The economy there had a central anchor of a major manufacturer - the Papec farm machinery plant. Papec, like so many manufacturers in the small-towns of the 1950s and 60s, hit hard times and then finally shut down when I was in college.

The Shortsville, New York that I'd grown up in really never recovered -- many of its Main Street businesses closed, families had to move away to find work. Over the years, it has become largely a 'commuter community' whose economic center is Rochester -- miles away.

It's that experience, along with what I've learned from my travels throughout the state and as mayor of Nashville, that has shaped my view of what we need to do to bring jobs to all 95 counties in Tennessee.

We are fortunate in Tennessee that our overall unemployment rate is still lower than that of the nation as a whole. Our state's economy is almost as diverse and resilient as our people. But there are too many "pockets" of persistent high unemployment in this state, where the economy is stagnant or declining.

The good news is that there's never been a better time strategies that make sense. than right now to try to bring industry into small towns. This week, I kicked-off a series of jobs roundtables around the state to tackle this very issue. My hope is that by bringing state and local leaders together, we can roll up our sleeves and get some ideas brewing. Together, I'm convinced we can help communities assess their strengths, their weaknesses, and create a realistic plan for attracting the

We're taking a regional approach, one that doesn't start reproduction British Enfield or stop at anyone's town boundary or county line. The reason is simple - prosperity doesn't recognize those boundaries, either.

We'll be asking communities and regions to make an honest assessment of what they have to offer - what kind of workforce, what potential locations, with what infrastructure? Where are we competitive, and where are we not competitive?

The state will help in every way we can to draw from each community's unique strengths, and help address weaknesses. But frankly, we can't do everything. Part of the responsibility rests with local leaders. If your community's school system isn't doing a good job, that will reduce your chances of landing new industry. Companies just won't locate in a place if the schools aren't viewed as "good enough' for their middle managers' children. Another big obstacle is land access. The bottom line is communities have to willing to meet us half-way.

I want to make sure our Tennessee communities, large and small, can enjoy a great quality of life that is sustained through the generations. And that's going to require everyone at the state and local levels to work together on regional

I'm determined not to leave any community behind as Tennessee builds its economic future, because Tennessee can't prosper unless all its 95 counties prosper.

Legislative Report

By Rep. Craig Fitzhugh TN House of Representatives, 82nd District 615-741-2134

Good management in state government begins with responsible, honest budgeting.

I want to take a moment to wrap up for you the State Budget that was recently passed and went into effect on July

It's been a very challenging year, but a very good year taking into account the situation we faced when we first arrived.

We set as our goal to do our business, balance the Budget with no new taxes and go home.

We did just that.

We were able to put together a Budget based on sensible cuts and good management-not new taxes.

We got off to a quick start in January-holding hearings on the House Floor regarding TennCare, the Small Schools Lawsuit and the Lottery.

We then moved directly into our business and over the course of 42 Legislative Days achieved a great number of accomplishments.

We balanced the Budget with no new taxes.

Governor Bredesen had very little time from his Inauguration until he had to file his Budget plan. He encouraged the General Assembly to look over the Budget carefully. He welcomed any improvements we could make to his Budget

The Budget consisted of two components: the "Omnibus Bill" (or funding mechanism) and the Appropriations Bill (or spending mechanism).

As originally introduced by the Governor, the Omnibus Bill allowed for the shifting of funds from certain reserve accounts and also took 9% of State Shared Taxes that go to cities and counties.

After careful review, the General Assembly, with the Governor's blessing, was able to make some key improvements to the Omnibus bill:

In general, we were able to reduce the amount of funds which were being taken from city and county State Shared Taxes.

Specifically, as originally introduced, Lauderdale County would have suffered a loss of $194,150. We were able to improve the Bill, and by the time we completed our work Lauderdale County only had a $10,920 reduction. This was more than made up for by funding improvements Lauderdale County received for education and Homeland Security. For Ripley we were able to reduce the amount it was impacted by $26,300. For Halls we were able to reduce the amount it was impacted by $6,600. And for Gates and Henning we reduced the amount they were impacted by $3,800 each.

We fully restored reductions in the Gas Tax that goes to cities and counties; Lauderdale County and its municipalities all received no loss of Gas Tax funds.

