For Miles Around

By Murray Miles
Tennessee Farm Bureau

COVERED BRIDGES OLD, BUT STILL AROUND TODAY

I got interested in covered bridges about 50 years ago. My friend Bill Taylor and I went to 4-H Camp in Columbia in the summer of 1947, and we met two sisters from Williamson County. I had a love of always falling in love at 4-H Camp, and this year was no exception. I think Bill did too, and a few times after that, he and I would drive from our home in Rutherford County for dates with the two girls.

They lived near a covered bridge that was located near where Sneed Road is now north of Franklin. A date back in the late 1940's and early 1950's meant going to the movie, getting something to eat afterwards, and then drive around for awhile until it was time to take your date home.

The sisters insisted that we drive across the covered bridge, and furthermore that we should stop and park for a few minutes. We were in Bill's car, and so I had no say so in the matter, however I was not one to object in this instance. We did stop for awhile, and that was my introduction to a covered bridge. I never did see the bridge in the daytime, and I think a flood destroyed it sometime in the 1950's. But that's how I got interested in covered bridges, and now I enjoy looking at them and making pictures of them. Someone asked me recently how many covered bridges still existed in Tennessee. I only knew of two at the time. One is the bridge in downtown Elizabethton. It crosses the Doe River and was built in 1882. I make it a point to drive over it any time I get to Elizabethton, which is rare these days.

Another is over the Red River at Port Royal off of Highway 76 on the Montgomery and Robertson County lines. It had some flood damage a few years back, but it has now been restored. I'm ashamed to say that I have never seen it, but I plan to very soon.

A few days after telling someone that there were only two left in the state, I drove across another one in Sevier County. You go Highway 411 out of Sevierville, and turn right on Highway 339 that runs from Sevierville to Cosby. My wife and I just happened to see the sign about a covered bridge, and we turned off on Highway 339 for one mile to it.

This is in the community of Harrisburg. It was built in 1875, and restored in 1982. It is not a very long covered bridge since it does not go over a very wide stream.

So, there are at least three covered bridges left in the state, and there may be even more. I'm sure some reader will let me know if there are others.

In 1992 on a tour with some Farm Bureau members to Nova Scotia and that area, we came to a covered bridge in Hartland, New Brunswick. This is the longest covered bridge in the world. It spans across 1,282 feet. Cars and pedestrians still use it, but trucks and buses cannot. Therefore, we didn't get to drive over it, but we did walk across. It is quite a spectacle.

Recently I came across the Illinois Farm Bureau's monthly publication from August of 1948, and it had a covered bridge pictured on the cover. Since that was 48 years ago, I don't know if this bridge still exists, but it was located in Bureau County, Illinois near Princeton. Built in 1863, it cost a total of $3,148.57.

It was said that the bridge was supported by heavy oak beams and that the roof was put on it to protect the flooring and supporting timbers from the weather. I suppose it also was a haven for travelers on horseback and in wagons during inclement weather. Maybe some of the folks on a date also stopped on it, too.

There was a sign on that bridge that said, "Five dollars fine for driving more than twelve horses, mules or cattle at one time or for leading any beast faster than a walk on or across this bridge". I assume that they didn't want that much weight, but I don't understand the speed limit, unless the pounding rhythm of the feet could cause damage to the structure.

Last fall, my wife and I made a trip up through the northeast that included the states of New Hampshire and Vermont. For a lover of covered bridges, that's the place to go. Every town that the AAA book said had a covered bridge or bridges, we were determined to find them.

During the days that we were in the area, we drove across, and/or made pictures of at least nine bridges. In Bennington, Vermont, there were three of them, and all were located just a mile or so outside of town.

Probably the most famous covered bridge is the pedestrian bridge in Lucerne, Switzerland, built in 1333.

When you see promotional pictures of Lucerne, that bridge is usually one of them. Although it partially burned a few months ago, it has been restored, and we've had the opportunity to walk across both the old and the rebuilt bridge, since our oldest daughter and her family were living near there during that time.

There are a lot more covered bridges that I hope to see and cross sometime. I certainly am glad that those sisters insisted that we park on the one in Williamson County 49 years ago. If we hadn't, I might have passed up some beautiful scenery through the years.

Doctors have long known that anger raises heart attack risk for several hours. Now a Harvard study notes that aspirin (the same tablet every day or two recommended for almost everyone) brings the risk back down by making blood less likely to clot.

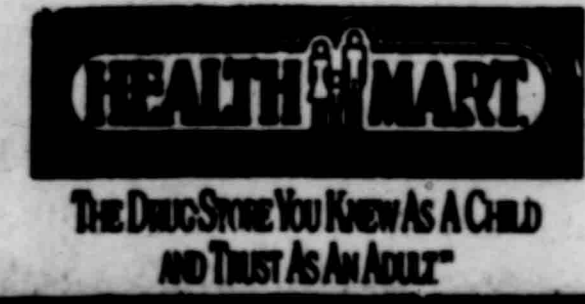

Another plus for aspirin: it not only wards off heart attacks, it also cuts the risk of colorectal cancer, a Harvard study found.

A few youngsters benefit from the orthodontic braces before all their teeth are in. Early intervention may avoid problems later on, says a professor and journal editor at the University of Illinois.

The Food and Drug Administration has approved RespiGam to treat children under two at risk for respiratory syncytial virus disease. This is the leading cause of pneumonia in infants.

