88 Sept. 13th. She still drives her car, does her house work, attends the Curve Baptist Church regularly, and goes to the beauty shop each week.

Dot Craddock honored her Aunt Jewell with a family dinner at her home on Circle Drive in Halls Sept. 9th. Dot served country ham, boiled in a lard stand, with all the trimmings, and birthday cake and ice cream.

Mrs. Hughes brought her own home-made bread, pickles, preserves and jams to add to the other goodies.

"Miss" Jewell grew up at Curve, where her parents, Mattie Tennessee Smith and Joseph Allison Stanley, farmed and ran a general miscellaneous store. She attended Curve and Halls Schools. At one time, her family lived on the corner of West Tiggret and Hazel Sts. in Halls, and the children attended Halls High School.

Other guests at the dinner and spending the weekend in the Craddock home were Joy and Charles Reed and Kim and Mike Robertson, of Jackson, Miss.; Kenny and Melissa Reed and children, Grace and Mallory, of Yazoo, Miss.; Alyce and Bob Craddock and little daughter, Leslie Alice; and Jan and Dr. Roger Vogelfanger, of Memphis.

Sept. 13th, Cicely Dirmeyer and Carolyn Carswell, of Memphis, entertained with a catfish dinner in Dyersburg, complimenting Mrs. Hughes. Other guests were the A. C. Carters and Bill Hughes.

Ibera (Mrs. James Glover) Throgmorton was honored with a birthday tea, celebrating her 87th birthday, Sept. 17th in her home in the Antioch community.

Hostesses were Mrs. Freda Grant, of Dyersburg; Mrs. Jennifer Olds, of Halls, and Miss Rhonda Dugger, of Edith, Mrs. W. G. Throgmorton registered, guests.

Mrs. Throgmorton, or "Mama," as her family call her was born Sept. 13, 1902, just across the road from where she and her daughter, Mary, live now.

Her parents were the late Mozell Sharrow and William Hicks Abernathy. Ibera had two brothers, the late Lamar and Ralph Abernathy.

She attended Rutherford and Nankipoo schools, stopping to help her mother at home when her father died.

Ibera and Glover Throgmorton were married Nov. 29, 1921 and lived on the farm Ibera inherited from her mother. They lived in the home place until her husband built the house where she now resides. Mrs. Throgmorton tells that she and her husband worked hard from morning until night, farming and raising hogs to kill and sell, until his death.

Their other children are Frances Harrell, of Gates, Martha Dugger, of Edith, and the late James Henry, who was buried April 18, 1989 in North Dakota, after service in World War II and a career in the Army.

Fund Raisers

PHYLLIS KING, of the American Heart Association, presented a plaque to Halls Junior High School faculty members, Mrs. Peggy Thompson and Paul Henderson, in appreciation for their participation in Jump Rope for Heart. The school's students raised $336.96.

She's 5

LAURA KATE BLAYLOCK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blaylock, of Torrance, Calif., will be five years old Oct. 6th. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Johnson, of Canoga Park, Calif., and the great-granddaughter of Mrs. Emma Sue Hinton, of Nankipoo.

Off The River

DENNIS AND JEFF STEDHAM, brothers, of West Memphis, Ark., and their little dog called off their Mississippi River adventures Thursday night of last week after they rounded a dike about a quarter mile from Simpson's Grocery at Ashport, were swept out into the river in fog, and narrowly missed being run over by a barge. After two hours of hard paddling with home-made oars, they abandoned their trip to Memphis, from about 20 miles south of Rockport, Ill., which they had begun about three weeks earlier, with only staple groceries and a fishing pole. They had hitch-hiked to Illinois about four months ago to start the trip.

Princess

ASHLEE NICOLE DOUGLAS, 5, daughter of Mary Douglas of Henning, was chosen Princess in the 4-5 Year Division of Miss Lauderdale County Sweetheart pageant Aug. 13th in Halls Community Center. As All American Girl, she won a 5-foot trophy.