We were able partially to restore reductions in other Shared Taxes.

Because this year's Budget was based on no new taxes, we had to prioritize our spending. Every part of the State Budget was examined and we had to make choices. While some choices were painful, almost all departments and agencies of state government pitched in and reduced their state appropriation requirements by about 9%. The Appropriations Bill represented Governor Bredesen's vision of a fair Budget in which everyone would share the burden of tightening our belt.

reductions in state government to balance the books for Fiscal Year 2003-2004. The version passed by the General As- intendent of Shelby County sembly reflected these reductions as well as augmented the Schools, was the keynote process by spreading the burden across both rural and urban speaker areas in a fair and equitable manner.

As finally enacted, the State Budget was $21.5 billion Aug. 3rd, in the Kathleen and dollars.

wide;

Protecting our investment in our children's education by fully funding the BEP formula (Lauderdale County received $101,000 new dollars for our children's education); • Giving the Governor the necessary tools to manage

TennCare;

 Investing in Homeland Security measures by appropriating additional dollars for this purpose (Also, Lauderdale County earlier this year received a $30,000 grant for Homeland Security and just days ago received notice of an additional $81,303);

• Requiring a 9% cut in most departments of state government;

 Requiring a 9% contribution to the State General Fund from the Legislature; and,

 Beginning to address the Teacher Equity Lawsuit with a $26,743,017 Million Dollar down payment;

The House passed this fiscally conservative measure in bipartisan fashion by a vote of 88-5. The people of the State of Tennessee have voiced support for a conservative Budget composed of reductions rather than new revenues, and action of the General Assembly reflected the voice of the people in that regard.

It is our hope that in the upcoming years such drastic cuts to state government can be avoided and key components can be resumed. This year, however, a conservative fiscal stance ple." was necessary. The Budget passed was not ideal, but it was fair and was spread out as equally and across-the-board as is possible

Our State's Budget Begins To Set The Stage For Ensuring Future Stability

Our State Budget plan provides a solid cornerstone for our state's future. It is a realistic plan that will help state government live within the realities of our sluggish revenue. It balances the Budget without the use of smoke and mirrors or accounting gimmicks.

This Budget should provide the stability we need to be on the right track in areas like education and economic development. We want this state to be a stable place that's conducive to business-not one that faces an unstoppable budget crisis year after year.

Most of all, I'm proud to say the Executive Branch and the Legislative Branch worked together to get this Budget passed-we didn't get tripped up by politics or minor differences. At a time when many states have been gridlocked in protracted debates over budgets and taxes, our General Assembly adjourned last month after having worked hand-inhand with Governor Bredesen and his administration. We are partners working for the good of all citizens of our state.

Governor Bredesen adequately and efficiently proposed

Key components of the Appropriations Bill include:

Preserving full-funding for K-12 education state-

Dr. Bobby Webb, superfor UT Martin's commencement Tom Elam Center.

He advised graduates to consider the "big picture" when making important decisions in seeking success beyond college.

"Life is not fair, get used to it. People are more important than things. If you don't do anything else in life, love someone and let someone love you," stated Webb.

He told graduates that commencement is an appropriate time to step back and take a look at the big picture of their life.

The most successful people I know," said Webb, "are those who routinely do three things; namely, examine their entire organization and personal life to see how it fits in society and the world, check the fine print to avoid surprises, and know that an organization succeeds, not because of machines or technology, but because of peo-

In ending, Webb added, "so regardless of how technical your field of interest has become, you're ability to recognize and understand the talents of other people will have a tremendous impact upon your success."

Martin Chancellor UT Nick Dunagan presided over the ceremony and conferred degrees to about 125 gradualcs.

"Attending Dyersburg State has given me a brighter outlook on the future. I have learned what it takes to succeed in life. The instructors were helpful while I was working to obtain my degree. I would recommend DSCC to anyone who wants to prosper in life."