New nasal spray--Arrovot--works by preventing the production of mucus. It comes in two strengths: one for allergies, and a stronger one for colds.

What is the refund policy in regard to fees?
 Refund procedures for maintenance fees and out-of-state tuition fees are outlined below. (All other fees are non-refundable).
Changes of student's status which require a refund:
 A. Change in a full-time student's schedule which results in reclassification to part-time student status.
 B. Change in a part-time student's schedule which results in a class load of fewer than 6 hours.
Other situations which require a refund:
 A. Withdrawing from the institution within the refund period.
 B. Cancellation of a class by the institution.
 C. Death of the student.

Refund Procedures:
 A. Refunds are allowed for the first 25% of the term. Beginning with the first day of classes and extending through the first 14 calendar days of classes, there is a 75% refund. For the remaining days of this refund period, there is a 25% refund. No refunds will be made beyond the 25% period.
 B. 100% of the fees will be refunded for classes canceled by the institution, beginning of the first day of classes. No refund will be processed during the official registration period.
 C. 100% refund in case of death.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Confidentiality of student records:

DSCC regards a student's academic record as confidential. The release of this information contained in the record is governed by Federal Law. Information such as the student's name, address, telephone listing, major fields of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, degrees and awards received, and the most recent directory information released, DSCC will withhold such information from the public unless the student has authorized the release of such information in writing.

The law does provide for the release of information to authorized college personnel, other institutions, employers, and state and federal government officials.

If you have questions concerning the provisions of this act, contact the Director of Admissions and Records.

Student Load:

A student is considered to be enrolled full-time if enrolled in 12 or more credit hours; the maximum number of hours credit for which a student may enroll is 19 hours. A student may request to enroll in more than 19 hours. Request for Overload forms are available in the Office of Admissions and Records. You must obtain your advisor's signature on the form. Overload requirements as outlined in the DSCC catalog before an overload can be processed.

Adding Courses:

If a student finds it necessary to add a course, the addition will be possible provided it is within the course-add period and space is available in the desired class. Please refer to the Academic Calendar in this schedule or in the 1986 - 1987 DSCC catalog for deadlines to add. To add a course, a student must complete a Change of Registration form and follow the procedures listed on the form. Forms may be obtained in the Office of Admissions and Records or from the academic advisor or at the Gibson and Tipton County locations.

Disabling Courses:
 To drop a course, a student must complete a Change of Registration form and follow the procedure listed on the form. Forms may be obtained in the Office of Admissions and Records or from the academic advisor or at the Gibson and Tipton County locations. A student is not officially dropped from a course until this form is processed in the Office of Admissions and Records. Failure to comply will result in an automatic grade of "F". Please refer to the Academic Calendar in this schedule or in the 1986 - 1987 DSCC catalog for deadlines to drop.
 Tennessee Board of Regents policy prohibits students from dropping courses in the College Preparatory Program (remedial/developmental). Under extenuating circumstances, however, a course may be dropped with the approval of the advisor and the Director of the College Preparatory Program.
 Courses may be dropped without a grade through approximately the first two weeks ("V" is given if the first day of class) of a class. After this time, a grade of "W" is given if the first day of class is officially dropped.

Drop Via Withdrawal:

If a student is enrolled in only one course and does not want to remain in that course or wishes to withdraw from all courses, a Permission to Withdraw form must be obtained and appropriate signatures obtained. Forms are available in the Office of Admissions and Records and the Gibson and Tipton County locations. Failure to obtain a Permission to Withdraw form will result in an automatic grade of "F" in all courses. Please refer to the Academic Calendar in this schedule or in the 1986 - 1987 DSCC catalog for deadlines to drop.

Grade Report:

A grade report showing the grade received, credit hours earned, and quality points earned is mailed to the permanent address of each student at the end of the term. No student will be issued a grade report or transcript until all debts or obligations owed to the College have been satisfied.

The Office of Admissions and Records will not release any grade except by the official copy sent by mail. To protect the confidential nature of the student's records, no grades will be released by phone.

Class Cancellations and Changes:

Dyersburg State Community College reserves the right to cancel classes that do not have sufficient enrollment. Divisions offering more than one section of the same course may close sections as necessary to promote the most effective instruction. Instructor assignments are also subject to change.

While this schedule of classes has been prepared on the basis of the most current information at the time of printing, the schedule is subject to change without notice, obligation or liability.

Graduation Candidates...
 Students expecting to complete course requirements at the end of Fall 1986, Spring 1987, or Summer 1987 should submit an Intent to Graduate form to the Office of Admissions & Records by October 25. Forms are available in the Office of Admissions & Records at the Gibson and Tipton County locations.

For Miles Around

EARLY CURB MARKETS GOT FARM WOMEN OUT OF KITCHEN

One of the joys of summer is the availability of fresh fruits and vegetables from our own garden, or from the garden of a generous neighbor or friend who has a surplus to share. Sometimes the surplus is so great that we almost have to force others to take some of our produce. At a recent family reunion, my son-in-law threatened to stand at the front gate to inspect every car that left to make certain that each contained a mess of his cucumbers.

For those who don't have gardens or generous neighbors, they can usually visit a local farmers market and get fresh, locally grown produce. Many of our cities and towns have such places.

Selling produce on the street has been around for many years, but I found an essay recently that was written back in the late 1920's or early 1930's about how what were called "curb markets" helped get farm wives out of the kitchen and into town.