COOK IT LIGHT

JEANNE JONES
I have received so many letters from my readers complaining that they can't find whole-wheat tortillas without lard that I decided it was time to share my own favorite recipe for homemade whole-wheat tortillas. It was given to me by a neighbor when I lived in Mexico City. My neighbor always made miniature quesadillas for parties and when I asked him where he bought the tiny tortillas, he told me he made them himself. He said the secret was to allow the dough to rest for at least 30 minutes and then knead a bit more water into the dough if necessary to roll out the tortillas. Making them can be fun for the whole family, and they are as wholesome as they are delicious.

- WHOLE-WHEAT FLOUR TORTILLAS
1/2 cup whole-wheat pastry flour
1/2 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons corn-oil margarine
1 cup warm water, approximately
1. Sift together flours, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in margarine until flour looks as though it has small peas in it. Add enough warm water to make a soft dough. Mix well and knead on a well-floured board for 3-5 minutes or until shiny and elastic. Cover dough and allow to rest for 30 minutes, out of drafts.
2. Form dough into 6 balls about 2 inches in diameter. Place a dough ball between 2 pieces of waxed paper and, using a rolling pin, roll each ball into a circle about 7 inches in diameter and less than 1/4 inch thick.
3. Cook on a hot, ungreased griddle for about 2 minutes or until lightly browned on the edges. Turn and cook while continuing to cook remaining tortillas. If making ahead of time, tightly wrap in foil and reheat in a 300 F oven for about 15 minutes or until pliable. Cold tortillas will crack when rolled or folded.

Makes 6 tortillas.
Each tortilla contains approximately:
Calories: 81
Cholesterol: 0 mg
Fat: 1 gm
Sodium: 144 mg

Married By Candlelight To Marry Mr. Stewart

MR. AND MRS. GREGORY RAYMOND HELTON exchanged double ring vows at 7:30 p.m. July 14th in Olive Branch Baptist Church near Ripley, with The Rev. Roger Criner officiating in the glow of candles in a cathedral arch adorned with Fuji mums, snap-dragon, stock, and sprenger.

Flanked with the same flowers, brass tree candelabra completed the setting. White satin bows were used on each pew, with aisle candles and bouquets embellishing the mothers' pews. Hurricane candles lining the hall, bows on the doors, and a floral design of snaps, stock, and Fuji mums welcomed guests.

The bride, Katherine Renee Peakins, was given in marriage by her father, Ronald Peakins, of Ripley.

Her gown of white satin accented with schiffli embroidery was designed by Bonny of New York. It featured a Christina neckline. The princess bodice and gathered bishop sleeves were heavily adorned with lace, sequins and pearls. The back had three rows of cascading pearls across the scalloped lace "V" back. The full skirt of Italian satin was accented with schiffli beaded and sequined lace motifs on the front and back. A cathedral train featured cascading ruffles accented by sheer lace motifs with sequins and pearls.

The bride carried a bouquet of white bridal roses and baby's breath with cascades of sprenger. Her veil of puffed silk illusion touched with pearls flowed below the waistline.

Maid of honor was Linda Caldwell, of Ripley. Other bridal attendants were the bride's cousin, Denise Thomason, of Memphis, Tracy Pickett, of New Albany, Miss. Angela Scallions and Michelle Newman, of Ripley, and Michelle Wilson, of Germantown. All wore pink taffeta gowns by Jordan of New York which featured princess bodices with "V" backs, ballroom ruffled sleeves with ruffled cascades off the sleeve and down the back. The full floor-length skirts had Renaissance pleat. Their bouquets were mixed pink roses, asters, snap dragons, buttons, and static.

The groom's cousin, Pam Rizozato, of Jackson, was flower girl. Her gown of white taffeta featured puffed sleeves, a pink sash, and a hem-line with pin-ups accented with pink bows and white lace. She carried a miniature bouquet that matched those of the bridal attendants.