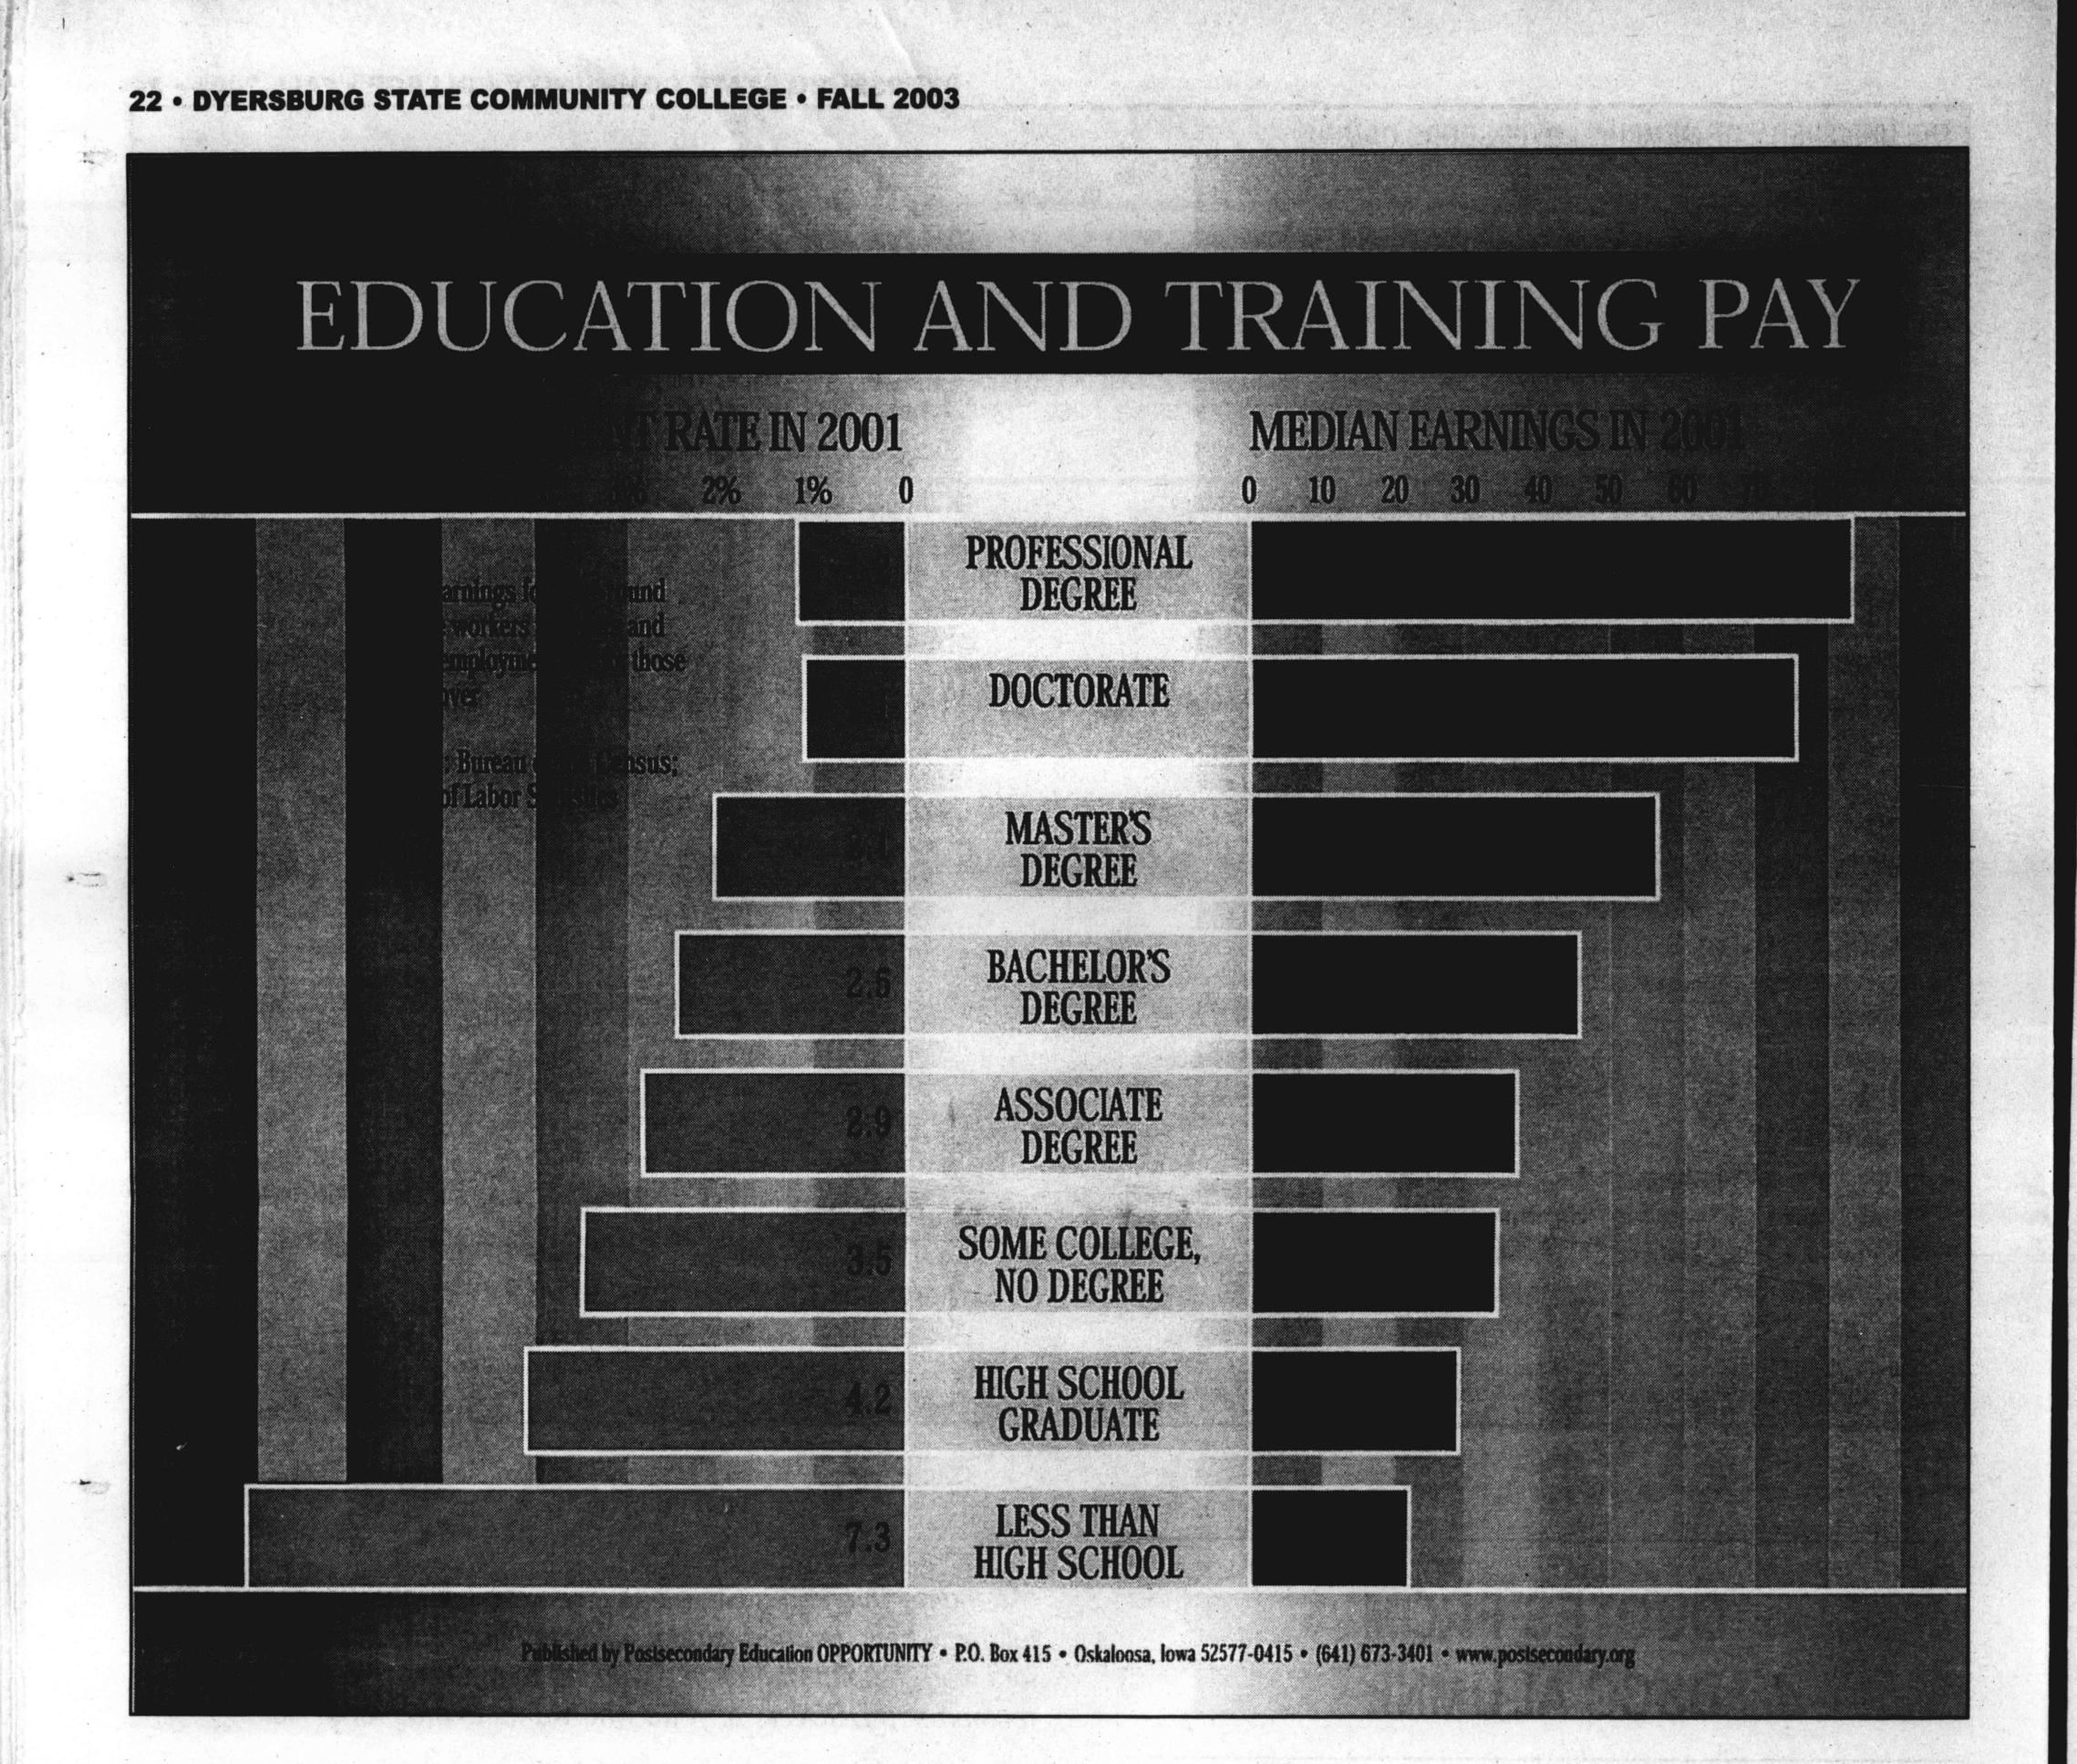

"DSCC provided a great foundation for the business and accounting skills that I use even today. The personal, quality education I received at DSCC was very instrumental in my desire to further advance my career in accounting. The teachers made learning fun "

> -Jeff Agee (Class of 1981) Executive Vice-President and Chief Financial Officer for First Citizens National Bank.

"I sincerely appreciated the ease of being able to get in touch with my instructors and advisors when needed. I recall how graciously they gave of their time and assistance to me. The atmosphere of closeness I felt across the campus helped create a comfortable and memorable experience for me at DSCC."

-Kenny Gardner (Class of 2002) Maintenance Utility Worker at DSCC and sophomore Sociology/Social Work major at the University of Memphis.

-Helen Enochs (Class of 1997) Packaging Engineer at Heckethorn Manufacturing

"The instructors at the College were always willing to help and do whatever they could to get a student through the class. I will never forget that Dr. John Moore, my advisor, allowed me to use the computer in his office after hours because I had basketball practice or games during the times that the computer labs were open. Things like this make DSCC comfortable and memorable."