The history of the curb market in Jackson was written by Mrs. Ethel Bond, who served as chairman of the Tennessee Farm Bureau Women from 1924 until her death in 1967. Active in many endeavors, she helped begin the market, and here's her account of it:

"Some years ago when the farm family decided that they should have a new home built or the old house remodeled, the plans were made, generally, to have it done if they made a good crop the next year, and the cotton brought a fair price. Cotton was the only money crop grown. But more often than not, the building could not be done yet.

"When the Home Demonstration agent began with kitchen improvement in her plan of work for farm women, interest was aroused through the county. Women began to see how much more convenient their kitchen could be made with just a little money. And the money had to come. They couldn't wait then for a good crop year.

"A curb market was started (in Jackson) with the help of the Extension force and financial aid from the (Madison) County Farm Bureau.

"It had been our (farm wives) custom to send the surplus butter and eggs to the grocery by the men folks and groceries were brought back in exchange for them. So the women were a little

She's 80

MISS LOUISE THURMOND, of 205 West Main in Halls, celebrated her 80th birthday with friends and family July 24th. Her sisters, Virginia July 24th, of Rockford, Ill., and Maurine Rossmaier, of Savannah, Georgia, gathered in her home with 30 guests attending. Other friends sent cards and made telephone calls.

Nita Steelman led the group in singing Happy Birthday after Louise blew out the candles and made a wish. Virginia then presented her with gifts from friends, neighbors and family.

Driving from Florida to assist with the party were her niece, Chris Wilcox, and her friend, Mary Walsh. They said it was worth the trip to wish "Aunt Louise" a happy 80th birthday.

timid at the thought of selling on the curb.

"Finally after much planning and permission to use the west side of the court square for the market, we were ready to begin.

"The advertising, which was principally through the Women's Club of Jackson, brought a good line of customers. The surplus fruits and vegetables from the garden, poultry and dairy products, were about all we began with. It was an advantage for the producers to sell directly to the customers. We soon learned that the town women were glad to buy directly from the person who produced what they had to sell. The seller learned just what each regular customer wanted and enjoyed giving extra attention to the special orders.

"We also learned that the seller who had the neatest and most attractive package of good quality and graded products got the best trade.

"No license were paid for selling on this market, and only a small amount is charged to take care of the advertising, have tables moved back and forth and keep change for convenience of the sellers.

"Anyone who will comply with the rules and regulations which are made by the majority of the sellers are just that we have a stated hour to begin selling each day. Each seller has the privilege of holding the stand she began with, so long as they come as often as once a week. No trash shall be left on the street and all packages must be labeled with the seller's name.

"We had only one or two men to sell on the market in the beginning, but more of them have found it a good source of ready cash. This market is a good place to sell home cooking. Salt-rising bread, nut bread, corn light-bread, individual chess pies and caramel cakes are specialized in by some women who have developed year around markets with their customers.

"The market generally runs from the middle of May until cold weather stops us which is some times as late as Christmas. The market days are Tuesday, Thursdays and Saturday mornings.

"Farm women find that they do not have to neglect their families by selling on the market. But the diversion from a regular routine of work at home to a few hours three days a week, meeting friends and forming new acquaintances adds much to her life in a social way.

"Also the ready cash from the surplus that usually went to waste makes it possible to add to her home the extras for comfort and attractiveness that creates a family pride in their farm home."

At the time, the market was still running at that time. It is obvious that it not only provided income to the farm wives and fresh food to the city home, but the it helped build self esteem for those ladies who had been confined to the farm home and kitchen. Hopefully, it built friendships between farm and city wives that continued for many years.

SOUTHERN FISH WATER BASIS

Fried or boiled shrimp are usually our first taste of seafood, especially since these simple dishes appear on menus throughout the South.

While the South has supplied the lion's share of all the shrimp eaten since pre-Columbian times, most of these highly perishable crustaceans were consumed at the sea-shore prior to the 1920's.

Popular is too mild a word. More shrimp are consumed in the USA than any other fresh or frozen seafood.

Unless you live on the coast, most shrimp you buy was previously frozen. Although frozen fish has a bad reputation, flash-frozen shrimp are excellent.

BARBECUED SHRIMP Louisiana is blessed with brackish water byways full of shrimp and creative cooks eager for the catch.

BOILED GULF SHRIMP Lunch at the beach can be as uncomplicated as a jar of bottled shrimp cocktail sauce and saltines.

In a large heavy skillet (traditionally cast-iron), heat the butter and oil together. Add the Worcestershire, garlic, bay leaves, thyme, basil, oregano, salt, cayenne, paprika, black pepper and lemon juice.

Bring to a boil 1 gallon water seasoned with the box of Zatarain's crab boil, salt, lemon, concentrated chili (if using).

SHRIMP COCKTAIL SAUCE Cocktail sauce is as personal as barbecue sauce. This is my favorite.

Economy Booster To Corridor Cities

Interstate 69 is a trade corridor that would provide a direct, 1,800-mile link between the industrial hearts of Canada, the United States and Mexico.

The I-69 Mid-Continent Highway Coalition noted that I-69 satisfies many of the key requirements established by Congress.

Bill Summers, president of the Rio Grande Valley Partnership and member of the I-69 Mid-Continent Highway, stated, "In addition to enhancing intermodal facilities, I-69 will positively impact economic development, especially in the I-69 corridor states where more than 4.2 million people live below the poverty level."

