Cycling across the U.S.

WELCOMING JOHN MACUK (holding his bike) to Ripley, from left, Lois (Mrs. Willis Earl) Barham, Mrs. JoAnn Haynes, owner of the Pac-A-Sac Store, and Willis Earl Barham, Mrs. Haynes, brother, all of Ripley.

John Macuk, of Bethesda, Maryland, is a graduate of the University of Maryland in College Park, Md. When he graduated last May he was asked about what his plans were for the rest of his life.

John's answer to the question was fairly simple. He was going to see the old U. S. of A. in style...on his bicycle. So, on July 24, 3 months and 2 days ago, he set out to make his cross-country trip.

It had all started with a dream as a child, after reading an article in the National Geographic Magazine about a bike rider who had accomplished a similar feat.

John has traveled 2,600 miles so far, and has made several interesting stops along the way, including a visit with his brother in Chicago. He is now following the Mississippi River down to New Orleans where he plans to spend the winter. One of his stops along the way was a 2-week working stint in Fruitland, Missouri. These stop-overs enable him to go on to his next destination.

He is sleeping in a tent, cooking on a portable stove, and cleaning up at regular intervals along his route. He tells me he is trying to beat the winter weather, but I think he better hurry on to New Orleans if he plans to accomplish this goal.

I met up with John Friday afternoon at Pac-A-Sac on the Highway 51 Bypass, and appreciate the owner, Mrs. JoAnn Haynes, calling to let me know that he was there for a visit. While talking with us, John decided to spend the night in Ripley and go on to Memphis the next day. He was offered Mr. Barham's hospitality for the night (a place to lay his head), and told me that he has stayed in national, state, city, and county parks; front yards; back yards; church lots; fire stations; private homes, and even a hog pen.

John plans to finish up his trip next fall, and with a major in astronomy, he plans to attend graduate school. Good luck, John — it was a very interesting visit, and Lauderdale County, Tennessee wishes you the best on the journey ahead.

Nat'l Star

BLAKE BURNS, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Burns, of Halls, was chosen Grand National Beach Baby 1991 in the America's Most Beautiful Baby Pageant in Richfield, Ohio, last week. He was 3rd runner-up in the beauty division, in which over 100 boys from all over the United States participated. He made the trip with his parents and his grandmothers, Elva (Mrs. L. Q.) Russell, of Henning, and Velma (Mrs. J. B.) Burns, of Halls.

Halls Is In Hot Pursuit Of State Play-Off Spot

Two games this weekend will award two state play-off spots in District 14-A.

Halls wins a berth, without any tie-breaking needed, if it tops South Fulton, in Halls, and Lake County defeats Greenfield, in Tiptonville.

Halls, 6-3 for the year after a win last week over Denmark West, 27-6, is 1-1 in the district, with a 32-15 win from Greenfield after a 14-0 loss to Lake.

South Fulton, winner last week over Dresden, 18-14, is out of the district race. It lost to Greenfield 20-6 and to Lake 24-0.

Halls defeated Dresden this season, 22-8.

Greenfield's task is to topple the Falcons, 3-0 in the district though 3-6 for the year, after a loss last week to Union City, 41-6.

Greenfield last week defeated McKenzie, 17-14, in second overtime.

Halls led West by 27 points in the third period.

Eleven Tiger carriers posted 237 yards rushing. Sam Parker led with 52 yards in two excursions, plus a TD dash for 33.

Frank Gooch paced the Tiger defense, with eight tackles.

5 Countians Hailed As Super Teachers

Former pupils have named five county teachers to Who's Who Among America's Teachers; Pat Adcock, of Halls High School.

Joyce Cannon Avery, of Halls Elementary School.

Stephen S. Carmack, of Lauderdale Middle School in Ripley. Sheila Pilcher Langley and Sue Lattimore Toles, of Ripley High School.

4-H CLUB LEADERS

Assisting 4-H Agents Richard Buntin and Jane H. Connell with 4-H Club meetings this school year will be Mary (Mrs. Fred) Harrison, Beth (Mrs. John) Barnes, and Dean (Mrs. Chandler) Davis, who met Oct. 18th for their first leader training meeting.

They will assist 4th and 5th grade club meetings in Lauderdale Middle School in Ripley.

Beth and Dean are entering their third year as organizational leaders, Mary has served two years as a 4-H Camp counselor.

Congress Funds Replacing Span

Congress has approved $4,200,000 to replace the bridge over the Obion River (the Lauderdale-Dyer County line), on Tenn. Hwy. 181, west of Halls, which has collapsed.

"Learn how to remove the water in the hot water heater. This should be used as a last resort.

"After a disaster, water mains to the house need to be shut off if water is suspected to be contaminated."

How To Plan For A Quake

The County Chamber of Commerce and the Ripley police department offer three free programs (a film plus printed materials) on how to survive an earthquake, at 10 a.m., 11 a.m., and 1 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 6th, in the court-room of Ripley's City Hall, everyone invited.

Though most scientists do not expect an earthquake on any specific date in this area, they do expect one sooner or later (give or take 20 years) and urge everyone to be prepared.

Jane H. Connell, Extension agent, says one thing for which to plan is water (about a gallon per person a day).

"Water can be kept in plastic jugs or other suitable containers," she says.

"If your freezer space is not all taken, fill containers and place in your freezer.

"This could serve a dual role in case the electricity is off for several days.

"Do not fill jugs of water and leave them indefinitely. The water should be replaced every few months.

"If you have not been able to save enough water, there are several methods of purifying water:

"1. Boil for 5-10 minutes.

"2. Add 10 drops of household bleach solution per gallon of water, mix well and let stand for 30 minutes. A slight smell or taste of chlorine indicates water is good to drink. (Do not use bleach with soap).

"3. Add household tincture of iodine in the same manner as bleach.

"4. Use commercial purification tablets such as Halozone or Globaline. Follow the directions on the package.

Editor:
To the people of Lauderdale County. This is another time in the year we, as a volunteer rescue squad, solicit funds or new and used toys for our annual Christmas party for those not as fortunate as others. We ask again for your help in making this a brighter Christmas for some children. At this time we want to caution you about anyone seeking funds, using our name or falsely receiving a gift from you. It has come to our attention that someone has solicited from the people in our county, falsely representing themselves as rescue squad members. If any person or persons solicit you in any manner using the Lauderdale County Rescue Squad name, they should have in their possession a card identifying them as a member. There will be a nametag with their picture, and a card showing they are a member of the Tennessee Association of Rescue Squads for 1990. If someone does approach you and cannot show any form of identification please get their name, the make of car and license plate number, if possible.

We, as members, are proud to be a part of this community because of the good people that support us.

We will not tolerate anyone using our name to publicly steal from people. Any questions, you may call me at home after 5 p.m. at 635-2149. Respectfully,

RONNIE MOORE

SERVES AT KEESLER

Sgt. Daniel O. Garrett, Jr., nephew of Dalles Burrough, of Route 1, Halls, has arrived for duty at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., as an apprentice cardiopulmonary laboratory specialist.

A 1982 graduate of Dyersburg High School, Sgt. Garrett took an associate degree from Jackson State College in 1984.

His father resides at 601 Boyd-mill Ave. in Franklin.

The outstanding collection at the Tennessee State Museum is the work of Mr. Shojiro Ishibashi, a Japanese businessman who turned a small family business manufacturing the uniquely-Japanese rubber-soled "tabi" socks into the giant, world-wide Bridgestone Corporation.

"Mr. Ishibashi started collecting works of art in the mid-1920s with the encouragement of a famous Japanese painter who once taught him art in primary school," Ezzell said. "By the end of the 1940s, his house was filled with works of art."

"In 1956, he founded the Ishibashi Foundation for the purpose of promoting cultural and educational development, especially in the area of fine art, and displayed the art in the Bridgestone Museum of Art in downtown Tokyo."

"Nashville will be the only American city to host this exhibit, provided by the Ishibashi Foundation in Tokyo."

Among the highlights of the collection are such incomparable paintings as Paul Cezanne's Mont Saint-Victoire and Chateau Noir (1904), and Saltimbanque Seated with Arms Crossed by Pablo Picasso.

"One of the best-known paintings in the Masterworks collection is Auguste Renoir's 1876 Mlle. Georgette Charpentier Seated," Ezzell said. "There are also three other paintings by Renoir, and five paintings by Claude Monet, including the 1903 Water Lilies and the sublime 1908 Twilight Venice."

Other paintings include Vincent van Gogh's 1886 Windmills on Montmartre, and Raoul Dufy's sparkling 1942 Orchestra. There are five works by Picasso, and six paintings by Henri Matisse done between 1899 and 1935, including the superb Odalisque with Arms

Masterworks On Display In Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—One of the world's greatest collections of art treasures goes on display October 14 at the Tennessee State Museum in Nashville for an unprecedented three-month exhibit running through January 20, 1991.