DYERSBURG STATE KEEPS EDUCATION AFFORDABLE, ACCESSIBLE

200.000

-here are enormous benefits, intellectual and economical, to attending College. Future job prospects are directly tied to learning new skills. Two-year college graduates can expect median earnings of $288,000 more than a high school graduate over a lifetime. The median earnings of a two-year college graduate exceeds the earnings of a high school graduate by $7,200 per year. DSCC students who transfer to another college and earn a bachelor's degree can expect to earn at least $17,700 per year more than a high school graduate

Today, when a year's study for a freshman at a selective, private college can cost $30,000, Dyersburg State can offer virtually the same program, taught by a well-qualified and dedicated faculty, at an affordable price, while allowing the student to remain at home.

NURSING AND ALLIED HEALTH

Dyersburg State's Nursing graduates are in great demand, in large part because of Dyersburg State's outstanding reputation. And the demand for Nursing graduates is predicted to increase in the near future. Many believe there will be a serious nursing shortage between 2002 and 2010. Experts cite the fact that the average age of today's nurse is in the midforties and postulate that when these nurses reach retirement age, there will be a shortage of nurses. In addition, the national average nursing school enrollment is down, which will cause a nursing shortage. Nursing experts predict that when the shortage occurs, salaries will be driven up.

Dyersburg State offers courses that lead to careers in other areas of the health care professions as well, with class offerings in Emergency Medical Technology, Medical Office Technology, Medical Records Transcription, and Health Information Technology.

BUSINESS AND TECHNOLOGY

As technology becomes more important in today's society and business and industry become more dependent on computer based technology, the need to keep up to date in technology fields gets increasingly urgent. The Division of Business and Technology provides technical, professional, and enrichment programs for students and strengthens the communities in its service area by providing looking for at Dyersburg State Community College. strong support for continued economic development throughout West Tennessee. Dyersburg State Community College offers sixteen state of the art programs in the Business and Technology Division.

ARTS AND SCIENCES

Dyersburg State's Division of Arts and Sciences provides quality instruction in general education courses, university transfer programs, and college preparatory studies. Courses in the Arts and Sciences prepare students for the challenges of the Twenty-first Century. In classes such as College Algebra, World Literature, Psychology, Speech, and Biology, to name a few of the many courses offered through the Division of Arts and Sciences, students learn critical thinking and communication skills, both of which are necessary for the accomplishment of their academic and employment goals.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO LEAVE HOME TO GO FAR

Many students cite a high quality education, a convenient location and an affordable tuition as major reasons for choosing Dyersburg State Community College.

Another benefit to attending DSCC are small class sizes, which provide students with an environment that promotes educational growth and individual attention.

Sharon Hudson is a recent DSCC graduate who took classes at the Tipton County Center. She graduated Summa Cum Laude and was named to the Phi Theta Kappa (PTK) All-Tennessee Academic Team for Community and Junior Colleges. She speaks for many of the College's students when she says, "I chose Dyersburg State primarily because the Center in Covington is only about twenty minutes from my home. Because I am a working mom, it is important to me to have as much time at home as possible. Less driving time equates to less time away from my home and family, as well as more time to devote to my studies."

Dyersburg State faculty have developed on-line classes to meet the needs of students who, because of work or family commitments, cannot attend class during traditional times. Last spring the College offered 46 on-line sections in courses ranging from World Literature II to Small Business Management to Advanced Medical Transcription. These classes enrolled 842 students.

Alumni Federation Now Being Formed

All alumni of any Tennessee Board of Regents University, technology center or community college in Tennessee now have an opportunity to help their favorite institution of higher education, according to Allen McCampbell, chairman of the newly formed TBR Alumni Federation.

Accessorizing Your Rooms

Adding details to basic elements in a room will add to the beauty, convenience and effectiveness of the area.

Accessorizing a room can be compared to adding accessories to a basic black dress or suit. There are various direction to its use - formal or informal, heels or casual shoes, pearls, scarf or diamonds? Care in selecting accessories will ensure the desired effect.

Some of the most interesting rooms are created by using a mix of items rather than all traditional, all contemporary, etc. years of collecting objects and art should be more fulfilling to the homeowner than simply going to a store and buying several items for a room.