The groom wore an all-white tuxedo ensemble.

Best man was the groom's father, Jack Helton, of Dyersburg. Groomsmen were the bride's brother, Chuck Peakins, of Ripley, the groom's brother, Kee Helton, of West Memphis, Ark.; the groom's cousin, Brent McBride, of Dyersburg, and Jody Benjamin and Michael Stewart, of Ripley. The bride's cousin, Christopher Bruno, of Germantown, was ring bearer. All wore black tuxedos with pink cummerbunds, bow ties, and a white rose boutonniere.

The bride's brother, Chuck Peakins, of Ripley, and Chris Mills, of Knoxville, were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a teal-length dress of powder blue chiffon with an overlay and long sleeves accented by crystal sequins on the shoulders.

The groom's mother chose a royal blue satin dress accented with a pleated skirt. She wore a single strand of pearls.

Each mother was presented a large white orchid. Each grandmother was presented a royal bouquet orchid.

Mrs. Martha Miller, of Ripley, presented music. Her selections were Lost in Your Eyes, Lady, Because the Bridal Chorus, and The Wedding March. Mrs. Sharon Morris, of Ripley, sang When I'm With You and The Lord's Prayer.

Guests were registered by Allison Sondgeroth, of Ripley.

Wedding programs were distributed by the groom's sister, Heather Helton, of Newbern, Anna Peakins Balduff, of Amherst, Ohio, Pam Epperson, of Newbern, and Jennifer Fea-

ALLISON WEBB, of Dyersburg, daughter of Mrs. Camilla Webb, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., and the late George Webb, Jr., will marry Jeff Stewart, of Union City, grandson of Mrs. Mary Byron, of Halls, and the late Luther Bryan, at 4 p.m. Oct. 7th in Cool Springs Cumberland Presbyterian Church near Trimble, all friends invited.

Miss Webb is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Webb, Sr., of Piedmont, Ala., and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Roberts, of Tuscaloosa. A graduate of Crisp County High School in Cordele, Ga., she obtained a bachelor of science degree in education from the University of North Alabama in Florence. She attends the University of Tennessee in Martin, where she is pursuing a master's degree in education. She is a first grade teacher and basketball coach at Holice Powell School in Dyersburg.

Mr. Stewart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stewart, of Union City, and grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey Stewart, of West Covina, Calif. A graduate of Obion County Central High School, he attended the University of Tennessee in Martin. He is owner of Ultimate Tan in Dyersburg.

kins, of Wakeman, Ohio.

After they lit a unity candle, the couple gave each other a long stem red rose.

For the reception in the fellowship hall, tables were draped with white lace. The bride's table held two 4-tiered cakes, decorated in pink and white, connected by a bridge of love over a fountain. The six bridesmaids and groomsmen were represented by dolls standing on the bridge. A China bride and groom stood on top of one of the cakes encircled by a heart. The decoration on top of the second cake was a heart made of lace and silk, accented with white silk flowers. The second and third tiers on both cakes were separated by columns, with second tiers topped with pink roses and bells. Pink and white garland garnished the sides of the cake.

The groom's cousin, Rebecca Miller, of Memphis, and Leanne Hughes, of Ripley, served the cake. Guests also enjoyed a buffet of finger sandwiches, cheese balls, crackers, sausage balls, fresh vegetables with dip, spinach dip, carved melon filled with fruit, nuts and mints.

The centerpiece was a large arrangement of pink roses in a tall silver compote.

The groom's cousin, Elizabeth Harmon, of Ripley, poured punch from a crystal bowl. Others assisting in serving were the groom's cousin, Karen Miller, of Memphis, and Susan Holman, of Ripley. Each server wore a corsage of pink roses.

The groom's cake was a chocolate layercake decorated with a tennis court and two players.

Rice bags of white netting tied with pink ribbon were distributed by Pam Epperson and Heather Helton, of Newbern.