Masterworks: Paintings from the Bridgestone Museum of Art in Tokyo features 60 paintings by such renowned 19th and 20th century artists as Renoir, Picasso, van Gogh, Monet, Gauguin, Matisse, and Cezanne.

"This is only the second time that works from the Bridgestone Museum have been exhibited outside of Japan, and the first time this extraordinary collection has been exhibited in the United States," Tennessee State Museum executive director Lois Riggins, Ezzell said.

"Nashville will be the only American city to host this exhibit, provided by the Ishibashi Foundation in Tokyo."

Among the highlights of the collection are such incomparable paintings as Paul Cezanne's Mont Saint-Victoire and Chateau Noir (1904), and Saltimbanque Seated with Arms Crossed by Pablo Picasso.

"One of the best-known paintings in the Masterworks collection is Auguste Renoir's 1876 Mlle. Georgette Charpentier Seated," Ezzell said. raised." The journey of the Masterworks collection from Tokyo to Nashville has been more than ten years in the making.

"It is no secret that Tennessee has had very close ties to Japanese business and industry for a number of years," Ezzell explained. "We first became aware of the extraordinary collection at the Bridgestone Museum of Art in the late 1970s and early 1980s when Tennessee state officials and industry leaders were traveling regularly to Japan."

Then in 1986, the Bridgestone Corporation bought the old Firestone plant at Lavergne just outside of Nashville.

"In 1988, the Tennessee State Museum first began discussing with Bridgestone the possibility of bringing a collection of works from its museum in Tokyo to Tennessee. In the fall of 1989 and the spring of 1990, the final details were worked out for the exhibit." Tickets for the Masterworks exhibition will be issued by the day and hour. Prices are $5.50 for adults; $4.50 for persons 65 and older, handicapped visitors, and groups of 10 or more. Tickets may be obtained at any Ticketmaster location, or by calling 741-2757 in Nashville. There is a ticket handling charge added by Ticketmaster. A limited number of same-day tickets will be available on a first come, first-serve basis by calling Ticketmaster after 12 p.m. each day.

"It should be pointed out that there will be no admission charge for children grades 12 and under," Ezzell said. "Governor Ned McWherter feels very strongly that this exhibit is a once-in-a-lifetime experience that no child in Tennessee should miss, so he has asked the Tennessee State Museum to make it available to students at no charge."

Teachers may schedule school groups by calling the Tennessee State Museum Education Department at 615-741-0830. Educational materials are also available for scheduled school groups.

Children not in school groups must have tickets through Ticketmaster although there is no charge. There will also be an audio tape tour of the exhibit available for rental at $3. An exhibition catalog and other exhibit-related materials, including posters, will be on sale at the Museum Store.

For more information on Masterworks, contact Room T, Tennessee Department of Tourist Development, Box 23170, Nashville, Tennessee 37202.

In Candle-Light Vows

MR. AND MRS. DAVID SCOTT SPILLER were married in candle-light in a 6 p.m. ceremony Sept. 29th in First Baptist Church in Halls.

The bride, Melynda Leigh Buffalo, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winford Buffalo, of Halls. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Spiller, of Halls.

The Rev. Rodney Alexander officiated. Mrs. Donald Hogue, Mrs. Charles Moore, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pinkston provided organ, piano, and vocal selections.

Organ and piano joined in Prayer for Mother's Day as candles were lit by the bride's brother, Tim, of Halls, and the groom's brother and sister, Mark Spiller, of Memphis, and Marsha (Mrs. Randy) McKay, of Memphis, to honor grandparents.

Trumpet Voluntary was played as the wedding party entered the church. Six chimes heralded the bride's appearance on the arm of her father. She was escorted down the center aisle, which was illuminated on each side by glowing white tapers.

Vows were pledged before an arch candelabra, flanked by spiral candelabra, holding white tapers, twined with greenery and accented with tiny clear lights. Floor baskets of white gladioli flanked the setting.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with a Sabrina neck-line, Victorian sleeves, a Basque waist-line, and a full skirt enhanced with crystal beaded Alençon lace appliques and inlays and seed pearls. The gown had a semi-cathedral train. A tiara of sequined Alençon lace, beaded and pearled, held a finger-tip veil of double illusion.

The bride carried a cascade of calla lilies, white roses, and miniature white carnations, with baby's breath, Oregon fern, and tendrils of eucalyptus.

Tina (Mrs. Jeff) Hogue, of Halls, was matron of honor. Other bridal attendants were Mrs. McKay, Males (Mrs. Mike) Anderson, of Dyersburg, and Miss Leanne Hogue, of Halls. They wore black gowns with straight satin skirts and mini-trains below bodices of Chantilly lace over satin, featuring Sabrina neck-lines, low V-backs, and shirred satin cummerbunds accented with lace peplums. Each carried an arm bouquet of calla lilies, baby's breath, and eucalyptus.

The groom's father was best man. Groomsmen included Allen and Jeff Hogue, of Halls, and Mark Spiller, of Memphis. Ushers were Tim Buffalo and Clint Hendren, of Halls.

Mr. Pinkston sang Whither Thou Goest as the couple lit a unity candle. Mrs. Donald Hogue sang The Wedding Prayer.

The bride's mother chose a 2-piece dress featuring a jacket of black Chantilly lace over a skirt of double georgette.

The groom's mother selected a 2-piece black dress with a jacket of black brocade and a flowing skirt of black georgette.

Each mother pinned at her shoulder a gardenia corsage. The traditional Wedding March was used as the recessional. For the reception in the fellowship hall, a 3-tier cake adorned with calla lilies, white mums, baby's breath, and greenery was a center of interest on a table draped to the floor with lace.

tapers, held calla lilies and white roses. The table also held a silver bowl, from which fruit punch was poured, and offered guests nuts and mints. A hunting dog was pictured on the groom's 2-tier chocolate cake. After a trip to the Smoky Mountains, the newlyweds are residing in the Poplar Grove community, west of Halls.

Ammons Elected To Regional Office

Don Ammons, county commissioner of Lauderdale County, has been elected regional vice-chairman of the Tennessee County Commissioner Association for 1990-91.

Doug Collins, highway superintendent, has been elected a director of TCSA.

Ammons was elected by the membership at the 37th annual Fall Conference of the Tennessee County Services Association (TCSA) held Oct. 16-18th in Knoxville. County Executive Gwynn Matthews also made the event.

TCSA is a nonprofit, nonpartisan umbrella organization with membership consisting of the Tennessee Association of County Executives, the Tennessee County Commissioners Association and the Tennessee County Highway Officials Association. TCSA represents the interests of Tennessee's 95 county governments and the more than 4.8 million people they serve.

As an officer, Ammons and Collins will direct the lobbying effort of TCSA during the coming year. TCSA works to represent the viewpoints of the county commission with other organizations and agencies; to strengthen the functioning of the county commission as a democratic legislative body; to foster interaction and sharing of ideas among county commissioners; and to develop more efficient county government.

Each fall the TCSA sponsors nine regional supper meetings throughout Tennessee as a forum to county commissioners and discuss legislative and issues. Involvement in TCSA helps commissioners communicate their constituents' views on county issues and develop a legislative platform and programs that enhance the effectiveness of county commissions throughout the state.

In its policy statement, TCSA took stances on crucial issues facing county governments.

On education, TCSA supported the efforts of the Governor and his staff to develop a program to improve public education in Tennessee. TCSA cited on the state to ensure that students in every county in Tennessee receive an equal educational opportunity. All students should receive an education that prepares them for admission to the University of Tennessee state institutions administered by the State Board of Regents and other top colleges and universities throughout the nation. This education should also provide them with an opportunity for personal growth and prepare them for a productive work life in which they can compete in a global economy.

On the subject of funding for education, TCSA reiterated its suggestion to review current exemptions to the state and local sales taxes and eliminate many of them, with the proceeds earmarked for local education. TCSA asked that all taxes levied in the name of education be allocated for that purpose and agreed to consider any proposal to increase revenues for education through the levy of new taxes, provided these funds are used to finance a program that guarantees equal education opportunities to all students throughout the state.

regardless of their place of residence," he said. "We believe that the state has a responsibility to ensure this equality of opportunity and to mandate an administrative structure that guarantees that equality can be maintained both now and in the future."

On solid waste, TCSA supported the efforts of the state to develop a comprehensive statewide plan for the management of solid waste and stated that an adequate plan must include methods of financing that are shared by both state and local governments.