Successful treatment to ease the chronic pain of fibromyalgia combines two antidepressants. The two drugs seem to work better than either one alone, doctors at Tufts University found.

Exercise does more for children than boost their self-confidence. A study with animals at the University of California at Irvine shows an increase in nerve cells in the brain, too.

Having pertussis—whopping cough—as a child may not give lifelong immunity. German researchers say it wears off in about 20 years. Adults with persistent coughs should be tested even if they don't whoop.

New wrinkle-remover is being investigated by doctors at Duke University. Containing L-ascorbic acid, a vitamin C compound, it's said to encourage the production of more collagen.

The latest word on conception timing: current research indicates that women are more fertile on the day of ovulation or during the five days before.

TRENT SUTTON, son of the Joel Suttons, of Route 2, Ripley, has been accepted for enrollment in the College of Medicine of the University of Tennessee in Memphis. A 1987 graduate of Halls High School and a 1991 graduate of Lipscomb University in Nashville, he is employed by Baptist Hospital in Memphis, in Information Systems.

cial animals are to us as pets, companions and for food and clothing, although there are those who oppose the latter two. But just in everyday conversation, we use many expressions that involve animals. Many of them have been around for years.

For example, you "work like a dog", and you get "hot as a fox". You come home "dog tired" and "smelling like a goat" or "smelling like a bear". You are also "hungry as a bear". And when you finish your meal you might want to eat seconds of that good homemade pecan pie, but your spouse might tell you that "you're going to be as fat as a pig".

But you'll be as "stubborn as a mule" or "dumb as an ox" and eat it anyway, although it might make you as "sick as a dog". If you had any "horse sense", you wouldn't eat that second helping.

Now, later on, after your spouse goes to bed, you might be as "sly as a fox" and slip back in the kitchen and have another helping. However, you might have to "count sheep" all night to try to get to sleep.

Remember when you first fell in love and someone said it was just "puppy love". But you came home from a date "grinning like a possum". However, you might have been "counting your chickens before they hatched", and your girlfriend might later "make a monkey out of you", and "get your goat". Then you may have come home "looking like a whipped puppy".

When you show up early, you're an "eager beaver" or "early bird", but if you are the last one there, you become "an old cow's tail". If you go to bed with the chickens, and if you stay up late, you are a "night owl".

You can be as "meek as a lamb", or "wild as a buck". And have you ever been called "a dirty dog"? Oh yes, there are the "dog days" of summer.

In this election year, there may be a "dark horse" candidate, but the incumbent will suggest that you should not "change horses in the middle of the stream". Some of the candidates may "drink like a fish", be "crooked as a snake", or "squirrelly". Another may be a "horse's posterior" or words to that effect.

This means you should study a candidate's record and background so you won't be given a "bum steer". If you have a trusted friend who knows the candidates, ask him or her and get the information "straight from the horses mouth".

And remember, you should never "cast your pearls before swine", and you can be as "independent as a hog on ice".

Well, I have to go now and comb my hair. I think I have a "cowlick". You be careful today, and don't cross a railroad track with the train coming. You might get hit by a "cowcatcher".

Your baked dishes will come out even more delicious if you preheat your pie pans, cake tins, cookie sheets and muffin pans.

If you are scared to do something, then you're "chicken" or "chicken hearted". On the other hand, if you are brave, then you are "lion hearted".

If you see real well, you have "eagle eyes", and if your nose is a certain shape, you have a "hawk bill", and you could be "pigeon toed". And you know what kind of shape you're in if you are "loose as a goose". And folks like to tickle you if they know you are "goosey".

You'll never get fat if you "eat like a bird". If you do something nice for someone, you may have "put a feather in your cap".

If you've put on too much weight, you may be "big as a cow", or "big as a sow". Two ladies were in a fuss one day. One lady called the other an "old heifer". The other lady then called the first one a female dog, if you know what I mean. Actually, the term "lady" is probably not appropriate in this case.

For not doing something you should, you may be called "bull headed", or "pig headed". When a child comes in from playing outside, you often say, "you're as dirty as a pig". But when the child is all cleaned up, she or he becomes your "little lamb".

When you show up early, you're an "eager beaver" or "early bird", but if you are the last one there, you become "an old cow's tail". If you go to bed with the chickens, and if you stay up late, you are a "night owl".

Bicentennial HIGHLIGHTS

by Miss Daisy

Remembering Alex Haley

Alex Haley was a remarkable man who instilled warmth in those he met in person and delighted those who viewed his works on screen. Alex Haley loved to tell stories, but loved even more to listen to those told by his grandmother. The stories he heard on his Grandma Cynthia's front porch inspired his brilliant Pulitzer Prize winning work—Roots.

During Homecoming '86, the yearlong event designed to set the stage for Tennessee's Bicentennial, Mr. Haley joined Governor Lamar Alexander at Miss Daisy's restaurant in Nashville for lunch. That was the first time I had the opportunity to visit with this very caring gentleman.

We had, among other topics, a great deal of conversation about his dietary needs and how much he enjoyed one of the dishes served at Miss Daisy's—Creamed Chicken on Cornbread. Throughout 1986, I was able to travel the "Homecoming Train" with Mr. Haley and other notable Tennesseans. One final destination on the train was a stop and dinner at Mr. Haley's home in Morris, Tenn., just outside Knoxville. Once again, Mr. Haley demonstrated his love of food with the bountiful spread on the lawn of his stately home.