In the rehearsal dinner in Just a Small Town Restaurant in Henning, 25 guests enjoyed garden salad, grilled lemon chicken breast, baked potato, broccoli with cheese sauce, rolls and cheese cake. The couple presented gifts to their attendants.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pardo, Mr. and Mrs. Rocky Bruno, Michael Bruno, the Buddy McBrides, Mrs. Ferrell Thoeley, Mrs. Harold Johnson, Chad Johnson and Mrs. Lynn Jordan, of Memphis; Mrs. Keith Balduff, of Amherst, Ohio; Miss Jennifer Peakins, of Wakeman, Ohio; the Art Wilsons, Thomas Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. George Foust, and Kevin Foust, of Germantown; the Bobby Picketts, of New Albany, Miss.; Mrs. David Mills and Chris Mills, of Knoxville; the Paul Heltons, Will Helton and Michael Helton, of Conway, Ark.; Mrs. Kee Helton, of West Memphis, Ark.; Mrs. Lonnie Lanford and Mrs. Betty McKelvey, of Bruceton; Mrs. Jerry Arnold, of Camden; Mr. and Mrs. David Ruzio and Mrs. Katherine Thompson, of Jackson; the Roger McBrides, of Dyersburg; and Mrs. Mary Helton, of Newbern.

After a trip to Nashville and Chattanooga, the newlyweds are residing in Dyersburg.

Kathy and Greg were honored with a shower cook-out June 17th at the home of Mrs. Bill Harmon in Ripley, with Mrs. David Rizzotto, of Jackson, as co-hostess. The 40 guests enjoyed grilled hamburgers, fried fish, and potatoes, baked beans, cole slaw, fresh vegetables with dip, fresh fruit served from a carved melon, and many different assortments of desserts.

Miss Lisa Ungerecht, Miss Diane Ungerecht, Mrs. Danny Ungerecht, Mrs. Gary Newman, Mrs. Paul W. Newman, Mrs. Joyce Ann Newman, and Mrs. Robert

THE CENTER PIER was removed from under the sagging Great River Road Bridge at Hale's Point over the Obion Forked Deer Rivers last week. After an attempt at blasting the support failed, several bulldozers pulled the pier down.

After a year of successful operation, the Lauderdale County Department of Education and its sponsors are pleased to offer The Homework Hotline again to the students of Lauderdale County.

"We feel that our first year was very successful," said Carolyn (Mrs. J. B.) Ammons, who coordinates the program. Ammons said the program encourages students to call on weeknights, Monday-Thursday, from 4 to 7 p.m. to ask questions about homework assignments. Teachers will help callers work their assignment but do not just give out answers.

Phones at the Halls Elementary School and Ripley High School are answered by county teachers working on extended contracts under the Tennessee Career Ladder program.

Sponsors are Dr. Pepper Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Dyersburg who paid for the phone installation and provided snacks for the teachers. The Lauderdale County Enterprise and The Halls Graphic provided free posters and other advertising materials. The Voice, WTRB, and The Halls Herald provided publicity.

Parents are asked to encourage their children to participate in the Homework Hotline service. Students are not required to identify themselves, they need only call to request assistance.

On the Hot-Line from 4 to 7 p.m. will be:

Mondays—In Halls, Pat Adcock, Rita Bradford, Larry Keen, Peggy Thompson; in Ripley, Carol Douglas, Jean Jackson, Linda Johnsey, Elaine Neal.

Tuesdays—In Halls, Ann Lazure, Sandra Lemons, Dale Milner, Betty Warren; in Ripley, Marge Holloway, Sheila Langley, Sue Toles, Reginald Walker, Louise White.

Wednesdays—In Halls, Janet Baker, Paul Henderson, Judi Keen; in Ripley, John Esterworth, Barbara Douglas, Debbie Kennedy, Spurgeon Smith.