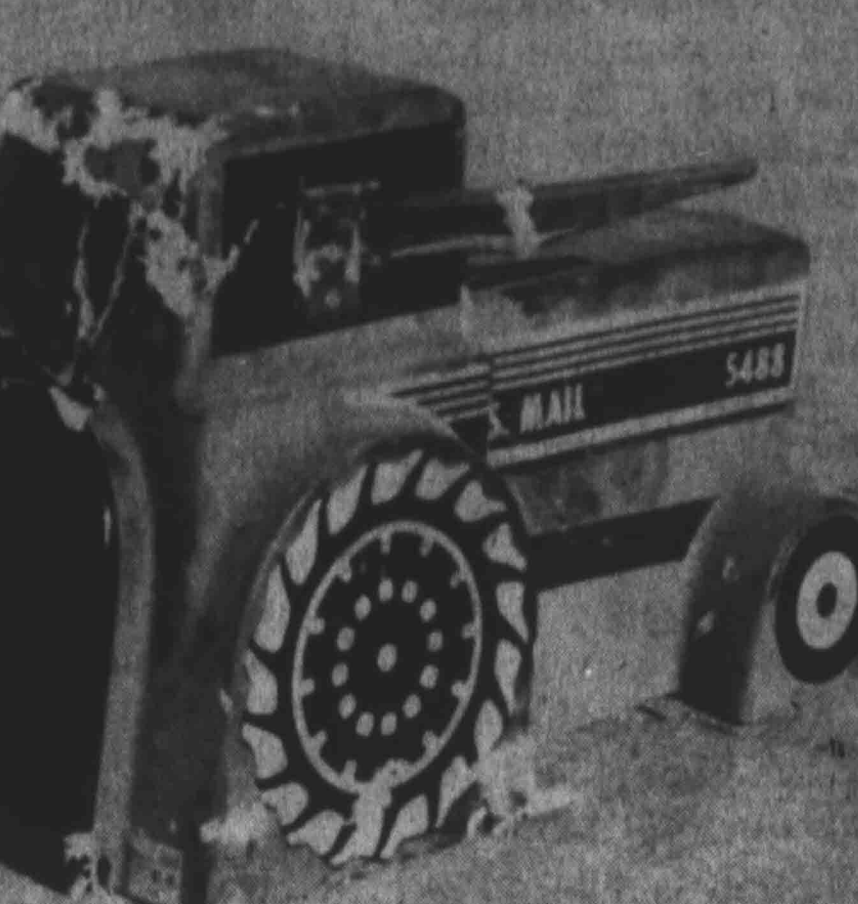

On the boarding of state prisoners in county jails, TCSA urged the Governor and the General Assembly to make provisions for the building of enough state prisons to house all state-sentenced felons in the state's system. Counties have made plans for the building of enough state prisons to house all state-sentenced felons in the state's system. Net Our Mistake

We are not quite certain who should make the correction but we do think that the correction should be made. In last week's Elementary School News there was a sentence telling of the new brother for Miss Anford Pickens, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Anford Pickens, Sr. We think we should explain that the addition to the family was born July 4th and is a girl not a boy. Just how the first graders became confused is more than we know.

While celebrating their fifteenth anniversary the Bank of Halls was sent a number of vases of flowers in commemoration of the occasion and David was sporting a flower in his lapel. It was explained to David that the flowers were for the bank and not for him. Probably many employees of the bank were just as surprised as David who was all dressed up in white and dispensing cold drinks. David was served the bank for its entire lifetime with the exception of the four-year period.

National Newspaper Week

In the hustle and bustle of getting out the extra page newspaper commemorating the fifteenth anniversary of the Bank of Halls last week we failed to call to your attention that it was National Newspaper Week. It is our belief that an active, trustworthy newspaper is an important portion of progress of any town and that the general public should defend the freedom of the newspaper to speak for them to the bitter end. A country without a free press is a country without hope as witness Russia of today and the Axis countries of the immediate past. Own your individual newspaper when justified but defend the newspaper as an institution.

A Real Spirit

If you want to see a football team with a real spirit you should see the B game between Halls and Brownsville tonight (Thursday) on the local field. Every youngster on the field will be out there "giving with all his heart to win."

Of interest here will be the announcement that E. T. "Rocky" Palmer is a candidate for the office of county attorney for Iyee county, Rocky was a resident of Halls for a number of years and while here served as a member of the Board of Aldermen. Good luck.

Once again Bibee's Comedians, one of the few remaining theatre troupes in the United States, will be in Halls beginning next Monday. Mr. Bibee has been coming to Halls for a long period of years and during that time has made many friends here. We are always glad to welcome this clean and respected showman and his troupe to Halls.

Farmers Should Vote In Committee Election

Every farmer in Lauderdale County who gets a share of a cotton, corn, or soybean crop in his or her name is eligible to vote in the election of a Community Committee member to the County Convention to elect a County Committee to administer the farm program next year. This program is in the hands of the committee of three men which has been called the A.A.A., then the A.C.A., and is heretofore to be known as the PMA County Committee.

Lauderdale County is divided into 17 Communities for the election of the Committee. This is a new role.

The person who is selected as a delegate to represent a Community in the election of the County Committee may not himself be elected a member of the Committee. This is a new rule.

A vast majority of farmers have not been interested in the personnel of these Community Committees since 1942 and less than three percent have participated in the elections which have been held each fall. It is very important to every farmer to get his name on the list for election. They should be men of real ability and character. It is not necessary that a man be a farmer, but the more training he has, the easier it will be for him to do a good job for the farmers of the County.

Every landowner should get every eligible voter on his farm to vote in these elections. Practically every sharecropper and tenant and landlord is eligible to vote. The County Agent has nothing to do with the administration of the farm program under the present set-up but I know the importance of having interested members of the community who can take over the real ability to administer the program.

Those who visited out of our home state this past weekend were Farris Archibald, Warren Nunn and Gloria Rees. The status visited were Arkansas, Mississippi, Illinois and Kentucky.

We enjoyed hearing the records "The Baller" and "Tommy the Top-Sollier" thanks to Jimmy Nunn of his second grade.

We got a holiday Friday while our teacher is at the state meeting in Memphis. We like the holidays, too, as well as school days.

We are glad to have Neal Forsythe, our new pupil with us. We are sorry to lose Bonnie Farran. Bonnie has moved to Kentucky.

Kris Chipman, Sylvia Wright, Kay McGarrity and Harry Burns made our room cheerful this week with flowers. Harry Wright also brought color to our room by drawing the October calendar on the board - it is a nice, big wall pumpkin with mice and a witch - reminding us that Halloween will soon be here.

We were very happy to go to the library this week to check out a book. There were so many nice books we could hardly decide on just one. We are looking forward to our library day each week. Twenty-four of us attended Sunday School Sunday.

We are glad to report that our fourth graders, Evelyn Smith, joined the church during the Christian revival.

A number of us saw the plane on the Air Base Sunday. Thalia Alton and Elizabeth Crisp went for a ride in one of the planes. Six Grade

Twenty of us went to Sunday School on church Sunday and one of our number was called on to repeat the books of the New Testament which we have learned this year.

Francene Smith went out of the state during the weekend, visiting relatives in Missouri. She had a birthday Friday and we asked her to come to the front while we sang "Happy Birthday" to her. We also sang happy birthday to Bonnie Frye this week. She was cooperating.

W. E. Newport, Former Editor, Died Tuesday

William Emmett Newport, retired Mid-South publisher, editor and writer, father of Lamar Newport, acting president of Memphis State College, died at 6:50 p. m. Tuesday at the home of his son, 565 Ellsworth. Mr. Newport went to Memphis after he became ill about three years ago. He was 81.

Born in Henry County, Tennessee, Mr. Newport was the son of Mary Susan and William East Newport, pioneer Henry County settlers.

Fifty-five years ago Mr. Newport became editor and publisher of the Halls Graphic shortly after it was founded by Mr. Hosea Davis and he served as its editor for many years. During this year he had written a number of columns for the Graphic.

Communities to Vote Oct. 31

County Conventions Nov. 4

Carl Fry of Nashville, chairman of the State Production & Marketing Administration Committee, has announced the dates for election of community and county committees.

Nominating meetings will be held in each community of the county of the State within the period of Oct. 17 - 21. Community elections will be held on Oct. 31 and the county convention to elect the County Production & Marketing Committees will be held Nov. 4.

Mr. Fry explained that the nominating meetings are held to select candidates for positions on the community committees as well as candidates for delegate to the county convention.

"I consider these nominating meetings the most important phase of the election procedure," he said. "Here the farmers of the county elect their own representatives and shareholders - come together and with no outside interference of any kind, select the men they feel are best suited to administer the farm program in their communities. They also elect from their number candidates for delegates to the county convention."

Do people have to sign their names to the state in order to get life insurance?

There is a provision in the old age assistance law that the amount of assistance a person receives should be allowed as a claim against his estate after he has died. This means that a person who owns his home gets to use his resources in furnishing his shelter as long as he lives and at the same time allow him to pay his own way because after he no longer has part of a home it pays itself.

Old Age Pension Law Explained

Approximately one-third of Tennessee's population of persons 65 years of age over are drawing public assistance funds through the state department of public welfare, according to the records in the office of Commissioner J. O. McManhan.