I have submitted Alex Haley's grandmother's Chicken and Dumplings recipe, as well as my grandmother's version of that old favorite chicken dish. Both are delicious and easy to prepare. Enjoy!

—Miss Daisy

Alex Haley's "Chicken George" Chicken and Dumplings

Cook a hen until tender. Remove from broth. Add water if needed to make plenty of broth.

DUMPLINGS
21/2 CUPS PLAIN FLOUR
1 TEASPOON SALT
1 TEASPOON BAKING POWDER
2 EGGS

Mix together and add enough milk to make a stiff batter. Knead on dough board using plenty of flour. Roll out to the thickness of pie crust. Cut in 1-inch strips and cut each strip in three or four pieces. Drop into boiling broth and cook slowly until done. You may need to add cover to pan, but watch carefully. Add chicken and let stand to blend flavors. You can remove the chicken from the bone, but in the old days the chicken was cut in pieces but left on the bone.

Grandmother's Chicken and Dumplings

1 WHOLE CHICKEN
2 CUPS ALL-PURPOSE FLOUR
1 TEASPOON SALT
1/2 TEASPOON BLACK PEPPER
1/2 TEASPOON BAKING POWDER
1/3 CUP VEGETABLE SHORTENING
1/2 CUP CHICKEN BROTH
1/2 CUP WHOLE MILK

Assemble all ingredients and utensils. In a big pot or Dutch oven, boil chicken until tender, 50 to 60 minutes. Remove cooked chicken and take off bones. Set broth and chicken aside.

In a large bowl, combine dry ingredients; cut in shortening with knives. Add enough broth to make a stiff dough. Roll dough to 1/4-inch thickness on floured surface. Cut into rounds with biscuit cutter or into strips. Return pot of broth to simmering. Drop pastry into broth. Cover and cook for 10 minutes. Add boned chicken and milk. Cover and simmer 10 additional minutes. Remove from heat. Keep warm until ready to serve. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

On her 96 in '96 Bicentennial tour this year, Miss Daisy will visit each of the state's 95 counties, plus the site of the lost county of James.

King will be promoting brick sales for the Tennessee Bicentennial Mall Path of Volunteers and signing copies of her best-selling cookbook Miss Daisy Celebrates Tennessee.

Look for Miss Daisy at Cracker Barrel Old Country Stores, at Centennial Exposition Train stops, and at book retailers across Tennessee.

In conjunction with the '96 tour, the publisher is sponsoring a recipe contest looking for special dishes and corresponding family stories that truly express who we are as Tennesseans.

Monkeys responded so well to a new treatment for Parkinson's that tests are to begin this year on people. The natural brain chemical used-glial-cell-line-derived neurotrophic factor, or G.D.N.F.--produced improvement within two weeks.

Experimental malaria drug from China-pyranaridine--is said to have achieved a 100 percent cure rate among a small number of patients in a test in Africa. Chloroquine, most often prescribed for malaria today, has only a 44 percent cure rate.

Just having an endoscopic test reduced the risk of colon and rectal cancer by 50 percent, a study at the Medical College of Wisconsin found. Potentially cancerous polyps are pinpointed and removed as much as six years before they would become dangerous.

Researchers at MIT and Massachusetts General Hospital found they could ease PMS with a carbohydrate drink formulated to raise levels of serotonin. The drink may be on the market this year.

When new medications become available, you'll find them here at Arnold's Health Mart Drug Co., 111 East Main St., Halls, 836-7211.

AN ENDANGERED SPECIES PLAN THAT JUST MIGHT WORK

Guest column by Herb Manig, American Farm Bureau, Senior Natural Resources Policy Specialist

Farmers and ranchers are very aware of the Endangered Species Act and its impact on landowners. Some have had first hand experience with the punitive aspects of its implementations. They believe they have reason to fear, and avoid, having endangered species discovered on their land.

Agricultural producers want Congress to reform the Endangered Species Act (ESA) to protect the value and utility of their property. But legislative efforts directed at both Democrat and Republican Congresses in recent years have failed.

Some commercial companies, however, are finding alternatives. Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt has entered into innovative agreements with industrial timber companies to allow logging to occur simultaneously with endangered species protection. Similar agreements have also been reached with developers.

Another innovative proposal by Secretary Babbitt, not yet adopted, calls for owners of five acres or less to be exempt from enforcement provisions of the act.

Still, farmers and ranchers, whose operations are between five acres and the size of the industrial companies, wonder what protection they have if an endangered species is discovered on their land. There are 960 species currently on the endangered list, with 242 more proposed and an additional 182 listed as candidates for the list.

A program in Moore County, North Carolina may provide one answer to the landowners' dilemma. There a "safe harbor" program has been developed as part of the North Carolina Sandhills Habitat Conservation Plan. The effort was initiated by the county's Cooperative Extension director, assisted by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, tree farmers, North Carolina Farm Bureau legal staff, the Environmental Defense Fund and others.

The plan addressed the conservation of the red cockaded woodpecker. This program currently seems to be the only one in the United States with the potential to provide some relief and certainty to family operations, or tree farming operations in this case.

Here's how it works: First, the Fish and Wildlife Service conducts an inventory of red cockaded woodpeckers on the land proposed for the program.

Landowners agree to manage the land to protect the woodpeckers that are present at the time of the inventory. And, the Fish and Wildlife Service places no further constraints on the tree farmer if additional woodpeckers are found on lands placed in the program.