Kitty Bartholomew of Home and Garden Television says, do have."

I totally agree with her, and that has been my philosophy through the years. It's often the unexpected that calls attention to a tabletop or corner.

Try using bread and butter plates as coasters or as soap dishes. Mix old linens with new ones in the bedrooms and baths. Add fringe to a plain towel set or snap a daisy or three to the corners. Place a pretty bowl in a bathroom and fill with potpourri and fingertip towels.

Use a large scarf as a topper over a skirted table. Add a tassel to each corner. An old dough bowl, large urn or sturdy basket makes a great magazine holder. Any room can use a touch of black such as lamp shades, picture frames or candles. Add a cushion to the old coffee table and use as a bench.

Interest lies in uneven numbers; therefore, try three candlesticks, five plates hung on the wall, three items on a table, three towels layered on the rod, etc.

An average family room usually contains a sofa, three chairs, secretary or shelves, television and probably a fireplace. The fireplace would be the focal point and should reflect your taste. Popular items on a mantle are a mirror, artwork, candlesticks or lamps, books, figurines or architectural elements.

What you choose should have symmetry minus clutter. If the fireplace surround is stone or marble, use heavy accessories instead of glass or delicate items. Three prints with a slender topiary on each end would be attractive. The items on each end should not extend beyond the fireplace surround beneath the mantle.

Tables and lamps are a must, and each seat should have light and table space. End tables should be usable, so leave room for a book, phone and glass, etc. We often see end tables completely covered with photos, leaving little available space.

Being accustomed to items in your home, we often do not realize the refreshing difference a few simple changes can make. Consider lamps. If they are several years old, the shades are probably discolored and outdated. Take the lamp base to the store to try different harp shapes and sizes and > probably replace the finial. You may also choose to add trim to the shade for a custom look.

A worn or off-color lamp can be painted. Cover the cord By Mrs. Louise Fennel and socket with plastic wrap and paint it in an accent color. Place a short lamp on two or three books or a trivet to add Mrs. Robbie Ann Lee, of height. When using a tall lamp, another object on the table should be tall enough to help bridge the gap between the Memphis, spent the weekend with her parents, the Pharis lamp shade and the table, such as a long-stemmed plant or figurine. Arrange very small collectibles on a simple tray Escues. Mr. and Mrs. Milton and add it among books on a shelf. Include other Garrett, of Millington, visited memorabilia with the books to reflect your interests. A small Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Williams lamp looks good on a shelf, and a mirror could be placed Sunday afternoon. behind it

When grouping accessories they should be related, using delicate objects together and heavy objects together such as metal and marble.

An area rug defines seating space and should be at least the length of the sofa, not just under a coffee table. Try placing the rug at an angle. Similarly, consider size for a rug beneath a dining table. The rug should be large enough that the chairs are upon the rug when the diner rises.

A large plant will balance a secretary or tall piece of furniture across the room. Look for the most realistic plants if choosing the permanent variety.

If you change a floral arrangement, think about storing the first one instead of placing it in another area which could easily lead to clutter. Don't buy more than you can use, take turns with accessories, changing them with the seasons.

We decorators are trained to guide and direct and give you suggestions. If you let us make the decisions, then it is not your individual room. Much observation, planning and window-shopping will give you a personal sense of pride in your home and the accessories you choose to complete its decoration.

Blackout In The Northeast Could Be a Warning To Us All

A few days ago, I just happened to meet a former high school classmate of mine and began to ask him the usual questions you ask someone you have not seen for awhile. You know, like what are you doing ing. now, where do you live, are you married and so on.

When I got to the question about marriage, the expression on his face changed to one of total sorrow and he said, "My wife has gone to Heaven."

Of course, my reply was one that most people would first make to an answer like this, which was, "I'm sorry."

Then it hit me that I should not be sorry his wife is in Heaven and then said, "No, really I'm glad!"

My thought processes kicked in again telling me that I had just told my friend that I was glad his wife had died. So, to redeem myself I said, "Well, I'm surprised she is in Heaven."

Just like me digging myself a deeper hole with my bad timing remarks, our seem to have the same record as I do. Right now do something about fueling our nation, but if our elected officials fail to act on current ca's energy future. energy legislation that is now