Of the estimated 200,000 persons in this age category more than 62,000 are drawing monthly checks which average $30.76. It was pointed out, and only 1,500 of the aged have told the welfare department to stop their checks rather than have the state enter a claim against their estates at death.

Commissioner McManhan said the number who will forego receiving cash assistance because of the "claim against the estate" provision will probably reach 1,500 or more.

The monthly increase was expected to be about 600 persons, and it may settle down to that after a few months.

With the aid to dependent children and the blind added to those receiving age benefits, Tennessee is now drawing more than $3,000,000 monthly in public assistance funds, according to department figures.

There are 20,463 cases of old age, $17,096 dependent children, and $1,574 dependent children. On the list receiving public assistance funds are 2,370 blind persons, averaging $40.84 per month.

Only 84 blind persons who have been receiving cash benefits have told the department to stop their checks rather than have the state enter a claim against their estates at death, according to Commissioner McManhan.

A number of letters have been received at the welfare department from the aged stating that they do not want to continue receiving checks in face of the claim against the estate provision of the law as the necessities.

All funds derived from the claims are handled by the department to help others who are deemed eligible for public assistance. Claims against the estates are for the exact amount the person received after burial expenses and where prior claims exist.

The federal government requires that the public assistance claimant be notified that a claim against their estate will be entered if they do not continue receiving their state benefits. Commissioner McManhan said, and only those who signify they do not want to continue receiving their state benefits have their estates will be removed from the roll.

The welfare department prepares a list of questions and answers regarding the "claim against the estate" provision of the law as follows:

If a person owns property can he get old age assistance?

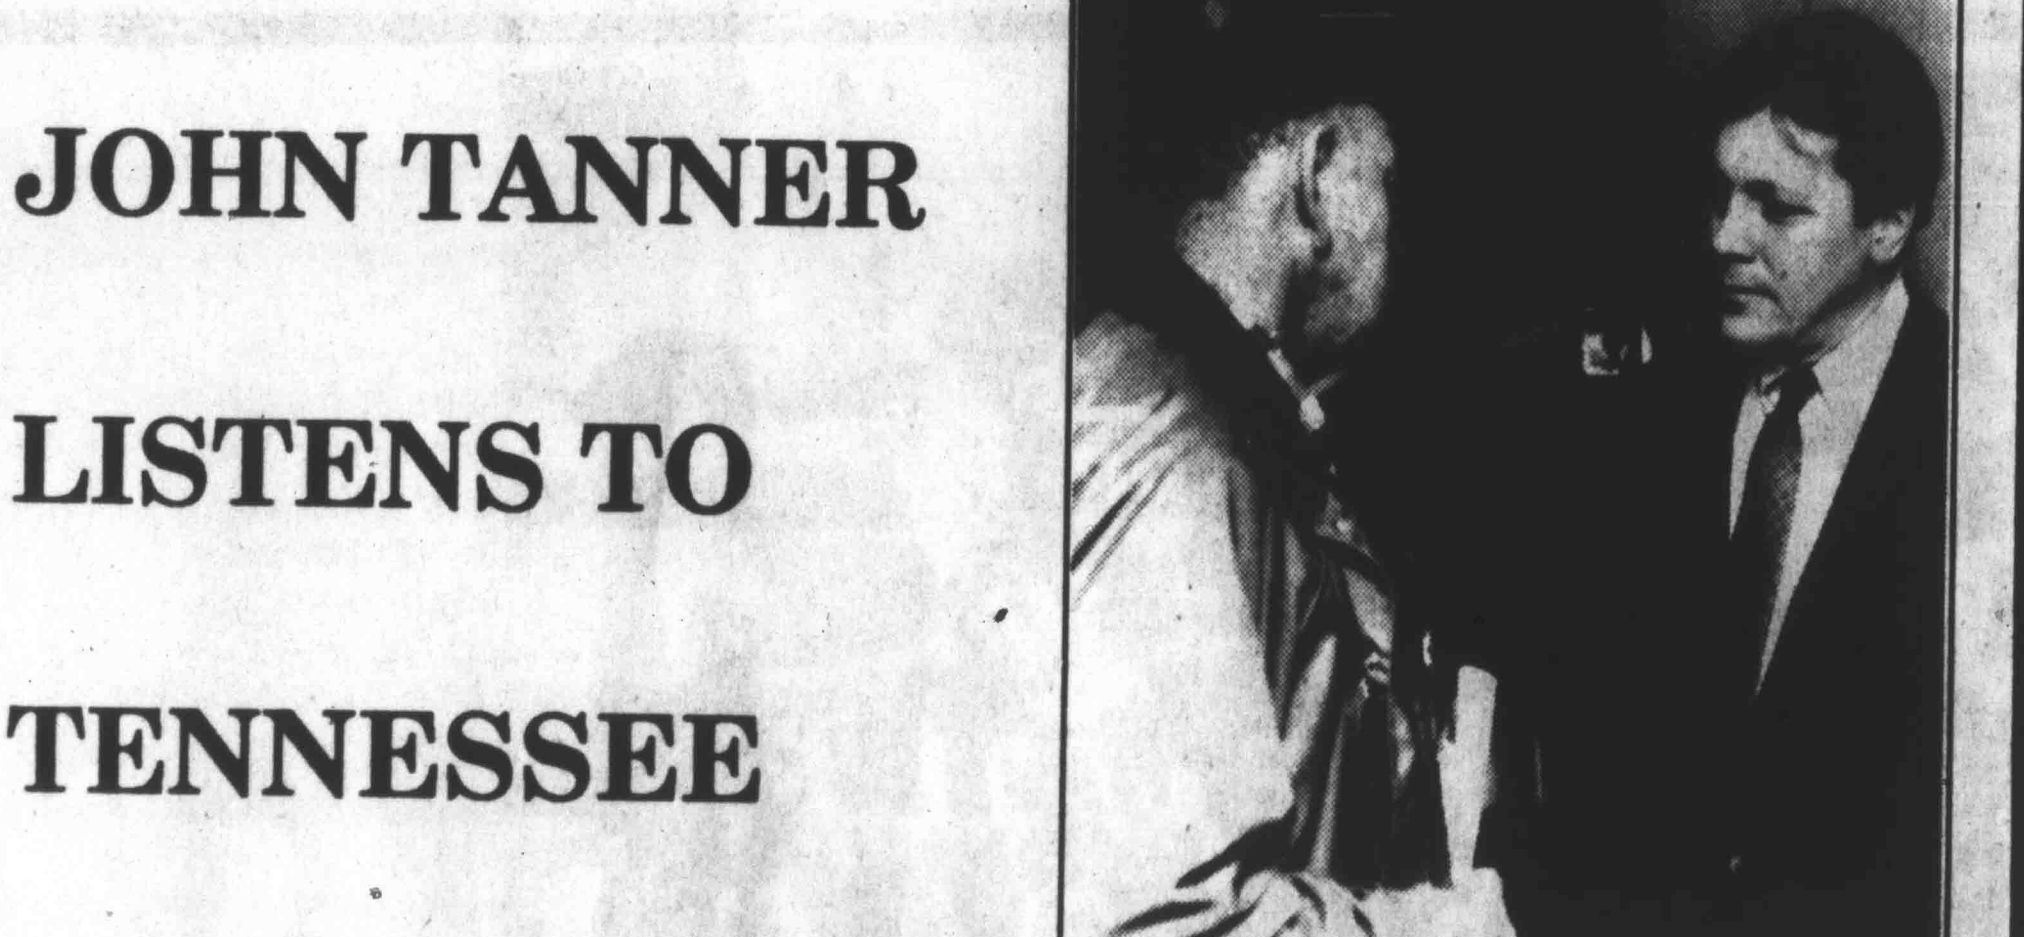

Yes, a person who owns a home not to exceed a certain amount, if he does not have enough income to take care of his needs can receive assistance. If he owns anything in addition to his home, however, he would be expected to use that assistance will come to his rescue when he is not able through his own efforts and his own resources to furnish himself with the necessities.

Do people have to sign their names to the state in order to get life insurance?

There is a provision in the old age assistance law that the amount of assistance a person receives should be allowed as a claim against his estate after he has died. This means that a person who owns his home gets to use his resources in furnishing his shelter as long as he lives and at the same time allow him to pay his own way because after he no longer has part of a home it pays itself.

Anti-Vote Only Ballot Surprise

The only news in Tuesday's voting was how many voters did not vote for the victors.

Of course, Gov. Ned McWherter won re-election, but in this once staunchly Democratic county, he got only 1,448 votes to 859 for Dwight Henry, a relatively unknown Republican.

At 2:20 a.m. Wednesday, the Associated Press reported McWherter leading Henry 476,818 to 286,663, with 62% of the total vote.

U.S. Sen. Albert Gore, Jr. fared better with county voters, but won only 1,748 votes against 593 for an almost invisible candidate, Republican William R. Hawkins.