This first-of-a-kind program required more than five years of planning before it got underway. The program was first proposed by the Morgan County, North Carolina Board of Commissioners. The program sought to identify interested citizens to develop and implement the plan with support of local government, assistance from the Agricultural Extension Service and review of research data by academic institutions and appropriate agencies and organizations. A habitat conservation plan was ultimately developed that covers parts of six counties, and includes not only tree farmers, but the Army's Fort Bragg Military Reservation and the Pinehurst Resort and Country Club as well.

The primary objective is to encourage voluntary woodpecker habitat restoration or enhancement activities, by relieving a participating landowner from any additional liability beyond that which exists at the time the agreement is signed.

Landowners must carry out habitat improvements and protect the woodpeckers that are using the land at the time of the agreement. They cannot shoot, capture or otherwise "take" the woodpeckers. If they plan to carry out an action likely to result in an incidental taking not covered by the agreement, they must not do so during the reproductive season unless authorized, and must notify the Fish and Wildlife Service so that the birds may be relocated if appropriate.

Landowners must agree to allow the Fish and Wildlife Service to enter the property at reasonable times to verify compliance, to identify the birds and to relocate them if necessary. The plan is voluntary. While the proposed permit time period is 99 years, the cooperative agreement is revocable by the landowner. And any subsequent buyer of that land would have exactly the same "safe harbor" protections as the owner who signed the agreement.

Landowners are not liable for additional woodpeckers that may use their lands, even if there were none using that land when the agreement was signed. The plan provides that habitat improvements carried out under the plan will not result in added restrictions on either participating landowners or their neighbors.

The program was announced 16 months ago, therefore its overall success is yet to be determined. And this program addressed a single species. Multiple species present on a farm or ranch will undoubtedly pose greater complexities. The plan does not address use of affected lands by other endangered species.

Despite these concerns, however, this program could be a fair and workable way to provide a "safe harbor" for endangered species as well as owners of their habitat.

Regional Conservationist

Waring Hazlehurst is a family farming operation made up of Larry and Phyllis Olds and four sons, Bryan, Jerry, Mark and Tommy. The Olds family practice conservation as a way of life growing 265 acres of corn, 550 acres of cotton, 2,400 acres of soybeans, 80 acres of grain sorghum and 900 acres of wheat. The Olds family has constructed 9,800 feet of terraces, over 20,100 feet of diversions and 159 sediment control structures. In excess of 2,400 acres of row crops are grown annually using no-till farming methods. Contour farming, winter cover crops, crop residue use, and crop rotation are among the many other soil conservation practices that have been applied on the land by the Olds family. Mr. Hazlehurst continued.

The Tennessee Association of Conservation Districts was proud to present the Olds family with a plaque and a $100 check for their outstanding conservation accomplishments. The Olds' will now be West Tennessee's entry in the State Conservation Farmer of the Year Contest with the state winner to be named at the TACD state meeting in Feb. 1997 in Gallatinburg.

Attending the meeting from Lauderdale County were Larry and Phyllis Olds, Mark and Mary Olds, Bryan and Julia Olds, Jerry Olds, Tommy Olds, Elton Simpson, Rozelle Criner, Bill Parker, Vernon McBride, III, Lillian Haynes, Arthur Bentley, Douglas Woodard, Dwaine Johnston and Cory Hodge.

Rogers has been rated among the 25 best players in the state by the Vol State Recruiting Service out of Trenton. He is a six-foot, 200-pounder. Rogers runs the 40-yard dash in 4.6 seconds.

No other team in the region can boast of having a player on this elite group of selections. Erick Baker (5-8, 180) should remain a key on defense. He starts at linebacker.

The Ripley Tigers will be vying for a second consecutive Tennessee Secondary School Athletic Association playoff berth and fourth this decade when the season begins on Aug. 30th with a home game against Memphis Frayser. The Region 7-4A slate starts on Sept. 6th when the Tigers play at Bolton.

Randy White returns as head coach at the school, his eighth year. He has been a coach for 15 total years, 13 of those in his home town of Ripley. Coach White will have two new assistant coaches this season, Brad Barnett and Stephen Byrd.

The Tigers have 15 returning lettermen and nine seniors on this 1996 squad. There are six returning offensive players and five from the defensive side of the football working out in the pre-season.

Key returnees include tight end Adam Duvall (6-1, 185), flanker/defensive end Hayden Ferguson (6, 180), split end/free safety Tellis Napper (5-11, 165), center Keith Owens (6, 205), tailback/linebacker Orlando Qualls (6, 180), quarterback/free safety Quincy Richmond (5'11, 200), tackle/linebacker Kelly Schroberger (6-2, 235) kicker Billy Sinis (5-11, 168) and fullback/linebacker Jason Smith (5-11, 175). All of those players are seniors.

Juniors who are expected to vie for starting spots are tackle Dusty Garrett (5-11, 245), guard/tackle Carl Pruitt (6-1, 235), tackle Josh Ray (6-1, 276) and guard/tackle Danny Huffin (6, 210).

The Tigers finished 5-5 in 1996 and made it to the first round of the playoffs. If they are to at least equal last year's record, Coach White and his staff will need to find replacements for such graduated standouts as quarterback Brantley Tillman, center/linebacker Franklin Carmack, fullback/linebacker Jimmy Goodwin, tight end/defensive ends Tarrus Crews and Bradley Burnham, defensive end Bill McWherter and split end Kai Fredericks.