Thursdays—In Halls, Patti Buckner, Ron Johnsey, John Porter; in Ripley, Ellen Barfield, Pam Fee, Iva Jarrett, Barbara Sumrow.

OPERATION SHOW-OFF at Halls Elementary School centered its attention Friday around two kindergarten classes. Mrs. Norma Booker and Mrs. Cindy Hilliard's classes have studied and done projects about 'Fall'.

The Lauderdale County Grand Jury will convene Oct. 2nd in the County Courthouse. If a case in which you are a victim or witness is bound over to the Grand Jury, and you would like to talk with the District Attorney's staff, call 635-2803 or 465-8644.

Fighting Drug Use

It was found about 11 a.m., after a search by Halls police, at Ronnie's Place, just east of Halls on Espey's Park Road.

Pick-Up Reported Stolen Rams Bldg.

Tommy Simmons, Jr., of Halls, reported his 1968 Chevrolet pick-up truck stolen Saturday morning, after he realized it was missing, about 5 a.m., from in front of his father's home at 421 E. Main in Halls.

It had apparently rammed the building several times.

The front of the truck was damaged and a hole was made in the building.

No arrest has been reported.

GOSPEL SINGING

The Lauderdale County Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a Fall Festival gospel singing at 7 p.m. Oct. 7th on the courthouse lawn.

Bring your lawn chairs and enjoy the Laymen Quartet, Bill Baker and Glorybound, the Jubilaires, David Elkins, Don Paris, Carol James and Becky Vaughan.

Congressman JOHN TANNER REPORTS TO THE EIGHTH DISTRICT

It is no secret that educators and public policy analysts have expressed serious concerns over the lack of achievement of America's high school and college students in the fields of mathematics and science. Recent studies done by private organizations, as well as the Department of Education, have shown that American high school students do poorly in math and science when compared to the achievements of their counterparts in other countries.

For example, a recent study by the Educational Testing Service compared the performance of 13 year olds in five countries and four Canadian provinces. The performance of American students was terribly low. Another finding that the top one percent of U.S. algebra students scored the lowest of those examined in a study of algebra students in 13 countries.

To make matters worse, the number of college freshmen planning majors in biological sciences, math, engineering, and physical sciences fell from 21 to 14 percent over the period 1966 to 1987. Those figures do not fully reflect the crisis at hand because they do not reflect the 25 percent decline in the size of the college age population.

It is this kind of serious educational deficiency that has led the President and the Congress to work toward the development of a National Science Foundation program to award meritorious, competitive scholarships to students who want to major in math, science, and engineering. Two such scholarships would be awarded annually to students in each of the 43 Congressional districts throughout the nation.

The first priority of this program would be to encourage young people to enter the scientific field. However, in addition to four year scholarships, the bill passed by the House also provides for two year scholarships for college juniors and seniors who are willing to work as a scientist or engineer, or who commit to teaching science and mathematics.

This scholarship program is a needed vehicle to promote the study of the so-called "hard sciences". Without continued emphasis on science and mathematics, American technological leadership and enterprise is threatened. It is that leadership, that curiosity that dares to challenge the laws of science, that has propelled Americans into space, developed medical breakthroughs, and resulted in American preeminence in computer science.

I am hopeful that final action can be taken on this legislation soon, and that I will be able to announce the start of competition among high school students of the Eighth Congressional District for the two scholarships that will be awarded annually.

Bridal Showers Held

The tables were decorated with royal blue bows accented with a brass candelabrum with royal blue and white candles. Punch was served with a wedding cake decorated with wedding rings and a bride and groom on each corner. A decorated tree filled with cheese squares and pickles were served with nuts, mints, crackers and a tuna ball. Sandy received a wall clock and a silk floral arrangement from her hostesses.

Notice

Last Friday, September 22, around 5 p.m. our pet collie was run down right in front of our home on Curve-Concord Road.

It was heartbreaking to see our long time pet a victim of a very callous hit and run driver.