At 2:20 a.m. Wednesday, the Associated Press reported Gore leading Hawkins 528,916 to a bit over 229,000, with 68% of the vote.

Democrat Keith Bissell coasted to re-election to the Public Service Commission, but with only a 1,553-632 margin in this county over Republican Jim Dumas.

Shelby County voters rejected a sales tax increase for schools and axed an increase in City Council salaries.

State Winner

DANIEL GARDNER, center, employee of the West Tennessee High Security Facility at Fort Pillow, was named State Disabled Employee of the Year Tuesday of last week at a luncheon held at the Doubletree Hotel in Nashville. The award was presented by Don Holt, Commissioner of the Tennessee Department of Personnel, Warden Billy Compton, right, and Mrs. Donna Benjamin, Daniel's supervisor, attended their event.

He and his wife, Gail, reside in the Hurricane Hill community near Ripley, and they and their three sons, Eric, 19, Brian, 18, and Kevin, 10, attend Hurricane Hill United Methodist Church.

Born with Cerebral Palsy, Daniel developed polio at the age of 18 months, and has 100% deafness in his right ear and 75% deafness in the left.

On the nomination form sent to the state, Warden Compton stated the following: "When Danny was a little boy there was only one school in our vicinity for the handicapped and it was in Memphis. His father wouldn't let him attend this school so Danny started to public school. Because he was different, most children wouldn't play with him. This made him more determined to learn. When he completed high school, Goodwill tested him for job placement. They said he was too smart for the type of placement they could get for him. He had it hard for several years because he couldn't get a job. The type of work he did mostly was yard work, like a handyman. This went on for years until the government started pushing employers to hire the handicapped. Even then when he got a job he would have to do physical labor that he wasn't really able to do to prove to his employers that he could work. After years of hard work and determination, Danny got a job at a local factory working in the warehouse. He obtained enough experience to qualify on the state register for storekeeper. Danny has found a home with the State of Tennessee in the Department of Correction.

Danny is a very reliable, dependable worker. He strives to do the best possible job. He works harder so others in his department will not have to ease his workload. His willingness to work makes him an exceptional employee. Others who have no handicap could greatly benefit from working with Danny to see how the skills, which they take for granted, come so easily for some.

Pointers For Parents

Tips for Selecting Software to Give Kids a Computer Head Start

According to experts, virtually every job in America will require some degree of computer competence by the year 2010. So developing those skills early can make a big difference to your kids—in school and beyond.

With the popularity and proliferation of electronic toys and video games, young people today may be better equipped to take advantage of computers than their parents were. But parents play a special role when it comes to helping children catch on to computers and software as tools.

Software programs available today can convert home computers into a range of tools for learning, productivity, research, communication or entertainment.

By selecting software titles that emphasize different skills sets and activities, you can provide your children with a significant head start.

Here are some software selection guidelines from the Computer Learning Foundation:

- Look for recommended age range on software packages. And don't wait: A number of software programs on the market are designed for three to six year olds. It is not unusual for two year olds to get involved with computers.

- New products are often reviewed in newspaper magazine columns that focus on parenting and personal computing.
- Most teachers and librarians are pleased to offer sound advice about appropriate software.

- Include programs with a range of skill levels that allow your child to advance as they develop confidence and skill.

Of course, choosing the right software at the best price can still be a challenge. One solution is to take advantage of the assurance and savings available in a special program sponsored by Del Monte Snack Cans and the Computer Learning Foundation. A colorful 36 page "Simon Says... Get Smart" catalog features 40 software titles for all ages that have been reviewed and approved by the Foundation, as well as other educational products—all at 50% discounts. It also has articles on children and computing, Alvin and the Chipmunks stickers and games for kids.

To receive a catalog, send one proof of purchase from any Del Monte fruit, pudding or yogurt cup product, and $1.00 (for postage and handling) to P.O. Box 2965, Young America, MN 55934-2965.

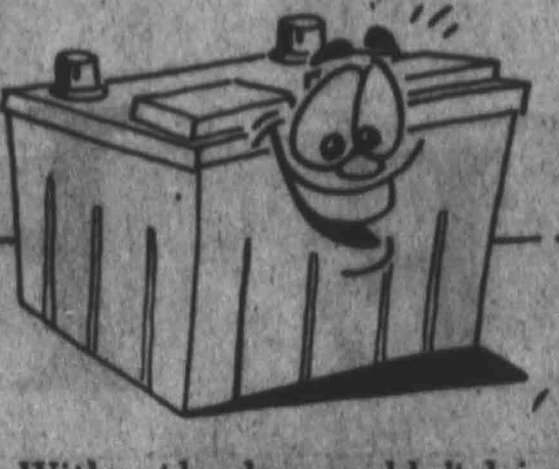

Congressman JOHN TANNER REPORTS TO THE EIGHTH DISTRICT

On Veterans Day, Americans will pay tribute to the brave men and women who have served in our nation's Armed Forces. This year's ceremonies and parades will serve to remind us of the more than 600,000 men and women in this century who have paid the ultimate price for securing the freedoms all Americans enjoy.

They will honor the soldiers who have nobly returned home after an armed conflict. They will praise the many others who have given service to their country during peacetime, prepared to defend our nation at any moment. On November 11, we are given the opportunity to tell the veterans of our Armed Forces who have fought to keep our nation free and its citizens safe, "Thank you."

But Veterans Day should not be simply a remembrance of the past. It should, like the first observance of Veterans Day, be a day of hope for peace in the future. The first veterans to be honored on November 11 were the soldiers of WWI. Originally called Armistice Day, November 11, 1918 celebrated the signing of the treaty which brought peace to the war-torn countries of Europe. Veterans Day was initially observed to give us a chance to praise our war heroes, honor our brave soldiers, and celebrate peace and America's role in securing it.

Now over seventy years later, as American soldiers in Saudi Arabia serve beside an international peacekeeping force, the reasons to commemorate Veterans Day are as important as ever.

Without lead we couldn't drive cars, ride buses or send products by truck. About 80 percent of the lead consumed in the U.S. goes into lead-acid storage batteries essential to vehicles, because batteries provide uninterrupted power.

The electro-chemical properties of lead and its oxides provide starting power for engines and electrical continuity for the lights, electric windows and other power accessories.

Vets Day Re-Unites 4 Ex-Prisoners Of War

By Sandra Holman

Memories, as I have learned with age, have a way of forever tying us to other people. Sometimes these memories may not be pleasant, and yet, even the most unpleasant memories can bring a tear to the eye or a smile to the lips.

For Carlton Gay, of Ripley, Royce Boyd, of Gainesville, Georgia, Russell King, of Waycross, Georgia, and Ed Zeller, of Hillsboro, Illinois, this past weekend has been spent reliving days of both good and bad times.

Carlton and Maxine have had as their guests in the Whitefield community, Royce and wife, Tobbie, Russell and Elizabeth, and Ed and Mary. The men have a lot in common, including thirty-three months spent in a Prisoner of War Camp during the Korean War. They are friends who just happen to have a lot in common, and who have depended on each other through the years in order to handle some of those bad memories.

It seemed appropriate to be spending November 12th with these fine men, since it was the designated National Veterans Day, and the whole country was honoring veterans across the nation.

They were captured when the Chinese entered North Korea, and with artillery training rather than infantry training, they were overwhelmed by the more than 300,000 Chinese troops, as opposed to only 60,000-80,000 of our own men. When ordered to surrender by their commanding officer, they knew it was the only thing for them to do at that moment in time, and yet, it was the hardest thing they ever had to do.

Captured at Runa Ri, North Korea, they were marched at gunpoint for 24 nights, arriving at an old mining camp on Christmas Eve, 1948. Remembering that they had just spent the past 4 1/2 months doing some hard fighting, we must realize just how exhausted they all were.

Captured on November 29th, many of the men from the 3rd Infantry Division did not make the trip — some having starved or frozen along the way. It was in the bitterest part of winter, snowing, and so very, very cold.

Every day an ox cart came through the camp and picked up the dead, and the survivors were often sent along on burial detail.

The prisoners were moved at night, and were told it was to protect them from our own planes making bombing runs at night. They were moved to Prison Camp No. 5 at Pulk Tong, which is on the Indo-China border at the Yalu River. From here they were moved to their final POW location—Camp No. 3.

The camp was bordered on one side by water, another side by mountains, and on two sides by barbed wire. There was no chance of escape, and no where to go if they did get away. Many tried, and all returned the next morning.

I will not tell you all the stories of hunger, disease, cold, fear, torture, and brainwashing, I will only tell you that it did happen to these men, and they survived. They may have been touched for life with various disabilities, but they survived, and although it has taken years of healing, they are good and fine Christian men — each and every one of them.