"We have good size up front," began Coach White. "We also have good power running backs. On the weakness side, we are really young up front and we lack depth."

The Tiger offensive line is expected to weigh in at an average of 253 pounds per player. The backfield will be 90 pounds lighter, at 163 pounds per player. Overall speed is rated at average.

Ripley will use the Pro I settings when on offense. Defensively, they will play a 4-3.

"The key to a successful season for us is to stay injury free," concluded Coach White.

Tabbed as the top teams in the region were Collierville and Fayette-Ware.

County Gridders Will Debut Friday

Halls High School and Ripley High School football teams will begin their season Friday, Halls at Crockett County, Ripley hosting Frayser.

Though far down the rankings of the very tough Region 7-2A, the Halls High School Tigers, winless in 1994, and 5-5 last fall, have the makings to climb up the ladder this season.

Pre-season predictions for the region are Union City, Martin Westview, Trenton Peabody, Huntingdon, Camden, Halls, McKenzie and Middleton, in that order.

Middleton is expected to remain last in the region race. McKenzie, 3-7 last fall, is expected to further mature its young team, with seven seniors back, on a squad of 29, and that poses the challenge for Halls.

Halls, with 12 seniors on its squad of 29, lacks experienced strength in the line. But in the backfield, junior quarterback Ricky Patrick has shown steady improvement and has among his assets tailback Monrell Rogers and halfback Jerry Bonds. Both are seniors.

Rogers has been rated among the 25 best players in the state by the Vol State Recruiting Service out of Trenton. He is a six-foot, 200-pounder. Rogers runs the 40-yard dash in 4.6 seconds.

President Clinton Plans County Visit Saturday

President Bill Clinton and Vice-President Al Gore, campaigning for re-election as Democratic nominees, plan a bus tour, with their wives, to include a brief stop in Ripley Saturday afternoon.

Plans (still tentative) are for busses to leave Cape Girardeau, Mo., Friday, spend Friday night in Paducah, Ky., spend about an hour in Dyersburg (on Courthouse Square) about noon Saturday, and stop briefly at the Ripley Farm Center, at 839 New U.S. Hwy. 51, in mid-afternoon, then visit briefly, in Covington, en route to an evening rally in Memphis.

Clinton plans to spend Sunday in Little Rock, the capital of the state of Arkansas, which he served as governor.

Tickets (no charge) are required to see the President in Dyersburg. They have been available at the Dyer County Courthouse, the Dyer County Chamber of Commerce, and some offices of First Citizens National Bank.

Ads say "gates open 9:30 a.m., events begin 11:30."

Clinton-Gore headquarters in Nashville says it does not believe tickets will be required in Ripley or Covington.

All plans are vague and subject to change at any moment, but the Secret Service, charged with protection of the President, has visited the Ripley Farm Center and has issued press credentials in Covington.

Sheriff Ron Rickard and Ripley Police Chief Dennis King attended a meeting in Dyersburg Tuesday afternoon to plan traffic control for the motorcade.

If Mr. Clinton does visit the county, it will be its first-ever campaign visit by an incumbent president.

For Miles Around

SCHOOL FOOD SERVICE HAS COME A LONG WAY

With schools back in session, the cafeterias have geared back up to provide students with well balanced, and attractive menus. Feeding students is big business. The U.S. Department of Agriculture operates five programs to provide meals and snacks to preschool and school-age children. These are the national school lunch program, school breakfast, special milk program, child and adult care food program and summer food service programs. In fiscal 1994, federal expenditures for these five programs totaled approximately $7.7 billion. Each day at school, the national school lunch program services 25.3 million children. There are 6.9 million children who are being served breakfast meals. That number has increased from four million six years ago. The figure would be higher, but breakfast is only offered in 63 percent of the schools that participate in the national school lunch program.

Breakfast may be just as important to students as the noon meal. It's a well known nutritional fact that students learn better if they've had a good breakfast. Unfortunately many of them don't get breakfast. Sometimes it's because there was not time to prepare it, since both parents work and the family doesn't get up early enough to have a good meal. There are other homes, too, where there is no breakfast simply because of economic reasons.

This year the National School Lunch program is observing its 50th anniversary. On June 8, 1946, President Harry Truman signed the bill that created the program.

The minimum school lunch as defined in 1946 required (1) a half pint of fluid whole milk; (2) protein rich food consisting of one of the following, or a combination: two ounces of lean meat, poultry or fish; or two ounces of cheese; or one egg; or one-half cup of cooked dry beans or peas; or four tablespoons of peanut butter; (3) three-fourths cup of two vegetables or fruits or both; (4) one portion of bread, cornbread, biscuits, rolls, muffins, etc. made of whole-grain or enriched meal or flour; and (5) two teaspoons of butter or fortified margarine.

There have been a lot of changes in that through the years, especially as it relates to low fat products, but the nutrition is still there.

School lunches were served before the national legislation was adopted, however. It was back in 1935 that a national meeting of school lunch leaders met to start the ball rolling for the program. It was near that time that a lot of Florida grapefruit was purchased for school lunches.

Now, a lot of folks had never tasted grapefruit in the mid-1930's. Miss Mae Nave, who headed up Tennessee's school lunch program back in the 1950's, told of one school lunch person in one Tennessee school who said:

"We boiled 'em, we fried 'em, but they still ain't fit to eat, but we'll find a way to make the kids like grapefruit yet".