We are concerned in knowing who would commit such a heartless act. A brown International 4x4 was seen leaving the scene.

Any help would be greatly appreciated in easing our pain. If you can help, please call 836-9800.

Block Those Chocs, Halls!

Halls Visits Newbern Before District Debut

Halls High School's Tigers this Friday ride a 23-3 win from Memphis Sky-View Academy (for a 3-1 record) into Newbern, to play the Dyer County High School Chocaws a week before the Tigers open play in District 14-A, hosting Lake County.

The Chocs, in District 13-AA but not competing for state play-offs, are undefeated in four games, with 99 points to six for foes.

They were 46-0 over Chester County, 21-6 over Dresden, 12-0 over Crockett County, and 20-0 over Greenfield.

Halls topped Crockett County's Cavaliers in its debut this season, 14-7, before a 14-0 win from University School of Jackson and a 19-8 loss to Class AA Trenton.

The Chocs were 9-1 the last two seasons, after Harry Tignor, out of Chester County and the University of Tennessee, succeeded John Sammons as head coach; Sammons moved to principal of Halls High School, after four seasons (2-8, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4).

Tignor was an assistant coach in Milan six years and in Trenton two years before five years as head coach for Gibson County.

In 1987, his Chocs lost only to Crockett County; last fall, only to Bruceton.

Tignor lost 17 seniors this spring and has back a lone starter from last year—senior center on offense David Faulkner (5-8, 180).

Faulkner is joined on this year's Choc squad by eight other seniors, three juniors, and 18 sophomores.

But the sophs haven't been doing too badly:

85-Yd. Kick-Off Return
Sophomore tail-back Mike Price (5-7, 140) returned Chester County's opening kick-off 85 yards to score, added TDs from the eight and the 23, and kicked two extra points.

"He likes to run over people," Tignor says.

Sophomore defensive tackle Marcus Bernard (6-1, 275), with less than a minute in the first half, jarred the ball loose from Dresden quarterback Donnie Johnson (junior, 5-10, 165) and ignored his training ("fall on the fumble") to clamber 40 yards, untouched, to a TD which put the Chocs ahead 6-0 at the half.

Sophomore quarterback Ross Maldonado (5-10, 132) completed five of seven passes for 79 yards against Dresden.

Dresden's Lions lost four of 12 fumbles and were intercepted twice in their 21-6 defeat.

Sophomore split end Jason Butler (5-8, 138) took Maldonado's pass for 44 yards to score against Crockett in the first period.

Senior full-back Jeff Wilkes (5-11, 172) went 14 yards in the third period to end the scoring, 12-0.

Last week, Maldonado completed four of eight passes, for 105 yards, including TD passes to Butler for 43 and 22, as the Chocs blanked Greenfield, 20-0.

Price posted the other TD on a 45-yard fumble return.

Sunset For Sky-View

Halls had little trouble last Friday in handing Coach Andy Pugh his 100th career win.

Quarterback Chris Hart (senior, 5-9, 160) hit split end Thomas Robertson (senior, 6-0, 165) for a 74-yard first quarter touchdown at Sky-View Academy in Memphis.

Senior tight end Justin Taylor (6-0, 205) added three points with a 31-yard field goal, to which John Sain replied with a 34-yarder for the Hawks' only points.

In the third period, Halls' senior tail-back Chris Smith (5-9, 145) returned a kick-off 86 yards to score, and he went 17 yards for another TD in the final stanza, with Taylor booting his second point after.

Mixing It Up

CORDELL WALTON (46) leaps for yardage for Ripley High School in its 42-13 loss Friday to Jackson Central-Merry. Walton, a 5-11, 170 junior, was pursued by Cougar end Maurice Shaw (82) as Tiger junior Chuck Cooper (31) took out a squirming foe.

Ripley Hosts Millington In Home-Coming Game

Last Friday was Madison County Night in District 13-AAA, with Jackson Central-Merry topping Ripley 42-13 and Jackson North Side blanking Haywood 41-0.