After thirty-three months in captivity, the men were released in August, 1953, brought out a few at a time, and exchanged at Pan Nahn Jan, where the actual negotiating room became their gateway to freedom. They pulled a table apart and let the men walk through — from North Korea to freedom in South Korea. Even though it was still Korea, they felt like kissing the ground in South Korea.

After debriefing at Freedom Village, one day in San Francisco, where they received clothes, money and plane tickets, and a lay-over in Dallas, they were home at last!

Carlton estimated that each man was about half of his normal body weight — they had lived on boiled cracked corn (horse feed), and millet — rice was a special treat; they had slept in an 8' x 8' room, 25 men per room; they had lived with the lice and bugs, and yet they had survived to come home to their loved ones.

These are my personal feelings and observations after enjoying a beautiful afternoon with these four men. They have been touched by war and lived to remember and tell the parts that are bearable, and in talking with each one, I, too, was touched. You can see it in their eyes and sense it in their being, but they are still concerned about the ones they left behind.

Over 8,000 of our men are unaccounted for in the Korean War. It is suspected that some of them were kept in work camps and not allowed to come home. Their destiny is unknown, and this leaves a lump in the throats of those who did come home. What happened to all these men, and where did they end up?

This is but one of the mysteries of war. Why did they have to be? But I want to thank Carlton, Royce, Russell and Ed for bringing home to me the real nature of the Veterans Day observance. I was truly touched and feel that I benefited from this visit.

FRIENDS SHARING MEMORIES include, from left, Tobbie and Royce Boyd, of Gainesville, Georgia, Maxine and Carlton Gay, of the Whitefield community, Elizabeth and Russell King, of Waycross, Georgia, and Ed and Mary Zeller, of Hillsboro, Illinois.

New Districts Face County Grid Teams

This county's high school football season will be a lot different next fall. Every two years, the Tennessee Secondary School Athletic Assn. uses school enrollments to put 1/3 of its members in Class A, 1/3 in AA, and 1/3 in AAA.

The TSSAA has divided 32 Class AA teams in West Tennessee (16 in Memphis, 16 outside Memphis) into four 8-team districts. Ripley and Covington will play in District 13-AA with Crockett County (632), Dyer County (670), Gibson County (676), Obion Central (892), Union City (603), and Martin Westview (489).

Crockett County and Dyer County had told the TSSAA they wouldn't compete for the state football play-offs next year, which would require them to play every other team in their district. With no hope of doing well in their districts, they have preferred to play teams who bring more spectators and thus more cash.

Crockett County has decided it will compete for the state football play-offs. Dyer County had not made a decision Tuesday afternoon. Halls High School, with an enrollment of 382, squeaks in right behind Whitwell (385) at the cut-off point of Class A. The list starts with Clinch (44). Four more students enrolled would have put HHS into the basement of Class AA.

But no more only three foes for Halls to play in the district race, as this year, with every district game so crucial. Next fall, District 14-A will add to its present members - Halls, Greenfield (179), Lake County (322), and South Fulton (316) - Bradford (177) and Trenton (337), dropping from District 13-AA play in which it was 5-5 this year.

Trenton led Halls 25-6 this season. It will have a young team next fall but will be a big new presence in District 14-A.

Charging Safely Into The Holidays: Ten Helpful Hints To Protect Credit Cards

- Charge! Thousands of shoppers, armed with their credit cards, storm the stores when holiday season hits. A leading provider of credit card authorization services to banks and retailers, Control Data Corporation's TeleMoney™ Services, has compiled a list of ten tips to help consumers get through the holiday shopping season without undue credit card stress-and without becoming victims of credit card fraud.
1. Beware Of Pickpockets. When you're fighting the holiday crowds, keep your credit cards in a safe place.
2. Don't Play With A Full Deck. Carry only the cards you plan to use.
3. Clean Up Your Carbons. Always tear up receipt carbons and dispose of properly.
4. Beware of Phone(y) Requests. Never give your credit card number over the phone, unless you dialed the number.
5. Save Your Slips. Save all receipts and compare them to your monthly bill to verify purchases and amounts. If you have a dispute about a charge, send it in writing to your card issuer. Telephoning will not protect your rights.
6. Cut Your Losses. Maintain a personal log of all credit card numbers and card cancellation information. Keep it separate from the cards. Some cards offer a free registration number for added security. Take advantage of these offerings.

Progress in research is bringing us closer to finding a cure for a serious disorder of the nervous system that leads to loss of muscular control-Parkinson's disease (PD).

*Some 800 previously untreated PD patients are taking part in a study called Datatop, now in progress at 28 centers in the U.S. and Canada.
*Some of the centers are conducting smaller studies. Researchers in Pennsylvania, for example, have shown that the sense of smell deteriorates early in the course of PD.
*This decline was seen in patients taking anti-Parkinson medications and in those who had not started anti-PD drugs. It did not correlate with the duration of the disease or with the severity of symptoms.
*Over three-quarters of the patients were unaware of this decline before they were tested.

No Complaints Accepted
Having fallen about of glasses were in a bad humor or something your editor has done no editing or anything else this week except in flat of his back a great part of the time and wish to get out a newspaper all alone — we've done it week after week — and Marie wishes to state right now that in his opinion any complaints about this week's issue of the paper should be kept strictly to the complainant's self, at least he doesn't want to hear them in addition to our illness, editors were here from Monday afternoon until Wednesday, he spent our new job from Friday and of course greatly interfered with work in the shop. We would like to state that we have really felt sorry for him. He has been learning to operate the linotype machine and was prepared to start getting out a newspaper alone. The doctor says that, as a matter of fact, we are and have been feeling quite sorry for ourselves the chances are that we will survive. A sinus infection seems to have given us the trouble.

Not Automatic Press
We don't know enough about it yet to make it work, but we are quite proud of the new Kluge automatic feeder that was installed this week. Designed to handle all most any type of work which we normally get once we learn to handle the press it should greatly speed up the delivery of our work. If interested, we would be glad for you to drop in and see the press in operation.

Flat On Our Back
This is the first time we have ever written the corner while flat on our back with. Well operating the typewriter. We had planned to tell you something about the boys Christmas and several other things but they will have to wait for another time.

Request Wage Increase For Sheriff Norvell

RIPLEY — The Lauderdale County Court Monday requested the county's legislators to introduce a bill to provide a 12,000 increase in salary of Sheriff Willard Norvell.

The court declared the present compensation of the sheriff from fees is inadequate.

An effort to have the legislators make it compulsory for the tax assessor to maintain an office in the Courthouse and to keep records of real estate transfers so tax books might be correct, was defeated.

Those presenting the resolution said that, due to incomplete tax assessor's records, many tracts of land in Lauderdale County were not on tax books. They said the purpose of the proposed legislation was to obtain more efficient tax assessments.

The court also directed its members of the Legislature to oppose the enactment of a General Session Court as being too expensive and unnecessary.

The County Board of Education was granted authority to increase the school budget for 1948-49 for teacher's salaries from $308,000 to $315,000 due to an increase in the number of students and a need for several new teachers.

Plans are now in the hands of architects for the erection of a $400,000 county hospital in Ripley. The court appointed the following as trustees: Judge J. E. Lewis, George Veit, Dr. J. L. Dunaway, Dr. W. Y. C. Hannum, W. C. Patton, W. A. Lipscomb, and designated Thomas Stueler Jr. as advisory trustee, and charged the trustees with completion.

The County Board re-elected one of the three County Highway Commissioners. He defeated Roy Hilliard by a vote of 24-12. Dr. L. D. Lattin was re-elected county physician. Harold Crowder was re-elected veterans service officer. San Johnson was elected coroner. Herman Wapole was re-elected delinquent poll tax collector.

B. C. Durham Jr. resigned as a member of the County Beer Board and A. L. Dorsey, a member of the court, was elected in his place. Sam Johnson, another member of the court, was also elected to the Beer Board.

Workers Should Have Only One SS Card

It is a big job to keep 88 million social security accounts, according to Mr. Joe P. Tipton, manager of the Memphis office of the security office. "Some people do not realize they should have but one social security number. If a worker loses his card he should get a duplicate showing the original number. Having more than one account number, if understood by the Administration, may result in smaller benefits," Mr. Tipton said.

Employees sometimes report their names to the Social Security Administration's records. If an incorrect wage report is made, it cannot be corrected unless the Ad-ministrator's attention is called to the error within 4 years after the employer reports the wages. Local social security offices furnish workers upon request special post card forms to obtain a report of the wages credited to their account.

Mr. Tipton calls attention to the fact that a worker's social security benefits upon retirement, and those to his family when he dies, are based upon his average monthly wage since he came under the system, and the date of death or attainment of age 65, whichever occurs first. From the wage statement which he requests from the Social Security Administration, the worker can figure the approximate amount of his retirement benefits and give his family a rough estimate of what they may receive in the event of his death.

You may obtain one of these request forms by writing or telephoning the Dyersburg, Tenn. social security office and asking for Form OAR-704.