The grapefruit story brought back a memory for me, too. School lunches were beginning to be served in 1936 at Bethel School in Rutherford where I attended first grade. The only meal I remember was the one that had sections of canned grapefruit and served with rice. The grapefruit juice got over into the rice, and I thought that was a terrible meal. Maybe that's why I remember it.

Before the lunch program began, we carried lunches to school. Mother would pour milk into a glass jar that had a handle on it. When those of us who brought milk got to school, we would bury the containers in a sand pile under a shade tree in front of the school. The sand would not keep the milk cold, but it would keep it cool enough not to sour before lunch. We had to do this because there was no refrigeration. In fact, Bethel School in 1936 had no electricity.

When the school lunch program began, there were no facilities for a lunch room. They had to be put in cloak rooms, in the basement, or even in a building constructed for that purpose.

Recently I spoke to the school lunch supervisors in Coffee County, and George Brown of the Coffee County Farm Bureau introduced me. He told of when he was in the first grade at Hillsboro, and they had to go outside to the cafeteria building. At the first meal, there was a half pint glass bottle of milk on the table in front of each plate. On top was a bottle cap, and covering that was a red piece of cellophane paper, with a band around the bottom of it. You may be old enough to remember that packaging.

As country boys, George and his friend had never seen a milk bottle before. They were accustomed to getting their milk from a pitcher that came from a bucket that came from the barn. They didn't know how to open the bottle. But his friend said, "My brother is in the second grade. He'll know how to open it. I'll go ask him."

It's always nice to have an older person around from whom you can get advice and counsel.

As in almost every other facet of life, we have come a long way in the school program. Better trained personnel, modern equipment, and new ways to prepare more nutritious and safe food have made school cafeterias a good place to eat. For some students, it's the only nutritious meal they get all day.

Remembering "Davy" Crockett

Our elementary school history books recited the famous battle cry "Remember the Alamo." Now, in Tennessee's 200th year and 160 years since his death, we remember Davy Crockett—a true volunteer.

David Crockett was born near the present-day town of Rogersville, Tenn., and at an early age he joined the army, fighting the Creek Indians in Alabama. Crockett became a legend as a leader in the U.S. House of Representatives before losing his life in defense of the Alamo. A "no-nonsense" politician, Crockett lived by his own words, "Be always sure you're right—then go ahead."

A fourth great-grandson of Davy Crockett, Lowell McAuley, was kind enough to give me a recipe to make beef or venison jerky.

Something else to remember, besides Crockett and the Alamo, is a lemon jelly cake recipe from the Crockett Tavern Museum. It's unforgettable.

—Miss Daisy

Crockett Tavern Museum's Alamo Lemon Jelly Cake

- 3 CUPS SIFTED ALL-PURPOSE FLOUR
- 3 TEASPOONS BAKING POWDER
- 1/4 TEASPOON SALT
- 3/4 CUP BUTTER OR SHORTENING
- 2 CUPS SUGAR
- 6 EGGS
- 1/2 TEASPOON LEMON EXTRACT
- 1 1/2 CUPS MILK

Grease and flour three 8-inch cake pans. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together several times. Work shortening in a mixing bowl until soft, then add the sugar gradually and continue working the mixture until it feels smooth and creamy.

Separate egg yolks from whites, beating the yolks one at a time into the creamed mixture. Beat hard after each addition. Stir lemon extract into the milk and mix the liquid alternately with dry ingredients into the creamed sugar mixture. Beat egg whites until they hold a point and mix gently, or fold into the batter until all patches of egg whites are blended in.

Pour into cake pans and bake 35 minutes or until cakes pull away from the sides of the pans.

Remove from pans, and when layers are cool, spread a thin coating of lemon filling between layers and over the top.

FILLING

- 2 EGGS
- 1 CUP SUGAR
- 1 TABLESPOON BUTTER
- GRATED RIND OF 1 LEMON
- JUICE OF 2 LEMONS (1/4 CUP)

Beat eggs slightly in a saucepan. Stir in sugar, butter, lemon rind and juice, and cook over a low heat, stirring constantly until filling is thick enough to coat a spoon. Takes about 10-15 minutes. Cool.

Davy Crockett's Beef or Venison Jerky

- LEAN MEAT
- SOY SAUCE
- BLACK PEPPER
- RED PEPPER
- GARLIC POWDER

First, cut all fat away from meat, then cut into strips. Put strips of meat in bowl; cover with soy sauce and marinate in refrigerator overnight. After marinating, sprinkle with pepper and garlic powder to taste.

For drying in oven, set temperature to lowest setting. If the temperature is too high, the meat will cook, not dry. Stick toothpicks in one end of the strips and hang on oven rack. Leave 6-8 hours or until dry. For drying in a dehydrator, just lay strips flat on trays.

Note: Thickness of strips will determine drying time. Be sure to cover bottom of oven or dehydrator with foil for easy clean up.

On her 96 in '96 Bicentennial tour this summer, Daisy King will visit each of the state's 95 counties, plus the site of the lost county of James.

King will be promoting brick sales for the Tennessee Bicentennial Mall Path of Volunteers and signing copies of her best-selling cookbook Miss Daisy Celebrates Tennessee.

Look for "Miss Daisy" at Cracker Barrel Old Country Stores, at Bicentennial Exposition Train stops, and at book retailers across Tennessee.

In conjunction with the 96 in '96 tour, the publisher is sponsoring a recipe contest looking for special dishes and corresponding family stories that truly express who we are as Tennesseans.