That left the two Jackson teams the only ones unbeaten in the district.

It put Ripley into a 4-way tie (1-1) in the district with Haywood, Lexington, and Munford.

Ripley has already stomped Munford, 46-0. It meets Lexington and Haywood, in that order, after it hosts Millington this Friday in its Home-Coming game, preceded by a bon-fire and pep rally at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, with fireworks at 8.

Millington's Trojans Continue To Struggle

Millington, 5-5 last year, lost all five of its District 14-AAA games (to Bartlett, Christian Brothers, Collierville, Germantown, and Kirby) in its first season under head coach Darrell Higdon, former defensive end for Memphis State.

The Trojans trailed their district in total defense. Back this year are 11 starters, seven seniors, and 23 lettermen.

Tail-Backs Are Twins

Among the seniors are twins Marvin (5-8, 155) and Melvin (6-8, 175) Barnes, who are quick.

The offensive line, averaging 220, has depth.

The Trojans run from an I formation, with slot, twin, pro, and wing offenses and multiple 50 settings on defense.

Millington, blanked in its first two games by Munford, 13-0, and Marianna, Ark., 14-0, got on the scoreboard in Forrest City, Ark., on Melvin Barnes' 95-yard punt return, but lost 14-6.

Last Friday, Bolton, in District 14-AAA but not competing for the play-offs, won from the Trojans, 12-2.

Perry Leads Cougars

Ken Perry, a 5-5, 135-lb. senior, returned kicks for more than 70 yards and scooted for 65 and 45 yard touchdowns as JCM dominated its visit to Ripley last Friday.

The Cougars' quarterback, junior Harold Mays (5-9, 170), rushed for scores from the 35 and the 12 and tossed TD passes worth 38 and six yards.

Ripley fumbled on the fifth play of the game; 10 plays later, JCM had a 7-0 lead.

Late in the first quarter, Stephen Byrd hit Chris Pitts with a 77-yard pass to tie the game at 7-7.

After another Tiger fumble, JCM scored on a 35-yard TD to take a 14-7 lead.

After two more Tiger turnovers, JCM had a 28-7 advantage at half-time.

JCM scored on its first two possessions of the third quarter to take a 42-7 lead.

In the fourth quarter, the Tigers scored on a run by Cordell Walton.

9th Graders Win

The freshman Tigers improved their record to 2-0 with a win over Dyersburg 42-20.

This week, they travel to Henry County to take on the Patriots, who are 3-0.

Jackson 42, Ripley 13
Jackson NS 41, Haywood 0
Lexington 29, Dyersburg 14

Giving It His All

A LONG REACH wasn't long enough for Jackson Central-Merry's 5-10, 175 Derek Wood (7) as a Ripley defender was right on top of him in Ripley's loss last weekend.

People have become more acutely aware of the possible side effects of drugs and the crisis-oriented approach of conventional medicine. From this disillusionment spring the self-care and holistic health care movements. The former stresses consumer self-reliance in choosing alternative approaches to health care. It recognizes chiropractic for its safety and reliance on less-costly therapies. Holistic health care advocates recognize the harmonious interplay of the external social environment and the internal human environment to create health. Emphasis is put upon disease prevention. Because chiropractic also believes in improving the total person's adaptive ability, as well as the elimination of internal-external pathogens, it finds itself at the center of both popular health movements.

Listen closely to what your body is telling you. Aches and pains are warnings that should be heeded. For chiropractor will treat the cause of a problem and not just the symptoms. The science of chiropractic does not use drugs or surgery but instead restores normal biological balance to the body by adjusting the spine, to relieve pressure on nerves throughout the body. Chiropractic should be a "family affair" from infancy to maturity and beyond. BRADLEY CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC, 508 Troy Ave., 285-2222. Hours: Mon., Tues., Wed., Fri., 8:30-5:30, closed Thurs.