Elementary News Notes

—Belton and Scott — The 1848 school days are now gone. But of them sweet memories linger on.

We extend our wishes sincere and true "49 will be bright and happy for you!

We still have measles and mumps in our room. We are glad to have our three new pupils Martha Dawson, Andrew Dawson and Norma Wright.

Second Grade
Most of the second grade came back to school Monday reporting a most happy Christmas. It seems that Santa Claus was especially kind to us this year. Ann Younger and David Hurt had the mumps during the holidays. That was bad, but we are glad they were away from school. Mrs. Cooper took care of our goldfish while we were away. That was mighty nice of her and we will say "Thank you, Mrs. Cooper" right now.

We are happy to welcome Mary Will Kling to our grade. She was with us last year but had to move to Ripley.

Third Grade
Our new pupils in J. D. Parrish, Mrs. Stella Vandiver who has moved to Halls Bluff.

Our New Year resolution is to continue to help and to do better work at school. We all reported a nice Christmas. Our Christmas party at school was a big success and those who helped to make it were Mrs. Elye Cates, Mrs. Buford Smith, Mrs. Harry Wyrick, James Chesley and Mrs. Henry Murchison — Thanks, Oh! Our teacher has a beautiful new umbrella. Have you seen it? It is really lovely.

Wendell Perry won the music contest in our grade during our music period Monday.

All the fourth graders reported a big Christmas for Santa was very good.

We are sorry to lose Virginia Dale Roy, Jean Davis and Jerry Stegenson, but welcome Frances Stegenson, Bobby Joe Wright and Russell Dawson.

Our science center is the most interesting place in our room now. The "Dinosaur" made of a sweet potato and given to us at the first of school by Patsy Perry is growing and really looks pre-historic.

We hope Jimmy Nichols and Barbara Hudgens will soon be able to be back in school.

We are glad to be getting off to a good start after the holidays. After wishing everyone a "Happy New Year" and enjoying light refreshments that were given us we took time out to write a few resolutions which we hope will benefit us in the rest of the year.

We have an attractive new man calendar on our black-board — drawn by one of our pupils. We are learning a new poem hoping it will be reasonable by the time we have mastered it.

We have two new pupils in our room — Shirley Taylor from Friendship and Sue Cowell from Double Bridges. We had two pupils — Geneva Thurmond and Jean Vandiver. It was very hard on us to get turkey and pie to eat.

Jerry Norman and Shirley Taylor had birthdays while school was out.

We have lost some of our pot flowers that we treated very well. We are very glad to have the window replaced that someone (Continued on Page 3)

Report Export On Cover Crops

F. H. Paschal, County Agent Ben Haselwood and E. J. Chapman of the West Tennessee Experiment Station, Jackson, just issued a report which outlines the results of an experiment which has run eight years at the Jackson station. Cotton has been grown each year on all the plots and then different cover crops have been planted on most of the plots to determine their effect on the yields of cotton for the whole eight year period.

On the plots having no cover crops the average yield of seed cotton for the eight years is 1218 pounds. The plots which had hairy vetch planted on them every fall after September 25 made an average yield of 1544 pounds of seed cotton per acre. Plots which had fall yielded 1779 pounds of seed cotton per acre.

Plots sown to crimson clover, Austrian winter peas, Burr clover, ryegrass and crimson clover mixed all yielded about 1630 pounds of seed cotton per acre. Plots which had dry grass or ryegrass planted on them each fall actually made slightly lower yields of seed cotton than the plots on which no cover crop was planted. The full report of these experiments is included in a new publication, Cotton and Cover Crops, which farmers may get free for the asking at our office.

The results of this experiment show that the value of growing winter legumes to be turned under in the spring. Even with the high yields of cotton we make in Lauderdale County, every farmer can make more profit when 200 lbs. of additional lint per acre can be grown by the use of $5.00 worth of seeds per acre to keep the land green in winter and provide green manure for turning under in the spring.

Secretary Brannan Says More Livestock Needed

Secretary of Agriculture was quoted this week as saying that the production of livestock and devote more acres to the production of good pastures and feed to support the livestock. Secretary Brannan called attention to the fact that livestock makes use of more labor on a commercial basis and that the stock can be kept in place for a permanent type of agriculture.

Lauderdale County farmers are producing a large amount of hog and beef cattle, but we are not seeing enough really good pasture for our growing livestock production on a permanent basis. Many small families can profitably raise livestock on a commercial basis when it becomes stylish contract and when we are willing to raise and slaughter and use the type of pastures which will make milk production more profitable.

County Agents' Dates Vary

County Agents have been taking so much for granted in the last 10 years by farm people and the public in general and they have a heavy job to perform for the farmers of the county a group that it is more and more difficult for individual farmers to realize they are getting very much help from the County Agent and the Extension Service.

An Agriculture Census is to be made in 1950 and we are already being asked by the Census Bureau for a lot of information which should help them to do a better job with this census. Next year we will be called on to assist in making of the census.

We are glad to do all the things which are helpful to far people in general, but we would much prefer being allowed the ground more of our time on individual farms with individual farmers. We know that farmers want to see the County Agent and like the type of work.

Group Assisting Guard Families

An organization was chartered last week whose purpose is to provide emergency assistance to Tennessee National Guard families experiencing hardships as a result of a spouse's activation for Operation Desert Shield.

The non-profit organization, comprised entirely of civilians, is officially titled the 'Family Relief Organization For The Tennessee National Guard, Inc.' It has already begun accepting contributions to aid those families who have an emergency financial need caused by a Guard member's mobilization.

The registered agent for the corporation is Cheryl Hackett, of Cookeville, who has also spearheaded the on-going drive for personal items being distributed to Tennessee Guard members involved in Operation Desert Shield.

Appointed to the Board and working with Mrs. Hackett in the Lauderdale County area is Bob White, of Ripley, his telephone number is 636-9594 or 636-1515.

At present, almost 800 Tennessee families have been affected by President Bush's mobilization of troops during this crisis,' Mrs. Hackett explained. "We already know of some hardship cases among some of these families, and it is people in these situations that our organization has been formed to help."

Mrs. Hackett said her group is working with families who have an emergency need that is not being met, or cannot swiftly be met, by another government or charitable agency.

The organization's Board of Directors includes spouses of Guard members who have been activated. The Guard is not a sponsor of the program. Policies, guidelines, and the decision-making process rest with the organization's Board of Directors.

The Guard, however, will provide information requested by the Board on matters of a uniquely military nature.

"We're now actively seeking contributions to help these families," Mrs. Hackett said. "We've already received inquiries from church groups, school groups, civic clubs, businesses and lots of individuals. The response has really been heartwarming. There are a lot of people out there who know what it means to experience a financial emergency."

Anyone wishing more information on the Family Relief Organization may contact Bob White locally at 636-9594 or 636-1515 or Mrs. Hackett in Cookeville at (615) 526-8560. Contributions may be mailed to: Family Relief Organization For The Tennessee National Guard, Inc., 400 Dubois Road, Cookeville, Tenn. 38501.

State Requires Burn Permits

The state of Tennessee is beginning a burning permit system, effective immediately.

Tenn. Code Annotated 39-14-306 requires any person starting an open air fire between October 15 and May 15 within 500 feet of any forest or woodlands to first secure a burning permit from the State Forester or an authorized representative.

In Lauderdale County, call the Tennessee Division of Forestry office at the Ripley Fire Tower at 636-1105 to secure a permit. Permits will be issued from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Permits will not be issued more than two days in advance and will be valid only for the date specified. The Tenn. Division of Forestry may refuse to issue burning permits or can revoke permits based on fire danger or fire activity.

Ripley's National Guard unit, the 268th Military Police Company, has been called to active duty to support U.S. forces in their "Desert Shield" operation in the Persian Gulf.

Guardsmen were ordered to report to the Ripley Army early Wednesday.

An advance detachment of 10, in five vehicles, was ordered to leave at 8 a.m. Wednesday for Ft. Stewart, Ga., where the unit is expected to remain for about two weeks, before further deployment.

Other members of the unit, which has an authorized strength of 172, were ordered to leave the Ripley Army at 7 a.m. Friday, in about 40 jeeps, plus a few trucks, with excess personnel in two buses.

HHS Pursues Play-Off Hopes In Waynesboro

Halls High School's Tigers last week edged Memphis's Bishop Byrne, 14-13, to move into the quarter-finals of Class A state foot-ball play-offs.

The Tigers travel this Friday to Waynesboro, about a 3-hour journey, to play Wayne County High School, whose Wildcats won last week from Columbia Academy, 37-0.

Other class A winners last week were defending champs Bruceston, 44-9, over First Assembly Christian School of Memphis; Coalfield, 15-0, over Greenback; Knoxville Webb, 33-0, over Oneida; Mount Pleasant, 14-7, over Richland; Nashville FRA 21-13, over Celina; and Trousdale County, 52-6, over Donelson Christian.

To go to Waynesboro, go to Jackson, take Hwy. 45 south to Selmer, then Hwy. 64 East to the Court Square in Waynesboro. From the Square, Hwy. 13 South will bring you directly to Wayne County High School.

All cotton producers are encouraged to chop stalks as quickly after harvest as possible. This reduces overwintering sites and reduces the weevil population greatly.

Additional traps will be monitored in the spring in order to see how many weevils survive this winter.

TENNESSEE TRAVELER

Grasmere Wildlife Park

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Something wild is going on in suburban Nashville, something that has not happened for over 100 years! Once again the howl of the wolf and the growl of the cougar can be heard near the city as some of Tennessee's native wild animals come home to the Grasmere Wildlife Park, just minutes from the heart of downtown Nashville.

For many visitors, this will be their first glimpse of a bald eagle, an otter or a bison, although all were once plentiful in the Nashville area before pioneer settlement and the rise of civilization destroyed the ecosystem of many species in Middle Tennessee. Fortunately, the animals returning to Nashville's new zoological park will be protected from visitors while living in environments suited to their particular needs.

"Visitors to Grasmere will need a little re-education on how to view these animals," says Ellen Koonce, director of marketing for the park. "People will not be walking from cage to cage, but will be moving through a zoo in which the barriers are unobtrusive. There are boulders, caves, bushes, and natural undergrowth that permit our animals to hide and sleep as they please."

"So, people will have to be patient as they look for some of our residents. The bottom line here is to provide an environment that seems natural to the animals while letting visitors see creatures they would not ordinarily see," she adds.

Almost all of the animals, including the white-tail deer, the bison and the elk were bred in captivity. Others, such as the cougar were rescued from less than humane conditions, and the bald eagle suffered a crushed shoulder when young, rendering it unable to fly.

"For some of our animals, this is a sanctuary. Held captive since they were little, they have lost skills that would enable them to live in the wild," remarks Koonce. "However, we hope that they will be happy at the wildlife park and regain some of what has been denied to them. In some cases, we also hope to produce offspring. Currently, we are seeking an approval to breed our rare Przewalski horses, so that the species will not die out permanently," she adds.

Grasmere Wildlife Park is also home to many species of native birds, waterfowl and reptiles. A special two-story, walk-through aviary is filled with colorful woodland birds, and an exhibit of river life will take visitors through all stages of aquatic life along the Cumberland River. Several exhibits also address environmental concerns whenever appropriate, such as the indigenous Passenger Pigeon which was hunted to extinction in this century.

Park activities include a film matinee on Saturdays, an art gallery with changing exhibits, and hands-on classes for school groups. Permanent exhibits also show the history of human occupation, from the first Native Americans to the last residents who made a gift of the land so that Grasmere could be built.

In 1810, the land was deeded as a 300-acre land grant, and for five generations the same family owned and worked the land. As time went on, Grasmere was surrounded by urban development. Shopping centers, subdivisions and traffic encroached on the area, and owners Elise and Margaret Croft began to look for a way to preserve their home for future generations. Finally, they decided to donate their vintage home and acreage to the Cumberland Museum and Science Center, with the provision that 200 acres would be set aside forever to preserve the best of Middle Tennessee's vanishing natural heritage. The other 100 acres was sold to fund the endowment for operating expenses.

The result of the sisters' endowment is not only a haven for wildlife, but is also a delightful outdoor park, containing both a paved, handicapped accessible trail and a hiking trail that meander through the old farm.

"The Croft sisters gave so much, remarks, Ellen Koonce. "They even kept samples of clothing representing five generations of pioneer dress for Middle Tennessee. We are preserving and planning how to make use of the wonderful things this family left behind."

People and animals have always been drawn to the place now called Grasmere Wildlife Park. Visitors today, moving beneath the canopy of ancient trees, can relax and experience close encounters with black bear and timber wolf. In time, it will be hard to know who is viewing whom, as the "natural cages" and barriers become overgrown with vegetation. And as winter gives way to spring, the colors and coats of the animals change with the seasons, making the trip to Grasmere a never-ending journey into the mysteries of nature.

Grasmere is one of four natural wildlife parks in the United States. It is seeking accreditation by the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums which provides guidance for maintaining humane conditions, feeding nutritional foods and developing successful animal husbandry for captive animals.

The Grasmere Wildlife Park is open year-round except for Christmas Day, New Year's Day and Thanksgiving Day. Hours of operation are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Group rates are available with reservations by calling (615) 333-0632. Admission is $5.00 for teens and adults, $4.00 for children 3-12 years and seniors over 65. Individual, family and other memberships are also available. Grasmere is located at 3777 Nolensville Road, between Thompson Lane and Harding Place.

For more information about Grasmere and other Nashville attractions contact Room 11, Tennessee Department of Tourist Development, Box 23170, Nashville, Tennessee 37202.

Choctaws Into Grid Race;
Denmark West Team Dies

Just before the dead-line Wednesday of last week, Dyer County High School decided to compete for the state football play-offs in 1991 and 1992.

Otherwise, a new Tenn. Secondary Schools Athletic Assn. rule would have barred the Choctaws from post-season basketball play.

The Newbern gridders have played as independents since 1983, to avoid having to play all other teams in their district.

Next fall, they will compete with Ripley, Covington, Crockett County, Gibson County, Obion Central, Union City, and Martin Westview in the new District 13-AA.

Crockett County had earlier decided to abandon its independent status.

Sharon's Eagles also bowed to the TSSAA move. The only TSSAA team not in district grid competition next fall will be the Tenn. School for the Deaf in Nashville.

But a team which the Halls Tigers have been playing is now no more.

Jackson West Senior High School, at Denmark, has had one winning season (3-3, in 1982) out of 13. This fall, it was 1-8. Of 14 players this year, only seven will return next fall. In 1992, West students will attend Jackson South Side.

Principal Clarence Boone told the Jackson-Madison County School Board that with few extra players, injuries become more likely, especially since many West gridders have had part-time jobs which limited practices to as few as three.

He said he was afraid "every Friday night" that he might have to "face another principal with 1,500 to 1,600 fans in the stadium and tell him we can't play."

The board voted 5-0, with three abstentions, to end the grid program at West.

Ripley Baptists Raise $488,282

Planning an activities building on the former Broadus Klutts property on the northeast corner of Randolph and Lafayette, members of First Baptist Church in Ripley have given or made 3-year pledges of $488,282 in a 13-week "Together We Build" program directed by Dwayne Fischer, of the Southern Baptist Commission Stewardship Commission in Nashville.

Ron Johnson and Richard Ring, laymen, were program directors.

The church received $293,693 in total offerings last year.

Dr. H. K. Sorrell, interim pastor, notes "a blessing, for it caused the people to get out and work as well as pulled them together," while without a pastor.

CREATIVE COOKING

Embellish A Relish With Raisins

Even the simplest of meals becomes holiday festive when you add a tasty relish. But make sure your relish is colorful, eye-appealing and bursting with tantalizing good taste.

One quick and easy choice is Raisinberry Relish, a basic cranberry relish embellished with raisins. Raisins add fruity-sweet flavor, good color, chewy texture and some nutrition, too. The addition of raisins also reduces the amount of sugar needed.

Raisinberry Relish complements traditional roast turkey, ham or other meats. But even more modest pork chops or baked chicken pieces can be turned into a holiday meal with this delectable accompaniment.

To make Raisinberry Relish, just simmer together golden raisins, cranberries, orange juice and a few other ingredients. It's that easy.

Storage is a snap, too, since Raisinberry Relish can be kept refrigerated for up to one month. But just see if it will last that long! You'll find yourself reaching for this relish to serve with all sorts of leftovers, sandwiches and cheeses.

Raisinberry Relish is as beautiful as it is tasty. With deep amber color, shades of cranberry and dashes of orange, this relish makes an attractive and welcome gift. Pour into clean glass containers to show off its glistening hues, dress with pretty ribbons, and present to family and friends at holiday parties and family gatherings.

Raisinberry Relish
2 1/4 cups (about 12 ounces) golden raisins
2 cups orange juice
1 cup water
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup sugar
3 cups (12 ounces) fresh

or frozen cranberries
2 teaspoons finely grated orange peel

In 3-quart saucepan combine raisins, orange juice, water, lemon juice and sugar. Bring to boil over high heat, stirring to dissolve sugar. Reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes. Add cranberries. Return to boil; simmer 5 minutes. Add orange peel; simmer about 5 minutes until liquid barely covers solid ingredients. Cool. Store refrigerated in container up to 1 month. Makes about 4 1/2 cups.

The word ye in such expressions as "Ye Olde Shoppe" is pronounced like the word the. The letter y in Anglo-Saxon indicated the same th sound as apparent in the current spelling.
